Protest Against State Lynching Grows Rapidly

Workers Defense Attorney Visits Boys in B'hams Jail; Demand New Trial With Negro Jurors; Protest Meeting In Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — A protest meeting, under the leadership of the League of Struggle for Negro Rights, against the state lynching of the eight young Negroes. While lynching is still a part of the legal system in Southern States, there is a growing voice of protest against the manner of the Southern ruling class. This is an attempt to force Southern States to adopt the law of the land. This state lynching is one of the most serious and dangerous forms of lynching in the South.

The meeting was held in the First Unitarian Church and was attended by several hundred people. The speakers included members of the League of Struggle for Negro Rights, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and other organizations. The meeting was well-organized and well-attended, with many people expressing their support for the struggle against lynching.

The speakers emphasized the importance of educating the public about the dangers of lynching and the need for immediate action to end this scourge. They also called for the abolition of the death penalty and the protection of civil rights for all people.

The meeting was a significant step in the fight against lynching and a testament to the determination of the people of the South to stand up against this evil. The League of Struggle for Negro Rights and other organizations will continue to work towards a world where lynching is a thing of the past.

New Pamphlet On Youth In Industry

Youth in Industry, a pamphlet giving a clear picture of the life of the American youth workers. It is the story of Tom, a young American, who is a worker but had to take a job in a mill at 16. The book begins early in the morning when Tom is up at six and goes to work at seven. He is one of the many who are forced to work long hours and at low wages. The book shows that a job that you have, if you are “lucky” enough to have one.
