FOOD AND SUHR CASE UP TO GOVERNOR OF CALIFORNIA

Parodon Hearing Scheduled to Take Place in San Francisco on March 5th. I. W. W. Men Busy on the Job.

(Special to Solidarity)
San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 25. Ford and Suhr's freedom hangs on the decision of Gov. Johnson. Their cases will be heard in this city March 5. All the labor organizations and many of the radical and sentimental bodies will be represented by delegates, who will demand an unconditional pardon for these two men, whose only offense is that at Wheatland on the bloody Sunday, August 3, 1913, stood for solidarity of the working class. Gov. Johnson has already stated that the conditions against which they fought were such that the English language has no words to describe.

That staunch paper of the capitalists, the Sacramento Bee, declared that the methods of their convictions, the torture of men, the imprisonment of more than twenty without charges and the whole affair was "blot upon the State of California, a stain upon the nation and a blemish upon civilization itself."

Yet these two men have been nineteen months in jail and are now condemned to spend their lives in the penitentiary of Folsom.

Although one detective, Henry Cradlebaugh, was convicted and sentenced to one year in jail and a fine of $1,000 for brutally beating Alfred Nelson, while in his custody, Cradlebaugh did not serve a day or paid a dollar. He is a Burns detective.

Ford and Suhr belong to the working class.

In order that Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, of pickhandle fame, may not forget the interests of his real supporters—the ranchers of California—the I. W. W. have got out and have issued the following appeals:

FORD AND SUHR MUST BE FREE!
Therefore a boycott is on against the Hop-fields, Fruit Canners and all Ranching

Beware especially of Canned Goods made in California

Hoboes know how to act
BEWARE
California Canned Goods
Don't stick copper nails or tacks in Fruit Trees or Grape Vines
IT HURTS THEM

More reliance is placed upon the influence of these sticklers than upon all the eloquence which will be spilled by the heads of the labor bodies, the socialist clubs and the radical clubs and the kindly natures among the petty bourgeois. If Johnson could sit idly by for nineteen months, while these men lay in jail and prison it will be well to remember Ford and Suhr on the job. In the November issue of the International Socialist Review Dick Ford's wife asked that all workers remember Ford and Suhr on the job. In the December issue Suhr's wife showed the pretty home which Herman D. Suhr had provided out of his wages as a common laborer for her and his children and renewed the appeal to remember them on the job.

Well, if Johnson does not see to it that these men are unconditionally pardoned, there will be something doing in California.

Owing to the economic campaign of 1914, which cost the hop growers one million cool dollars, but Ralph Durst out of business, and showed the power of direct action. E. Clements Horst, the richest of the hop barons, will appear with members of the A. F. of L. to tell the governor that he does not think the boys had a fair trial. Had he made such a statement prior to the Marysville verdict, Ford and Suhr would be free.

DES MOINES UNEMPLOYED MAKING PROGRESS

(Special to Solidarity)
Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 23. The Des Moines unemployed have at last come into their own; that is, as far as the right to organize is concerned. Why even the authorities are helping us; the mayor, chief of police Crawford and others. Not through any love for the ONE BIG UNION, you may well believe. No, they are aiding us because of the pressure that has been brought to bear on them during the past two months, and because it makes them less trouble to accede to some of our demands. Of course we are wise enough to not ask them for the whole cheese, at the present stage of the game. We want the right to organize the workers unassisted by petty officials. The workers will do the rest later.

The members of the Unemployed League or the I. W. W. couldn't remain in the local bastle more than ten minutes now, short of a murder charge, owing to an oral agreement with the chief. "I'll let you know when I get any of your boys and you can send a man down to vouch for them. If I want them later I'll let you know," said the chief. We informed the chief that this would be agreeable, also that he was welcome to slap us up on any stov-burn caught soliciting money or food in the name of the Unemployed League who didn't have an official credential of the league. The result of this has been that numbers of unemployed who are persecuted by the cops because they haven't a red cent in their pocket are forced to join the League for their own protection. No stov-burn dead timer is allowed to join. We put doubtful cases on probation for a few days before we issue them an unemployed card. In this way, too, several stov-burns have been arrested and kicked out.

Up to date, more than $150 has been solicited for the Unemployed League, not to mention the mass of food, clothing and furniture that we have deprived the industrial departments of the Starvation Army and the Vultures of through our solicited activities. The good work still goes on and all the boys are doing their share nobly. "Beans" Donlan and "Shorty" Ames have proven themselves the peers of the commissary department.

ST. JOHN PLEASURES SIOUX CITY REBELS I. W. W. FREEZES OUT EADS HOW

Makes Good Talks That Help To Enlighten Workers Regarding The Labor Movement.

(Special to Solidarity)
Sioux City, Iowa, Feb. 23. The propaganda meetings held here Feb. 24 and 25 by Vincent B. Jobs were from every viewpoint except that of the boss, an unqualified success. On the 23rd, Crafts vs. Chase Unionism was dissected. The surface indications of modern industry were disregarded for the basis. The speaker, with a knowledge of conditions, the result of decades of experience in the storm centers of the labor war, in the most significant period of industrial history, with a keen insight into the hanks of emotionalism and an avuncular use of words only a logic inexorable as fate, showed class unionism as fate, and that late industrial organization and industrial management.

Last evening the subject was "The Workers' Road to Freedom." Fellow Worker St. John again used the same plan on the various methods advocated, without attacks on individuals and petty considerations, that the unthinkable consider causes, but which are the men who has gone to the heart of the significant facts are hidden, effects.

He analyzed the arguments for and against revolutions by guns, and revolutions by the ballot. He was rich in job as the place of present working class enslavement. He showed the job the only sufficient medium of working class emancipation. His conclusion was irrefragable. It was proof, as a proposition in geometry, and as devoid of surplus words and emotional fireworks, as it was rich in light on conditions and methods.

Both speakers were more like a clinic or the analysis of a chemist, than the average lecturer. Both were of immense benefit not merely to the organized, but also to the membership of the I. W. W. here, as giving a wider outlook, and a deeper insight into industry and the labor movement.

CONDITIONS AMONG OIL WORKERS

(Special to Solidarity)
Yale, Okla., Feb. 23. Recently I had been employed by the Textures in constructing a pipe line which extends from Tropic right to Yale, Okla., the construction of which was completed on Feb. 9. The very first day we worked, part of the slaves were compelled to walk eight and a half hours night working hours, in order to be able to finish the line to its right. This while some more of the slaves might be made and underneath the boilers in the pump stations.

This is one of the great American oil fields. There are others of the same kind in the gothic west. I cannot understand why the American workmen should holler about his great and glorious country. When I asked some of them why they did not organize, the answer was they were perfectly satisfied. Still this same bunch of workmen were dissatisfied with the conditions under which they had to work.

There were seven members of the Industrial Workers of the World employed on the same job, including myself, and you bet we found a comfortable place to sleep. We were furnished some very fine sleeping quarters in the home of the private family. When they discovered we were members of the I. W. W. it was too good for us. It is a plain fact: a member of the I. W. W. can get along fine when an unorganized working mutt will freeze and starve to death. The world has got to get credit for having a strong nerve.

I had some ideas as to how to revolt against those conditions, but when they found I was an I. W. W. member it was not long before I was out of there. The result was the claim that I was non-religious and I doubt if any one of the same bunch had seen a church in at least two years. But this bunch would like to do something to change those rotten conditions, and help bring about civilization.

HUGE LABOR ARMY TO BE FIELD

National Farm Labor Exchange Plans Systematic Organization Methods in Garnering This Year's Crop in West.

(Capitalist Press Report)
Omaha, Neb. Feb. 25. The 100,000 emergency harvest hands necessary for gathering the great western wheat crop will be handled with the speed and precision of a regular army if arrangements made last week in Omaha by the new National Farm Labor Exchange are carried out. The exchange is an organization of the wheat states of the central west to supervise the vaxing harvest hand problem and its work will be entirely free both to the farmers and the harvesters. Its board of directors composed of the state employment departments and state agricultural boards of the twelve big western wheat states—Missouri, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Montana.

All of these states took part in the organization of the exchange and are "winter members," but the membership is not to be curtailed to the farmers of those states. In fact, the organizers hope to extend the work to every state in the Union. Already the United States Bureau of Agriculture and the newly formed industrial relations commission have applied for representation in the exchange and they will co-operate in every way with the exchange.

All the big railroad systems which operate in the country west of the Missouri river and the chief of their industrial departments to the meeting, and all promised assistance in every way possible. Charles Mc Caffee, commissioner of immigration of the state of South Dakota, was made president of the exchange; E. S. Nolen, assistant commissioner of labor of North Dakota, vice president, and W. G. Ashton, secretary of the Oklahoma, secretary.

The sole object of the organization is to mobilize the great industrial army of 100,000 men in the grain raising states, that the movement toward the wheat fields of the country will not in any way interfere with the wheat harvest. The entire force will be concentrated in the districts where men are reared and where they are best adapted to be thrown into the Texas fields when the grain begins ripening in late August or early in June. As the harvest extends northward the harvest hands will keep pace with it, and badly needed for the wheat fields of northern North Dakota and Minnesota as the reapers and binders of the new exchange all that will be eliminated and the workers will keep right up with the wheat harvest.

THREE BIG CENTERS

In the great centers of harvesters will be formed—Kansas City on the south, Sioux City for the central division and at Minneapolis for the extreme northern state. These cities will be used as clearing houses both for labor and for farmers. It is proposed by the labor commissioners and the harvest hands to send out

SOME NOTES FROM SALT LAKE CITY

(Special to Solidarity)
Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 26. Salt 99 is again coming to the front and we are now holding street meetings when the weather will permit. Fellow Workers Burke, Grammer and Seely are doing good propaganda work on the street. The number of strikers is increasing, as much as 66 of literature and song books being sold in one day.

Fellow Worker Burke has pitched about two weeks ago, but when they found out that he had an I. W. W. card that was his undoing. That kind of hurt the dignity of the fly dick who pinched him, and the former had been waiting a long time for a chance to have Burke arrested and sent to the penitentiary. He arrived Feb. 25, when about six fly cops were taking notes of what the speaker was saying at our meeting. They said the speaker was using vulgar language. We showed them that was untrue. Burke was the truth. Fellow Worker Burke was being watched the most, and happened to be the fall guy. The same bull who pinched him previously arrested him again.

They had all the evidence down

What Every Mother Should Know

By Margaret Sanger
This is an ever good book of which we have only a few copies. The author has taken a number of articles beginning with "The Mother's Job on up to the human family in glory form" so the mother can show the process of reproduction in such a manner that, although the child is about the knowledge, she does not realize that it has received any "postnatal" instruction. 60 pages. 80c
