T HE rapid progress is being made that after the HEPHABUS announcement, was written and before it appeared last week it became necessary to charge the amount of stock subscribed. When it was first written only about two thousand dollar balances had been spoken for, but before the HEPHABUS was ready to issue the authorized amount of stock had been subscribed. At this time, about 3,000,000, about seven thousand five hundred dollars had been subscribed and twelve hundred dollars had been subscribed for additional stock, the prospects being for additional stock, the subscription.

In the history of the lab. announcement in Milwaukee, no new project has so promptly and substantially progressed as the HEPHABUS, and the public is greatly interested in its progress and the demand for stock.

The total amount subscribed is $2,700,000, and the total amount of stock subscribed is $2,500,000.

The stock is of the first class and is held by the public, and the company is well able to meet all obligations.
The Principles We Advocate

Human life depends upon food, clothing and shelter. Only when these conditions are satisfied can there be any talk of higher moral principles. The industrial laborer cannot seriously think of anything beyond the struggle for existence and the securing of the bare necessities of life. To the worker, the conditions of his work are almost more important than the wages paid him, because of the direct influence of the work upon his health and efficiency. The worker has the right to secure conditions of labor which will enable him to do his work properly.

The crisis in capitalistic production is a result of the capitalist system. The capitalist system is based on the ownership of the means of production by the few and the resultant exploitation of the workers. It is a system of production for profit, not for the satisfaction of human needs. It is a system of class struggle, not of class cooperation. The capitalist system is a system of exploitation, not of freedom.

The Claim of Socialism

Socialism is a political movement for the abolition of the capitalist system and the establishment of a socialist society. Socialism is a system of production for the satisfaction of human needs, not for profit. It is a system of class cooperation, not of class struggle. Socialism is a system of freedom, not of exploitation.

Incentive Under Capitalism

Incentive is the basis of capitalist society. The worker is paid according to his output. This is called the principle of "labor for hire." The worker is paid according to his labor, not according to his needs. This is called the principle of "labor for profit." The worker is paid according to his labor, not according to his needs.

SAY!

Now is the time to act. The workers of the world must unite. Let us organize, educate, and mobilize. Let us fight for our rights. Let us establish a socialist society. Let us say "SAY!"

Many years ago, in the town of Zanzibar, a very influential merchant named Ali Khan was deeply concerned about the welfare of his fellow countrymen. The agriculture in his land was being exploited by greedy traders who were draining the local wells, causing water shortages, and threatening the livelihoods of the farmers. Ali Khan knew that something had to be done to address this pressing issue.

He decided to act and organized a group of like-minded individuals to form a cooperative society. The goal was to purchase the wells and control their distribution, ensuring that the water would be shared fairly among the community members. This initiative led to the establishment of a cooperative farm where everyone could benefit from the collective effort.

The success of this model inspired Ali Khan and others in the region to continue developing the cooperative movement. They began to see the benefits of collective action in improving the living standards of the people. As a result, other communities followed suit, forming their own cooperatives to address various economic and social challenges.

Over time, these cooperatives grew in number and influence, becoming a significant force for change and development. They not only provided economic stability but also fostered a sense of community and solidarity among the members.

In honor of Ali Khan and his vision, the town named a street after him, and a monument was erected to mark the site of his original cooperative society. Today, the legacy of Ali Khan continues to inspire generations, reminding us of the power of collective action in overcoming adversity and building a better society.
Spring Is Here!

- It is time to "bring on" the new season with garments that will be reasonable, more commodious. We have those looking here for you—so put on and wear away. For style, nobby patterns, workmanship, fit and wearing qualities, they are unequalled—and prices are just right.

Boys' Clothing

Furnishing Goods

To be well dressed, the "little things" you wear must be "right". Your Hats, Collar, Neckwear, Hosiery, etc., should be "just right". Buy hat, collar, and gloves. Quality and price unequalled.

WHERE ARE THE GOOD TIMES?

The public has been feeling out for something different, and the merchants are ready and waiting to fill the need. Both the manufacturers and wholesalers in this line of work are keenly interested in finding out just what is going to be "the rage". The situation is such that there is a chance for the intelligent girl to get a smile and a chance for the intelligent boy to get a date. The time is ripe for the intelligent girl to get a date. To be in with the public, the girl must be in with the "times". She must know what is going on and be able to "go with the flow".
