At the Forks of the Road. By ALLAN L. BANSON.

No usual changes are in the country more marked than those that are taking place in Kansas and Colorado. There has been a number of such changes in recent years, and the people of those states, who are now more aware of the impact of those changes, are looking to the future with a sense of optimism.

The Kansas and Colorado changes are not just about the politics of the state, but also about the economy. The changes are being driven by the industrialization of the states, which is leading to a shift in the balance of power. The state of Kansas is now more industrialized than Colorado, and this is reflected in the changes that are taking place in the two states.

The changes in Kansas and Colorado are also being driven by the changes in the country. The country is becoming more industrialized, and this is having an impact on the states. The changes in Kansas and Colorado are also being driven by the changes in the world. The world is becoming more industrialized, and this is having an impact on the states.

The changes in Kansas and Colorado are also being driven by the changes in the nation. The nation is becoming more industrialized, and this is having an impact on the states. The changes in Kansas and Colorado are also being driven by the changes in the world. The world is becoming more industrialized, and this is having an impact on the states.

GLEANINGS FROM WASHINGTON.

The Socialist, May 1882, 1912, was addressed by a delegation of the Socialist party of the United States, and was presented with a petition, which was read by Mr. James P. Cannon, the Secretary of the State of Washington.

The petitioners, in the State of Washington, desire to express their thanks for the assistance rendered to them in the successful prosecution of their business, and to urge the adoption of the Social Democratic policy in the future.

The petitioners also desire to express their thanks for the assistance rendered to them by the Social Democratic party of the State of Washington, and to urge the adoption of the Social Democratic policy in the future.

The petitioners further desire to express their thanks for the assistance rendered to them by the Social Democratic party of the State of Washington, and to urge the adoption of the Social Democratic policy in the future.

By order of the Social Democratic party of the State of Washington, Mr. James P. Cannon, the Secretary of the State of Washington, was authorized to make the following statement:

"The Social Democratic party of the State of Washington, in common with the other political parties, is made up of the people of the State of Washington, who are organized for the purpose of securing the adoption of the Social Democratic policy in the future.

Are the Social-Democrats Really Irrligious?

The charge has frequently been made that the Milwaukee labor movement, especially as represented by the Social-Democratic party, is unchristian and therefore wicked. And yet we know that Milwaukee, as a whole, has the poorest population on our burgeoning city. that this great country of ours affords. The Social-Democratic movement is in no way opposed to the religious spirit prevailing everywhere. If it were otherwise, we may be sure that we or the Protestant Church would have placed us on the map as a Godless community.

Notwithstanding this close relation of the church, the church, our perusal of the works of the most eminent churchmen of America, has produced a century of prominent German character of this country.

Revised Standard, the Bible, is a common book, but in many instances it does not contain the New Testament, but in others it does not contain the Old Testament.

Congressional action that the right of the people of the United States to mint and coin money is not to be interfered with by any one, and that the people are entitled to the use of the gold and silver coin as a medium of exchange and of payment for public duties.

This will mean more to the people of the United States than any other action that is taken in Congress in the near future.

United States Congress.

Local and National Union movements have given the people of the United States a better understanding of the importance of a free and independent country. They have taught them to appreciate the value of their money, and to realize that a free and independent country is the only way to maintain a free and independent people. The people of the United States are now beginning to see the importance of a free and independent country, and are working towards the establishment of such a country.

Who will help to organize the national union movements?

To Those Who Think They Are God's People.

We are not trying to organize a new religion, but simply to organize a movement that will bring about a more just and equitable distribution of wealth. We want to see all people, whether rich or poor, get a fair share of the wealth of the country.

The national union movements are a step in the right direction. They are not perfect, but they are moving in the right direction. They are helping to bring about a more just and equitable distribution of wealth. They are helping to bring about a more just and equitable distribution of wealth.
