Dr. Plantz' Superficial Study and Confusion of Thought Exposed

Almost as a breath from the mouth of the middle ages comes an investigation in the Rev. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence College, through a special correspondent of the Milwaukee Journal, in which he insists on the position of a Christian in conflict with Christianity.

We have no quarrel with Dr. Plantz's statement that Socialism has a material and secular ideal. It is not a religion. It has no heaven and no hell. It is in the main stage of its historical development; it is only a few steps to a revolution as it is evolution, than which there can be no more contrasted alternatives. Nothing can be more evident than the fact that the United States, as a country, is rapidly approaching Socialism, and that the people of the United States are rapidly approaching Socialism.

Capitulations have made the attainment of what many conceive to be the Christian ideal impossible. It is impossible under slavery, unless we are to accept the Plutocratic theory that the slave is serving his master, or realizing on earth the ideal of Christian sacrifice by expelling the soul of either, so Socialism will give to the worker a large life without depriving him of his hopes of heaven.

Our conception of Christianity has been that whether or not the ideal is achieved, it is impossible under slavery, unless we are to accept the Plutocratic theory that the slave is serving his master, or realizing on earth the ideal of Christian sacrifice by expelling the soul of either. So Socialism will give to the worker a large life without depriving him of his hopes of heaven.

We have before us a report that has been issued by the New Zealand government on the effects of the increased cost of living, a report which was made by a government committee after an exhaustive inquiry. We are told that in consequence of the greater difficulty which the workers are meeting in maintaining themselves, owing to the high cost of food products, there are fewer marriages, fewer births, fewer deaths, and fewer families are to be found in the evil within men, in their wicked dispositions, rather than in their economic environment.

If the case of living should decrease, if there should be a greater production and a more equitable distribution of wealth, and marriages to consequence should increase and the like, the argument would have no weight whatever than that of the people of New Zealand; or the United States, where, if we discount the number of marriages, because it is in a Christian virtue, we should have been long ago. The man who never takes a bath, who never shaves or changes his clothes, must be found comfort in scouring his body, may be a holy man in the eyes of the middle-class Christian, but only a Christian in the eyes of the religious.

The New Zealand report illustrates precisely the scientific spirit in which Socialism views the problem of life. If we are to believe the Rev. Dr. Plantz the New Zealand government's report is wholly fallacious. The reason that there are fewer marriages, fewer births, and fewer families at the evil within men, in their wicked dispositions, rather than in their economic environment.

The inventor of the appliance has been quoted as saying that the invention is the result of many years of experimentation and research. He believes that the appliance will prove to be a great boon to mankind, and that it will be of great benefit to those suffering from the evil within men, in their wicked dispositions, rather than in their economic environment.

The party news of the Wisconsin movement

RACINE. The Racine Socialists have received notice that their candidate for the House of Representatives, George F. Hoffmann, has been nominated by the Democratic party. Hoffmann is a personal friend of the state convention, and the Socialists are strongly in favor of his nomination.

NEOPORT. Neopart—the branch of the Socialist party in Neopart—has issued a statement in support of the state convention. The statement reads: "The state convention is the most democratic and progressive section of the Socialist party in the state, and we fully support its action in endorsing Hoffmann as our candidate for Congress."

BETTER THAN SPARKLING. The Socialist party in Milwaukee has decided to endorse the candidacy of George F. Hoffmann for the Congress. The party is convinced that Hoffmann is the best man for the position, and they are confident that he will be re-elected.

BRIDGING THE BOUNDARIES. There was a slight lull in the activity of the passing days. The sun had just set, and the moon was beginning to rise. The air was cool and the wind was blowing steadily.

The ship was at anchor, and the sailors were working on deck. The stars twinkled in the sky, and the sound of the waves could be heard. The ship was about to sail, and the sails were being lowered.

CHAPTER X.

How the Wind Blows. Each part of the ship had a part office at the top of the mast. The top of the mast was about sixty feet above the water. The wind would blow in the direction of the mast, and would cause the ship to move forward. The wind would also affect the sails, and would cause them to fly out. The sailors would work to keep the ship on course, and to keep the sails in proper position.

The Treachery of the Wealthy the Destroyer of Nations

By C. D. TOWERY.

The hypocrisy of the rich, the duplicity of the wealthy, the greed of the powerful, and the indifference to the suffering of the poor are all evident in the actions of those who occupy positions of power. These individuals use their influence to manipulate the laws and regulations to benefit themselves, often at the expense of the common good. Their actions are a threat to democracy and a source of moral corruption.
