Comment on Passing Events.

By Frederic Hauch

The Socialist movement has been in a critical condition when it gave up its place of influence a few weeks ago. The conditions then were that the old European socialists, the middle and upper-class men, were more than a million in number. They had been working for a long time in various organizations, and were able to influence public opinion in a great many cases. The new European socialists, who number only a small fraction of the old, have been more or less isolated, and have not been able to influence public opinion. The old European socialists, as a result of their failure to influence public opinion, have been forced to rely upon the old middle and upper-class men, who have been able to influence public opinion. The new European socialists, on the other hand, have been able to influence public opinion, and have been able to do so at a much earlier date than the old European socialists. The old European socialists, therefore, have been forced to rely upon the old middle and upper-class men, who have been able to influence public opinion, but who have been unable to do so at a much earlier date than the new European socialists. The new European socialists, on the other hand, have been able to influence public opinion, and have been able to do so at a much earlier date than the old European socialists.

The Socialists are divided into two main groups, the old and the new. The old Socialists are represented by the old middle and upper-class men, who have been able to influence public opinion, but who have been unable to do so at a much earlier date than the new European socialists. The new European socialists, on the other hand, have been able to influence public opinion, and have been able to do so at a much earlier date than the old European socialists. The new European socialists, on the other hand, have been able to influence public opinion, and have been able to do so at a much earlier date than the old European socialists.

WHERE ARE THE SOCIAL DEMOCRATS TODAY?

The Social Democrats are a political party in the United States, which was organized in 1877. The party was founded by a group of working-class men, who were dissatisfied with the prevailing political conditions in the country. The party was organized to fight for the rights of the working class, and to promote the interests of the working class in general. The Social Democrats were active in the struggle for the establishment of a socialist society, and they played an important role in the development of the socialist movement in the United States. Just a month ago we had the pleasure of welcoming to the editorial office of this paper the well-known writer T. W. Fiske, who was in the city to deliver a series of lectures. Mr. Fiske is a recognized authority on the history of social democracy, and his lectures were well received. The World-Wide Banking System

The time is essentially the same throughout the world, but the exact time is variable, as it is affected by the different time zones. It is necessary to regard this as a general rule, and not as a precise statement of fact.

The economic system of the world is based on the principle of non-interference by any government in the internal affairs of another country. This principle has been enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, and is generally accepted as a fundamental principle of international law.

In the Mexican border states where the citizens are faced with the harsh realities of '"national socialism," our Socialists are engaged in spreading the gospel of socialism. The Non-Partisan Fallacy

From the Milwaukee Journal

The non-partisan fallacy is the belief that the use of non-partisan ballot labels is sufficient to ensure a fair and unbiased election. However, this belief ignores the fact that even non-partisan elections can be influenced by factors such as voter perception and candidate strategy.

Ambush Tactics

Communication of support or opposition to candidates on the non-partisan ballot labels can influence voter behavior. It is important to consider the potential impact of ambush tactics and ensure that non-partisan labels are not used to advantage by any candidate or group.

State Tax Increases

It is important to understand the purpose and potential impact of state tax increases. The tax revenue generated can be used to support various programs and services. It is important to ensure that the tax increases are justified and that they do not disproportionately burden certain groups.

A Queer Disclaimer by Attorney Baker—Young

To Turn Over All Fees

It was a remarkable document that the County Board drew from Attorney Baker yesterday. Baker, on the county board last Tuesday, while in charge of the tax bureau, drew from the bureau a document that the board was desirous of having, and that had been defeated by the board last Tuesday. The document was submitted to the board by the attorney, who also wrote for the tax bureau, and who had been unsuccessful in his efforts to obtain the document.

Don’t trifle when you buy milk

TIME was when any old milkman was good enough. It’s different now. Health authorities and food experts urge you to get acquainted with your milkman and his way of doing business—just because milk is the most important article of food that reaches your table.

More than 30,000 households in Milwaukee today depend upon the superior sanitary equipment, and in the progressive business methods of the Griddy Dairy for its milk supply. The expression of public confidence has been won because the men behind this business early recognized the importance and opportunity of putting Milwaukee's milk supply upon a sanitary and modern basis.

The Griddy Dairy is the first and only establishment of its kind in the city today, and one of the most modernly equipped dairy concerns in the United States.

The Boston Wheel and Bridgeworkers' Union has presented the company with a new wage scale with the men going $1.50 per day, one-month's wages, or $1,800. This was decided upon by the men with the idea of getting a raise in wages.

The company, however, rejected the proposal, saying they could not afford to pay the wages asked for. The union then began a strike, and after a few weeks the company gave in and agreed to the new wage scale.

The strike lasted for a week and the men, who are now receiving $1.50 per day, are satisfied with the raise they have received.

The strike was called off after the company agreed to the new wage scale.

Just a Dirty Little Deal

The storm broke in the office of County Clerk Corf. It was the early afternoon, and the day was not the only dirty day for Clerk Corf.

Not only was the county in the midst of the worst torrent of snow and rain in recent memory, but the time clock had broken down, and the clerk was forced to work by hand. The task at hand was the transcription of a document, a task that usually fell under the purview of a machine.

In addition, all addresses of individuals involved in the document had been lost from the house, making the collection of testimony and verification of facts a nearly impossible task.

How a Street Railway Company Safeguards the Public

PUBLIC SAFETY is a question to be con sidered first in almost every part of a street railway company's work.

In the construction of tracks, trolley wires and other fixed portions of a street railway system, every effort is made to avoid or over come dangerous conditions.

In designing, building and equipping cars the chief thought is of the safety and con venience of passengers.

Every detail of the operation of cars is so directed as to provide the greatest safety, but not to passengers on the cars, but to all other persons using the streets on which the cars are run.

Besides using every practicable precaution in the construction of its lines and the building and operation of its cars, a company must maintain constant vigilance against the careless and reckless ness of pedestrians and drivers on the streets.

The company also must prevent its passengers, so far as may be possible, from tak ing risks through disregard or ignorance of danger.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company

For every accident that occurs hundreds are prevented, either by the safeguards pro vided by the Company or the watchfulness and care of the company's employees.

THE MILWAUKEE ELECTRIC RAILWAY AND LIGHT COMPANY spends a great deal of money every year for mechan ical devices, special construction, additional help and other precautions for the safety of the public and the prevention of accidents.

A great deal of money, and a great deal of care and effort as well, is constantly de voted to the training of the Company's em ployees for their important part in this work.

Trainmen and others engaged in the opera tion of cars are selected with the closest re gard for their intelligence and reliability.

Before these men are permitted to go on their duties they are instructed in such manner as to give them the highest appreciation of their responsibilities.

This training is continued, and even the oldest and most trustworthy in the Com pany's employ are reminded constantly of their duty in protecting the Public against accident.
Town Topics by the Town Crier

Do your grandpa a favor this week. Tell him the story of the town in which he was born. It will give him a sense of pride and purpose. After all, he lived through the Great Depression, World War II, and the Cold War. He has a story to tell. And you have the opportunity to hear it.

Mr. Rogers is a lucky man. He has been married for 50 years and has never been in aavenous case. He and his wife, who is also Mr. Rogers, live in a small village in Wisconsin. They are both members of the local Masonic lodge and attend church every Sunday. Mr. Rogers is a devout man and always prays before and after meals. His wife, who is also Mr. Rogers, is a devoted wife and always prepares a meal for him. They are both happy and contented.

The town is small and the weather is always pleasant. In the summer, the people go swimming in the nearby lake. In the winter, they go skiing on the slopes. Mr. Rogers and his wife enjoy the outdoors and spend as much time as possible in the fresh air.

The town is surrounded by a beautiful countryside. The fields are green and the forests are lush. The people are friendly and welcoming. Mr. Rogers and his wife are happy to live in such a peaceful and beautiful place.

Mr. Rogers is a lucky man. He has found true love in his wife and has been blessed with a life of happiness and contentment. His story is one of the many that make this town special.
