Victor L. Berger's Address That Electrified Congress

Congress in August Session Sits Up and Listens to a Social-Democratic Address

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Representatives and Senators today were in front of the Speaker's desk in the House of Representatives and listened to the electrifying address of Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin. They were in such number and enthusiasm that Speaker Chipman, chairman of the meeting, called them to order at the request of one of the representatives. The Einstein from Wisconsin spoke for more than an hour, not all at once.

"The whole country is in a state of discussion as to what the Democratic party means," said Mr. Berger, "and the Democrats themselves are not sure what they mean." He went on to say that the Democrats are not the party of the people, that they want to build up a party that is the party of the people, that they want to build up a party that stands for the people.

"I am convinced," continued Mr. Berger, "that the people of this country will not be content until they have a government that is truly representative of the people. They want a government that will do the people's business. They want a government that will stand up for the people. They want a government that will work for the people."

Mr. Berger ended his address by saying that the people of this country are not going to be satisfied until they have a government that is truly representative of the people. They want a government that will do the people's business. They want a government that will stand up for the people. They want a government that will work for the people. They want a government that will work for the people.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM CONTAINS ALL WE ASKED FOR

Samuel Gompers

NATIONAL LABOR SYNDICATE

Wisconsin State Federation of Labor Declares Its Position

The following resolutions were adopted by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor: 'Strikes are the only means of making employers understand that labor is not their slave, that labor is not the property of the employer. Strikes must be made the last resort. Strikes must be made when the employer has refused to grant the demands of the workers. Strikes must be made when the employer has refused to grant the demands of the workers. Strikes must be made when the employer has refused to grant the demands of the workers. Strikes must be made when the employer has refused to grant the demands of the workers. Strikes must be made when the employer has refused to grant the demands of the workers. Strikes must be made when the employer has refused to grant the demands of the workers.'
THE CATHOLIC SOCIALIST MOVEMENT IN BRITAIN

The Catholic Socialist Movement in Britain was established in 1881 to address the growing social and economic problems of the time. The movement was founded by Father John O'Leary, a Catholic priest, in response to the current social conditions in the United Kingdom. The Catholic Socialist Movement was an attempt to utilize the Catholic Church's influence to support the workers' rights and to establish a socialist society.

By the time this letter was written, Father O'Leary had already passed away, and the movement continued to struggle against the class prejudice that had developed. The leaders of the movement were aware that their efforts were not enough to create a socialist society, but they did not give up.

The majority of the Catholic Socialist Movement's members were of the working class and worked to improve their conditions. The movement was concerned with the workers' struggle against the capitalist system.

The Catholic Socialist Movement was known for its efforts to promote a socialist society in Britain and for its connection with the social and economic issues of the time.

ACROSS THE POND

The Truth About Milwaukee

The Catholic Socialist Movement was an attempt to establish a socialist society in Britain by utilizing the Catholic Church's influence to support the workers' rights. The leaders of the movement were aware that their efforts were not enough to create a socialist society, but they did not give up.

The majority of the Catholic Socialist Movement's members were of the working class and worked to improve their conditions. The movement was concerned with the workers' struggle against the capitalist system.

The Catholic Socialist Movement was known for its efforts to promote a socialist society in Britain and for its connection with the social and economic issues of the time.

THE CATHOLIC SOCIALIST MOVEMENT IN BRITAIN

The Catholic Socialist Movement in Britain was established in 1881 to address the growing social and economic problems of the time. The movement was founded by Father John O'Leary, a Catholic priest, in response to the current social conditions in the United Kingdom. The Catholic Socialist Movement was an attempt to utilize the Catholic Church's influence to support the workers' rights and to establish a socialist society.

By the time this letter was written, Father O'Leary had already passed away, and the movement continued to struggle against the class prejudice that had developed. The leaders of the movement were aware that their efforts were not enough to create a socialist society, but they did not give up.

The majority of the Catholic Socialist Movement's members were of the working class and worked to improve their conditions. The movement was concerned with the workers' struggle against the capitalist system.

The Catholic Socialist Movement was known for its efforts to promote a socialist society in Britain and for its connection with the social and economic issues of the time.

ACROSS THE POND

The Truth About Milwaukee

The Catholic Socialist Movement was an attempt to establish a socialist society in Britain by utilizing the Catholic Church's influence to support the workers' rights. The leaders of the movement were aware that their efforts were not enough to create a socialist society, but they did not give up.

The majority of the Catholic Socialist Movement's members were of the working class and worked to improve their conditions. The movement was concerned with the workers' struggle against the capitalist system.

The Catholic Socialist Movement was known for its efforts to promote a socialist society in Britain and for its connection with the social and economic issues of the time.
The Socialists and the Unions

The Socialists and the Unions were two distinct factions, the one representing the working class and the other the middle class. Each had its own goals and policies, which they believed would best serve the interests of their respective groups. The Socialists focused on the idea of a classless society, where the means of production would be owned and operated by the working class. The Unions, on the other hand, emphasized the importance of collective bargaining and the rights of workers to organize and negotiate for better working conditions and wages.

IT HAPPENED IN MILWAUKEE

The Hindsight of the Wozzies!
The "non-partisan" discovered, or perhaps, more accurately, the lack of it, was the main topic of discussion at the recent meeting of the Socialist League in Milwaukee. The meeting was held at the Socialist League Hall on the corner of Wisconsin and North Avenues. The speakers, who included members of the Milwaukee Socialists, discussed the importance of unity among workers and the need for a strong, organized labor movement.

The Socialists spent $51,000 on their campaign in the 1912 election and they collected the largest amount of money in the election. The budget appropriation for the Socialists was $500,000 and they collected $292,194, not $500,000, as reported.

Our Young Folks

VOLUME 1  MILWAUKEE, JULY 27, 1912 NUMBER 23

The Mecca of Socialist and Union Labor Activity

HANS, THE STORY OF A GERMAN BOY

BY MARTIN GALE

CHAPTER XV—Continued

Hans insisted in rage something as he worked away with his axe and grudges it all and had no patience with a man. He was thought of his take of hats and he handled them.

"Gee, did you never think of your father and mother, Hans?" "Oh, you tootsy Crip, but you are my father and mother. I am Hans, Hans, I want to be free. I want to go away from you and you and all your cronies. I want to be free! I want to be free!"

"But, Hans, did you never go home again?"
FOR PRESIDENT
Eugene V. Debs
OF INDIANA
FOR VICE-PRESIDENT
Emil Seidel
OF WISCONSIN

BOSTON, Massachusetts—Labor leaders here issued today a call for the immediate withdrawal of the army from the strikers. They declared it is time that the authorities allow the strikers to have a free and honest settlement of their grievances. The leaders urged the workers to resist any attempt to force them to accept unfair conditions.

WASHINGTON

LEADERSHIP

Washington, D.C.—A group of leaders from the National Farmers' Union held a meeting today to discuss the situation in the South. They expressed concern about the violence and intimidation directed at farmers who are resisting the efforts of the government to take control of their land. The leaders called for solidarity among farmers and against the government and its policies.

CHICAGO, Illinois—A meeting of the Chicago branch of the Socialist Party was held today. The party leaders discussed the situation in the country and the need for increased activism. They called for the party to continue to push for socialist ideas and for the establishment of a socialist society. The meeting was well attended, with many members of the community in attendance.

THE HORRORS OF CIVILIZATION

New York, N.Y.—Recently, a series of incidents involving violence and abuse of power by government officials has raised concerns about the state of civil liberties in the country. The incidents have been met with outrage and calls for accountability and justice. The government has announced measures to address the concerns raised.

THE RULE AND THE WOULD-BE

Empress William—"No, today, you shouldn't try to be an emperor. You can't cut out the part. You can't stand it as I have if they tell you to shut up. (This German empress refers to the Emperor William II to hold his tongue—Ed. Herald.)

YOUR ATTENTION PLEASE, MR. FARMER

By L. H. Bailey

The farmers have been feeling the pinch of the high prices and the low yields. They are facing a difficult winter ahead and need support from the government. The farmers' union has called for a meeting to discuss the situation and to demand action from the government.

KNOWN IN ADVANCE

Hamburg, N.Y.—July 12, 1912—The government has announced that it will give the farmers some assistance. However, farmers are demanding more support to help them through the tough winter.

SOUND THE "KEY NOTE"

Clericalists, in a few weeks this nation will be in the midst of the most important political campaign in its history. The old party politicians and the new "Billsmen" spellbinders will be in their midst of the campaign, in order to raise a cloud of dust to deceive the voters once more.

NOT A MOMENT TO Lose

Everyone who has seen the light of socialism is in duty bound to make every effort to join in the campaign. Don't wait for big meetings and the last days of the campaign to go your work. Each one of you can reach eight or ten people with the Socialistic message every week by handing your friends and shopmates a copy of the Social-Democratic Herald.

EFFECTIVE AND CHEAP

Remember that the new "Billsmen" spellbinders are selling subscriptions for $1.25. You can have a small bundle of Herald's mailed to you each week for 25c. Write to the editor for information. It will be a pleasure to have you on the list.

CAMPAIGN'S FUNDS

Remember that by securing Herald subscriptions you make your friends pay for their own conversion and education. It is the most effective method of securing campaign funds.

ORDER A BUNDLE EACH WEEK. THEY CHARGE YOU ONLY A FIFTY-CENT EACH.