Outlawing Communist Party in Alabama

The bosses and the businessmen in Alabama have launched a state-wide attack on the Communist Party. For organizing the workers in the mines and mills of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Steel industry, for fighting against the blacklisting of members of the party, for organizing the Negro and white workers in the steel industry, for fighting against the discrimination against the Negro workers, for attacking the plants of the Du Pont Company, and for attacking the mills of the Celotex Corporation, the Alabama Legislature has passed a law that will outlaw the Communist Party in the state of Alabama.

The new law is a victory for the bosses and the businessmen, who have been fighting against the Communist Party for a long time. The bosses and the businessmen have been trying to suppress the power of the workers and the workers have been fighting back.
