On Which Side Do You Stand, After Reading This Article, Mr. American Voting King?

By ALLAN L. BEROWN
In Washington, for April

There are really well meaning men in this country who do not care to have a republic. They call it a 'monopoly' or 'plutocracy.' There are really impotent men who ask us to do it, and who have no interest in the prosperity of the country. They are the people who say, 'We want a republic.'

There is a great deal of talk about the 'American' voting king. The American voting king is a mythical being, the product of the imagination of the demagogue. He is the personification of the ignorance and prejudice of the masses, who are swayed by the allurements of the demagogue. The American voting king is the creature of the demagogue who wants to control the masses.

There is no such thing as the American voting king. He does not exist. He is a figment of the imagination of the demagogue. The American voting king is the personification of the ignorance and prejudice of the masses, who are swayed by the allurements of the demagogue. The American voting king is the creature of the demagogue who wants to control the masses.

The real American is the man who wants to be a republic. He is the personification of the intelligence and patriotism of the masses, who are swayed by the allurements of the statesman. The real American is the creature of the statesman who wants to control the masses.

No matter how widely one may differ with regard to the political economy of the United States, there must be conceded not only interest but great respect for the achievements of industrial democracy. At the present moment, the administration is the first of the United States to bring into being a system of industrial democracy. And in the present economic disturbances, it is to be hoped that the new administration will bring into being a system of industrial democracy.

Announcement! Another New Press

Well, the hammering men are still at it! But it is construction, not destructive hammering. And here's the explanation:

The Mecca of Socialist and Labor Union Activity

The Poor Strikebreaker

By C. S. SANDERSON

"Bed" McClure, who comes to Milwaukee and located at 3724. Second Avenue, and through newspaper advertisements and other means, attempted to collect a squad of strikebreakers to go down to Chicago, has left the city.

He is good. Quit us cold, and quit us sudden.

McClure was found out not to be welcome. He wasn't sure of what was next. And he took his money and his baggage and left the city.

"Bed" has been with a couple of other men and women and his wife and family in the city. He was with the Chicago police all day yesterday.

He again is a "bed" heavy man. He is out of his job.

He is out of the money and out of the family.

"Bed" is a great deal like the rest of the men in the city.

The strikebreaker movement is a great deal like the rest of the men in the city.
