A WORD TO WORKINGMEN.

turning Eugene V. Debs Writes of the Dual Fight of the Toilers.

HE Social-Democratic party is to the workingman politically what the trade union is to him industrially; the former is the party of his class, while the latter is the union of his trade The difference between them is that while the trade union is confined to the trade, the Social-Democratic party embraces the entire working class, and while the union is limited to bettering conditions under the wage system, the party is organized to conquer political power of the nation, wipe out the wage system and make the workers themselves the masters of the earth.

To do its part in the class struggle the trades union need no more go into politics than the Social-Democratic party need go into the trades. Each has its place and function.

The union is educating the workers in the management of indus-trial activities and fitting them for co-operative control and democratic regulation of their trades,-the party is recruiting and training and drilling the political army that is to conquer the capitalist forces on the political battlefield, and, having control of the machinery of government, use it to transfer the industries from the capitalists to the workers, from the parasites to the people.

Both sides are organized in this struggle, the capitalists, however, far more thoroughly than the workers. In the first place the capital-ists are, comparatively, few in number, while the workers number many millions. Next, the capitalists are men of financial means and resources, and can buy the best brains and command the highest order of ability the market affords. Then again, they own the earth and the mills and mines and locomotives and ships and stores and the jobs that are attached to them, and this not only gives them tremendous advantage in the struggle, but makes them for the time the absolute masters of the situation.

The workers, on the other hand, are poor as a rule, and ignorant as a class, but they are in an overwhelming majority. In a way they have the power, but are not conscious of it. This then is supreme demand: To make them conscious of the power of their class, or class-conscious workingmen.

The working class alone does the world's work, has created its capital, produced its wealth, constructed its mills and factories, dug its canals, made its roadbets, laid its rails and operates its trains, spanned the rivers with bridges and tunnelled the mountains, the precious stones that glitter upon the bosom of vulgar idleness and reared the maje tic palaces that shelter insolent parasites.

The working class alone-and by the working class I mean all useful workers, all who by the labor of their hands or the effort of their brains, or both in alliance, as they ought universally to be, increase the knowledge and add to the wealth of society—the working class alone is essential to society and therefore the only class that can survive in the world-wide struggle for freedom.

We have said that both classes, the capitalist class and the working class, are organized for the class struggle, but the organization, especially that of the workers, is far from complete; indeed, it would be nearer exact to say that it has but just fairly begun.

On the economic field of the class struggle the capitalists have their Manufacturers' Association, Citizens' Alliance, Corporations' Auxiliary, and-we must add-Civic Federation, while on the political field they have the Republican party and the Democratic party, the former for large capitalists and the latter for small capitalists, but both of them for capitalists and both against the workers.

In the class struggle the work-ers must unite and fight together as one on both economic and political fields.

The Socialist voters in the state in the case of a city lighting deal, orphans. What Can Women Do In Chis Campaign.

Ours is a crusade after children, with life, liberty and the opportunity to pursue happiness as stakes. Personally I confess that all else which I do is but incidental. If we can educate the young before they become selfish self-seekers, they will act in unison a few years hence and, bring freedom into actual being. All which the political organization can do in this presidential campaign is to educate. HE Republican and the Democratic parties do not today differ in any essential points.
Formerly the Republican was the favorite party of capitalism, but since the trusts have captured the Democratic party at St. Louis nationally and again at Oshkosh as far as this state is concerned, there is hardly any other difference between the two than that the Democratic party tried to outbid the Republican party in its deference to capitalism. As for Gov.

danger signals that should warn us of trouble that will surely come, if we continue to maintain the conditions that cannot fail to produce trouble.

But no prospective trouble that is the logical and inevitable result of an existing cause can be averted unless the CAUSE be removed.

In these days, it is the part of patriotic wisdom to look for the great cause that makes of our industrial field two armed camps; and having found the cause to cast a ballot that will tend to remove it.

For this cause must be removed either by the ballot or by the bullet, not that the bullet will ever be defiberately chosen by either side, but for the reason that if the ballot be unused, the time will come when heated tempers will furnish the spark to speed the bullet.

The Socialist ballot is the better way. By its intelligent use, try to says yourself on these wares are incompted for the production of the spark to speed the bullet.

tor the protection of life and limb in factories and mines, the public ownership of public utilities as a fact and not as a mere phrase, and protection against hardship and misery in old age—not as a charity, but as a right. If we get the political power in this state we will carry out these and other Social reforms.

But we call attention to the fact that the measures we urge are in no way a cure for all the Excisting erils, nor are to be rised rather as mere palliatives, capable of being carried out even under the present conditions. Under no circumstances should the people rest content with palliatives of this kind. The people should move onward to the content with palliatives of this kind. the use of phrases that to them sound "socialistic." Yet none of the reformers dare to attack the only vital point in the present economic system; the private ownership of the means of production and distribution.

And as for the Democratic party, the less said the better. By recent industrial developments it has lost its economic basis. Since the abolition of ne-

The answer of Socialism to the capitalist is that society can do without him, just as society now does without the slave-owner or feudal lord, both of whom were formerly regarded as necessary to the well being and even the existence of society.—William Clarke, M. A. (Cambridge). The issue between Socialism and Individualism is, I believe, the leading issue of this age-weary modern world. The men to come will envy us, as sharers in a battle greater than the antislavery struggle; greater, than any phase in the eternal battle of the race for liberty since the convulsion of the Protestant reformation set man free in the sphere of Religion, as Socialism promises to set him free in the sphere of economics. — Professor Vida Scudder (Wellesley College). A. (Cambridge).

Commercialism makes Christianity impossible; the attempt to resoncile them can lead to but a single result, hyporisy. Social-Democracy, on the contrary, makes Christianity possible; moreover, it is the only political system which does.—Edmond Kelly M. A. (Columbia University).

Specialism stands for the collective ownership of capital, that is, all the means of production and distribution, in the same manner as we have now the collective ownership of some capital: the parks, the water works, and, in various countries, the telephone, telegraph, and railroad (both street and national) plants, etc. But it stands for the private use and private ownership of the means of subsistence: clothes, furniture, books, pictures, etc.—Prof. Schaeffie (late Minister of Commerce, Austria). Blessed is even now our privilege. We have our choice, to live as individualists, and on our death-bed look back in despair on a dreary, hateful life of playacting, or, as Social-Democrats, fill our existences with those serious moods that make the grand tone of life, and in the hour of death stand on the mountain-top as it were, and see with entranced eyes the rays of the sun that will soon illuminate the dark valleys below. I deem it worth ten crucifixions to win for my memory (as a Socialist) a fraction of the adoring love which Comrade J. W. Sawver, of Colorado, has written a letter to 4 he Grand Junction Daily Smi, protesting against its claim that the Liberty Leagues were inspired by the Social-bemocrats. When it is to the interest of the worker to get as much for his toil When it is to the interest of the worker to get as much for his toil.

as possible, so as to live decently and to bring up his family decently, even under the present system, while at the same time it is to the interest of the capitalist to get his labor as cheap as possible in order to make as big profits as possible, how under the sun can it be claimed that the interests of capital and labor are identical!

Karl Marx was a man of superior talents, a deep and analytical thinker and one of the master minds of the last century, could have had a life of ease and luxury if he had been willing to prostitute his talents and serve the capitalist interests with his pen. He refused to do so and instead threw himself into the cause of the workers. He was exiled from Germany and for years while he was composing his great work, "Capital," lived in chronic starvation in London, and when his baby died had not the money to buy a coffin. The accounts of the suffering of the little band of exiles in those awful days makes as sad reading as will be found in the annals of the Social-Democratic movement. Today no such sacrifices for principle is required, although all Social-Democrats make sacrifices, so that our appeal to you to join in work of emancipation does not call on you to undergo any great hardship. Get in line!

What have you accomplished, Mr. Workingman? asks the traveler from Mars. And the workers proudly point to all the fine mansions, the automobiles and steam yachts, the big factories, the splendidly graded streets, gilded restaurants and suburban villas, the fine clothes worn by the capitalists, the railroads, the canals, the Atlantic liners, the stores full of luxuries, etc., etc. And where do _you _live, Mr. Workingman? comes the next question. Then the smiles of the workers disappear and they point sadly to the back streets, to the alleys, to the fetid tenements and the unsanitary cottages in the rear. And where are your clothes and finery and how do you live? continues the questioner. And the workers point to the sun-faded garments that questioner. And the workers point to the sun-faded garments that cover their bodies, then to the pine dinner tables, the cheap adulterated foods, the stewed coffee of coffee essence and reused coffee grounds, the overworked wife and neglected children, the badly heated rooms in Winter, the food without ice in Summer, the unpaid doctor's visits, etc., etc., etc., oh, the shame of the worker! But the capitalistic soothing syrup that he has been imbibing through press and pulpit these many years is wearing off. His eyes are opening.

The impulse of men under the capitalist system is to make merchandise out of their talents, their shrewdness and everything else they can possibly force into the scales. Make! Make! Employ sharp practice if possible, swindle within the law if necessary. Prostisharp practice if possible, swindle within the law if necessary. Prostitute yourself. Lie, if it pays. Business morality has become a stench in the nostrils, and the big business man, with his silk tile and his private pew in church, has been completely exposed as the author of civic corruption, the procuring cause back of boodling, besides being part of the class that exhausts and impoverishes the industrious merebers of society. Certainly the working people have never been charged with any such crimes to our knowledge. But while everyone else is bargaining and making merchandise of their abilities and their foxiness, how about the workers? They by their toilsome industry produce the wealth of the nation, but instead of making merchandise of the wealth of the nation, but instead of making merchandise of once the weath of the nation, but instead of making merchandise of that fact, instead of driving a bargain with the buyers of labor power that will not them the handsome living they are clearly entitled to, they submit to a bad bargain, exchange their vast product for mere existence wages, and go through life ragged and forlorn and ignoble. A bad bargain! A very bad bargain, and it is time to change it!

When you hear a charge made against the integrity of the Social-Democratic movement, you ought, as a conscientious citizen, to investigate. The Socialists will give you every opportunity.

Charities and Corrections, have sent the following secret circular to all clergynen in the state to enlist their services to "stamp out Socialism." "You have no doubt observed the rapid growth of Socialism throughs out the entire world and especially in Colorado. This growth is a menace to Christianity, and it seems to me that the Christian people should take a stand against it. Having been so long separated by the dogma of creed, the Christian people can, if they will, obtain a common ground for the exercise of their energies in furtherance of the teachings of Christ. It matters not where the rallying cry comes from, be it catholic or Protestant pulpit, so long as it cries, out against the danger that threatens to engulf all, that cry will, I believe, receive a respectful hearing. Would you not think it wise to call attention to the fact that certain organizations in Colorado, whose avowed object is the destruction of private property, are busily at work disseminating their vicious doctrines, particularly among the working classes? This doctrine of Socialism, as you know, would destroy every Christian denomination. It seems to me, therefore, that as Christian teachers, we could do no better work in behalf of Christ and His teachings than to unite in a determined effort to eradicate this false doctrine of Socialism and anarchy that is being spread broadeast throughout the state. We will take pleasure in sending you some pamphlets and documents treating of the question, and will be pleased to have you make any suggestions to us that you think opportune."—Ex. DR. DARLING such an extortion would be unheard of—your representatives would simply vote the robber barons out of their possession of the people's coal fields, even if it were expedient to pay actual cost for them, and people would cease to freeze to death in winter. Can't you take the hint!

The firm for the results have been blocked indeed. The farmers, the servant by the old party aldermen, because of the simple minded women they are in the council to look out of the East have implicit faith in one who has been "called to preach" be morratic legislators will work and so they gladly invest their little death in winter. Can't you take the hint! In Milwaukee the Social-Democrats have been holding big down town street mass meetings, much to the consternation of the capitalist tatives of capitalist and its parties. Vancouver, B. C.

Editor Herald: I am not in the habit of attending church, but in the First Congregational Church they have organized what is known as the men's club, which meets every Sunday from 12 to 1 and discusses municipal questions. It is mostly composed of "Parrysites," but there are also a few workingmen, and they seem to be very anxious to have us there. Today we listened to a speech made by a fellow from Chicago by name of Smith. The theme of his remarks was The Municipal Voters' League, and his remarks were very interesting. According to his remarks this league was not "controlled" by any corporation, nor by the "Parrysites" and had nothing against the Socialists, in fact he told how they helped to elect a Socialist alderman in the Pullman ward. Religion or politics is no har to membership, so if are as I could judge it is all O. K., the main object being to fight local municipal corruption. From the different opinions expressed at the meeting, there may be a municipal league organized in Beloit, and I feel like joining, but before doing so I want to know the opinion of the Socialists in regard to said league, and in order to be on the safe side I write you these lines.

The men's club is presided over by the minister. The workingmen generally sit together, and today we were not asked to contribute to the collection.

Campaigning in Waukesha County.
Social-Democrats in Waukesha	Workingmen at night

Social-Democrats in Waukesha county are cutting deep holes into Republican and Democratic ranks, and farmers all over the county are rejoicing. The old German proverb: "Farmers don't eat strange things they know nothing of applies well to the situation. It could hardly be expected that the agricultural population take an active interest in a much misrepresented and maligned cause. Yet during the last six months, while farmers have been suffering political dyspepsia and brain fever resulting from political and industrial, partisan and factional war, Socialists on steel steeds have been pouring literature coefficients.

are now at work. Socialist meetings are being well attended and throngs of eager listeners seek admission, while Republicans and Democrats complain of lack of public interest in their political meetings. The case was brought up next day before Judge Neelen, who promptly decided that the Social-Democrats had a perfect right to speak upon the streets, so long as they did not block the way. The result was that a larger crowd thar ever gathered the following evening on the same corner, and two big meetings were held instead of one. The incident served only to show the panic of the old politicians, and made many votes for the Social-Democratic party among people speak to solve the proper service of the solve the people who helieve in free service and product the solve Democratic party among people who believe in free speech and fair play.

(From the report of the Free Press.)

Between three and four thousand people erowded into the hall at Schlitz park last night to hear Benjamin Hanford, Social-Democratic candidate for vice-president, speak. Women were present also, generously sprinkled through the andience. It was gaia night for the Social-Democrats, and hopes of leaders for a big demonstration were not disappointed.

The audience was a characteristic one. The audience was a characteristic one. The class to which speakers have for months made their appeal was there in force. Workingmen in sober garments, with hands hardened by rough labor, with shoulders bowed by toil, flocked to hear the principles expounded that they have been made to believe mean relief for them from a life of hard work to gain the necessaries of life.

Government Ownership a Solution. Government ownership of the means of production when the working class shall have secured control of the reins of government was the theme of Mr. Hanford's address. Then, he declared that two more aldermen had gone to the side of the crooks and misrepresentatives of the people.

In that two more aldermen had gone to the side of the crooks and misrepresentatives of the people.

BIJOU THEATER.

BIJOU THEATER.

Next week the offering at the Bijou, commencing with a Sunday Matinee, will be Chas. E. Blaney's newest, greatest melodramatic offering, "For His Brother's Crime." Amongst the special vaudeville features, which are incidentally introduced during the action of the piece, are the aerobatic and juvenile singing and dancing. The play may be described as a lesson in morality, brotherly affection and sacrifice, in which are concerned twin brothers, one of whom commits a murder, while his prototype is accused of the crime, and suffers in silence; on his death bed, however, the real murder makes a confession, thus vindicating the hero from the stain of guilt.

Warm Reception for Hanford.

The applause was great when Hanford and Berger and Gaylord came upon the platform. It was still greater when My. Berger introduced Benjamin Hanford as the speaker of the evening, but it was quickly quelled when the latter raised his hand for silence.

Benjamin Hanford is not a polished orator. He speaks to his hearers direct and does not attempt elecutionary effect. He appealed to his audience last night as one from the ranks of workers, and his arguments were the more forceful to those that listened for their being brought out in a hemely manner.

Only once did a disturbance seem imminent. It was when a boy in the rear of the room got up from his seat and ran out. The stillness was so tense that the larged crowd was immediately startled, men and women rising from their chairs with one accord.
