Something Doing at Convention of the A. F. of L.

Constructive Work of the Socialists Meets with Better Success than of Yore—British Delegate's Ringing Words.

"Sonnachy" Unhages His Annual Revenge on His Critics!

Mississippi, Minn., Nov. 15. (Special Wire.)—Three representatives of the British Trades Union Congress, during the convention of the American Federation of Labor today, expressed the opinion that British labor is more militant than ever, and that the trade union movement in this country is in a state of depression. The British delegates said that the trade union movement in this country is in a state of depression.

The British delegates also criticized the American Federation of Labor for not doing enough to organize the workers of this country. They said that the American Federation of Labor has been too much concerned with political activities and has neglected the industrial work of organizing the workers. They urged the American Federation of Labor to give more attention to the industrial work of organizing the workers.

The British delegates also expressed the opinion that the American Federation of Labor should take a more active part in the political activities of the country. They said that the American Federation of Labor should not be content with merely organizing the workers, but should also take an active part in the political activities of the country. They urged the American Federation of Labor to take a more active part in the political activities of the country.

The British delegates also urged the American Federation of Labor to take a more active part in the international labor movement. They said that the American Federation of Labor should take a more active part in the international labor movement and should work for the betterment of the workers of the world.

The British delegates also expressed the opinion that the American Federation of Labor should take a more active part in the educational work of the country. They said that the American Federation of Labor should take a more active part in the educational work of the country and should work for the betterment of the workers of the world.

To What's Economics and Political Development Tending?

By Paul Karpfertzer

The strides in economics, as in other fields of human endeavor, tend to be measured in terms of economic growth and development. This has been the case since the Industrial Revolution, when the economy was focused on the production of goods and services, and the accumulation of wealth. The growth of the economy has been characterized by an increase in the standard of living, as well as the creation of new products and services. However, the growth of the economy has also been accompanied by a number of negative effects, such as environmental degradation, income inequality, and social dislocation. The challenge for economists and policymakers is to ensure that economic growth is sustainable and equitable, and that it leads to a better quality of life for all people.
Our Great Metropolis
As Howells Sees It!

The famous novelist's description of the city and its citizens.

F. Whipple, America's foremost novelist, for the Cosmopolitan Magazine, wrote: "New York is the only city

in the world that will hold its own.

The other cities have their glory,

but it is a glory of bygone days.

New York is the city of the present,

the city of the future."

The city of the present and the city of the future are not the same thing.

New York is a city of contradictions.

It is the city of the individual, but it is also the city of the crowd.

It is the city of the rich, but it is also the city of the poor.

It is the city of the free, but it is also the city of the governed.

It is the city of the powerful, but it is also the city of the powerless.

New York is a city of contrasts.

It is a city of extremes.

It is a city of extremes in height, in width, in depth.

It is a city of extremes in wealth, in poverty.

It is a city of extremes in beauty, in ugliness.

It is a city of extremes in life, in death.

It is a city of extremes in success, in failure.

FOR OUR NEW READERS:

This is a new edition of the Social-Democratic Herald. In addition to the usual contents, it contains a special section on the International Social-Democracy. If you are interested in learning more about this movement, be sure to read it thoroughly.

HALF HOURS IN THE HERALD SANCTUARY.

By Harry Bruff, N.Y. City.

The Herald Office is a small place, but it is beautifully arranged. The walls are hung with pictures of the great figures in the history of labor, and the walls are filled with newspapers and pamphlets. It is a place where one can lose oneself in thought, and where one can find solace in the words of the great men of the past.

ELECTIONS AND ELECTIONS.

The election season is upon us once more. The candidates are out campaigning, and the voters are out voting. It is a time of great excitement, and a time of great responsibility. We must all do our part to see that the people get the kind of government they want.

GLEANINGS FROM BUSY FIELDS.

In the section of the Herald devoted to current events, there is an article on the recent presidential election. It is a well-written piece, and it gives a good overview of the candidates and the issues.

ACROSS THE POND.

In the section on international news, there is an article on the current situation in Germany. The article is written by a native German, and it gives a firsthand account of the political and social conditions in that country.

SOCIABLE-D EMOCRATIC HERALD

An Uncalled-For Insult to Labor!
The Free Press Editor's Malicious Attack on the Men Who Are Being Hounded by the Western Standard Oil Capitalists.

Now that oil pro's have gone to Washington, does it not have to be expected that the oil interests are getting off the starting block, just as the oil interests of the last battle of the men who were known as the "Standard Oil Men vs. The World"? If so, then the Western Federation of Miners, William H. Haywood, Socialist candidate for Governor of Colorado, and George F. Kirkland, a member of the executive committee of the Federation of Labor, have a long battle ahead of them in the battle for the Western Standard Oil Capitalists. They have the San Francisco newspapers at their disposal, and are fighting for the same reason that the Standard Oil Men did.

"The Labor situation today is as critical as ever," said the Free Press Editor in his recent letter to the President of the Union of the Western Federation of Miners, "and the unions must face the fact that the Standard Oil Men are getting off to a good start in their campaign." He also referred to the Free Press Editor's statement that Labor is "a factor that the Standard Oil Men must not overlook in their campaign.

EXPLANATION: The above was read from the speech of the President of the Western Federation of Miners, William H. Haywood, Socialist candidate for Governor of Colorado, and George F. Kirkland, a member of the executive committee of the Federation of Labor. They are fighting for the same reason that the Standard Oil Men did.

"The Labor situation today is as critical as ever," said the Free Press Editor in his recent letter to the President of the Union of the Western Federation of Miners, "and the unions must face the fact that the Standard Oil Men are getting off to a good start in their campaign." He also referred to the Free Press Editor's statement that Labor is "a factor that the Standard Oil Men must not overlook in their campaign."
