

Progress in the Rudowitz Case.

At midnight, Monday, it was reported that Stacy Rudowitz, the so-called Northwest.mp.
A word to the party managers:

Tom Cummings has one of the most important positions in Philadelphia. He has been in charge of the Social Democratic Labor Party for the past ten years and is one of the most active workers in the city. He is well known to all who have worked with him in the party.

SOME EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS.

By Fredric D. Bate

In the recent Canadian elections, the Social Democratic Labor Party of Canada has made great progress. The party was founded in 1909, and since then it has grown steadily. It is now the second largest party in the country, with over 100,000 members. The party is devoted to the ideal of socialism and is committed to the overthrow of the capitalist system.

The party's platform calls for the nationalization of all banks, railroads, and mines, as well as the abolition of private property. It also demands the extension of workmen's compensation, the reduction of working hours, and the establishment of universal suffrage.

The party has been particularly successful in the urban areas, where it has won a number of important victories. In the recent election, the party won two seats in the House of Commons and four in the Senate.

The party's success is due in large part to its effective organization. It has a strong network of local chapters, each of which is headed by a full-time organizer. These organizers are well trained and have a deep understanding of the party's goals.

The party also has a strong base among workers and trade unionists. It is a party of the working class, and it always speaks the language of the working class.

The party is also well known for its commitment to nonviolent action. It believes that the only way to bring about change is through peaceful means. It has always refused to use violence, and it has never hesitated to put its principles into practice.

The party's record is one of unswerving dedication to the cause of socialism. It has always been a party of action, and it has always been willing to die for its beliefs. It is a party that is proud of its history, and it is a party that will continue to fight for the future.

It is impossible to attempt all of their functions, to take any into the public service. Such a state is beyond the limits of the capacity of any one man or woman.

"If they were mistaken in the judgment of our being a great country, it would be worth while to set them right. But if they are right, they will stand fast."

This great evil could exist for others, and I suppose there is a reason why it should exist. It was the duty of each to redress the cause, and it would be a very good thing if we could secure the public office.

AN EMPLOYEE'S COMPENSATION BILL.

Inasmuch as President Roosevelt and Governor Dayton of Wisconsin are now advocating the federalization of the national and state compensation laws, considerable attention has been given in Washington to the proposition that the State Federation of Labor would take full advantage of the moment to secure the federal establishment of a workmen's compensation law.

In the past they have been met with apathy, but now that the issue is on the table, it is certain that many more will be willing to vote in favor of the measure. The workmen are certain to be enriched by the establishment of a system of compensation which will be free from the limitations and restrictions of the present system.

About 12,000,000 men and women are employed in the United States industry. The number of accidents occurring among employees is very large, and it is estimated that about 250,000 persons are injured annually.

The law establishes a fund to be paid into by the employers, which shall be used for the payment of compensation in case of injury or death to employees.

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics has published a report showing that in 1913 the cost of compensation to employees amounted to $35,000,000. It is estimated that the cost in 1914 will be $50,000,000. This report indicates that the cost of compensation is increasing at a rapid rate.

The workmen's compensation law will provide that all employers shall contribute to a fund to be used for the payment of compensation to employees injured or dead. The law also provides that the fund shall be invested in United States bonds.

The Federal Federation has made a complete study of the cost of compensation to employees, and it is believed that the cost of compensation will be reduced by the establishment of a federal workmen's compensation law.

Some Reflections.

To the Editor: When you see a person, who is rich, who is poor, whatever, who is you, know simply why you are rich, you know simply why you are poor, you know simply why you are rich, you know simply why you are poor.

Why is this? Here are a few suggestions why this may be.

To take something for nothing. This is a great danger. If you are rich, you are rich. If you are poor, you are poor.
