The recent strike of the textile workers in Manchester, England, was a powerful blow to the labor movement in that country. The workers held out for seven weeks and finally won a considerable victory. The strike was not without its difficulties, but the workers were united and determined. The employers insisted on lower wages and longer hours, but the workers refused to accept these terms. They held firm and finally won a victory.

BIG PREMIUMS GIVEN AWAY NOW!
Workingmen's Friend, King Edward, Is Dead

Great Britain Mourns for Monarch Who Never Did a Useful Thing in His Life

By Henry T. Jones

The English labor movement has suffered a severe blow with the death of King Edward VII, who was one of the most popular and well-loved monarchs of modern times. His reign was marked by many progressive measures that benefited the working class, and his death is a great loss to the cause of social justice.

A Rally to Legalize Fraud

The Workingmen's Friend, a labor party newspaper, has called for a rally to demand the legalization of fraud, which is currently illegal in many countries. The rally is expected to be attended by thousands of workers who demand greater protections for workers and a fairer society.

Nice Royal Morals!--King George's Case

When the then King Edward VII was in his prime, his morals were, to put it mildly, questionable. However, he eventually became a model of moderation and virtue. This change was attributed to a strict moral code that he adopted later in life.

A Coal Miner's Daughter

The story of a coal miner's daughter who became a world-renowned socialite and philanthropist is a testament to the power of hard work and determination. Despite her humble beginnings, she was able to rise to the top and make a significant impact on society.

Horrible Deaths of Working Men

Peace More Fatal Than War—This Week’s Victims Among the Working Class

Henry Morris, that the diagnosis of his condition made it evident that he would have to be operated on within the next twenty-four hours. The operation, however, was not successful, and he died two hours after it was performed. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia, resulting from a severe attack of inoperable cancer. The body was removed from the hospital a short time after the death, and the funeral arrangements were made. The body was taken to the hospital’s crematorium and interred in the same place as the other patient who died at the hospital a few days ago. The funeral was a private one, attended by the immediate family of the deceased and a few friends. The body was placed in the hospital’s vault, and the records were made accordingly.

A Gibel Editorial

This store desires to solicit your patronage because of the real merits of its merchandise.

It is our constant aim to GUARD AGAINST misrepresentation in any way, shape, or form, and exaggerations of any kind will not be tolerated.

The Gibel daily advertisements DO NOT contain "comparative values"—such as "$3.50 Oxfords for $1.00"—because we sell Oxfords for $1.95. They are not worth more than $1.95, and we are willing to stand behind our merchandise. Why should they be, when we SELL them for that?

If you notice the advertisements in the daily papers you will quickly perceive that many stores CLAIM to sell merchandise BELOW its real value—and will TELL you that the Men’s Suits which they offer for $15 are worth $20. It isn’t so, and don’t you believe it.

The misrepresentation of the "value" is simply to draw your attention. The VALUE of anything is what you ACTUALLY PAY for it—not MORE, but otherwise, LESS.
