Why Aldrich Wants a Constitutional Amendment

NATIONALITY, adding that the变态-state's vote up to this time has been a tax, the result being a personal tax, was a disallowance of the measure on the part of the telegraph last Tuesday.

This all seems to be clear enough, and yet one cannot un-derstand why the amendment is necessary. In the United States an income tax was proposed as early as 1816. In Peter Parley's "Polite对话". In the 1850's a new amendment was proposed, but it never reached the House of Representa-tives. Later charges were raised, the taxation rate, the rate 1/10 of 1% of all income, was $3,000,000,000, and $500,000,000, respectively.

The amount of exemption, was allowed to $1,000 and $1,000,000, respectively. The law continued in force until 1854.

In his so-called Wilson Act provided an income tax, but the supreme court declared it unconstitutional, and a tax of 5% of the tax rate was the subject of operations.

According to this short history, all that seems to be necessary to make the amendment constitutional is for Congress to be convinced that for at least forty years--it would be to the advantage of the united states in such a way that it would declare the income tax constitutional and rightful, with at least 5 to 4 votes.

However, this is not what Senator Nelson Aldrich and the other big men of the tariff are saying.

They practically want a constitutional amendment against the income tax. And the following is the reason:

It requires a three-fifths majority of both houses of Congress to constitute the constitution.

This can never be given for any reason that the oppo-sition parties can cause. Hence, the income tax can be defeated.

"After Bread, Education"—By Robert Hunter

OLIVEPTLE OF Rosebud, South Dakota, a good-hearted, conscientious Christian, went to church on Sunday last. When he arrived at the church door, he found a large crowd of people already assembled. It seemed as though the entire town had turned out to attend the service. Olive, being a member of the church, walked into the building and took his seat in the congregation. He sat there for the entire service, listening to the minister's words with interest.

After the service was over, Olive went to his car and drove home. As he was driving, he noticed a large number of people who were standing around the church. They were all talking and laughing. Olive got out of his car and walked over to talk to them. He found that they were all friends of the minister and that they had come to the church to see him off as he began his journey around the world.

Olive was surprised to learn that the minister was planning to travel to every country in the world and that he was going to preach the gospel in each one. Olive had always been interested in mission work and had dreamed of going on such a journey himself. He was thrilled to learn that the minister was going to do just that.

The minister's name was Dr. Smith and he lived in Rosebud. Dr. Smith was already well-known in the town for his work in the church and for his dedication to the ministry. He was a kind and gentle man, and everyone respected him. Olive knew that he would be in good hands if he went on the journey with him.

As they walked down the street, Dr. Smith told Olive about his plans for the trip. He said that he would be traveling for the next two years and that he would be visiting each country in order to spread the gospel to as many people as possible. Olive was amazed at how Dr. Smith was able to fit so much into his small car and how he was able to manage such a long trip.

Dr. Smith told Olive that he had made arrangements with local churches in each country and that he would be preaching in different churches every day. He said that he would be staying in small towns and villages where he could reach the people who were most in need.

Olive was excited to hear about Dr. Smith's plans and he knew that he would do whatever he could to help him. He offered to drive him to the airport and to help him get settled in the new country.

As they walked back to Olive's car, Dr. Smith thanked him for his help and said that he was looking forward to the journey. Olive wished him well and said that he would keep in touch.

Olive got into his car and drove home. As he drove, he thought about the minis

Organized Labor

In a Foot's Paradise

From Melbourne, Australia, a labor party came to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on July 7, 1929. They were greeted with a large parade and a massive demonstration. The visitors were treated to a grand march and rally, where they discussed the issues facing the labor movement.

The meeting adjourned at 10:00 p.m.
Beggs’ Attack From a Distance

At the big battle of the opening of the Center store this week, the people of one of the strongestholds of the Social Democratic cause in the state were driven out of membership. The Social Democratic party, which has been in existence for over twenty years, has now lost all of its influence in that city.

Mr. Beggs, who has always been one of the best known leaders of the party, was forced to retire from the office last week. He said he was too old to continue in active political work.

The defeat of the Social Democratic party in this district was unexpected. The party had been working hard for several months to gain new members, but it was not able to overcome the opposition of the Republican party.

The Republican party, which has been in control of the local government for many years, has been very active in opposing the Social Democratic party. The Republican leaders have promised to speak against the Social Democratic party at every opportunity.

Mr. Beggs said he was not discouraged by the defeat of the party. He said he would continue to work for the Social Democratic cause, but that he was too old to be actively engaged in politics.
