WE DID NOT CREATE CLASSES

By Victor L. Berger.

In most of the most advanced countries in the world there is a deep and growing conviction that the Democratic and Republican parties of all countries that have to do with our country are really not different, and that the Democrats and Republicans of any state that has to do with our country are really the same. It is true that in some places where there is a great deal of prosperity and wealth, the Democrats and Republicans of any state that has to do with our country are really not different. But in other places where there is a great deal of poverty and distress, the Democrats and Republicans of any state that has to do with our country are really not different. The defeat of the Republican Party in the presidential election of 1928 was a significant event in American political history. The election was won by Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt, who went on to serve as the 32nd President of the United States from 1933 to 1945. Roosevelt's administration is often credited with leading the country through the Great Depression and World War II. The election of a Democrat to the presidency was seen as a departure from the Republican Party's traditional dominance in national politics.

The text below is a snippet from a newspaper article discussing the election and its implications. It refers to the economic and political implications of the election and mentions the role of the Democratic Party in addressing the nation's challenges.

Organized Labor

IWC meeting.

In the last weekend, the IWC met and elected officers for the coming year. A secret ballot was taken and the following officers were chosen:

President: A. J. Mischke
Vice-President: J. W. Blom
Secretary: M. J. Schmidt
Treasurer: F. J. Hamel

The meeting was called to order by the President, who read the minutes of the last meeting and reported the progress of the organization during the past year. The Treasurer's report was read and approved, and the Secretary's report was also approved.

A motion was made to increase the dues from $1.00 to $1.50 per year, which motion was seconded and carried.

The meeting adjourned at 10:00 o'clock, the officers taking their seats for the ensuing year.

The Milwaukee Federation of Labor, in its weekly Bulletin, states that the IWC is making good progress and that it is expected to have a strong attendance at its meetings and a large membership within the year.

The IWC is again emphasizing the importance of unity among all labor organizations. It is believed that this unity will be of great benefit both to the IWC and to the Milwaukee Federation of Labor as a whole.

The IWC is also emphasizing the importance of the strike for the workers. It is believed that the workers should fight for their rights and that the strike is the only way to get the employers to recognize these rights.

The IWC is also emphasizing the importance of education among the workers. It is believed that education is the key to a better life for all workers.
