DISABLED SEAMAN SENT FROM ONE FAKER TO ANOTHER--IN VAIN

A seaman was rescued in New York by a Coast Guard after he had been tricked into sending over $10,000 by a fictitious agent. The seaman, who had been discharged from the service, was told by a man at the hospital that he had a disability and that he would be moved into the Army Health Service if he reported. After being admitted to the hospital, the man claimed to be a friend of the seaman and offered him a job in a nearby city. The seaman accepted the offer and sent the agent over $10,000 for a transfer. The agent then disappeared and the seaman was left with a bill for the hospital and his transportation back to New York. He was later rescued by the Coast Guard and returned to New York. The case is under investigation.
While Hoover Talks About Confidence

The Reds Say--

BY JIM ALLEN

We have noted with interest the recent comment in the Chamber of Commerce of New York that when people talk about the past, they almost always mean the past seven years. This is too bad, for the seven years of the present administration have been a period of great prosperity in the United States, and the recent depression has been evidenced mainly by an overproduction of goods.

The Chamber of Commerce report states that the economy of the United States is sound, and that the country is well prepared for a new depression. The report further states that the government should not interfere with the operation of the free market, but should only intervene in cases of emergency.

The report also states that the government should not interfere with the operation of the free market, but should only intervene in cases of emergency. The government should not interfere with the operation of the free market, but should only intervene in cases of emergency.
