A Principle Which Requires a Broader Application

By Victor L. Berger

The principle which should guide our actions is that of the common good. The state is a vehicle for the common good. The state, the government, should be responsible for the common good. The government should be guided by the principles of justice, equity, and fairness.

The principle of the common good should be applied to the problem of poverty. Poverty is a problem that affects the common good. The government should take steps to reduce poverty and ensure that all members of society have access to basic necessities.

The principle of the common good should also be applied to the problem of education. Education is a fundamental right and should be accessible to all. The government should invest in education and ensure that all citizens have access to quality education.

In conclusion, the principle of the common good should guide our actions. It is a principle that should be applied to all aspects of society to ensure that the common good is served.

The Miner's Wake

'Till laid to us, he lay in darkness. And a score of men whom he had frightened left him.

The miner's wake, a custom dating back to the days of the gold rush, is a traditional way for miners to celebrate the life of a deceased miner. The wake is a solemn and heartfelt event, attended by family, friends, and colleagues, who gather to pay their respects and share stories of the miner's life.

May Beals

Letter to the Owner of a Farm:

Dear Mrs. Smith,

I am writing to express my concern about the state of my lawn. It has become quite overgrown and unattractive, and I believe that it could benefit from some additional care.

Sincerely,

Mary Jones
