Some of the men in charge came and told them that the dinner had to be delayed for a while. They were waiting for some time when they were sent down to find out why. The dinner was not forthcoming. They returned with sad faces and announced that a real strike was on. The waiters, cooks and the entire kitchen force thought this a good opportunity to go out on strike and hit the management of the club and they walked out in a body.

LABOR PLANKS IN A SOCIAL PLATFORM

National Conference of Charities Outlines Tentative Program of Reforms.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 13.—A fortnight before the Republican and Democratic parties put forward their platforms, the philanthropic and reform organizations of America, meeting here from today until June 19 in connection with the National Conference of Charities and Correction, are hammering down what they call "labor planks in a social program."

In the past various social service organizations have adopted certain standards. The National Consumers' League has stood for standards of hours and health for women labor; the National Child Labor Committee for standards of age and literacy for child workers, the tuberculosis and health associations for standards of industrial hygiene.

As a result of this week's meetings, all these standards are to be merged into a common program of minimums for which philanthropic forces of America can unitedly stand, and which they will seek to have embodied in the national programs of the two old parties.

The results of three years' work by a committee of the National Conference of Charities and Correction were put forward this evening by the chairman, Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the National Child Labor Committee.

The National Conference itself does not adopt resolutions, but at an all-day conference next week, at which representatives of various national and State organizations will be present, the final draft of the platform will be adopted by this special representative meeting.

The committee which has drafted the platform includes among others the Rev. John A. Ryan, St. Paul's Seminary, St. Paul, Representative William B. Wilson, Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the Women's Trade Union League, Dr. John B. Andrews, secretary of the National Association for Labor Legislation, Julius Henry Chen, attorney for the "loak suit" and "coat manufacturers" Association, and John Golden, of the United Textile Workers, Dr. Alice Hamilton, medical officer of the Illinois Occupational Diseases Commission, Edward T. Devine, general secretary of the New York Charity Organization Society, Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League, V. Everett Macy, of New York, Rev. Charles B. Macfarland, secretary for the Commission on Social Service of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; Harry Thomas, of Cleveland, and Prof. Walter Rauschenbach, of Rochester.

PITTSBURG HAS GIRL BOOTBLACKS

Male Artists in Women's Department of Shoe Stores Were Inclined to "Get Above Their Business."

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 13. Bootblacks of the feminine gender have been installed in the women's departments of several of the big downtown shoe stores because of the numerous complaints of members of the fair sex that the "shine artists," when touching up their dainty footgear, are inclined to "get above their business."

Because the tight fitting hobble skirt opens up a wide vista of shoe expanses, women have been increasing their pedal armamentarium in shoes some sizes smaller than nature intended they should wear. As a result of this pinching process corns and bunions and other miscellaneous ills that women's feet are heir to have increased rapidly.

When tips were not coming fast enough the "male artists" would attack their task with viciousness. The lack of gentleness on the part of the brush wielders was another of the reasons for the employment of girls.

Most of the feminine "shine artists" are girls of foreign birth, and although they have not as yet reached the same degree of proficiency with the brushes as the boys possessed, the women patrons of the stores are well pleased, as they no longer need sit out the shine with a hectic dash on the countenance and a mild remonstrance on the lips.

ETTOR-GIOVANNITTI PROTESTS IN EUROPE

PARIS, June 3. The Socialists and union organizations in France and England, and, indeed, throughout Europe, are organizing protest meetings against the absurd charges brought by the Massachusetts authorities against Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti. In France, especially the case is being compared with that of Comrade Durand, accused upon just such flimsy evidence, of moral complicity in the killing of a scab. The French workers regard the Ettor-Giovanitti case as a conspiracy against the militant working class movement of the United States.

Registered letters of protest will be sent to President Taft and to Governor Foss, of Massachusetts.

The French organizations are also calling for contributions to be forwarded to the defense fund.

DIES SUDDENLY ON BOAT

Herman Hoppe, 65 years old, a merchant of 412 West 21st street, died suddenly yesterday morning on board the steamboat Sirius at Pier 53, North River. The coroner was notified and the body removed to the Charles Street police station. Hoppe died from natural causes.

WASHINGTON HAS NO FAITH IN CUBA

Officials Think Gomez Is Not Sincere in Attitude Toward Rebels.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Faith in the sincerity of the Cuban Government in the present crisis in that republic is lessening each day in Washington. The news that General Montenegro has extended the amnesty to the rebels has strengthened the conviction here that the Gomez Government is bidding for peace and will consent to deal with the rebels.

That General Montenegro should at this stage of the proceedings give the rebels until June 22 to lay down their arms and receive full pardon is regarded here as preposterous. The rebels had previously had two weeks in which to surrender under the same condition. Many are now inclined to believe statements made in Havana that the Gomez Government is ready to buy off Estinos and Ivenets, the men leading the uprising.

The charge was deliberately made here today that President Gomez is playing for a position from which he can ask the consent of the United States to loan to his government. The sanction of the United States is necessary to any loan to the Cuban Government. For this purpose, it is charged, he is permitting the uprising to run along and will later claim that the expense of putting it down has so impoverished the government that it must have a loan. It may be stated, however, that the State Department will have to be "shown" when it comes to the question of further loans to the present Government of Cuba.

Reports are being given out daily from General Montenegro's headquarters in Santiago purporting to describe encounters between the government soldiers and the rebels. Yet there is no evidence that a single rebel leader has been killed or captured or even that any one of them has been pursued or attacked.

It is known here that the Cuban Government is turning to its own advantage the fact that Ferrara was received in the House of Representatives and permitted to make a speech before the House. In this speech the Cuban speaker practically attacked the policy of the United States toward Cuba. Tonight the Cuban speaker and his wife are guests of Secretary of State Knox at his residence. The dinner is not an official function.

CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER ELEVATOR

Frank B. Willis, engineer of the Hotel Marquis, at 12 East 31st street, was crushed to death on the fifth floor of that hostelry yesterday as he was about to crawl under the elevator to repair it. The cable loosened and, as it descended, pinioned him between the elevator and corridor floor.

Six women guests at the hotel, waiting on the floor below for the other car, heard the cry of the engineer as the car struck him. Several of them screamed and attracted the manager, Policeman Dobbin was called, and, aided by hotel employees, raised the lift and extracted the man's body.

BURY ARMY AVIATOR

conditions of the day's labor; with premature employment, unemployment, incapacity and other factors which shorten or impair the length of the working life; with wages as the basis which work affords for a normal standard of home life; with wise taxation and other community conditions which in our industrial centers exploit workers; with insurance against those risks of trade—death, injury, occupational disease—which break in upon the working years and wipe out earnings; and with protection against poverty in old age when productive labor is ended.

Facts Should Be Known.

The community has a right to complete knowledge of the facts of work.

The community can cause to be formulated minimum occupational standards below which work is carried on only at a human deficit.

The community should bring such subnormal industrial conditions within the scope of governmental action and control in the same way subnormal sanitary conditions are subject to public regulation, and for the same reason—because they threaten general welfare.

Such minimum standards in relation to wages, hours, housing, safety and health, term of working life, and workman's compensation are called for if the United States is to keep abreast with the social statesmanship of other great industrial nations; they are counseled by physicians and neurologists who have studied the effect of overstrain upon health; by economists who have analyzed the extravagance of unskilled labor, excessive hours and low pay, and by social workers who deal with the human wastes of industry through relief societies, or through orphanages, hospitals, insane asylums and almshouses.

The planks were set forth under six main heads. In support of each plank, Lovejoy presented to the conference a digest of the experience of the world, he quoted from federal and State labor reports, from reports of stockholders' committees, reports of hospitals, church, civic bodies, labor unions and employers' associations—an unusual rounding up of testimony.

$89,000,000 NEEDED TO RESCUE COUNTRY

J. P. Morgan and U. S. Treasury Sent This Sum to Banks During Panic.

J. P. Morgan & Co. sent to the Money Trust probers yesterday afternoon a statement showing the amounts agreed to be loaned and the sums actually loaned to banks out of the $23,550,000 advanced by Morgan and his friends to put a stop to the fall panic during the last administration of President Roosevelt. Of this amount the banks got $18,945,000 and the relief came almost instantly.

Samuel Untermyer, the committee's prober in chief, had read into the record a statement setting forth the amounts deposited by the Subtreasury in banks, October 22, 23, 24 and 25, 1907, and the daily amounts deposited on the days October 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30.

George B. Cortelyou, president of the Consolidated Gas Company, former Secretary of the Treasury, explained at the morning session the part that the government took in allaying the panic by sending $42,000,000 to national banks in this city and $28,000,000 to banks in other parts of the country. He was the principal witness of the day.

He said that while he was in the cabinet he came to New York on the evening of October 22, 1907, and was met in Jersey City by Assistant Treasurer Hamilton Fish, who had notified him that some New York bankers wanted to see him at the Hotel Manhattan.

That night, he said, he had a talk with J. P. Morgan, James Stillman, Frank A. Vanderlip, A. Barton Hepburn, George W. Perkins, George F. Baker and others and gave his word to the bankers that he would do all that he possibly could to bring about relief in the financial situation. He then issued a statement, he said, as a result of the conference, that the government would at once put $25,000,000 at the disposal of New York in addition to $6,000,000 which he had on October 22 ordered sent in six $1,000,000 lots to as many banks.

He declared that nothing was agreed upon at the conferences exactly where the money was to go, neither was there and differentiation between strictly commercial business and relieving the tightness of the money market on the Stock Exchange.

Cortelyou pointed out that it was necessary in the placing of the money to send it to the banks, that would be able to put up the necessary collateral.

There was much fencing between Cortelyou and Untermyer during the examination as to whether or not a "Yes" or "No" constituted a perfectly satisfactory answer to questions.

Cortelyou said he couldn't remember some of the details of placing the money in the banks and remembered that the deposits were made on the morning of October 24. The records of government deposits were produced and the former Secretary said that Untermyer could work out the answer to his questions as to where the cash was deposited. Cortelyou explained that the $25,000,000 he sent to the New York banks was not necessarily the same money that was loaned on the exchange, saying that at least $10,000,000 of the amount, it was understood, was intended for the relief of trust companies. He said altogether $25,000,000 of government funds had been used at that time for the relief of banks and trust companies. The principal relief work, he admitted, was carried on by Morgan.

James B. Mahon, president of the Stock Exchange, had another interesting session on the stand in the afternoon at the hands of Untermyer. It was mostly on the curb market.

ROBBER OF KOEPEINICK NOT DEAD AFTER ALL

BERLIN, June 13.—Wilhelm Voigt, the robber of Koepenick, a shoemaker and an ex-convict, who in 1905 visited Koepenick, posing as an army captain, and arrested the Mayor and Burgomaster and sent them away under guard and then looted the town treasury, has succeeded again in beating the newspapers.

Yesterday's papers published a statement that Voigt, who served four years in prison for his capture in Koepenick, had died in London on June 9. Voigt is very much alive, he himself spread the report for the purpose of again attracting national attention to himself.

A cable dispatch yesterday reported the death in a London charity hospital of Wilhelm Voigt, who, for all that he was a cheap professional thief, an ex-convict, and a humbler cobbler, once set all Germany rocking with Homeric laughter, sent a smile around the world and incidentally brought about certain significant reforms in the Kaiser's realm.

Voigt was the "Captain of Koepenick" who in 1906 captured the Berlin suburb of that name, arrested the Mayor and the Town Treasurer, and then appropriated the town treasury, amounting to about $1,000,000. He got away and was at liberty until the patient identification methods of the police ran him down a week later. He was subsequently sentenced to years' imprisonment for his act, which was mitigated by the influence of the German Emperor, who was fascinated by the audacity of the man. He fled in this country two years ago and the immigration authorities found him and he was returned to Germany.

Voigt was 57 years old when he executed his famous coup and seven years of his life had been spent in prison. He was not a great criminal, nor a resourceful one, but rather to the delinquent class than to the higher orders. He looked on like an army officer, as it is generally to look, short, stout, slovenly in appearance, a stranger to soap and water, a rare acquaintance of the barber, toothless, broken-nosed, sunken-eyed.

He had learned cobbling in prison, his hands displayed the signs of it in the gaol, seamed, scoured, and there was nothing of the military about him except his knowledge of his own military term, his reading in prison and his observation.

He had analyzed the awe in which military establishments is regarded in Fatherland. He knew that the suspicion of military rank would strike and prevent any inquisitive civilians mindful of the strictest laws of the subject.

COUNSEL AT STEEL HEARING IN CLASH

Lindabury Says Opponent Put Words in Witness' Mouth.

Judge Jacob M. Dickinson, who used to be Secretary of War before he got into the suit which the government has started to "dissolve" the United States Steel Corporation, slipped back into his fighting togs yesterday morning and before he got through he had boomed Richard V. Lindabury, counsel for the defendant, into silence.

The break in the usually urbane attitude of counsel came during the testimony of J. B. Reynolds, vice president of the Pennsylvania Steel Company as to competition in the trade. He had said that during the early nineties the state of competition was such as to make it impossible for most of the companies in the steel business to garner any profits.

"You are misdirecting the witness, then?" "I know of no one here who has done that any more than you have," said Judge Dickinson, and glared at the opposing chief counsel.

"I object to your taking advantage of the fact that there is no judge present to rule on these matters. You have practiced law long enough to know—" "I don't propose to submit to any personal criticism," roared Judge Dickinson, rising to his feet and thrusting his hands into his trousers pockets.

"What was the Bessemer Company?" "That was the company which afterward became the Troy Steel and Iron Company."

"The situation looked hopeless. Night was approaching, and the danger of the vessel foundering with all hands increased," ordered the lifeboat, provisioned and launched over the side. At 7 p.m. all hands took to the boat and rowed away from the vessel's side, laid to, head to the sea.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 13.—The final decree was entered today by the United States Circuit Court by Judges Gray, Buffington and McPherson in the government suit against E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., et al., providing for "dissolution" of the alleged combination.

(1902 Delaware corporation), Hazard Powder Company, Delaware Securities Company, Delaware Investment Company, Eastern Dynamite Company, California Investment Company, and Judson Dynamite and Powder Company.

3,500 DELEGATES AT RAILWAY CONGRESS

Lay Blame for Most Accidents on Shoulders of Rail Makers.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13.—The National Railway Congress in session here disavows, for the trained experts who supervise the construction of railroad motive power and rolling stock, any responsibility for the railroad accidents during the past year.

Delegates of Southern and Western roads, during a discussion on train brakes and signal equipment, in executive session, declared that responsibility for the succession of derailments and other accidents since the convention of last year rested with the rail manufacturers, and pointed to the quality of steel cars under the most severe tests as proof of the high degree of efficiency that has been attained in the construction of rolling stock.

President Stewart in his annual address pleaded for harmony among all branches of the railroad world and made the unqualified assertion that the work of the master car builders contributed more largely than that of any other organization to the safety of the traveling public and the advancement of railroading.

Radicals of all varieties participated in a symposium on syndicalism at the second anniversary of the Francisco Ferrer Association, held last night at the Cafe Boulevard for the purpose of discussing the why and wherefore of the new radical movement that has become the burning question among labor circles.

The history of syndicalism was thoroughly dissected by William English Walling, who, in describing the beginning of the movement in America, told how the class struggle between the workers and the capitalists is the real foundation of syndicalism.

PIPE LINES ARE COMMON CARRIERS

Oil Transporting Firms Ordered to File Schedules by Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today held that pipe line companies transporting oil between the States are common carriers with the obligations of such, and ordered thirteen of the largest oil pipe lines to file schedules of rates by September 1, and to comply with the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act.

It is the conclusion of the commission that Congress, in designating oil pipe lines as "common carriers," means precisely what was said in the statute. "The commission holds: That the obligations of a common carrier are imposed upon a pipe line engaged in the transportation of oil in interstate commerce, even though such pipe line was built over its privately acquired right of way and transports only its own oil."

That such traffic is not divested of its interstate character by placing the ownership of the pipe line in different corporations in each State through which the transportation passes, or by transferring title to the oil to each of such corporations as the oil enters the pipes of that corporation.

That the transportation by the New York Transit Company in New Jersey and the National Transit Company in New Jersey and Maryland, prior to November 1, 1905, was transportation by these corporations, as common carriers.
