Means Toward the End

By Victor L. Berger.

The first task of every socialist must be to form an association of producers, an association of laborers, with which to control the production of the means of living. Such associations are a fundamental element of the socialist state, as they are the first step toward the establishment of a socialist society. The purpose of these associations is to control the production of the means of living, and to distribute them among the members of the association according to their needs. This is the first step toward the establishment of a socialist society, and it is the first step toward the establishment of a socialist economy.

A Questioner Answered.

By Victor L. Berger.

A correspondent who is well meaning and very pious writes me that while he is thrilled over the wonderful progress that has been made in the work of the Social Democratic causes, he is not a little alarmed lest the capitalist system may make a strong effort to compete with us. He fears that the capitalist system may make a strong effort to compete with us.

The capitalist system is not likely to make a strong effort to compete with us. It is in the very nature of things that the capitalist system cannot compete with us.

In the capitalist system, the capitalist is the owner of the means of production, and the worker is the owner of the labor. The capitalist system is not likely to make a strong effort to compete with us.

The Horrors of our Capitalistic "Justice"!
The Man with Money Can Escape the Gallows, The Other Fellow Must Hang!

One day oftentimes the brutal hand of the law bites the stark tooth of justice upon the men of latifundia. One day oftentimes the brute hand of the law strikes the brute heart of injustice. One day oftentimes the brutal hand of the law forces the brute heart of injustice to the blood of the people. One day oftentimes the brutal hand of the law compels the brute heart of injustice to pay the price of its crimes.

Citizenship vs. Financial Care.

The following letter was written by a man who is known to the writer as a true and practical prohibitionist. The letter asks me to give it space in the paper.

Mrs. Editor: During the past few years I have given a great deal of thought to the discussion of the general subject which has been brought before the public.

I think that the principles of citizenship are very closely allied to the principles of financial care. One cannot exist without the other. A man cannot be a good citizen without being able to take care of his financial affairs. And he cannot take care of his financial affairs without being a good citizen.

I hope that you will give this letter space in your paper.

Sincerely yours,

AGAINT MOTHERHOOD AND ROOSEVELT.

Women's rights are at last being given a real hearing. The women of the country are no longer content to sit in silence while their working paid employers are being paid. They have come to believe that the women of the country can and should be paid.

It is not only the women who are fighting for equal rights. There is a growing movement among the men to support the women in their struggle. And this movement is gaining strength.

One of the main arguments that has been used against the movement for women's rights has been the argument that women are not fitted for work. But this argument is now being refuted by the facts. Women are just as capable of doing the work as men.

In conclusion, I would like to say that I believe that the women of the country are entitled to equal rights. They should be paid for their work and they should have the same opportunities as men.

Sincerely yours,
