GIVING THE WORKERS CRIMINAL INCLINATIONS

"Can you find conscientious workers," asks John Sparry, "train them to work efficiently and in a few months you in a few months, prospectively for generations, without discovering a character for sound citizenship in the new society, which can immediately co-operate in the enjoyment of the fruits of the labors of the whole, and that they are not only the most valuable citizens, but the best workers of the world."

The United Mine Workers, once driven from the mine property by the authorities, have come back, and are now again working there, and there is no reason why they should not live as they please. They are working to the best of their ability, and are not being taken advantage of by any one.

It is, therefore, not in the interest of the public to cause false alarms, and to create a false idea of the situation.

The United Mine Workers are working to the best of their ability, and are not being taken advantage of by any one.

DEFENDS COMING NATION ACT

One of the points which the present Administration has often taken to the public and to the press is: "This is a nation of friends, not of enemies."

Now, was it not that idea, that spirit of national patriotism, that beautiful concept which so many people have been instilling into the public mind, that brought us into the Second World War? It was not until the United States became involved in another world war that we realized the importance of these concepts.

The Party Page says: "The spirit of national patriotism is a vital link in the chain of friendship which binds together the nations of the world."

The Party Page also says: "This is a nation of friends, not of enemies."

The Party Page further says: "This is a nation of friends, not of enemies."

AGAIN, THE GLORY OF WAR!

Benjamin Harrison was one of the few men who have had the experience of seeing the two great modern wars. He has lived to see the glory of the American flag in battle, and to see the nation he loved, as his country is a living demonstration of the fact that this country is the greatest nation on earth.

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF MAIL MEN

There are at least two important problems that are coming to the attention of the people of Milwaukee and the nation at large. The first is the problem of labor, and the second is the problem of the mails.
