BOOMING DEBS.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS WILL TRY TO BORE HIM INTO GOMPERS'S JOB.

"Socialistic" Political Resolution Adopted by the Essex Trades Council-Disruption of the Council Threatened As a Consequence of Such "Union-Wrecking Proceed-

Newark, N. J., Nov. 24.—The Social Democratic "borers from within" are hard at it here. On Friday evening there was a meeting of the Essex Trades Council for the purpose of instructing its delegate to the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, to be the American Federation of Labor, to be held at Scranton, Pa., December 5. Henry Hilfers of the Cigarmakers' Union will represent the council at the convention. Hilfers was present and had been loaded up with all kinds of instructions when Delegate Coffee moved that Hilfers be instructed to vote against the relection of Gompers as president of the A. F. of Hell. A Gompers adherent jumped up and excitedly shouted "Can you name a better man?" Then the cat jumped out of the bag.

"Yes, I can," said Delegate Jones. "Eugene V. Debs is the man we want."

"The gentleman is out of order!" cried a dozen voices.

"The gentleman is out of order." cried a dozen voices.

"We are not going to Scranton to elect a Socialist!" cried others.

Delegate McHugh, of the Allied Printing Trades, was recognized by the chair.

"I am not a Socialist," he began, but no more could be heard, as there was a storm of hisses and Delegates Neben, Jones, Milistein, Gustel, McIntosh, Gottlob and Freeman were on their feet all talking at once. Debs's name was heard above the noise, and McHugh continued to say something about Gompers being above the noise, and McHugh continued to say something about Gompers being "true blue." Delegate Muirhead cried "Point of order!" but his demand was not heard. Pandemonium reigned. It was fully ten minutes before the raps of the chairman's gavel could be heard. When order had been partly restored the matter was laid on the table.

The commettion caused by the mention matter was laid on the table.

The commotion caused by the mention of Debs's name, however, was not to be compared with that which followed the reading of a political resolution. It was anneed to the secretary by Delegate Millstein, of the Hatters' Union.

The resolution which caused the trouble is as follows:

"Whereas, The ownership at the means of production—land, mines, factories, railroads, etc.—is rapidly being concentrated into the hands of a smaller and smaller number of people, and the

and smaller number of people, and the class line between capitalists and working men is being more and more clearly

Whereas, The capitalistic class is clearly conscious of its class interest and uses the powers of government to advance its interests at the expense of the working class through legislative bodies which defeat labor bills, but enact laws demanded by great corporations; through courts which declare labor laws uncon-stitutional and issue injunctioons against who neglect the enforcement of laws for the protection of the working class, but who use the police, militia and the federal troops to crush strikes; and "Whereas, In all conflicts between labor and capital the Republican and Democratic parties have process and

Democratic parties have proven them-selves to be equally subservient to the desires of the capitalistic clars and equally callons to the sufferings of the working class: be it, therefore,

"Resolved. That this convention calls upon the workingmen of the United States to units for independent political action in a party, having as its avowed w of the canitalisti object the overtarow of the capitalistic system of production and the establishment of the co-operative commonwealth; that is, the public ownership and operation of the means of production and distribution for public service instead of private profit."

As soon as the resolution was read on as the resolution was read

Henry J. Gottlob of the Typographeal Union jumped up to speak against it. He was greeted with hisses, hoots and cat-calls.

"I see we have a lot of snakes and geese in this room to-night," said Gott-lob.

Mr. Gottlob is the editor of our bulletin." cried Millstein. "and is an edu-cated man. What do you think of him calling his fellow-delegates geese and snakes? What do you think of that? "Mr President." cried Gottlob, "there are only two things on this earth that hiss, and they are geese and snakes, and there has been hissing here to-night. Order was restored, and Gottlob con-

"That reolution cannot be entertained by this body," he said, "It is purely a political matter, and politics are not al-lowed on this floor. If that resolution is passed it will be the opening wedge for the disruption of this council. This for the disruption of this conneil. This may be one of the causes for my union being withdran from the body."

Several delegates interrupted Gotttloh and from that time until the close of the meeting there were never less than three or four delegates on the floor at one time. Delegate McIntosh claimed that such resolutions were enterthined by all labor bodies throughout the United States. Others called it a "Socialist" resolution. A motion as made that it be adopted. This was amended that it adopted. This was amended that it laid on the table, while others wanted it put off until next meeting. No one was recognized by the chair, and every one talked at once.

should be referred to the Resolution Committee, which should report at the same meeting. This committee consisted of Delegates Gottlob, Ryan and McIn tosh. The latter favored the items tion, the other two opposed. Anticipat-ing the result before considering the matter, Delegates McIntosh said he was prepared to give a minority report im-mediately. The other two committeemediately. The other two committee-men retired and upon re-entering the room reported against the resolution. McIntosh's report favored it. Motions to adopt both resolutions were offered at the same time. Almost as quickly amendments were offered to both mo-tions, then the amendments were Meantime another delegate had revived the political clause in the by-laws prohibiting all politics in the council. The chairman sustained the point raised and declared the resolution order. His decision was appealed from, and he was overruled. Another point of order was raised, stating that all political resolutions must come from a union. It was claimed that Millstein did not have the authority of his union back of him in introducing the docu-ment. Again, the chair sustained the point and declared the resolution out of order, but again the majority voted against the chair.

Finally, during the heat of the argument, one of the delegates moved that the resolution be adopted as read. A dozen voices seconded the motion, and the shouts of "aye" could be heard a block away. When the negative was called for not a voice was heard for an instant, then Delegate Gottlob sang out a lonely "no."

The victors set up a shout that drowned the protests of the opposition. When McHugh went to the chairman's desk and demanded that he be recorded as voting "no" on the resolution, and that it be recorded in the minutes. Other delegates followed suit, and, without waiting for adjournment, most of the delegates left the hall. Several of the delegate's declared their unions would not stand and such Union-wrecking resolutions.

"LAW AND ORDER."

Boston, Mass., Nov. 25.—Cultured rowdyism ran riot in the streets of Bos-ton Saturday night. Crowds of halfdrunken students took possession of the down-town streets early in the evening, and until a late hour succeeded in cre-ating a perfect bedlam. Street-car traf-fic was impeded, people were hustled and jostled about by "flying wedges" and the air rang loud with wild shouts and cheers. Such scenes of drunkendrunken students took possession of the and cheers. Such scenes of drunken-ness and riot have seldom been equalled in Boston.

The victory of the Harvard football team sent the students into a perfect frensy. In the notel district, on Boyl-Tremont and Washington streets. the students had free sway and the po-lice did not attempt to interfere. In the refined brothels, designated hotels, the most riotous scenes of debauchery took place. Wine and liquors flowed like water, and students and women alike, were permitted to indulge in the wildest extravagances. The streets in front of the hotels were completely filled with yelling, screaming students, crazed with victory and drink. Towards midnight the rioting increased. Fisticuffs were continual, and assaults on innocent citizens who objected to be ing jostled and walked on were com some indignant citizens persisted in having the rioters arrested. In the Legrange Street Court they were let off with light fines or simply a "reprimand."

That such wild scenes of riot and discharge should be sampled without lifter.

order should be permitted without inter-ference on the part of the police, plainly shows the purpose of capitalist "law and order" government. All the pre-tences at maintaining law and order are exposed by such scenes as those of Saturday night. A street-corner meeting of orderly, thoughtful workingmen is a distartance of the peace, the speakers are arrested and the the meeting dispersed. The peaceful marching of a body of steiking positions. persed. The peaceful marching of a body of striking workingmen on the public highway is a riot, punished by the foul murder of eighteen of the marchers. But the wild rioting of several thousand drunken students, made crazy by victory in a brutal game of footba smiled upon and mildly encouraged by the police. Law and order is for th purpose of keeping the working-class in submission, that they may be the mor-readily fleeced by the capitalists.

Clothing Trade Combine.

Chicago, Nov. 26.-Wholesale clothing merchants of Chicago have combined with those of New York and other East ern cities in the formation of a National Credit Bureau. The office of a so called actuary will be opened in the city on Dec. 1. Fully $150,000,000 and possibly $200,000,000 capital is represented in this combination. There are thirty-three wholesale clothing houses Chicago, and twenty-eight have joined. Associated with them are the houses of New York, Rochester, Baltimore, Phil-adelphia, Syracuse, Utica and Buffalo. This leaves in the wholesale clothing market of the United States only Cincinnati and St. Louis, and both of thes cities, the promoters say, will be brought into the combine within the next six

It is denied that the combine was in the nature of a trust to dictate prices. It is admitted that a plan to prevent discounts has been under consideration. This is an indirect method of maintaining prices, but the wholesalers say the could have little or no effect upon the recognized by the chair, and every cost of clothing to the consumer. A WAGE SLAVE'S END.

AGED GARMENT WORKER DIES AT HER TOIL,

The Garment on Which She Sewed Dyed With Her Life's Blood-After Five Long Years the Roar and Clatter of the Machines Ceases to Assail Her Ears.

Yesterday morning amid the roar and clatter of the machines in the cloak fac-tory of Jacob Blustein, at No. 3 West Fourth street, sat an old woman crouched over her work. She was putting the finishing touches to a heavy overcoat which she held in her lap. The needle, plied by her toil-worn misshapen fingers, pierced the thick goods with marvelous rapidity. The piece-work system of the weat shop spurred ber on.

For five long weary years this old woman, whose name was Adelaide Bar-one, had crouched there day after day at her toil. Always, there was a pile of heavy garments before her that never seemed to be reduced in size. The wonan was as much a fixture of the fac tory as the machines by which she was surrounded, and like the machinery she too at last wore out.

Soon after 9 o'clock yesterday morning the old woman faltered in her work The roar did not affect her ears as usual There was a blur in front of her eyes Her thin, misshapen fingers refused to inswer the mandates of her tired brain. Piercing the goods with a needle became like driving a nail into hard wood.

The old woman struggled on, although the blur before her eyes grew heavier and the roar of the machines sounded fainter in her ears. For nearly an hour she fought against she knew not what. At last she could no longer see. The roar of the machines had diminished to a sound like the whisper of wind through the pines.

The gray head dropped forward. A gush of blood came from her mouth and dyed the lining of the garment she held. She fell to the floor dead, and later in the day the timekeeper of the factory crossed off the payroll the name of Adelaide Barone who had labored her ife away. Her frail body was taken to the Mercer street station and stretched on the floor of the squad room. Now that the roar and rattle had forever ceased to assail the ears, the seamed face was quite tranquil. The knotted, needle-punctured hands were folded across the wasted breast. For the first time in half a century Adelaide Barone was resting.

The "home" of this aged slave of toil was at No. 23 Sullivan street on the top floor of a tenement house. There are three rooms in the "suite" of the Barones. There lived the old woman who died at her work, her two daughters, her son-in-law and her grandaughter.

The two daughters were at work yesterday. The son-in-law was looking for work. The grandaughter was—none knew where. When the daughters reached home last night and learned the fate of their mother their grief was increased with the thought that they might not be able to give her "decent" burial. Many times in the last five years had she been the sole suport of the four she loved in the tenement-house in Sullivan street. Through the bitter cold of winter, through the blasting heat of summer she trudged daily to her toil, Rest came to her at last, and the coat she spoiled in dying is not the only one that was stained with her life's It may be that the damage to the last one will be charged against the poor pittance which her relatives may col-

The people back of the project have it is asserted, fixed upon the Reading to head the combination.

Already the stock ticker has shown that the deal is under way. Reading stock has had a continued and steady risc, while Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley have also had advances. The combination is said to include the Reading, Jersey Central and Lehigh Val-ley, and the announcement that Reading has secured a controlling interest in Lehigh is expected any day.

A year ago the Reading "acquired" the Jersey Central just as it now proposes to acquire the Lehigh Valley.

The three roads named produce more than one-half the total out-put and the impending close consolidation would make the Reading the dominant factor—and as J. P. Morgan owns the Reading, the hard coal and steel output could be regulated by the same lever.

The Reading has a total of 1,000 miles and produces 16,000,000 tons of hard coal annually; the Lehigh Valley with a trackage of 1.398 miles, has a tonuage of 4,000,000 annually, while the Jersey Central, with 677 miles, has a yearly tonnage output of 6,000,000.

ASSISTANCE ASKED.

To Meet the Concerted Attack of Organized Scabbery Upon the Abend-Blatt. To the Members of the Socialist

Labor Party and of the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance, and to all those in touch and in sympathy with our The "Abendblatt," the Jewish organ of the S. L. P. and S. T. And L. A. is engaged in a fierce battle with the enemy and it needs your immediate and substantial assistance. The history of the fight you are all more or less familiar with-it having been published in the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE from time to time. We deem it proper however, to briefly review the case in order to impress upon you the weighty matters at stake and the odds we have to con tend with.

The trouble started with the eigarette makers' strike. This strike like so many others under the management of the labor lieutenants bears the ear-marks of the usual methods of the Organized Scabbery. The strike was instigated by the small cigarette-manufacturers on the East Side, who were chafing under the high pressure competition of the American Tobbacco Company; the American Tobacco Company having recently started to manufacture a few brands of Russian cigarettes which threatened to annihilate these small manufacturers who previously had the Russian cigarette field all to themselves. The issue used to bluff the men into the strike was that they should oppose the introduction of the new machinery which the American Tobacco Company was then intry. All in all there were about thirtyfive men on strike out of a total several thousand in the employ of the American Tobacco Company.

With this fake strike on their hands
the men in the Organized Scabbery could never have expected anything but a sound drubbing and a ruthless ex-posure of their trencherous and mischievous schemes, from either the "Abendblatt" or any other S. L. P organ. Our language all along has been very plain with reference to these corrupt methods of a sir and simpledon. But the S. D. P. and Kangaroo element allied with these fakirs thought they could make capital out of this strike, and it was they who influenced the Organized Scabbery fakirs to de-mand of the "Abendblatt" that it throw out the American Tobacco Company's cigarette advertisement. A daring piece of effrontery indeed! For the Organized Scabbery, under these circumstances to demand and insist on getting support from an S. L. P. and S. T. and L. A. paper is almost as shocking as if our Cammany City officials would insist that the S. L. P. contribute to Tammany' campaign fund so that its heelers might have plenty of dough to do the good work on election day.

Of course, the "Abendblatt" gave these fakirs no recognition. They there upon boycotted the "Abendblatt." Now the compositors who were in the employ of the "Abendblatt," members of the of the "Abendblatt," members of the Hebrew Typographical Union, which is affiliated with the United Hebrew Trades, the Jewish wing of the Or-ganized Scabbery in New York, were ordered by the U. H. T. to leave the 'Abendblatt" and endorse their boycott The compositors evaded the issue for some time. They were in a dilemma. While in reality they were body and soul with the rest of the Scabbery crew, still the jobs in the "Abendblatt" were too good a cinch to let go. They there-fore sat on the fence as long as they could but finally when pushed to the wall, by the U. H. T. they refused to endorse the boycott, and yet they forgot to withdraw their representative from the boycott committee of the United Hebrews Trades. 'Again and again were they warned by the "Abendblatt" that their duplicity will not be tolerated much longer but it was all to no purpose. At last the "Abendblatt" resolved to harbor no longer these treacherous snakes within its own bosom. It kicked them out, and they were immediately received with open arms by the United Hebrew Trades, the very organization that had just previously expelled them for refusing to endorse their boycott. To-day the "Abendblatt" establishment is manned throughout by Alliance me and no impure hand that is tainted with the corruption of the Organized Scab-bery will ever set another line of type on that paper.
This is the situation. All the crook and fakirs, the Kangaroo lawyers, and the S. D. P. liars are banded together, working with might and main to down the "Abendblatt." It's up to you, men of the S. L. P. and S. T. and L. A. to show them that they can't do it. need your immediate help. Send all con-tributions to the "Abendblat," 9 Rut-gers street, New York. A FAKIR LIE.

TRIED TO CREATE THE IMPRES-SION THAT SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY MEN WERE MORRED.

Asserts that They are Anarchists-Emma Goldman and How She Figures in the Case-A Challenge

Pittsburg, Nov. 16. - The follow ing article taken from the front page of the Pittsburg "Labor World" of October 30, not only shows the desperate straits that the Pitts-burg labor fakirs are in; but for deliberate and vicious lying it could not be exceeded. CHASED HIM OUT.

ATTEMPTS TO DISRUPT UNION.

Organizer Reno, of the Miners, Re lates an Interesting Incident. Applauders of Emma Goldmann Exposed. Worning to Workinmen.

Organizers of the Pittsburg district of the United Mine Workers' state that their work is greatly interfered with by an element of so-called social ists, who, in reality, are claimed to be anarch sts. Organizers Reno and Edwards have had some exciting times with the blatant representatives of this element. There are more of them up the Monongahela valley section than in any other part of the district, and a few days ago the two gentlemen nam ed met with two of the recognized leaders of the disturbers in question. The latter of course, are opposed trades unions, and in fact any of the systems of a concilatory nature. .

Mr. Reno the other day expressed himself frankly regarding these advocates of disruption, and said: "We had a meeting of miners at Suterville, up the Yough, a few days ago when two of these anarchistic advocates named Goff and Schulberg, made their appearance. I recognized Goff and ascked him if he was not the man who took the scabs to the Monongahela tin mill during the late strike. He could not deny it, and I have information that when he was taking these scabs where he got off the train at Hazelwood, being afraid to go further with them. In reply, these anarchists who claim to be socialists, had little or nothing to say. But I was determined to expose them as far as possible, and I began to tell the miners exactly what I knew about them. I told the miners some time ago there was an aarchist meeting addressed by Emma Goldman at Fayette City, up the Monongahela river, and that both Goff and Schulberg were there wearing red buttons. I turned to Schulberg and said: 'Were you not there? and did you not cheer and applaud the anarchistic and diabolical utterances of Emma Goldman? He couldn't deny it, and just as soon as my hearers were convinced of the truth of what I was saying they set to work and chased Schulberg out of Suterville. Men, women and children were after him, and he fied like a skulking whipped cur. Rotten eggs and brick bats were thrown after

"I regret to say that these incendi-ary characters wield more or less influence over Americans. Many of the latter in our district are led away by the blatant treason that these fellows spout out. They get meetings arragntween $7,000 and $8,000 a year. ed and gain the ear of working men by announcing themselves as advocates of socialism. This term is being abused. anarchy. It is because of this that organization in our district is not as good by far as it ought to be. What I want to say to the miners and working-men in general in Western Pennsylmen in general in western rennsylvania is to give these characters I refer to no quarter. They are enemies to the best interests of trade organization and to the welfare of every workingman in the country. We are making headway against them and will eventually down them, but we still need the help of every true trade unionist and respecter our National constitution in our work. It may be remarked that the state ment of Reno fully bears out the remarks of President Dolan that were published in The Labor World recently. That the blatant characters n question are a menace to everything that is orderly and progressive is no doubt, and working men who have any respect for morality, law ignore them. There would be no harm in following the example of the good citizens of Suterville who chased Schulberg from their bailwick.

On the night of the fiftheenth of October Comrade William H. Thomas and myself spoke at Suterville.

Thomas spoke about thirty minutes. and I followed, speaking about one hour and a quarter. There was absolutely no disturbance. One impure and simpler did mumble a protest but he was hit so hard that he subsided. At the close of the meeting we sold

Suterville, and stayed there up until five p. m. of the sixteenth. Then Comrade Cistek, two other comrades and I walked to the depot to take a train to West Newton; where I spoke that night. On our way to the depot we passed Organizer Edwards of the U. M. W. The comrades told me that Edwards had been trying to revive the Miners Local for sometime, but met with constant fa lure: mainly because of Socialist agitation. Edwards did make a convert to pure and simple dom, and the comrades told me that the "convert" was the only Anarchist in Suterville. This anar-ist and Ed wards were walking arm in arm when I saw them at Suterville. As for Mr no; he is one of the few Labor Fakirs in the district whose nose I never had the pleasure of rubbing against the grind stone of our organiz-

Comrade Goff and I never were at Fayette City together, and the only time I was there was when "Mother' Jones was talking "Socialism" in the interest of the U. M. W. and "Appeal Some of the readers of THE PEOPLE no doubt remember what occurred After exposing freaks and fakiress "Mother" Jones, the miners were so elated that they rented the Opera House of Fayette City for the following Thursday. That Thursday night the Opera House was packed to the doors, and although a Republican Labor Fakir by the name of McKenna did all in his power to create trouble, we succeeded in organizing a Section of the Socialist Labor Party with 36 charter members. To save their necks the fakirs sent that famous ANARCH-IST, editor of an anarchist paper at Charleroi, "Dolan's Pond," member of the district executive board of the United Mine workers: Louis Goaziou. This anarchist did all in his power to kill our newly organized section, and with the help of the coal-operators the section was destroyed. All of our men were discharged, and of course had to go to other mining towns in order to make a living. It was through the influence of Goaziou that Emma Goldman was brought to Fayette City -(to hurt our party) and at the time I was in New York. As for the cowardly and lying charge against Comrade Goff, well, we can let this "gentsy" in HIS hands.

I hereby challenge Mr. Reno or any other official of the United Mine Work ers to meet me in a debate at Suterville or in any other mining town along the Youghiogheny or Monongahela Rivers and prove the charges that Organize Reno made through ... of the 31st of October. ANOTHER "LABOR" VICTORY.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Successful labor" candidates on capitalist party tickets were as thick this year as hair on a dog. In Albany, John Francy, up to the adjournment of the last session of the Legislature, operated one of the elevators at the Capitol building back of Assembly chamber, and previous to that had been night watchman in the Albany County Clerk's Office at a sal ary of $900 a year.

The people of Albany county, at the last election, but a majority of over 5,000 decided that Francy, who was the Re-publican candidate, should be the next County Clerk for a term of three This is a fee office, and it will net

Francy has been a Republican all his life, and is about forty-one years old. At the age of twelve years, as the old-est of five children, whose father was dead, he was compelled to provide for the family. At first he worked in a tin can factory for $2 a week and afterward in Perry's stove foundry. Then he became a track laborer on the Delaware and Hudson Railroad. Years ago, as a boy, he was known in his neighborhood as "Mrs, Francy's boy." His neighbors in the lower end of the city still give him that appellation. Despite the tempta-tions of his associates, Francy does not drink, chew or smoke. When the stove industry, or the greater part of it lef Albany, Francy, being compelled to seek other means of livelihood, obtained a place on the Capitol construction work at $1.75 a day. In 1893 he was appointed night watchman in the office of the Albany County Clerk, but he was compelled to give up the job after a fight in the caurts, he having succeeded a veteran in the place. It was then that Francy turned his attention to politics. He had been always a Republican in a section of the city where they were few. In 1895 he was the first Republican to run for Alderman of his ward. He cut the Democratic majority from 900 down to 200. Two years later he ran again and was elected by over 105. He was reelected. In the late election he car ried his ward for county clerk by 250 votes, although the head of the opposition ticket won out by a majority in the ward of nearly 300 votes. Despite the strength shown by Francy in the southern section of the city, when the last Legislature adjourned, he was laid off the Capitol as an elevator man. Neither he nor his friends could under-stand it. He remained out of work until his friends demanded that he be nominated for county clerk. / Francy took the first vacation in his life

THE TOBACCO TRUST.

AND THE FREAKS WHO THOUGHT TO KILL IT.

The Trust Now Controls the Article " Not Made by a Trust"-The Sad Case of McAlpin and His Plug Tobacco-Price Paid Said to be Large,

The purchase of the D. H. McAlpin & Co. tobaceo plant is another serious blow to the gentleman who would not patronize goods made by a trust. He would not even chew the filthy weel which the octopus produced. He would do nothing to fatten the beast that gnawed at the vitals of our free, American institutions, Not he. So he ate the plug and the fine cut that McAlpin produced and thanked high heaven that there was still some liberty in this world, and that free competition was not entirely killed.

The idea that they should do this was sedulously fostered by the com-pany. For miles and miles around this city, as well as in the city itself, there were enormous signs advertising the McAlpin tobaccos, and the most imports ant announcement of all was the in-evitable "Not made by a trust."

Pure and simple trades unions took up the cry. Political and economic freaks spread it throughout the land. The impression was created that if tobacco "not made by a trust" was chewel in suffi-cient quantities all problems of all kinds would be thereby solved. So men who had never used topacco in any form learned to take it in large quantities in order to help matters along.

There were some exceedingly funny incidents in connection with the fight. The trust continued to make tobacco, and people continued to consume it. The trust was therefore happy, because it was making money. McAlpin was also happy, for he, too, made money, McAlpin and the trust then caught the suckers in both directions. If they used tobacco they could not escape.

It never seemed to occur to them that It never seemed to occur to them that it made no difference whether the capital-ist class called itself a trust, and took their money, or whether it called itself independent and took their money. Mo-Alpin robbed his men in the factory, and robbed his patrons outside. The trust did and could do no more. But the innocents entered in and took sides in the

After they had run the profit of Mc-Alpin up to a high point, and the firm became a really dangerous competitor, the trust steps in and gobbles it up. Now the work of all of McAlpin's supporters, who thought they had delivered a fatal blow to the trust, comes to nothing. They have simply strengthened it, and made it more than ever capable of beating down competition The price paid for the McAlpin plant is said to be $2,500,000. The anti-trustites may console themselves with the thought that they did much to increase its worth to the trust.

YOUNG GIRL TELLS OF HOW HE FORCED HER TO SUBMIT.

His Foreman Acted as Go-between-When She Was in Trouble Criminal Methods Were Resorted To-She Was Then Thrust Into Bisorderly House.

Herman Pings, the glove manufactures who was arrested Wednesday on the technical charge of being a suspicious person was brought before Magistrate Mayo in Essex Market Court vesterday morning. With Pings was his superintendent, Vincent Fazzio, who was arrested at the same time on the same charge. Annie Filreis, the girl in the case, was also present and a preliminary examination was conducted in Magistrate Mayo's

The case is one of the most revolting, imaginable, but it is as probable as it is revolving. It is the old story of the employer who takes advantage of the women who work for him, and ruins them.

The girl testified that she was 17 years old and that she first seen Pings last April. She had taken a place as a glove operator in his factory, which was then at 482 Broome street, and on her first pay day, when she came into the office Pings and Fazzio, she said, had a conversation concerning her. She was not allowed to tell what this was, on the ground that she had heard of it only through Fazzio, and Lawyer Howe, who appeared for Pings, demanded that the hearing should concern itself at first only with the glove man himself.

A few days after this payday Fazzio had given her a letter, she said, and told her to go to Ping's office at 41-43 Greene street. Here Pings invited her to meet bim at the Bowery and Houston street at 7.30 o'clock the next Friday evening. The girl kept the appointment. Pings and she went up to Central Park, she said. Pings put her into a closed carriage and then, according to the girl, they drove through the Park. At this point the girl hesitated, and so that she might continue the horrible story, all but those concerned were excluded from the room.

The substance of this testimony was that Pings made the girl yield to him against her will. Subsequent to this ride in the Park, the girl said, she went into Pings office. ride in the Park, the girl said, she went into Ping's office again and told him that she was "afraid she was going to have trouble." Pings she said, told her not to worry, if she did get into trouble he would get her out of it. A few weeks later, the girl said, Pings took, her to Beelessy one affernees and that even Rockaway one afternoon and that even-fur, she said, they went to the Vander-bit Hotel, at Lexington avenue and Forty-second street, where they both went to a room and spent part of the

The girl then testified that she did find herself in trouble and went to Pings about it. Pings, she said, told her that Fazzio would take care of her. Fazthat Fazzio would take care of her. Fazzio, the girl said, gave her some medicine, which she took. Then, she said. Pings told her that Fazzio would take her to a physician. This, she said. Fazzio did. She was afraid the people would learn of her condition. She told Pings about this, she said, and so he hired a room for her, which she used. And some days later she reported to Pings, she said, she was well and Pings said that he was glad it was all over. Then the procureur Fazzio misused her, and placed her in a house on Grand street.

On motion of Mr. Howe, couselor for Pings, the case was adjourned until 10.30 o'clock next Wednesday.

After adjourning the case Magistrate Mayo announced that he would to-day conduct a hearing in the cases of Nathan and Jacob Goldstein, who are also chargd with abduction. The defendants were arrested Wednesday by Defectives Peters and Cohen of the Eldridge Street Police Station, on the complaints of Sadie Monahan, seventeen years old, of No. 195 Grand street, Brooklyn and Hella Harrison, sixteen years old, of East One Hundred and Sixth street, in this city. The police declare that Jacob Goldstein has fifteen girls in im-

History in Some of the Schools, In the new edition of "English as She is Taught" the following appears as a genuine sample of the examination pa-pers found by teachers in the public schools:

"Shakespeare was a fiction and al-gorical writer. His father married a legorical writer. His father marrieu a lady of means, but they became greatly reserved in circumstances. His most intimate friend was Ben Butler (O, rare fation writer." Ben !), who was a great fiction writer."

This was written by a child 12 years old. One naturally wonders how he or she ever happened to hear of rare Ben Butler; but this may be accounted for on the theory that the pupil's father was a greenbacker or in the cutlery

There is, however, one interesting story written by a public school pupil that does not appear in this volume, for the reason that it is now first presented to the public. At the exami-nations in Peoria last spring one of the teachers received this paper from a 11-year-old boy:

HANNIBAL. "Hannibal was the first man that ever crossed the Alps. When he got into Italy he lost one eye and had the greatest ox roast that ever happened. "Hannibal Hannibal was the greatest general the people of those days ever knew, except Napoleon and Grant. When he first Napoleon and Grant. When he has got there the other army was too strong for ham to attack, so he waited a great many years till most of them died of cld age. Then he went in and won

Upon the "Annual Reunion" Party's Convention Last July At Indianapolis, Indiana. For Future History.

Indianapol's Ind., Nov., 22,-Some one recently called my attention to the "Voiker's" "stenographic" report of the twice united Kangaroo-Social Democracy convention held last summer at Ind anapolis. There are some few matters, though not news, would bear rebeing cut by several troops in the star aggregation of great actors on the "Soshulist" stage.

From the Financial Viewpoint. Your plain every day Kangaroo crat is not altogether a bombastic fellow; usually he is a financier. ween financing one another Heydrick, of Eric, Pa., did Between the Armory Builders during the last days of their convention, and all making a raid upon the Herronized Rand estate-the "party of other tactics" found time to get Thornton of local Indianapolis into the Washington street business man's pocket for the wherewithal to pay the expenses of the convention in Masonic Temple. The sum thus obtained does not appear in the "stenographic" report, due doubtless to a grammatical or other "technical" blunder.

From the Personal Viewpoint.

The personnel of the convention was striking. So many great men never met under such circumstances. But the excuse each gave for considering himself great: that is the striking thing.

There was Simons: "Job the 2d's" Liver Regulator, 'Twas he, A. M. the B. L'it., whose great genius led him to declare before the dissembled greatness, emboldened to meekly assert that he knew (backwards) the French in Dar-row's Irish jokes: "Therefore I alone should write the Farmers' Resolution for the Blank Party."

There was the Armory Builder from the State of Haverhill. He was great because his ties if not his hose were the pink of the haberdasher's art. "Frills and Furbelows" of Cleveland spoke slightingly of "Jeems" ruling from the chair; and that moved the member from Massachusetts to tears; so he asked Mailly to the chair, and straightway rushed to purchase an abdominal supporter for each limb; after that his parliamentary rul.ngs were more satisfactory—but "Jeems" slept on the floor at-the Grand Hotel.

There was Tommy—"I. . I" who "fought, and bled and died" for the "movement." He was really great in exposing Simons' sharp practices that endeavored to have "the committee" to instruct Tommy how to work in the to instruct Tommy how to vote in the convention. "Imagine," said Tommy, tragically, "ten of Simons' tools instructing ME, ME, I, I, I, how to act in this juncture!"

Then there was "Between Jews and cheese" Abbot. He was great s mply because of that imperturbable pink es thetic soul of his that yearns it thus with fine Fourteenth Century frenzy so calm and worshipful.

Then there was Herron. He said the pocketbook of Simons-Kerr Publishing Company, "is feared by the capitalist class, more than the whole 'Socialist party'—this dubious statement Herron himself tried to over-come on the part of the "comrades" to placing the Rand estate at their disthe convention only in crises. One of the "great situations" was when he held behind him his compromise "planks" and declared: "The capitalist class seeks to perpetuate itself by going in partnership with Socialism." He sa'd this with a stoop in his voice and immediately attached bourgeo's palliative demands to a "REVOLU-TIONARY program!"

The S. L. P. Spectre.

Harriman, of the saffron hued grammar, let himself loose gradually. Great difficulty was experienced in finding him a Kosher chop-house where he could get his daly rations of select prunes. But he came out victorious, as any one might see in his gestures day and promise to the up all the more when Rev. McCarthy had him in the air on the "political jobs without patronage" resolution. Job explained Millerandism to Carey's satisfact on, while Mailly guarded the grammatical and Hilquit the legal blunders of the "sekrotar at." Job took up the slack in his voice and begged for unanimous consent to have more time on the "most important matter before the convention"—the Jobs resolution. In fine frenzy rolling Job related the tale of Pellenz: of Carey's fireman and po-Ilceman "Soshulist" in the last Chascampaign of Haverhill: the 'Frisco incident: Millerand's tobacconist—etc. "Where the law provides jobs not due to spoils system, let a comrade accept but our rule should be explicit" cried Job. McCartney uppercut Job with the interlocution: "who made the -Job floundered, fussed and faded like the gossamer outlines of a half

Then McCartney got his other chance to lambast the hypocritical Kangaroo. "You fellows let the De Leonite ghost dominate you at every step. (Applause from Bergerites). You know that we are a Party of opportunism; yet you still pretend revolutionary phrases and attitudes: (Loud applause from Hoehn's cavern.) Your platform is buncomb-happily. S mons helped us to get State autonomy—American party organization— and no matter whatyou say we pop our fingers in your teeth on all these meaningless resolutions. You are imitators; you are cowardly ones—why d d you not attempt to put this in the constitution? You have no penalty; doctrinaires." [A great commotion from Jerseyite Gobel who ejacgot home nearly all his people were dead, and being robbed of home ties he rhought he might as well carry the war into Africa."

motion from Jerseyite Gobel who ejacturated: "Preachers, lawyers, scum, you have sold us out—er—ah—er—" great sensation—and the great situation of the convention blubbared.

skirts from the whole "unseemly"

scene."]
The convention had no news story consecutiveness. It walked over itself in every direction, just as genius de

Hoehn As a View Point by Himself One incident also not found in the "Voiker's" verbat m report, happened to G. A. Hoehn, who let his shaving out by contract. A "yoonyun" man from wayback found out that the guilty shop was a "skap goncern." The convention boycotted it after a two hour's them. debate. Poor Hoehn's whiskers then calling in view of some recent antica suffered with his vicarous resolutions being cut by several troops in the star committee. They would not allow committee. They would Baird of St. Louis, to get the floor on Trade Unionism, so Hoehn was kept revising his resolution in committee; every time he dotted an i or crossed at the convention listened and upon the last vote on a verbal charge, the chairman announced that the Trade Union attitude "IS TOOK."

The whyfor of this move by Hillqu't. the parliamentarian genius, can only be appreciated when one considers the master-motif of the convention was to be united solidly toward the dirty fakiration crew. Now Baird had 25 votes from St. Louis alone against the "push" from Kentucky, Washington, Iowa and a biped from Chicago. Mis-souri and Texas were a considerable vote against any policy on "unionism"
—a three cornered fight between these elements would have shut off the treas ury raids the Kangs periodically make on the "yoonyun"—although a majority could have been mustered for any old 'attitude.'

Gen'us is a great thing. For instance, what bound Victor Berger to Simons? Berger said to "B. L'he": "you are great." A. M. proved this by quoting Lydia E. Pinkham on Farmers' Planks. The originality of that feat made Victor propose: Simons let us force our debts on the Kangs—revenge No. 1. Then give us State autonomy—you write the plat-form revolutionarily—get the farmers' demands in anywhere; your votes and mine will bring the N. E. B. to Chi-

So the jockeying began. Simons on the Kangs' committee apportionment safeguarded Berger's interests where begging by Berger could not get the organization committees apportioned to suit the combination.

Rock after rock knocked the combination into the naked open. Hilquit saw it and lay for them at every turn with 400 odd votes of "Comrade Porto Rico." That's how Chicago lost headquarters.

The Berger-Simons combination fixed the Kangs in committee: they caused a long lachrymose debate on "dues"—the country delegates voted that the country delegates voted that the still the country delegates with with the anti-Kang combination and fixed a minimum, then the conven-tion slopped away so much time in oratory that the last day and night, all the loose threads of platforms, resolutions, constitutions, party name were woven into a woeful "party of other tactics"-with as many organizations as there were greatnessesses thereabouts.

Berger's "English organ" recently admitted as much when lambasting the Ch'cago resolutions on Anarchy, under the title: "Are we united?"

Is the Rev. Vail An Asset?

One of the closing acts was to decide whether Rev. Vail was an "asset or liability" of the Springfield Committee. A compromise motion decided that he was a liability on salary account for another six months to the new National Committee, and one of the "assets" of the old Springfield committee. The new "partel" agreed to ease Berger's financial strain due to Theodore Debs and Editor Edwards back salary account-and Berger arose to the occasion to "bury the hatchet" while the voice from Erie, Pa., shouted: "You have no hatchet, the Kangs stole it." Thus "the convention" of Greatness-esses sobbed into history: "without the pride of ancestry: without the hope of posterity.'

HE MONKEYED WITH THE SAW.

An East Liverpool, Ohio, Editor Learns, a Lesson.

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 17 .- On Thursday, October 31, and Friday Nov. 1, we had S. Schulberg of Pittsburg here to address the working class.

On Saturday Nov. 2, the "Daily Crisis," thinking no doubt that as Schulberg had departed it was safe for it to do so, published the following item:

"RANK ANARCHY 'Was the Burden of Schulberg's Speech

Thursday Night. reference to the speech of S. Schulberg the Philadelphia Socialist Labor speak er, who orated to a crowd on the Diamond, Thursday night. His utterance were anarchistic throughout to a degree that caused murmurs of threatened vio lence. Should he attempt to continue to-night, as scheduled, there will likely be merry doings with Mr. Schulberg.'

When the S. L. P. organization sa item they immediately telegraphed Schulberg to return and issued the following challenge for Monday night, November

"ATTENTION VOTERS!

"Challenge to the Eincor 'Daily Crisis' to Take Place To-night. "In the issue of the 'Daily Crisis' of Saturday, November 2nd, appeared at article, "RANK ANARCHY" in which it falsely states that the Socialist Labor Party speaker, S. Schulberg, while speaking at our meeting, made ut terances that were anarchistic. It also lyingly asserts that there were mur murs of threatened violence, and that should Mr. Schulberg speak again, there would be some doings. the fact that the Socialist Labor Party is a political party, officially recogniz as such in almost every state in the Un ion, and that the principles of our party as elucidated in our national platform are extremely antagonistic to anarchy and all that it implies, we hold that the article is not only a deliberate false-hood, by imputing notions of violence to the peace-loving citizens of our city but that said article, by virtue of it being a falsehood, was printed with the intent of inciting riot and mob violence and must be classed as anarchistic.

"Therefore; Eection East Liverpool So cialist Labor Party of the U. S. hereby challenges the editor of the 'Daily Crisis' to debate in public with a representative of our party the following questions:
"Resolved, That the 'Daily Crisis' is an anarchistic paper, by printing in its columns an article inciting riot and mob violence, and, "Resolved, That the Socialist Labor harty is a peaceful political organization opposed to all violence.

"Socialist Labor Party to take the af-firmative, Editor 'Daily Crisis' to take the negative. Debate to take place to-night (Monday evening) November 4th a S. p. m., corner Sixth and East Mar-ket streets. Now fish or cut bait. "Hoping that the challenge is accepted

we remain, "Section East Liverpool Socialist La-

"Francis Dixon, Sec. Pro Tem." A thousand copies of the challenge were quickly distributed among the wage slaves. There was consternation in the local camp of capitalism, when the challenge appeared.

Monday night was cold and disagreeable, but nevertheless over 500 working-men repaired to the meeting place. The editor of the "Daily Crisis," which calls itself "independent," did not put in an appearance. Just the same he got a ter-rible lashing from Schulberg.

The capitalist press in general and that filthiest of literary filth, the pure and simple, so-called labor papers particular, were mercilessly exposed by the comrade. Next the comrade explain ed the make-up and the treasonable tac-tics of the "Socialist" party, and then the clear cut class-conscious program of the S. L. P., showing by comparison and by irrefutable facts that the only workingclass political party is the Socialist Labor Party.

After this the capitalist flunkies won't

I won't say that the Republic Iron & Steel Company, the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company, or the Sharon Steel Company, or the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh Railroad Company as a railroad, will be included. Assurances of participation have been received from those in control of the constituent concerns. There is no question about the plans going through. It will be done on a cash basis. Owners plants may be allowed some stock in lieu of cash for their properties. It depends on how their subscriptions are treated in the allotment."

The speaker further averred that bankers had been found to take the financial end of the matter in hand, and suggested that a Wall Street trust company was one of the conspicuous interests in the underwriting

From a perfectly competent and authoritative source it is learned that the Republic Iron & Steel Company and the Tennessee Ccal. Iron & Railroad Company, does not intend to enter any combination, and that leading interests in it have no knowledge of the scheme

THE FIRST STEAMBOAT.

Belief is That it Was Bullt by James Rumsey, of Sheperdstown, W. Vn.

the place where the first steamboat was constructed and navigated. From Howe's Historical Collections of Virginia, published by Henry Howe, in 1845, we learn that James Rumsey, who is believed to be the first person that ever succeeded in propelling a boat by steam, was a native of Maryland. When a young man he removed to Shepherdstown, where he devoted much of his time to mechanics. In September, 1781, he was employed by the Potomac Company, of which Washington was a member, to improve the navigation of the Potomac river. In the summer of the year 1783 he devoted his attention to the subject of steamboats, and in the autumn of 1784 succeeded in a private but very imperfect experiment in order to test some of the principles of his invention. In the October session of that year, he obtained the passage of an act from the Virginia assembly guaranteeing to him the exclusive use of his invention in navigating the waters of that State for the space of ten years from date. In January, 1785, he obtained a patent from the general assembly of Maryland for navigating their waters. Through the whole of this year he was engaged in working at his boat, but was

he was eminently successful. He suc ceeded in propelling his boat by alone at Shepherdstown against the current of the Potomac at the rate of four or five miles an hour. Washington, it is said, was on the boat when the trial was made, for in a letter written by him to Hugh Williamson, M. C., date Mount Vernon, March 15, 1785, Wash ington says, in alluding to Rumsey's boat: "If a model of a thing in minature is a just representation of a greater object in practice, there is no doubt of the utility of the invention. A view of his model, with the explanation, re-moved the principal doubt I ever had of the practicability of propelling against a stream by the aid of mechanical power, but as he wanted to avail himself of my introduction of it to the public attention I chose previously to see the actual performance of the model in a descending stream, before I passed my certificate, and having done so all my doubts are satisfied." In Shepherdstown Mr. Rumsey dwelt in a small house in the outskirts of the village. He was supplied with funds for the undertaking by his brother-inlaw, Charles Morrow. The boat was built upon the banks of the Potomac about half a mile above the town. A portion of the boiler of his boat was for a long time in possession of the late Hon. A. R. Boteler. Congress, in the year 1839, ordered a medal to be struck in Rumsey's honor, commemorative his brilliant achievement. Dr. Christopher Coruss, one of the first settlers of Sharpsburg, also contributed funds to ward the erection of the boat.-Hagers town Herald.

STRUGGLE FOR MARKETS.

THE MODERN PHASE OF CAPITAL ISM AND ITS TERRIBLE DANGERS.

Overproduction and Foreign Mark ets-The Attitude of Europe Toward America-Reciprocity and the Deelopment of the Far East-Interdtional Bankruptey and War Cause and Cure.

To-day, the industries of this country produce largely in excess of mestic demands. This excess must be gotten-rid of. The capitalist class which controls these industries are perforce compelled to go abroad for foreign markets. They are at the same time compelled to protect the domestic mar-

Heretofore, the search for foreign markets has been to a great degree successful. Industrial nations like England, Germany, Austria and France have purchased American products. In this way American exports have increased imports decreased, while America (which means the afcrementioned capitalist class) has been transformed from a debtor to a creditor nation, with a reial policy that enables it to dominate the world.

The very success of this search for for eign markets is likely to prove detrimen-tal to American capitalism. The countries to which it is senaing its surplus products find that many of their industries are being or are likely to be destroyed by them. They find, too, that their home markets are being taken from them by the inflow of American products. Moreover, these countries being also capitalist countries which produce in excess of their demands need fereign markets, too. They would like to trade with this country, especially shee they are such large importers of American goods; but they cannot do so, as the policy of protection pursued here Prevents them.
Under these conditions—with crise

Under mess conditions—with crises both present and prospective facing them—these countries are compelled to act. So far the tendency of their actions soints to the exclusion of American products from their own markets and those their conditions. of their colonial dependencies. They are considering commercial systems in which a nation with colonies, will receive the those colonies, in return for which olonies would be especially favored mmerciel matters by the mother ry. In England, this idea has many advocates. Were it put into opera-tion by that nation, it would result in the practical exclusion of large quanti-ties of American products from the mar-kets of Great Britain, Ireland, Scotland, Casada, India, etc. These nations are elso considering commercial systems that will be protective in their practical its: that will exclude all nations. cially America, from their home mar-benefits, from their home mar-clause in all commercial treaties insist on the insertion in its stead of a clause providing for reciprocal re-ations. Germany and Austria are especially in favor of these systems; they are in fact rabid protectionists. With this threatening situation con-Fronting American capitalism, many American capitalists have become slarmed. Recognizing the need of con-tinued expansion and observing in the as mentioned an opportunity et up a clamor for the enactment of what they call "freer trade relations.

what they call "freer trade relations."

Acting upon the pressure exerted abroad they have taken for their shibboleth the cry of Reciprocity.

Beciprocity involves a revision of the protective tariff. One of its dogmas is "that some duties in 'our' present tariff are no longer necessary to the industries which they are intended to protect." By removing these duties either wholly or partly, the domestic markets controlled by the industries which they controlled by the industries which they controlled by the industries which they protect will be thrown open to foreign competition. In return, it is urged by the advocates of Reciprocity, foreign nations will be induced to make equally uable commercial concessions to this atry, thus admitting of its continued country, thus admitting of its continued and necessary expansion.

While many American capitalists have become alarmed at the threatening attitude of the industrial nations of Europe and are consequently advocating Reciprocity, other capitalists, in fact, the larger portion of the capitalist class of this country, are opposing it. They call Reciprocity a revival of the free-trade shost of former years. They are accordingly opposed to commercial treaties in which Reciprocity is a feature. They say that such treaties are failures, exsay that such treaties are failures, except when they provide for the free admission of goods which are not pro-duced here. These capitalists are the out-and-out protectionists. They point to the increase in production which the protectionist system has made possible in this country, and they say "Let well enough alone," that is, do not deviate a particle from the principles of pro-ough the capitalists are out-and-out protectionists, they are also expansion-ists. They realise that the industries owned and controlled by them, produce more than this country can consume. more than this country can consume.

They are awarp of the attitude of the European nations, and are prepared to make such concessions to them as the circumstances will admit. They seem to realize that these concessions can large enough to propitiate the Europeans sufficiently to cause them to abandon their policy of exclusion. We have therefore urged the development of trade in the Far East, in the Philippines and China, with their millions of unexploited inhabitants. "There is a field," they say, "capable of indefinite expansion; let us turn to it and avoid Reciprocity and the possible friction.

which a one-sided commercial policy with Europe may develop." With this end in view, these capitalists are laboring strenuously for the building of a tre-With this end ndons navy and army, to take and to mendous navy and army, to take and hold such possessious and fields in the Far East as may be won there.

Unfortunately, for this view though, other nations have also awakened to a realization of the commercial possibilities latent in the Far East. They too latent in the Far East. They too realize that its development will necessitate the use and consumption of West-ern products. They too are bent on taking and holding whatever may be taken and held, and they too are building tremendous armies and navies to aid them in their exalted pursuits. An outlet for the surplus of their industries may be secured, even if the enginery of war must be used to do so. Thus the friction that the out-and-out tectionists of this country would avoid is not at all eliminated but extended and increased; while the possibilities of an open rupture, in fact a bloody war, grow with each succeeding year.

From this picture, drawn from facts it may be observed that Capitalism has out two things to offer as a logical outcome of its workings: international bankruptcy and international war. With all the industrial nations producing to excess and closing their doors to one another as they must, bankruptcy is bound to ensue. With all of them struggling for the only available field which will render bankruptcy impo sible, war is bound to eventuate. The theory that weaker nations are the legitimate prey of the stronger ones will be ap-plied in the future to civilized nations as t has been in the past to those semicivilized. This situation will be intensified as Capitalism increases its productivity. Every new invention, every application of newly-discovered natural force, every new division of labor, every change of technique will render the situ-ation more difficult of relief, as they will simply add to already excessive production. Consider, in addition, that every new foreign market, is rapidly from consumer to producer, consider that already the Philippines and China are being converted as far as possible into manufacturing countries. and the difficulty of relief grows all the more hopeless.

The fact is there can be no relief. there must be revolution. Capitalism is basically wrong. It is rotten at every When this happens it will be no longer be Capitalism, but Socialism. Let us see what that radcal change must be.

This article opens with this assertion: produce largely in excess of domestic demands" Why is this? Are the millions that inhabit this vast country so well housed, clothed and fed that there is a superfluity of the products used for those purposes? Are the lives of the individ-uals composing that great population so thoroughly cultivated and developed that the wealth required for education, art, music and science exists in a superabund-Are there no paupers, no destitute and starved, no suicides and crimnals from want, no charities and prisons? Are there no women compelled to sell their bodies for bread, no compelled to forego payment of their debts for lack of means? Are there no slums in which millions of people herd like cattle and die like dogs?

To any one at all conversant with modern conditions, the greater part of the of the population of this country is in a pinched and poverty stricken condition There are thousands upon thousands devold of the barest necessities, while millions struggle from day to day for the barest living. They know naught but hard, brutalizing murderous labor, which not only destroys them intellectually, but also physically in a large number of cases. So then Science is a book rarely opened and never understood. It is plain to the veriest tyro that the excessive production of this country could be readily consumed, if all the wants of the populaton were attended to. Why then are they not attended to? Because Capitalism through the use of the wage system robs the larger part of that population (the working class) of the greater part of what it produces. In doing this it prevents the greater part of that population from buying back and consuming the greater part of its product, and thus satisfy its manifold needs and desires, H. S. Aley, M. D., in his pamphlet, "Socialism and Evolution," makes the following statement relative to this condition, and its consequences:

"In the Feburary oth number of the 'Youth's Companion' for 1900, Lyman Gage, Secretary of the United States Treasury, is authority for the statement that the wealth produced in this country last year was sixty billion dollars. On a basis of 75,000,000 population this would give $800 to every man, woman and child, or an average of $2,400 and child, or an average of $2,400 each actual producer. As the average wage in the United States is $300, this gives the working class but one-eighth of what the wealth each creates sells for on the retail market of the world, and as the capitalist class cannot consume the balance, the merchandise accumulates, the warehouses become full to overflow-ing and industral panies follow as a logical result, with the regularity of clock work."

This robbery by the capitalist class is the reason for this condition of affairs referred to. And this cause is as operative abroad as it is at home. Until this robbery is stopped, international bankruptcy and international war are inevitable. Only when it is stopped will the dangers be removed.

To remove this danger is the historic mission of the working class.

Capitalism is tottering to its grave, and must reak way for a and must make way for a better system. The working class is the only class interested in the inauguration of the coming system. It is to its advantage to strive for and introduce that system. which must be founded upon coopera-tive labor and concentrated industry, owned and controlled collectively, and tive labor and concentrated industry. profits consequent upon these methods owned and controlled collectively, and are pooled in the "Kertell" and are gaaranteeing to labor the full product of divided upon an ingenious scale. BIG GERMAN SUGAR TRUST.

Said to Have Control of the Sugar Market and to Dictate to the World.

London, Nov., 23 .- The British Sugar magnates assert that their investigations revealed the existence in Germany of a great trust called the 'Kartell," which has been in existence about a year and that it is chiefly owing to the agency that Germany to-day is enabled to dictate the price of sugar The extent of the "Kartell" was discovered, they say, only quite receptly.

The abolition of this organization will be one of the chief objects of the nat ons other than Germany attend-ing the forthcoming Brussels conference. Already British firms have en-tered into negotiations with leading American sugar interests, and tables transact ons of the "Kartell" with a view of submitting to the authorities at Washington. THE FIELD OF LABOR

It has been the repeated declaration of the PEOPLE that there is no hope for the working class in the methods of "organized" labor. The PEOPLE has repeatedly shown that those methods are wrong, as they deny the antagonism existing between capital and labor and the necessity of a class-conscious politand economic organization of the entire working class in its attempts to improve its condition and emancipate itself from wage slavery. The PEOPLE has repeatedly shown that "organized" labor to-day plays into the hands of the capitalist class. It does not promote the solidarity of labor. Instead it splits the working class into warring factions, every one of which strives to advance its interests at the expense and to the detriment of the others. All of which redounds to the benefit of the capitalist All these declarations were amply proven in the strike which occurred on the Harlem division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in the Borough of the Bronx on Buesday, Nov. 19. Several hundred freight-yard brake men, yard switchmen and freight handlers struck to secure the discharge of two noxious officials, who had maltreated them, accusing them of robbery, and having them hounded by the company's de tectives; the restoration of the eight hour work day with the rate of wage which formerly prevailed, and extra pay for overtime work.

The greatest unanimity prevailed amons the strikers at the beginning. Though consisting of unionists and non-unionists, they met and elected a committee of fivto confer with the division superintendent, Orrin M. Shepard. The conference with him proving futile, they proceeded to extend the strike to various points along the road: to the yards at Oak Point, New Haven and numerous other freight centres.

This procedure was successful. Many of the company's most important freight yards were tied up and the strikers were hopeful that they would bring enough pressure to bear to cause the company to capitulate. First Vice Grand Master Ames, of the Switchmen's Union of America, who had reached New York City in the interests of his organization, said that every man on the system from New York to Boston had been requested to join in a sympathetic strike. He hoped that every trainman, switchman, engin eer, fireman, telegraph operator and freight handler would join, a hope that his knowledge of the internecine warfare of the railroad organizations ought have told him, was without foundation

Such was the status of affairs, whe another official with a superlative title, Val. Fitzpatrick, third vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, appeared upon the scene. He im-mediately proceeded to throw a wet blanket on the strike by declaring that he thought the strike was ill-advised and the men had taken action altogether too hastily.

Fitzpatrick declared he had first heard of the strike the day afted it was called, while in Syracuse. He at once left for New York City, and called a meeting of Empire City Lodge, No. 197, Railroad Trainmen, immediately upon his arrival. The action of Fitzpatrick, in appearing upon a scene to which he had not been nvited and expressing opinions which had not been requested, was only matched by the action of the engineers and firemen, who refused to assist the strikers, preferring to stand by the company.

About this time also, much was being made of the fact that only one-fifth of the strikers were union men. It was in timated that the "union" men would re turn to work pending an "investigation" of "their" grievances. This, of course would make no provision protecting the non-unionists, who had gone out with Fitzpatrick had a consultation with the railroad officials with what result was not made known by him. I the meantime, the company was advertis for and obtaining new men from Philadelphia and other cities: while a large number of Tammany policemen elected by the railroaders and their fellow-workers, patrolled the freight yards, protecting the scabs and awaiting the order or the opportunity to crack the heads of the strikers with their night sticks.

Repeated conferences were now being held. The officials of the railroad con ferred with the grand superlative official of which two more had arrived namely C. McDermott, Grand Master, and B. F. Morrissey, Vice-president of the Railroad Trainmen's Union. The Board of Arbitration also appeared on the scene All these conferences came to naught During these conferences the company kept on hiring new men, and succee in moving quite a number of trains Indications of demoralization among the strikers began to set in; and it began to be apparent that the "organizations were fighting one another for control of the situation, by sacrificing their op ponents and the non-unionists.

These indications soon developed into open accusations. Last Saturday the switchmen and the trainmen arrayed switchmen and the trainmen arrayed themselves against each other. The trainmen, through Morrissey, following Fitzpatrick's cue, admitted they had acted hastily in striking and declared they were anxious to return to work. Grand Master Ames, of the Switchmen's Union spoke bitterly of this treacherous policy and declared his men, together with the non-unionists, whom he taken under his wing, would stand firm

An official of the road, upon hearing of this dissension, declared it sounded the death-knell of the strike. He was fulsome in his praise of the trainmen, characterizing them as the "better ele-ment" of the strikers. He also ex-pressed his belief that "Mr. Morrissey, acting as their adviser, would not coun-tenance a further holding out against

In this the official was right. While a committee of the striking employees await of the railroad were negotiating with watering statement:

"The men of the Empire City Lodge have decided by a decisive vote to settle their differences themselves, without any outside interference. We do not want any outsiders to act for our union. We constitute a large majority of the strik-ers and can settle the matter ourselves. We have appointed a committee of three to see General Superintendent Platt this afternoon, with a view of settling the trouble definitely."

This committee was in conference General Superintendent Platt six hours, last Saturday night, when a decision was reached whereby the strike was settled and declared off.

The settlement is a thorough defeat. So thorough that there is not a vestige of gain upon which the usual fraudulent cry of victory might be based. It doe not grant any one of the points for which the strikers contended. It is simply a promise on the part of the railroad officials to reinstate the strikers as fast as they can be used. In other words, the men employed during the strike are to be retained, while the strikers, outside of the trainmen's union, are to scramble back as best they can.

When this decision was announced, many of the striking trainmen, nounced Morrissey, declaring him to be a meddler. They smashed the glass case containing their charter and attempted to tear it into pieces.

Thus does "organized" labor, assisted by the police and the reserve army of the inemployed, play into the hands of the capitalist class.

Thus do they ignore the antagonism existing between capital and labor, and in-stead of solidifying the working class into one whole, conscious of its class interests, and leading it to glad they divide it into warring factions that prey on each other and their unorganized co-workers, causing its disaster and ignominous defeat.

Such "organized" labor must be fought to fhe bitter end. It must be torn up, root and branch, if the working class is to organize and flourish. It must be destroyed if the victorious phalanxes of Socalism are to plant their red banner upon the outer wall of capitalism.

To accomplish these ends, the principles of new trades unionism-of the Socialist Labor Party and the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance—must be put into practical working by the class conscious workingmen already enrolled in those organizations. Speed the day! On with the good

CHILD-LABOR LEGISLATION.

Vigorous Opposition to a Legislative Measure in Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19 .- A favorable eport has been made in the House on a bill prohibiting absolutely the employment of children UNDER TEN YEARS OF AGE in any manufacturing establishment, or the employment of any child under twelve unless his earnings are needed for the support of a widowed mother or a totally disabled father. Children under fourteen must not be employed between 7 p. m. and 6 a. m., and after January 1, 1903, children of that age must not be employed at any ime unless they can read and write. The bill will be vigorously resisted.

A minority of the Comimttee has been made a report against it, characterizing it as part of an organized effort to se-cure class legislation tending to deprive mill-owners of the control of their prop-erty, as being detrimental to the interests of Southern mills and an aid to their Northern competitors, and as calculated to deter investors from locating additional mills in the State. The minority is satisfied that the alleged evils sought to to be remedied by legislation do not exist, that there is no occasion to put mill-owners under criminal statutes, and that the regulation of all these matters can be left to the parents of the

THE FIELD OF CAPITAL

The event of the week ending Saturday, November 23, in the Field of tal, was the purchase of the D. M. McAlpin Tobacco Company by the Universal Tobacco Company for $2,500,000. This McAlpin company was famous as an opponent of the trust. Its legend, "Not Made by a Trust," could be read from all the housetops on which it advertised. ough the Universal Tobacco Company is in no way affiliated with the Tobacco Trust, it aspires to the position held by that concern in the tobacco and financial world; in fact, it is fighting the Tobacco Trust for that position, though without success to date. Thus it was ever with the "Anti-Trusters." They utilize the cry to help boost themselves into the coveted places, at the coveted price. Next in line of importance were doings of the Steel Trust. This giant corporation completed arrangements for operating its coal mines in a systematic manner. It has opened a new bureau called the Bureau of Mines and Mining, with R. S. McDonald, one of the bestknown coal engineers in the Pittsburgh bituminous coal belt, as superintendent. All the coal properties of the constituent companies, consisting of over 50,000 acres, will be placed in charge of this While at present none of the constituent companies mine much of the

The idea animating the meeting was that an understanding could be arrived at by which old metal sold mostly by railroads, in the shape of rails, etc., will be purchased direct and rails, etc., will be purchased direct and allotted to the various companies accord-ing to tonnage. By this arrangement, it would not be necessary to deal with the old metal dealers. The latter are alarmed and are going to organize in order to retaliate.

So great is the power of this Steel Trust to eliminate middlemen that we fear the old metal dealers will have to succumb. Not only is this trust power ful as an eliminator, but it is also pow erful as an absorber. The men behind the Lackawanna Iron & Steel Company building at Buffalo, N. Y., realize this very well. Lest the United States Steel Corporation should get possession of the company and close the works before completion, a majority of the stock has een tied up with trustees!

Another item of importance was that announcing the probable incorporation shortly in New Jersey of the Federal Lead Company, with a capital of $10, 000,000, to take over the Guggenhein and Whitney-Ryan lead interests in Mis souri. This was another competition that gave joy to those who declared trusts created destructive opposition and would not therefore endure, a rather poor argument considering the number of trusts that survive and was stronger from day to day.

ENGINEER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Says He Feared Boller Would Explode-Would Die Rather Than Be Responsible.

An extraordinary explanation was given by John Moerley, an engineer, fifty-six years old, when he attempted to end his life yesterday forenoon. He gashed his scalp with an ax, cutting it in numberless places. The reasons he gave for trying to end his life were that he feared that the boiler in the machine shop of Henry Waterman, at 18 Dunham place, Brooklyn, would blow up and kill a number of workmen. Moerley has been engaged as an en gineer in the establishment for thirtysix years and from all accounts has had charge of this same boiler all that time Moerely maintained that he informed his employed that the boiler had been in dangerous condition for some weeks past and yesterday positively declined to build a fire. Moerely further maintained that Waterman scouted the necessity for the repairs and ordered Moerley to build the fire. Moerley, instead of doing so, refired to another part of the engine room. secured an ax and attempted to gash bis skull. He was found later, bleeding by one of the workmen. A call for an ambulance brought Dr. McGovern of St Catherine's Hospital and he was removed to that institution. Before leav lar and showing the alleged danger to Mr. Waterman. He said that a number of pipes would not supply the necessary quantity of water to the boiler, Water man claimed that Moerley's brain was affected by a fall he had sustained some time ago. Moerely lives with his wife at 46 South Sixth street.

SOCIALIST VOTE IN THE UNITED STATES. 21,157

The irksome toil and the disappointments of the farmer stand behind the baker's oven, just as crushing anxiety and the most exacting toil lurk unseen beneath the exterior splendor of most bourgeois households.

A CASE IN POINT-

The State of New York is just now the theatre of two incidents that, considered together, should lend material aid in clarifying both the position taken by the Socialist Labor Party, that only the class interests of the Working Class are the safe guide and tactics by which to overthrow capitalist tyranny, and the position taken by the Party's reform adversaries, that community of suffering is the proper guide and tactics.

The first of the two incidents is the rupture between the yardmen employed in New York by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, on the one hand, and the Company, on the other. An assistant yardmaster and a detective employed by the Company "fulfilled their duties," in such a way that the men refused to work under them. The Company refused to discharge these two "faithful and competent" slave-drivers. Thereupon a strike was declared.

The other incident is the marching, ten abreast, up to Gov. Odell of a Committee of the New York City Produce Exchange, complaining of freight discrimination by the New York Central Railroad against the Port of New York in shipments from Buffalo, and petition ing the Governor for relief.

Here we have two sets of sufferers the capitalists, whose interests center around the Produce Exchange, and the workingmen employed in the freight yards of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in this city. Moreover, in this instance the sufferers have in common something more than suffering: they have a common enemy: their suffering arises from the arbitrariness of the identical corporation, the New York Central and the New Haven road being substantially under the same Board of Directors, with their main terminus on the same spot in this city, where the wrong complained of is perpetrated.

Is community of suffering in this case a sufficient bond to hold the sufferers together? Obviously, the answer depends upon whether both sets would get relief from that which would relieve either. Would they?

The relief that the yardmen seek amounts of having a smaller quantity wholly absent that understanding must of their flesh and marrow squeezed out of them for the benefit of the Company. The excellence of the work of the yardmaster and the detective, complained who is taken to be one of the most intelliagainst, their faithfulness and competence gent of the British representatives of merely the Company's technical way of saying that the two men are raising the amount of wealth which the Company flerces its vardmen of and pockets. Now. then, no capitalist concern pockets these fleecings for itself alone. It shares the fleecings with other capitalist concerns: the larger the fleecing concern is, all the more imperative is this sharing, to however small an extent, with its fellow capitalist fleecers in other departments This fact manifests itself in the general decline in prices; in this case, in the general decline in the cost of transportation. Now, then, would the capitalist concerns, centered around the Produce Exchange. favor such a relief to the yardmen on strike? Assuredly not. In the measure that there is a let-up on the yardmen. these capitalist concerns would suffer. They are all sharers in the wool clipped from the railroad workers. A positive bond of union does not and can not exist between these two sets of sufferers.

Important as this fact is in itself, it is still more important when closer looked into by the light of experience. It does not follow-because the classsource, from which each of these two sets of suffering flows, tear each other apart,-that there is no possibility of a "going together." Not only is there such a possibility, but experience shows that it is a reality. Such diametrically opposed class interests have "gone together" again and again: there is not an election at which such "goings together" are not witnessed: aye, such "goings together" have been witnessed even in strikes. And what is the feature, to mind certain utterances by a leading absurdly unfit. The flinging of the term inseparable from all such "goings to American capitalist politician. Speak to it, however, is not merely an absurd gether"? It is the duping of the Working Class: the using it for cat's paw; in short, such "goings together" invariably denote a complete abandonment of the workers' interests. The Produce Exchange Comittee, for instance, may fuse with the yardmey, but only by way of getting these to pass resolutions condemning the Railroad for "discriminating demning the Railroad for "discriminating against the Port of New York", and, the star goes out—after that anarchy of an election is at hand, the capitalists or a Czar." against the Port of New York", and, interested in the question of freignt will fight their pattly behind the earthworks of "Organized Labor." The question being settled, the workers will again be eft to shift for themselves. And so in all other cases in which the Working Class is not marshalled in sharp, bold and direct antagonism to one and all the class interests that are not proletarian interests. To lose sight, for one instant, of the lass interests of the Working Class, to yield, but for a second, to the lure of sentiment, of community of suffering, is to break the rudder of the Ship of the Labor Movement, and doom it to enevitable shipwreck. It is no accident that the Working Class of the land, led by the fusing or "going together" principle of harmony between Capital and Labor, lies to-day stranded on the beach of the Labor Movement; nor is it an accident that all "going together" political reform movements have been beached through wholesale desertions by sellouts.

BEN TILLET AS A PHOTOGRA.

Mr. Ben Tillet, one of the fraternal delegates of the British Trades Union Congress to the Convention of the A. F. of L., almost immediately upon his arrival, made a speech last Sunday before the Central Federated Union, in the course of which he said:

"I am glad to see that in this country there is not so much of a class feeling as in England. When we were coming over with a shipload of Americans, who knew we were workingmen, we were treated with the utmost courtesy."

Mr. Tillet may stay many months in this country, and he may make innum- the Labor Question in the ranks of the erable speeches, but never will he be able to reproduce more completely the back- ligion, that sprang up simultaneously ward state of mind of the Old, or "Pure and Simple," or British style of Trades Unionist on the Labor Question than he did in that his first speech delivered on this tour. The class struggle, according to that little speech, does not exist; what- in prayers and "hope." Instead of the ever manifestation there is of it can be removed by politeness; courtesy, applied by capitalists to a workingman is the gauge of the degree in which the classline shows itself: there was greater courtesy observed towards Mr. Tillet by the American capitalists on board, therefore there is less of a class-line in America than in England. And that statement was at the very time when the windowpanes, of the hall where Mr. Tillet was speaking, were rattling at the sound of the musketry fire of the Kentucky militia, that was peppering the striking miners of Hopkins county; and that statement was made in the country in which, to tinue to be. "Hope," accordingly, is a valevery such act of class-rule enacted on uable mystification with the aid of which the smaller English territory, there are the thing being dangled up before the scores and scores of them enacted on the proportionally larger territory of the United States!

The long and short of the picture drawn by Mr. Tillet, of the rank and file understanding of the class-struggle is that there is no such understanding. How be may be judged by Mr. Tillet's own understanding of the subject, as given by himself in his little speech. He Labor, can be thrown off his base on that subject by the external shows of courtesy.

Already, in the days of de Tocqueville, that keen-eyed Frenchman detected that characteristic of the American capitalist toward his wage slaves,-Courtesy, and he pointed it out in graphic language. Under the velvet of courtesy, under the external shows of democratic equality, de Tocqueville showed that the American capitalist concealed a deep animosity for of complaint from the Organized Scabthe workingman, and a steeled hand to bery that runs the pure and simple Undeal with him. The history of the Labor Movement in America has proved the acuteness of de Tocqueville's estimate on hundreds of blood-stained fields, where aforesaid Organized Scabbery. The the workers were shot down, in hundreds of factories and mines where their health and lives are toyed with, and in hundreds upon hundreds of court decisions that thrust deep into the flanks of Labor the cold steel of Capitalist Law.

Such sense of the class-struggle, of "courtesy" is enough to throw it off its guard stands upon very slippery ground. The English Socialist has yet to lay the very foundation of an intelligent Labor Movement in his country.

DE TOCQUEVILLE SUPPLEMENT.

The intellectually spineless observation seeing that American capitalists treat that the Party controls no one's exist a passenger on board a ship with cour- ence. To such a body, a purely volun tesy, tho' he be a workingman, recalls | tary organization, the term "tyranny" is

These words do more than help illustrate the justice of the dictum of de Tocqueville, touching the external kindness with which the American capitalist conceals the mailed hand with which he treats the workingman: the words also supplement de Tocqueville's estimate.

It needs only a passing notice of the fact that the American capitalist politern who oiled the wheels of the electoral machine that landed him into the Presidency, with language that sounded so considerate of the workingman, wis, directly upon his election, the Presidear who initiated the policy of furnishing Federal troops to capitalists to bayonet their workingmen into subjection. The long list of governmental outrages against the miners of Idaho was started by troops sent thither by President Harrison. Since then such outrages have become common there, and have been repeated elsewhere. In the speech one sees the velvet, in the act one feels the mailed hand that de Tocqueville long before pointed out. But the speech also supplements de

Tocqueville. What de Tocqueville probably had no opportunity to perceive is that, besides the mailed hand, the American capitalist has furnished himself with another weapon of subjugation, to wit: the SUPERTERRESTRIAL. This weapon he imported from his Briti h cousins. What caused the working class unrest and despair-brought on in Eugland by the era of rapidly improved machinery, especially in the textile industries-to pass over the land without scathing the capitalist class, and without leaving a sufficient sediment of intelligent, class-conscious understanding of Working Class, was the Methodist re-The unrest and despair, that, intelli gently handled, would have at least laid broad and sound corner-stone for a healthy revolutionary Labor Movement, was caused by Methodism, to evaporate sufferers being taught to rely on themselves, to understand their duty on earth and act accordingly, their faces were turned by the Methodist revivalists to wards the sky, where their aspirations melted away with the clouds. The tip has been taken by the American capitalist. Harrison's speech betrays the fact. The "upward avenue of hope" on his lips is no figure of speech with him and his. It is a means known to be potent by the American capitalist, whereby to continue the social system where the "wage earner"-a euphonious term for "wage-slave"-chall con workers, the American capitalist is able

SCOURGE THE SCAMP SCAB.

In the correspondence column of this issue will be found an exchange of letters between H. B. Perham, Grand Sec-Railroad Telegraphers, and A. S. Dowler, a member of the said Order. These letters fall not under the category of reading matter that is simply to be tasted or enjoyed; it is of the sort that must be thoroughly chewed and digested.

The "tyranny of the Socialist Labor Party" in demanding of its members that they toe the chalk-mark of the Party principles, and in tolerating none other in its ranks, is a favorite cause ions, and from all those impure ones among the pure and simple rank and file who aspire to "recognition" by the letters in question help to place "tyranny" where it belongs. In one pure and simple Union after another, gag-law is being administered. Whosoever of the rank and file dare open his mouth in opposition to the scab crew that, like carrion crows are battening on "Organized class-lines, or of class-fleecings that Labor," is "disciplined"; and refusal to submit means the danger of forfeiting a living. Under the plea of preserving the "dignity of the organization"-bodies that are set up for the express purpose of getting jobs-, the men who join are threatened with the loss of that, which to obtain they had been lured into joining, the moment they express their views and assert their manhood. The of Mr. Ben Tillet that class-lines in Party employees are few, so few that America are less strong than in England, the statement is substantially correct act. The letters in question, the actions herein alluded to, betray the fact that the term "tyranny" hurled at the S.L.P., is kin to the cry "stop thief." It is used by the wrong-doers to conceal their wrong-doing. In other words, the charge partakes-as typical of all that emanates from wrong-doers-of Calumny. It denotes a criminal source.

Upon this criminal characteristic of the Organized Scabbery the letters shed a brilliant light. From them transpires one more proof that the Organized Scabbery is a scamp crew, upon whose backs the soourge cannot be laid too heavy. They are wolves in sheep's skins, prowling about the Labor Movement, seeking whom they may devour. In the sacred Temple of Labor they are plying harlotry. They are Judases, perverse and corrupt, intent only upon turning dishouest pennies in the sell-out of the workingman. It was no whim, it was no hasty act on the part of the Socialist Labor Party the day it concluded that the march of the Working Class to its emancipation lay over the prostrate bodies of the Lator Lieutenants of the capitalist class in the land; that the key to the situation is the Organized Scabbery, and that that outpost must first be stormed and razed to the ground. Nor was it a wild imagining on the Party's part that the signal for revelt from the Organized Scabbery, if given loudly and the course firmly adhered to, was bound to meet with response, and to draw together from among the pure and simple organizations that elite in manhood, that alone can stead in the Titanic task of unseat ing the enthroned Capitalist Class.

Upon all this the letters in question

THE PATRIOT SHOW.

As announced in these columns and other dailies the manufacturers of Lynn. Mass., have arranged to bring 200 or 300 Armenians to take the places of the striking S. T. & L. A. morocco workers. The move, whether successful or not, once more places on exhibition the Capitalist Patriot.

The definition of " patriotism" as th last refuge of the scoundrel was the most felicitous of definitions. It is confirmed at every turn. The Lynn manufacturers belong to the class that rolls 'parriotism" in its mouth as a favorite tid-bit. What the word stands for with them, and what it is meant to do this latest Lynn episode betrays. When the capitalist wraps himself in the mantle of "Americanism," he means thereby his pocket; when he sets up "patriotism," he means his stomach: when he goes into hysterics about "preserving the country." he means himself. In view of the fact that his pocket, his stomach and himself are kept warm and can be kept warm only in the measure that he skins his employees, and in view of the further fact that for every such skinner there are scores of skinned, it follows, as night follows day, that the "Americanism" or "patriotism" of the American capitalist is synonymous with the country's ruination. The contemplated move in Lynn brings the fact out clearly.

Are the 200 or 300 Armenians, who are proposed to be brought in to scab it on the Alliance men, meant to be introduced into the country for the purpose of enabling them to become "sharers in our superior comforts"? No, indeed. They are to be brought in for the purpose of rendering those "superior comforts," said to be enjoyed by the American workingmen, more problematical than they already are: they are to be brought in for the purpose of directly lowering "American standards."

Moreover, in this as in all other instauces of wrong-doing, the wrong done ever breeds further wrong. What sort of citizenship does such conduct build up among the imported oliens? Is it an enuobling citizenship? No! What conception of civic virtue, as understood by Americans, does such conduct, indulged in by American capitalists, instilinto the alien minds? The worst imaginable. The factories become the nurseries of baseness, of cynicism; and when, to-morrow, the same trick is practised on the present aliens by means of a new tatch, a feeling of deep resentment is placed in the breasts of the old, and is intensified by the added insuit of "foreigner," "un-American," that the capitalist will then hurl at his awakened dupes. The capitalist "Patriot" is a traitor to the country and to the human race.

News comes from St. Louis that the British army has a recruiting station. It covers its real work under pretence of being an employment bureau. Eng land still needs thousands of soldiers for that war in South Africa, which is "ended." We might get back at her by establishing a recruiting station in London to get men for the Philippines, where thousands of soldiers are also needed and where there is another wa

The Isthmian Canal will bring different portions of the earth nearer together. This will reduce the number of ships needed in transportation, and consequently fewer men will be required. What will the pure and simpler recommend? Will he demand that the canal be filled up, the same as he recom-mended that machinery be smashed.

or will be demand that a committee A SHOT TO THE FOE IN THE be sent to Washington to ask Congress "to do something?"

The city of Holyoke, Mass., is building an underground dungeon for tramps, and the Chief of Police that this will scare them more than any woodyard in the country.

Thirty men were smothered in a mine fire at Telluride, Colorado. Record does not say that any of the them were stockholders. This is another illustration of the terrible risk capital and capitalists persist in taking.

tion of Cruelty to Animals have found a rich field at the horse show. Several sets of burrs have been taken, but as ye no arrests have been made, and it is probable that none will be made. A bur is a leather pad having a set of small; and inhumanly sharp spikes on one side It is placed in such a position that a horse is pricked by it, and so he will clamp his bit, toss his head, lift his feet high, and give other signs of animation so dear to the "aristocratic" heart. The of keen physical agony. everybody who has a horse at the show uses the burr. It is fiendish in conception-on a par almost with Roosevelt' spiked club-but it shows that the capitalist is a fiend by nature, a fiend in all his acts. He would put a burr on his butlers to make them walk stiffer, or he would put a burr on his coachman to keep his head facing more duly to the front, It is rather marvelous that this has never been figured out by the capitalist. It would improve his turnout and his establishment so much. It may be remarked in passing that the burr is more cruel and more persistently diabolical than any beating a carter could or would admin ister to his horse. Yet the carter would e carried before a judge, lectured for his cruelty and then fined. As the burr is the mark of "high society" nothing will be done. Burrs were found on the horses of Commodore Gerry, W. K. bilt, O. H. P. Belmont, and Reginald Rives.

Croker shows a grim sense of humon when he tells the successful Fusionist to go ahead and do better. He knows that the same men who owned the tenements under Tammany will own them under Low: consequently there will be no im provement. The same men who grafted and conducted illegal business Tammany will conduct them under Low The same capitalists who broke every law under Tammany will break them under Low. One side is like the other side. Both are in politics "for their own pockets every time," and the only way to fill the pockets of themselves is to empty the pockets of others, an honest government possible only from an honest political party. An honest political party is pos only when that party stands fairly and squarely on the real issue-the class struggle between workers and exploiters. The Socialist Labor Party alone meets that requirement.

Political and Economic.

The "Journal" blushes with modesty over the great work it has done in push ing through the great canal. It not only claims that it initiated the project, but it strongly insinuates that it performed most of the work. The methods that it used is not stated, but the inference is that Mr. Hearst seut one of his bright young men south, and the bright young man bit the two American continents asunder.

The San Francisco "Advance" says: "In New Jersey the comrades with Vail at their head for governor, put up a splendid fight and when last heard from expected to increase their votes sufficiently to open the eyes of the plerats." Open their eyes to what? crats. the desirability of dealing in Social Dem ocratic wares, or to the fact that the So cial Democrats were willing to trade with them?

The New York "Press" does not wholly like the results that followed the late municipal eleciton. It is supposed to be a Republican paper, but it complains bitterly because the Citizens' Union, under the election law, does not become an ofthe Socialist Labor Party is an official party. The latter would naturally be a grievance, but the former indicates that the "Press" has not received as much as it thought itself entitled to. The ways of politicians are passing strange. Sometimes they lack intelli-gence, but in pushing the "Press" aside they seem to have manifested unusual intelligence.

The "Sun" refers to the striking miners in Kentucky as "thugs," "vagabonds," "anarchists," "armed scalawags," etc. The "Sun" in its role of the mouthing oully of journalism has a choice vocabu lary, especially when the working clasis concerned. It is foul of mouth, brutal by nature, instinctively a coward, prone to crawl, and ready at all times to lick the feet of those from whom it expects favors. It is just as ready to knife as sneaking insolence, and fat-headed con-

The San Francisco "Call" has a long story of an attempt to form an inde-pendent Alaskan republic. The plotters are mostly the miners who have settled in the district, and their plan is to rise against the Canadian government during the coming winter. If the story is true as it may possibly be owing to the state of affairs in that part of the world. England will have an opportunity to send her soldiers to freeze in the north as well as to roast in South Africa. Bank wrecks are becoming all the rag among financiers. There are several styles, but the old popular run on the bank seems to hold its place. The defaulting official also does his little mite as does the confiding official who wild-cat schemes. The abiding faith of a trusting people is shown by the way they continue to put their money into the bottomless pit of the "institutions

REAR, AND ONE TO THE FOE IN FRONT.

Of the five Boroughs-New York, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond -that make up the present city of New York, official returns are in for the first and largest four. The ascertained vote for both the Socialist Labor Party and the Kangaroo Social Democracy in the fifth borough, Richmond, is so slight that it cannot materially affect results. It need not be waited for to consider the lesson that the figures teach. These figures are: for the S. L. P., 6,079 votes, a loss of 749 votes in the city; for the Kangaroos, 9,577 votes, a loss of 53 votes in the city.

Not all the charges brought against the

S 1. P. were "wala fide."

honestly made and sincerely advanced was that the S. L. P. was wholly mistaken on its Trades Union policy. It was admitted by those who made charge that the pure and simple Trades Union was structurally false, its economics wrong, its leadership perverse where it was not qutright corrupt; was also admitted that the bulk of the Werking Class was outside of the pure and simple Trades Unions, and disorgan ized, and could not be brought in. But argued the adversaries, the masses o the workers are affected by the ized portion of them; the overwhelming majority, over a million strong, of the organized portion is in the "pure and simple camp:" in order to reach these masses it is, therefore, necessary to "go in with them," and not "stroke the fur the wrong way." In vain it was shown to those who held these views that to "go in with them" and not "stroke the fur the wrong way" was another way of saying "to tolerate and, by silence, approve, all the false economic prejudices and habits of thought of 'Organized Labor:" " that it was tantamount to render Socialism a "particeps criminis" with th labor fakir, whose special class interests Socialism threatened and were buttresse with the false economic notions of the rank and file. It was all in vain. The honest and more intelligent upholders "different Trades Union policy, granted all these counter arguments, but, as it always happens with superstitions, they expected the evil results of the policy they advocated would be escaped in some manner left unexplained. and that the good results they were striv ing for would be reached, to wit, the edling of the Labor masses into the political camp of Socialism. The conflict reached a head in this city on July 10, 1899. The two opposing views parted Since that day, the "different ompany. Trades Union policy men" have steered their course, untrammeled by the "wrong-ful S, L. P. policy." And where are they

L. P.; finally, after a campaign, in which their three city candidates-all three placemen or beneficiar ies of the reaction and corruption that "pure and simpledom"picked with an eve to ingratiate themin Old Unionism:-after all that, where are they now? They have succeeded in ingratiating THEMSELVES, but, being taken at their word for Socialists, they failed to ingratiate their PARTY. After thus disposing of the foe in the rear, we can see the foe in front—the Capitalist—rise and say:

The utter failure of the Kangaroo does not imply the failure of the Socialist Movement. The utter failure of the S. L. P. would. To declare the S. L. To reach such a pregnant conclusion, more facts would have to be in Court than there are now. The S. L. U. S .- All the people? B. J.-Yes.

U. S .- I think I see your difficulty. You are preoccupied with middle class modes of thought. See here. We are living under the Capitalist System of Skin, not under any of the Systems of Skin that have previously prevailed. Do you think you have a clear idea of what the Capitalist System of Skin means?

B. J .- To be frank, I don't think I have.

U. S .- To get a clear idea thereof it is best to contrast it with the previous, the feudal or landlord system.

J .- I think I understand that system. U. S .- Don't be too hasty. Under the feudal system the vassal was allowed to operate, as his own, portions of the lord's land. The proceeds of that labor were his own. In payment for this privilege, he had, however, to work one or two or more days for the lord exclus vely on the lord's domain. Say that the lord demanded two days' work; on those days the vassal's work was the lord's. The vassal had the other five days for himself. Under this system, you perceive, there is no attempt to cover the fact that the lord appropriated some one else's labor.

B. J.—None whatever.
U. S.—Now suppose that besides the proceeds of those two days' work wanted more. B. J.—He would then demand of the vassal that he work for him three days. U. S .- That was one way. Another and quicker one than getting at the goods was to levy a tax on the vas-sal. Was not that taken out of the wealth that he produced when working for himself and which, therefore, belonged to him?

B. J.-Just so. U. S.-Now turn to the cap talist B. J.—Sinks his hands deeper into

U. S .- Does the capitalist work at

B. J.-Not unless sponging be considered working.
U. S.—Yet he has it all?

B. J .- Every bit.

B. J.—Every Br.
U. S.—Who works?
B. J.—The working class.

U. S .- Does the capitalist say to the wage worker: "Here is my factory; if you work two days for me, I shall let you work the other five for your-

B. J.-looks blank. six or seven days in the week and I shall give you $5 or $7." Do you not perceive that under this system the skinning process is concealed?

B. J's.—eyes open wide. U. S.—Under this system does not appear, as under the other, that the worker is propertiless. He imagines h mself to be a property holder of some sort. He does not clearly perceive that what he is paid is about the least he can get. He does notice that in point of fact, he has been sucked dry of all he can produce as fast as he produced it. The old notion that taxation takes property away from him still lingers in his mind has no property left to be taxed away. B. J.—(claps his hands)—I see. U. S.—It follows that the matter of taxation concerns property that is stolen from the workers by the capitalist system before the worker ever gets hold of it. Do you catch on? This question affects only capitalists. Only they hold property.

B. J.—I do. But another thing be-U. S .- Which?

B. J.-Why on earth do not these howling panacea peddlers teach the people these things?

U. S.—There is nothing puzzling about it. The secret is "laziness"—stupendous "laziness." These people won't read systematically; they a notion they can envolve it all out of their inner consciousness; and, as that is by far easier than, to study, they shoot off their mouths. I tell you, Jonathan, had I the time I would take these fellows one after another over my knee, right side up, and give them such a walloping that would concetrate in one minute all the spankings that they ever received from their mothers .

B. J.—(sp tting into his hands)— hold these fellows, and you dust them.

What Telegraphers Pay For.

To THE PEOPLE.—The enclosed correspondence (exhibits A, B, C and D.) shows the sensitiveness of the average simpler simpleton, posing as a g-r-e-a-t "leader," when he is publicly catalogued. In all cases but one where it has declared strikes the other railroad class orders were truly "loie," and manifested their usual solidarity by running trains and assisting the companies to defeat the telegraphers, especially if their own grievances were adjusted at this ticular time. The only instance w adjusted at this parrailroad men were a unit on strike when this Order was involved was on the old A. & P., in 1891, when the telegraphers on that road secured the initial sched-ule for the O.R.T., after a strike of fifty-two hours in which every wheel was tied up, notwistanding the cowardly whines of D. G. Ramsay (now a Democratic politician) and A. D. Thurston, who wired the men to waive the queston, who wired the men to waive the ques-tion of salary,—their main contention. Later, when the class orders scabbed the old B.R.E., organized by C. M. Holmes, et al., to death in 1893, the places of the telegraphers were filled by men from the Rock Island road, including a brother of D. G. Ramsay, assigned ing a prother of D. G. Your favor of the 16th inst., in which you ask if I am the A.S.D., of Division 23, O.R.T., who wrote a communication to the New York "People," dated January 13, 1901, in which it was stated that Gompers, Clark, Sargent, Arthur, Morrissey and Dolphin were "a scabby brood,"—at hand. S. L. P. Colors Flying in Mesa County, Colo.
To THE PEOPLE.—The battle of November is over. The Socialist Labor Party of Mesa County comes out of the fray with colors flying gay. The of ficial count shows an increase of 100 per cent. in our vote in the past twelve months. But we must "fight man-fully onward!" Cheer up comrades! We are enlisted soldiers in a noble warfare against the corruption and oppression of the present system. And we must realize the fact that we have a powerful enemy to struggle with, one that is strongly intrenched in every department of government. Therefore we mus be the aggressors, and our progress will show. We must break down the walls snow. We must areak down the walls of prejudice to attack and destroy this system of Wage Slavery. Though some may weaken and fall by the wayside we will press forward. We must learn to be patient in our aggressive warfare we must wait for the hour of triumph but our waiting must not be that of idleness; it must be that of diligence, persistence and courage. This is of more importance than all the booms that can be inaugurated. It is not the noise upor the battlefield that wins: nor the numbe is the well directed aim that counts for victory. The Socialist Labor Party vote of Mesa County is as follows: County Judge, T. J. Armstrong...

of shots fired nor shells exploded-but

County Clerk, J. B. Gesberg......152 County Sheriff, N. Pritchard.....102 County Coroner, Dr. N. S. Johnson. .237

County Assessor, J. M. Noland... 233 County Commissioner, J. M. Sellars. 175 County Justice, W. C. Meserve... 297 The total vote cast in the county was a little over 3,000, being a very light vote. The people are so thoroughly dis-gusted with the present conditions that they stayed away from the polls, which to my mind is a good indication.

The seed of Socialism is being and the harvest will come later.

the evening, knock at some laborer's door. Tell him your visit concerns the interest of labor, which will open the way to a conversation, in which, by a few well-chosen words, you can lay bare parties, and show the necessity of the workingman acting class-consciously etc. Then give him your sample copy, etc. Then give him your sample copy, explaining its merits-but do not ask him for fifty cents subscription money, for he may be an entire stranger to for he may be an entire stranger to you, etc. Say that you will see that he gets the paper for ONE CENT ON DELIVERY. Most likely he will want the paper. All this will take but a few minutes, after which you will go to his neighbor and so on, until about 8:30. Do this as many nights in the work as testible.

In Memoriam, Comrade David

McCulloch. To THE PEOPLE.-The Socialist La bor Party has sustained a loss in the death of Comrade David McCulloch member of Ward Branch 23, Section Boston Although he depended for his daily bread upon a large and unscrupulous corporation and although he was sneered and jeered at by his fellow wage-slave he was untiring in the propagation of the principles he held dear.

Comrade McCulloch joined the S. I. P just before the Kangaroo attempt to the party. Ward Brauch practically went to pieces at that time, but Comrade McCulloch maintained the semblance of an organization in the ward and later built up a solid ward branch in this isolated surburban ward.

Thus do class-conscious wage-slaves struggle on to break their chains, be queathing their best endeavors to the -coming Socialist Revolution.

(Enclosure.) "N. Y. Journal"-In last Sunday Journal" Dorothy Dix had something to say about "beauty cult" in the fair sex. No one will misunderstand me when I say FAIR SEX, not even those great sticklers for indications of God's wise purpose as revealed in Nature' plan. The lifelong observation of cum-ulative evidence of beauty cult in the male sex from cocksparrow to peacock from lizard to lion, will cause no menta confusion when reference is made to the "fair sex" in the human species. No indeed! And, since the allusion is so readily comprehended, is it not fair to infer that God's will and wisdom, in as far as they may be revealed in Nature, have been perverted, in the case of the human species, by some correspondingly unwise interference? Would not th motive actuating development of poreal attractions continue true to the principles underlying physical procedure throughout the animal kingdom, had no interference diverted it from natures all prevailing plan?

What was it, let me ask, which evolved this glaring exception by a transposi-tion of beauty cult to its female sex in man? Some passing whim or passing light fancy? On no; changes so radical are not effected in that way, nor accomplished like a change in fash ion. It was caused by woman's relative ly dependent position, by the system under which she has been compelled to exist through all the varying change of time, a dependant upon her lord and master, man.

In that position, she naturally assun ed the role of the defendant and posed to attract, to please and entertain him who was, forsooth, her superior, physically; who virtually owned her and garded her as a chattel to be sent forth to-morrow, should she fail longer to seem good in his eyes. In his independance, and meek woman helplessly his deper dant, man found no need for "strutting before the female" to please her wo man's eye, and, consequently, such at tributes of attractive development as would have been evolved through his desire to captivate her under conditions more human and more in accord with nature's purpose have been thereby lost to the race, and, in their stead, has arisen the consequence of beauty cult in the female, a sort of puerile effemmate corporeal comliness, which bear to the possibilities of masculine opment the relation of moonlight to the blaze of noonday.

And, futhermore, the direct loss to the species of such unfoldment is even more loss than the consequence of the impress produced, by the transposition of beauty cult, upon maternity, which vast subject can only be referred to here. So long as present *ocial condition persist, existing, as they do, from an economic system which, at the opening of the 20th century, has not advanced one jota from the principle underlying barter of aloriginal man, so long will woman be compelled to endure the evils pressing upon her in her-position of dependancy. We said: "Hold on a minute; let us understand one another—do you mean to say that the "Appeal" is owned by the S. D. P.? "Yes," they said, "the paper is owned by the comrades in Kansas and Wayland is simply editor."

"Well," we said, "If that is the case then your party is responsible for what appears in that paper, are they not? In consequence of this we must say your party approves of a queer lot of 'Socialists.'" They saw we had them, so they promptly ran away, declaring that if such narrow tactics were followed the 'Socialists" could never do anything. The first remark looks like a scheme to work up sympathy for those papers so as to get more dupes to send in their cash. Can any of the comrades shed any light on these two remarks of the So-cial Democrats? Is the Postmaster General going to stop the paper, or not? Does Wayland own the "Appeal to Reason," or does the S. D. P. or Socialist Party own it?

Oscar Roscer Moline, Ill., Nov. 14.

The Buzz-Saw in Michigan. To THE PEOPLE.-This is the first report we have had to our official organ from Pontiac. I came to this place a little over two months ago, and I was the only S. T. & L. A. man here Pontiac is a town of about nine thou-sand inhabitants due north, twenty-five miles from Detroit in the county of Oaklaund, surrounded by one of the most beautiful agricultural districts that you could find, and rated to be the second wealthiest town in the state of Mich-igan; that is, for the capitalist you know But here we have our wage slaves just the same, here is about the price that labor sells for here: teamsters $1.40 to $1.65, farm hands, that is when there is a rush on, or capitalist prosperity as the Democrats and Republicans call it, $1.25 to $1.50.

The next great concern in Pontiac is the carriage workers, and these poor wage slaves average about $7.00 a week that is when their masters or blood uckers will let them work.

Now for the cigar makers. There are three factories here: the Mascotte, Union or onion; Mr. Palmer's buck eye onion, and H. C. Ward, the million-aire open shop. The last is where I work. Now I will just take the reader back to when I first came, the prices then were straight four and a half, filler o scrap $7.00; perfectos, four and a half or thereabouts, $8.00; perfectos blended, $9.00. But this good multi-millionaire with the assistance of his wage slave. the superintendent, a Mr. Pease from Hartford, Connecticut, who was a street car conductor, I am given to un derstand, cut our prices in the follow nig manner: our $7.00 filler work $6.00 perfectos $7, and for hand work perfectos almost five inches long, we get the large sum of $9.00. Who ever heard the like Ho! ho! ho! Now these same men are still voting for just what caused this reduction in their wages, to wit, the Dem ocratic and Republican parties.

But I did not forget to drive Socialism in them as the S. L. P. teaches it. The following night I was invited to their boarding house, to explain the principles of the S. L. P., and I went, and when I was through they all agreed that the Fighting S. L. P. was right, also invited me again.

I will never rest until I have a Section or a Local S. T. & L. A., so be up and doing at all times for the Fighting S. L. P. I have got four subscribers for the WEEKLY PEOPLE, also I gave away eight books, and now with such seeds that I planted I expect to see a Section. Would like the comrades of Hartford to look up this man Pease's pedigree and let us know about it in the PEO-PLE.

By the way, what is the matter with the London S. T. & L. A., Cigarmakers, that they have not let us know what the onion is doing, or what is the Alliance doing. Wake up, old boys and let us hear from you in the near future. One of your old members.

H. S., NEW YORK—Tho' deferred, your matter has not been dropped. Inquiry now raises this question: Are the Oil Compan-ies of Texas referred to in THE PEOPLE and those advertised in the "Abendblatt" the identical things?

the identical things?

W. E. K., CHICAGO, ILL.—You are a pleasant and entertaining fellow. Shall take your points up in successive weeks:

1st.—Mention the passage in which THE PEOPLE "abuses Francis Ficke."

2d.—Does THE PEOPLE "abuse Kautsky"? Is it to "abuse" him to mention the fact that it was he who, at the Paris Congress, introduced a resolution in which impartiality was considered a possible thing on the part of a capitalist Government in the conflicts between Capital and Labor? And is it to abuse him to point out that that is a base desertion of the class struggle so well taught by himself in former years? Other points next week.

the three machinists, who tell you that the McVey of Syracuse is "a good machinist and tool maker," are right, and that the Syracuse despatch, speaking of him as a "helper" was wrong, then, if the matter is considered of sufficient importance, the way to do would be to send a letter to this paper with details: it would be published; the Syracuse correspondent would surely answer, and then the truth would be established.

answer, and then the truth would be established.

If, however, your point goes further, and purports to make out that, McVey being described in The PEOPLE as the basiness agent of the Syracuse I. A. of M., he, THEREFORE, could not be a mere "helper," as stated in the said Syracuse dispatch, if your point is that then you reason falsely. It is an established fact that family ties and other "pulls" have secured for more than one man a job in a Union of a trade that is not his. There have been cigarmakers acting as delegates of longshoremen (Dan Harriss); non-descripts acting as delegates of tackmakers (Frank K. Foster); etc., etc. "Pull" can very well have secured a "helper" a job in the Machinists' Union.

I. T., CHICAGO, ILL.—Your terms are self-contradicting. Seeing that a close adherence to the principle of the class struggle is dictated by all the lessons of history and experience, it is self-contradictory to impute intellect to an element that ignores the class struggle. It is, moreover, absurd to yield to such "intelligence".

T. W., BOSTON, MASS.—The real trouble with you is you lack the sense of humor. Don't you see the humor in the Social Democratic, or Democratic Social posture? They declare Edward Bernstein is right. Now what is the point in Master B's contention? It is that Socialism will not come via revolution but via gradual reforms yanked out of the bourgeois, Stick a pin there. Now turn to their declarations and protestations. Why, Lucy insist upon calling themselves "Revolutionary Socialists", Can you keep your face straight? BOSTON, MASS.—The real ary Social straight?

R. L., NEW YORK -The Party's Jewish organ, the "Abend-blatt", is getting along first rate since it put out the scabby crew of the Hebrew Typographical Union and employed Alliancemen throughout.

F. L. N., KANSAS CITY, MO.—Your Father Kuhis and the rest of his fraternity are all seen to in the pamphlet that the Labor News Co. is about to publish, entitled "Socialism vs. Anarchism", being the speech recently delivered in Boston. Send in your order.

Y. R., NEW YORK—The "Volkseltung" crew is a corrupt crew. Their very present business manager, one Bordollo, received money from Tom Platt in and for their campaign of 1887, and with their knowledge. This is an open secret. No wonder they are incapable of conceiving the stern purity and self-sacrifice of the S. L. P. T. P. P., BALTIMORE, MD,—If you insist upon not stepping out of the immediare sphere in which your troubles arise, you will never understand them. That has been the blind-alley into which the pure and simple labor fakir has led his dupes in the pure and simple unions, annd why it is so hard to bring an idea into the heads of these. C. A. C., MALDEN, MASS.—The four who sustained the chair were right. In the first place, it is the usage of the Party to consider as acts of conventions only the propositions acted on favorably. No others have ever been submitted to a general vote. In the second place, such usage stands to reason. In view of all the circumstances to be considered in the matter of ageneral vote, such vote partakes of the action of the Roman Tribunes. They could only vote "no".

N. T. L. LOUISVILLE, KY .- The "bring ing together" is the smallest part of the problem. Wolves and sheep are brought together by a common instinct to the banks of a river. But how about their holding together, except in the sense that the devoured and the devoured become one? Just so with capitalist and labor class interests.

C. K., PEORIA, ILL.—The comrade only met the man during a short stay of two days in Milwaukee, in '96. The opinion of the Milwaukee comrades was the man was a crook: he acted very much that way. They told many fishy things about him. From Milwaukee you could get the full details.

C. F. Z., ALTOONA, PA.—Further in-ormation on S. L. P. Lyceums will appear

L. L., CLEVELAND, O.—Ah, there is infinitely more behind that whine of your Cleveland "leading Socialists" about the danger of the S. L. P. getting a stenographer and nublishing the contemplated debate with Tom Johnson? It is not merely a confession of their solicitude for that capitalist politician. Who ever suspected them of otherwise? The real point is that the whine of these whelps betrays how sore they are about the New Haven debate. Its being stenographed, despite all their efthat the whine of these whelps betrays how sore they are about the New Haven debate. Its being stenographed, despite all their ef-forts to prevent its being stenographed, thwarted all their intrigues to lower the occasion into a mud-slinging contest.

occasion into a mud-slinging contest.

J. S., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Tariff legislation acts like a poultice for the trusts: it helps to bring them to a head. In the absence of tariff-legislation the field of competition is broadened, and the logical course of capital to grow into the trust carbuncle is held back. But it is held back only in the sense that the discovery of America, by opening more land, has held Socialism back. To hold that absence of tariff legislation, free trade, would have barred out, or would bar out the trust, is as erroneous a view, as it is a single tax non-sequitur to hold that by "freeing" land there would be no concentration of wealth.

J. T. K., SAN ANTONIO, TEX .- Mention passages; else your correction is un avallable.

T. R., BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Haven't you heard of the case of The Eleven Stubborn Jurymen?

T. A. D.—Money is wealth under the capitalist system, the same as Westinghouse electric motors, Northrop looms, hydraulic presses, Mergenthaier linotypes, etc. Under the capitalist system money facilitates and even enables production. Money under Socialism would not be wealth, It would be strictly a voucher for wealth produced and in existence.

R. B., VANCOUVER, R. C.—What is the history of the expression "Labor alone produces all wealth"; It is this: The idle capitalist claims that his idleness is a factor in production. By virtue of that claim he lays claim to wealth, its lion's share, at that. Thereupon rose that counter statement. It is a denial that idleness produces ought; and in that connection, it is amply true that only Labor can produce wealth. Nor can this statement remotely be construed as a denial of the share that nature takes in production. There would be a denial implied if the statement were that Labor created all wealth; it only claims to produce it on the bountiful lap of Nature, who asks no dividends.

W. P., EASTON, PA.—An S. L. P. man can accept no public office except from the conquering hand of the proletariat.

H. D., MARION, IND.—In what does your property consist? without you state that.

S. J. D., HARTFORD, CT.-Your Social

S. J. D., HARTFORD, CT.—Your Social Democratic friend may be quite sincere when he attaches importance to the smallness of the S. L. P. vote. Those gentlemen lack moral strength; and naturally so. No policy of compromise, no inconsistent posture can impart moral strength. They are like poorly shaped men and women, who must be helped out by padded clothing; they need votes to keep them in countenance. And there is where they will die. As they never can get a sufficient of that, they are doomed to look as the poorly shaped folks above referred to, when they are stripped of their paddings.

A. B. H., HOBOKEN, N. J.—The Krapot-kin meeting in this city was Sunday, March 31, of this year.

J. H. M., AUBURN, N. Y.—The point you raise is far from clear. If you mean that no bona fide circulation.
