LABOR GETTING "JUSTICE" IN NEVADA!

Once more organized labor heard the voice of justice in Washington. The Western Federation of Miners, after long years of patient suffering, was heard. The men of Virginia City, Nevada, who have had to put up with conditions which no man should have to suffer, were heard at last. The voice of justice, which has long been suppressed, was heard clearly, distinctly, and reverently.

The Western Federation of Miners is a union of workmen who have been driven from the Western States by the conditions which exist in the mines of the Great Basin. It is a union of men who have been forced to work under conditions which no man should have to work under. It is a union of men who have been forced to live under conditions which no man should have to live under.

The Western Federation of Miners is a union of men who are determined to have justice done to them. They are determined to have justice done to their fellow men. They are determined to have justice done to their country.

The voice of justice was heard in Washington. The voice of justice was heard in Nevada. The voice of justice was heard in the West. The voice of justice was heard in the United States.
