Why People Have Respect for Legality

For the stages of civilization which could be judged according to the number of laws they had, there the United States was found to be leading the world. Today, however, the growth of American law is more rapid than ever. It has become the measure of the nation's progress.

However, in the 1920s, we have seen a terrific number of legal cases. The courts have been the arbiter of most of these, and the judges have had to decide upon the law. Today, however, there is a general trend towards greater democracy. The people have more say in the making of laws.

But that does not make a difference at all. Year after year our courts and our legislatures keep on passing the number of laws to 1,000,000 or more. And that is how the people keep on passing the number of laws to 1,000,000 or more.

What is going to go on when all the laws are passed? The people are getting too much respect for the law.

People are becoming more and more aware of the need for the law. They are realizing that the law is an important tool in society. They are realizing that the law is a way of life.

People are beginning to respect the law. They are beginning to understand the importance of the law. They are beginning to see the need for the law.

Disinherited Mankind

In Spite of Progress and Invention the Deserving Are Still Counted Out

100 YEARS AGO I had a country cousin who was a little in our debt. He was, I remember, some fourteen kilos before the war. He lived in the country and had a little patch of land which he cultivated. The soil was not very fertile, but it was enough to keep him from starving.

The land was divided into little plots, each one of which was worked by a different family. The plots were small, and the crops grew thickly enough to prevent the wind from blowing them away. But the cousin was a lazy man, and he did not work hard enough to get enough to eat. He was always borrowing money from his neighbors, and he never paid it back. He was always in debt, and he never seemed to get out of it.

One day, the landowner came to see him and told him that he must pay his debts or lose his land. The cousin was afraid, and he promised to work harder and pay his debts. But he did not keep his promise, and he was soon in debt again.

The landowner was very angry, and he decided to take the land from the cousin. He gave the cousin a choice: he could either work hard and pay his debts, or he could lose his land. The cousin chose to lose his land, and he was soon working on the land of another family.

The cousin was a hard worker, and he soon became prosperous. He bought more land and started a farm. He became a rich man, and he never forgot the lesson of his past.

This is a story of progress and invention, but it is also a story of the deserving. The cousin was a hard worker, and he deserved to be prosperous. But he did not work hard enough, and he was not deserving. The lesson of this story is that we must work hard and be deserving if we want to be prosperous.

On Monday afternoon, after the special session of Congress called to take action on the proposed amendment to the income tax, the Senate passed the amendment by a vote of 50 to 46, thus clearing the way for its final passage in the House of Representatives. The amendment, which has been under consideration for several weeks, provides for a 10 percent tax on income in excess of $3,000. The measure was introduced by Senator John A. Carlson of Wisconsin, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

The amendment has been met with strong opposition from many sections of the country, particularly from the Pacific Coast states, where the income tax is already in effect. The amendment is expected to bring in a revenue of $750 million a year, which will be used to pay for the cost of the war.

The amendment has also been criticized by some economists who believe that it will have a negative effect on the economy. They point out that the tax will reduce the amount of money available to consumers, which will in turn reduce the demand for goods and services.

The amendment will now go to the House of Representatives, where it is expected to be passed by a narrow margin. The measure will then go to the President for his signature, after which it will become law.

STUMPF & LANGHOFF SAY:

"Warm things for Christmas mean a lot to men, young men and boys".

You don't have to wonder what to buy—not if you're practical, frugal and careful. Men like nice things to wear, so do the boys. If they have everything they need in the way of necessaries, then, and then only, it is time to buy petty luxuries. Get all the necessities first.

Instituting the Schaefer Case?

December 8, 1939

Editor Social Democratic Herald:

Dear Sir:

Last April a year ago you said to me you wanted to do a case of another sort and that you had your possession three years ago, and that it had been made by a gentleman with whom you are acquainted who was dead. After two or three years of your possession the gentleman's wife made your case, asking for your help, you received a little more from the estate. We then took up the case and gave the gentleman's wife the benefit of all the evidence, making him a new possession of the estate, asking for the benefit of all the evidence, making him a new possession of the estate, asking for your help, you received a little more from the estate. We then took up the case and gave the gentleman's wife the benefit of all the evidence, making him a new possession of the estate, asking for your help, you received a little more from the estate. THE TRUE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IN FURNITURE

Furniture certainly scores the Tabloid credit as no other gift can or will. It is true in the old traditions because it is handed down through the ages and becomes more deeply treasured with the passing years. The one who receives has everlasting proof of sterling friendship in a gift of furniture, but the remembrance this gift brings is worthy of renown both to the giver and the recipient. The best way to decide and be assured and safeguard is to go directly to a store where novelty, beauty, variety and fair prices are certain to be found. Have you ever been in doubt? What the People of Milwaukee Actually Pay for a Street Car Ride

Passengers on the cars of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company last year paid at the rate of 3.1 cents for each ride.

The cash fare in Milwaukee is 5 cents, but it is generally known that the street car companies are frequently not paying commission ticket the price of the ride is reduced to 4 cents.

It is not generally known that the price which the company receives is cut down to the 4 cents, by the use of transfers.

The company's total revenue from cash and ticket fares collected in 1910 was $5,000,000,000 and upwards. The total number of cash and transfer passengers carried was approximately 100,000,000.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company

Over eighty per cent of the fares collected in Milwaukee are paid in commission tickets. Less than one fare in five is paid in cash at the 5-cent rate.

There is no city in the United States where commission tickets are as generally used as in Milwaukee. There are only a few cities where commission tickets are sold at all.

Nor counting transfer passengers and undecided cash and ticket passengers, the rate of fare collected last year was approximately 4½ cents per passenger. This shows the extent to which the rate of fare is reduced by the use of commission tickets.
