THE INDUSTRIAL SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST AND HOW THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS.

"Survival" makes a specialty of some, at least of those who work at it. And the worst of it is that it doesn't make a lot of money.

There's a lot of old patent medicines that manufacturers are working on. They're working on it, and they're working on it, and they're working on it, and they're working on it. But they don't make a lot of money.

It's an easy job. Strangely enough, many of the old patent medicine men, who when we got into the business, were the people who were most likely to succeed, have dropped out. They found that they didn't make much money. So they dropped out.

I found that the people who made the most money were the people who didn't work on it. They were the people who just let it be. They sold a little, they sold a lot, but they didn't work on it. They just let it be.

I think that the only way to make money in the patent medicine business is to let it be. Let it be, and let it be, and let it be.

I learned a lot about the patent medicine business in my stay in the office. I learned a lot about the people who make it, and I learned a lot about the people who don't make it.

I learned that the people who make it are the people who let it be. And the people who don't make it are the people who work on it.

I learned that the people who let it be are the people who are the most successful. And the people who work on it are the people who are the least successful.

I think that the patent medicine business is one of the few businesses where you can make money by letting it be. And you can't make money by working on it.

The people who let it be are the people who are the most successful. And the people who work on it are the people who are the least successful.

I think that the patent medicine business is a business that you can make money in by letting it be. And you can't make money in it by working on it.

COGS FOR CAPITALIST WHEELS

The capitalist system of society is a complex web of interdependent parts, where the worker is the cog in the wheel, the exploited labor that powers the economy. This system is maintained by the power and control that the capitalist class holds over the means of production. The working class, or proletariat, is locked into a system where their labor is sold back to them by the capitalist at a price lower than the value of their labor. This struggle is fought through the collective action of workers organizing and fighting for better wages, conditions, and representation through labor unions and strikes.

GLEANINGS FROM BUSY FIELDS.

IN YANKEE LAND

By a record of the field and the farm, the season is in full swing, and the work is hard and lucrative. The harvest is plentiful and the crops are ripe. The rural communities are vibrant with activity, with the sound of mowers and the smell of fresh air.

ACROSS THE POND

Despite the end of the long winter, the fields are still cold and wet, but the farmers are hard at work, plowing and planting. The weather is unpredictable, with rain and sunshine alternating, but the spirit of the farmers is strong, determined to overcome any obstacle.

THE VICTIMS. A May Beats Story.

HE firing, flickering light from the lamp in their cage showed their coal bright and gave a sinister aspect to the whole scene. They were huddled together in a corner of the dimly-lit room, their eyes glimmering and their breaths coming in short, rapid gasps. The sun was up, the day was breaking, but they were still there, in their tiny cell, still alive.

The door opened, and a man entered. He was tall, with piercing eyes and a stern expression.

"Let's go," he said, "and to the children.

We'll start as soon as you're ready.

"But what are we going to do?"

"We'll have to make it up as we go along," he replied.

They left the Children's home, and began their journey into the world.

The Darling Of The Gods

The refugees from the Belgian Congo, who are here for medical care and treatment, have been seeking work in the city for some time. Many of them have been unemployed for weeks, and have been living in makeshift camps on the outskirts of the city. The local authorities have been trying to find employment for these refugees, but the situation is still very critical. Some of the refugees have been working as laborers in the local factories, but their wages are barely enough to cover their basic needs. The city government is providing food and shelter for the refugees, but they need more support from the international community to alleviate their suffering.

A SUPERIOR FUEL
For manufacturing and household purposes. It is manufactured by a special process from coal, containing no fat, and is, therefore, hard, dense, high in fixed carbon, and low in ash and sulphur. It is coiled and placed in uniform sizes: Chestnut No. 2, Chestnut, Range, and Egg, corresponding to various sizes in the Stationery and Soap Industries.

For Manufacturing Purposes

For all kinds of shop work, welding forge, etc., it is particularly valuable by reason of its low sulphur and good structure, and for furnaces, confectioners, blacksmiths, foundries, heating of stores, halls or large buildings, it will prove a money-saver.

For Household Purposes

It can be used in any stove, range, grate or furnace equipped with grates for burning coal. It will not only hold fire over night if properly handled, but will furnish a steady, even heat all night and leave a good live fire in the morning. It is used largely in bakeries and foundries. It is easily ignitable and always smokes. It is safe, clean and dry, and perform the same service.

Twenty Per Cent. Cheaper
