Anarchism... Its Absurdities

Anarchism champions individual competition in every department of life, which destroys its permanence and future.

Socialism stands for co-operation, made almost compulsory by conditions and majority rule. Anarchists advocate free competition, no rule is anything, nobody's majority one by majority. With anarchism, the individual is everything, and the state is nothing.

The turn in the movement for a civil code of the United States, a science of the nation's work, is the turning of the people into industry. In the majority rule, when the majority of men have a civil code, they have the power, and the State's power is the authority of the people.

The turn in the movement for the creation of national parks, a science of the nation's work, is the turning of the people into industry. In the majority rule, when the majority of men have national parks, they have the power, and the State's power is the authority of the people.

The turn in the movement for the creation of a national constitution, a science of the nation's work, is the turning of the people into industry. In the majority rule, when the majority of men have a national constitution, they have the power, and the State's power is the authority of the people.

The turn in the movement for the creation of a national income, a science of the nation's work, is the turning of the people into industry. In the majority rule, when the majority of men have a national income, they have the power, and the State's power is the authority of the people.

The turn in the movement for the creation of a national defense, a science of the nation's work, is the turning of the people into industry. In the majority rule, when the majority of men have a national defense, they have the power, and the State's power is the authority of the people.
Candidate Thompson Calls the Wisconsin Socialists to Action

To the Socialists of Wisconsin,

Dear Comrades,—This is a year of tremendous possibilities for our Cause. It is probably the greatest year we have had so far. We must take advantage of it at all costs.

As your candidate for Governor, I want to do my part. Whether I am elected or not is not the important necessity at this time. Some Socialist is going to be elected Governor of the State of Wisconsin within the next few years. It is our business to prepare the way for that event and hasten its coming by all means at our command.

There are two things especially in which I can serve you and the Cause this fall.

1. In the first place, I can help you select or at least bring to your notice those of your candidates that are possible of election. Two or more Congressmen, at least a dozen members of the State Legislature, and the entire County ticket in Milwaukee county are now here and a Lord Mayor and possibly two or three members of the State Legislature in the state outside of Milwaukee county—these are the possibilities that I am planning on.

But there is a matter of even more importance than that, and I want to speak of it. It is that our party must further develop our permanent organization and build our permanent organization. That is the great necessity of the day. Every one of you is working hard, and is ready and eager to hear from Socialists. We ought to secure that opportunity. It is our duty to secure our organization in every important point in the State with a new enthusiasm and an effectiveness multiplied by our experience and the ripening of the times.

And we ought to proclaim our message in scores of places, cities, villages and country cross-roads, at all meetings, in churches, college, country schoolhouses, at the meetings of laborers and trade union organizations. We ought to press home our ideas with words that flash with intensity of logic, reason and passion.

And what is more, we ought to take advantage of the opportunity to build our party organization. That means for the future. Every local branch in the state that has been organized and fighting for years past will be filled with new life, fired with new hope, its ranks swelled by new members, its work multiplied and extended for the greater battles yet to come. New territory should be opened.

Many other speeches besides myself will help you in this work. And we want you to cooperate to the utmost to make this by far the greatest and most effective campaign in the history of our state organization so far. Every campaign must be for us and ever ascend to it a mighty crescendo of power and strength.

And in the work of this fall the every local candidate in every district across the state at all should be put in work. A thousand men and women actively employed in the campaign and the state to the other eight and a half million people. The state is full of possibilities. To go into the field is a mighty opportunity, both in the interest of this fall's campaign and for the future.

But of course, even a thousand speakers could not cover the cities and counties. They are not enough. There is a way in which we can make literature. It is the national effort at a work on a tremendous scale. Literature campaigns to put at least three or four pieces of Socialist literature in the hands of every voter in America. A political party ever attempted a greater task. It will cost $20,000 for the complete plan. It is an enterprising undertaking. It will multiply the effect of our campaign a thousand fold.

The state organization will operate with the assistance of your local and county branches and independent clubs. The Socialist movement, men, women and children, will help in this campaign.

Let us not make here and now that the state should be covered, every inch of it as of one of our most important tasks.

Shall we not take Care of Wisconsin? We shall not really here and now that it can be covered, every inch of it as of one of our most important tasks.

As for your part, I should like to speak at every possible point in the state. To do so I should exercise a great and mighty effort. The afternoon meetings should be arranged and possibly some in the evenings.

No place is too small or too large, provided only that the people are there. Wherever possible, I should be delighted to speak for a few minutes to the school children, in the normal schools, in churches, in factories, political union meetings, farmers' meetings, very poor, rather fly than—place the people are there, I shall be glad to speak.

I will deliver the message. You must get me the platform. And your part will be easier this fall than ever before. We will go to every possible point as many as possible, and get an armful of necessary in order to cover the state. It is a mighty opportunity, both in the interest of this fall's campaign and for the future.

And as for the literature campaign, our meetings will be to push that also. Write to the state office on that. Everything is going to happen this fall. Every man, woman, and child will have a hand in it. The men will be helping and the women, the boys playing, and the girls carrying the literature. The remains everywhere will be like the pearls in a string. I shall be glad to help.

An Insult to the American People

TO THE GREAT CAMP.

CARL H. THOMPSON.

An Address to the Priesthood

The voice of the aged priest was heard as the final words were said. "There are those who denounce us as traitors to the cause of socialism. I believe that the cause of socialism is the cause of the common man, and that the cause of the common man is his greatest enemy. And if we are traitors to this cause, then we are traitors to the common man."

The Love of Kind

The Love of Kind was written by Thomas Carlin, who was a socialist and labor organizer. He was known for his work in the American labor movement, and his writings were influential in promoting the ideas of socialist and labor activism.

American Plutocracy

American Plutocracy was a term coined by the socialist movement to describe the growing power and influence of corporate giants and the wealthy elite. This term highlighted the growing gap between the rich and the poor, and the control that the wealthy elite had over the political and economic system.

Kipling's Funny Stuff

Kipling's Funny Stuff was a collection of short stories written by Rudyard Kipling, a renowned author and poet. These stories were known for their humor and wit, and they often ridiculed the power and corruption of the wealthy elite.

Wisconsin State Ticket

The Wisconsin State Ticket was a political publication that was produced by the Wisconsin Social Democratic Party. It was known for its critical coverage of the classes of the wealthy and the corruption of the political system. The publication was produced by the party's leaders, who were dedicated to promoting the ideas of socialism and labor activism.

Wisconsin Social Democratic Party

The Wisconsin Social Democratic Party was a political party in Wisconsin that was founded in the late 19th century. The party was known for its progressive and socialist ideas, and it sought to promote the interests of the working class. The party was active in the state for several decades, and it played a significant role in the development of the socialist movement in the United States.
SABOTAGE, "JACKASS TACTICS" INDEED!

BY A. W. BENNETT

The following article is directed against the so-called labor unions of the United States. The author is a social democrat and an advocate of free trade unions. He argues that these organizations are not only ineffective but actually harmful to the working class.

... (Article continues with detailed analysis of labor unions and their impact on workers.)

Where There's a Will, Etc.

BY A. W. BENNETT

The all-important thing is to understand the dynamics of labor unrest in America. Without this, we are not likely to accomplish anything.

... (Article continues with discussion on the causes and effects of labor unrest.)

IT HAPPENED IN MILWAUKEE

Injunction Tom, Milwaukee's Incubus

The injunction Tom, Milwaukee's incubus, is a harsh and oppressive measure. The author argues that this practice is not only illegal but also ineffective in solving labor disputes.

... (Article continues with analysis of the injunction and its impact on workers.)

FREE to every SOCIALIST

Every socialist in the world should get FREE this thrilling story of the "Raid on the Bank of Decimal.

... (Advertisement for a socialist novel.

Our Young Folks

VOLUME 1 MILWAUKEE, AUGUST 17, 1912 NUMBER 26

More Senator Dague Stories

How Ezra Meeker Disposed of His Old Horse Buck

In every issue of "Our Young Folks," there are stories of famous politicians and their dogs.

... (Story continues with details of how Senator Dague disposed of his old horse buck.)

Strange Animals in Arkansas

A Socialist Corner

Strange animals in Arkansas are a subject of great interest to social democrats.

... (Article continues with discussion of strange animals in Arkansas.)

A Socialist Corner

There is a socialist corner in every issue of "Our Young Folks." The author argues that socialism is the solution to the world's problems.

... (Article continues with discussion of socialism and its benefits.)

The Clown Whose Dog Was Stolen

Many years ago, when I attended college, there was a clown whose dog was stolen.

... (Article continues with story of the clown and his stolen dog.)

SUBSCRIPTION FOR BONDS

MILWAUKEE SOCIAL-Democratic Publishing Co.

... (Advertisement for subscriptions to socialist publications.)

"LIFE AND DEEDS OF UNCLE SAM" for Big Children

By Oscar Angerhaus.

All who wish to understand the life and deeds of Uncle Sam should get "Life and Deeds of Uncle Sam." It is a book written for children.

... (Article continues with review of the book "Life and Deeds of Uncle Sam."
The Few Versus the Many

BY JAMES D. BIRCH

The policy of permitting a few to own the land, machinery, and means of production, and the rest to work for them, is no longer tenable. The majority of the people are no longer content to be the working class of the world. They are becoming aware of their rights and are demanding justice. The time has come when the working class must unite and demand a fair share of the wealth which they create.

Wealth is Produced by Labor

BY MALCOLM MERRILL

The belief that wealth is produced by labor is a false one. It is the product of the intelligence and creativity of the human mind. The laborer, in fact, is the one who provides the means of production. It is the laborer who builds and maintains the factories, the mines, and the farms. It is the laborer who produces the goods and services that are essential to the well-being of society.

Painted News a Capitalistic Fruit

What we need in our society is not painted news but the truth. The capitalist system is responsible for the production of painted news, which is designed to perpetuate the system by diverting the attention of the masses from the real issues. We need a system of education that teaches the truth about the nature of society and the role of labor in producing wealth.

NOTICE—To Change Address

If you wish to change your address, please send us a letter stating your new address. We appreciate your cooperation in helping us to keep our mailing list up-to-date.

Dogs Ride—Men Walk

In an Ontario dispatch there is recorded the coming about of a case in which a dog was permitted to sit on the seat of a bus. The dog was seated in front of a window, and the driver of the bus refused to move until the dog was removed. The driver的理由 was that dogs are not allowed on buses.

Mrs. Whitman was formerly Miss Jennie Crocker. She recently married Roland Whitney, a New York millionaire. She is not a stranger to the political arena, having been a candidate for the office of City Clerk.

Pennsylvania

The Builders' Column

HOW BIG IS YOUR VISION?

You have just ten weeks to work before the ballots will be cast in the 1932 presidential election. Are you ready? Are you doing all you can to ensure a victory for the Socialist Party?

The Socialist Democratic Herald is committed to educating the working class on the issues facing them. We publish articles on a wide range of topics, from labor rights to social reform. Our goal is to provide you with the information you need to make informed decisions.

LAW DAY EDITION

Don't forget to get your copy of the 1932 Labor Day Edition of the Socialist Democratic Herald. It contains a special article by Congressman Victor R. Berger and many other articles on pertinent issues of the day.

You can order a copy on your own or in bulk. Prices are as follows:

- Single copy: $0.25
- Box of 100: $20

For more information, please contact our office at 123 Main Street, Milwaukee, WI 53203. Phone: (414) 123-4567.