NOT TO BE TRICKED.

Textile Workers Repudiate the Attempt of the Civic Federation to Sell Them out Through the Garment Workers.

MR. WHITE'S WORK.

Providence, R. I., April 11. - The "Trade Record" has a report which "The textile union at Providence has appealed to the United Garment Workers to issue a boycott against all fancy worsteds made by the American Woolen Company and also against the product of the Washington Mills. We saw Mr. Harry White last night at his residence and he confirmed this information and told us that the Cutters' Union of Brooklyn would meet Wednesday night to consider the matter and the Cutters' Union of New York would meet Friday hight and there would be a joint meeting of both Unions Monday night. He said that he thought they would act favorably on it and issue a boycott."

This canard was doubtlessly the work of Harry White, of the Garment Workers, and of the Civic Federation, whose attempt to break the strike was ranulsed by the R. T. & L. A. men here, and it is emphatically repudiated by them. It will be remembered that Mr. Marcus A. Marks, a member of that body, wrote to the strikers offeringto "arbitrate" the difficulty. The reply of the strikers was a blow from the schooling to the Civic Federation.

reply of the strikers was a blow from the shoulder to the Civic Federation. They said that they refused to be sold out as the striking carriers in Boston were sold out.

When the bosses could not make use of the Civic Federation, they use of the Civic White and he evidently turned to Mr. White, and he has commenced his work with this in-famous statement. The strikers here trust Mr. White of the Garment Work-era just as little as they trust Mr. White of the Civic Federation. They are one and the same persons, working for one and the same end—the victory of the bosses.

The strike here is still in the hands of the working class.

It was stated on good outhority tonight that if the woolen weavers strike was not ended by the 19th inst., one of the biggest manufacturing firms in this country, occupying the entire building at the corner of Hudson and Spring streets, New York, would cancel all its contracts.

of the three establishments of the firm and a consequent idleness to the "hands" lasting the whole summer, possibly until January next.

The above condition must likely pre-vails in other large clothing manufacturing establishments. It offers a vivid explanation of the motives actuating Marcus A. Marks, in offering Civic Federation "Intervention to the strikers; and Harry White's action in attempting to take the strike out of the strikers' hands by manufacturing a boycott ostensibly in their interests but really in the interest of the Clothing Manufacturers.

The trouble here began when a committee of weavers n the Chase Mills was elected to see Mr. Ots Wood, the agent of the mills. He could not be found so the complaint was laid before Superintendent Howard. Howard told the men to come around again in a few days, and when they called he again put them off. On the third visit he said it would be necessary to consult with Mr. Wood, and therefore delay still was necessary. When the men returned, insisting on an answer, they were told that Mr. Wood was in California and would not be back for several days. When the weavers heard this they decided to strike at once and not submit to any more trifling. In the vote which was taken 138 yound to strike at once, and 11 were against striking. citizens." with lawyers and clergymen, and all these were unanimously of the opinion that it was to the best interests of the weavers and of the town to call of the weavers and of the town to call the strike off and take anything that the bosses were willing to give. The "prominent men" did not think it right that good citizens of Webster should be affected simply because weavers in Providence had started a fight against the introduction of the two loom system, which virtually amounted to a stiff re-duction in wages and in a greatly increased product.

Glory and Ryan found no supporters for their proposition that the fight be abandoned, so they then announced that it was their intention to go back to work on the following Monday. When asked if they would abide by the result of a secret ballot they said they would not. They, together with several "prominent business men" spent Sunday trying to procure scabs enough to make an impressional statement of the scale of sion on the strikers. They failed mis-erably because, despite all boasts, only 15 men showed up in the morning, and they were a dispirited and dejected looking crowd.

Among those who started to work in Among those who started to work in the weaving department was Andrew M. Walker, secretary of the Social Democratic town committee, and a candidate on the Social Democratic ticket at the last municipal election. When the Social Democrats heard that Walker, and combined the social Democrats heard that Walker and completely the second beautiful to the second that walker the second that walk had scabbed they at once began to de-fend him, and advanced as arguments that he had to earn a living. But Walker, who is a loom fixer and not a weaver, did not last very long as a scab in a department in which he had never before worked. He is out of his job before worked. He is out of his job and the Social Democrats are trying to slace themselves by saying that he shlowed how he stood by the working class in not staying in the place. They did not add that he was fired. The mill agents are working hard to break the strike. A favorite method is to use one member of a family against another. It is not unusual for all the members of a family to be employed in different departments of one mill. Now different departments of one mil. Now when the weavers are out the bosses go to his relatives in another department he threatens them with discharge unless pressure is brought to hear on the striker and he is, forced back. This clubbing method is being openly employed, and the strikers have no way of fighting it off. Another method that is used is to send out news reports to the effect that off. Another method that is used is to send out news reports to the effect that the strike is braken and that practically all the strikers have returned to work. This is freely used as the mill owners have acces sto every paper in New England. The weavers were forced to get out the following statement to combat these reports:

Of Webster and Vicinity, and to the Working People in particular!

THE WEAVERS' STRIKE

in Chase Mills is not ended, all contrary statements notwithstanding. The Weavers did not get what they asked for; instead of Two Cents a yard, they were offered a Fraction of One Cent per yard on an average. When that Equalisation price list of the American Woolen Co., which reduces wages on 2207 of the companies' looms and gives a raise on 442 looms came before the weavers, it was unanimously

It Was at once apparent to the Weavers of Chase Mill that they have to take their stand with all the rest of the Company's Mills and fight for the abolition of the Two Loom System, which is only account able for cutting down our wages and a motion to this effect was carried without opposition whatsoever. Our local mill officials are not to blame directly for This would mean the closing down this trouble, but the officials of the American Woolen Co., which operate 20 difference on the closing through the contract of the contract o ent mills in the New England States, are well Able to settle this difficulty if they choose, forthwith. Therefore, Fellow Workmen, do not condemn us in our fight—we fight for our rights and better con-

WE are well aware that we may have a hard struggle before us, but we are also aware that we fight for a JUST and GOOD cause, and therefore feel assured that victory will be with us. Per order, COMMITTEE OF CHASE'S WEAVERS.

To-night the strikers held a largely attended meeting in Turn Hall, and it was there made manifest that they will not return until they either have won their fight or else until they have put up a strong battle to the end. Many of the strikers are Germans and they have stood out to a man.

David B. Hill is once more a visitor to the Democrats in New York, Tammany has given him the good right paw, and the claws are sheathed beneath the and the claws are sheathed beneath the velvet which Tammany has even when it is out of office. There were great preparations made for the coming campaign, and the rejuvinated Democracy, freed from the free salver and other populistic drags is ready to step in and do things. It is going to make a fight not only for the city but for the state also, and by the way that the reformers have buried themselves it looks as though considerable might be done. PLEBS LEADERS AND LABOR LEADERS.

BY DANIEL DE LEON.

ADDRESS DELIVERED IN MANHATTAN LYCEUM, NEW YORK, WEDN ESDAY EVENING, APRIL 2, 1902, UNDER THE AUSPICES OF SECTION GREATER NEW YORK, SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY.

[Stenographically reported by BENJAMIN F. KEINARD.]

YORK:

It is now close on sixteen years since 'cat's-paw" of the storm of the Labor Movement drew me within its whirl. It is now close on twelve years that I have been intimately connected with the Movement, my whole time, my whole thought devoted to it. A certain impression that I gained at a very early date of my connection with the Movement has grown upon me with ripened experience. As a rule it happens that when one joins a movement of this magnitude with all the natural greenness that I did in 1886, he, after a few years of activity, finds it necessary to wipe out a good many of the notions he came with, and a good many of the impressions he gathered at the start. And so it was in my case. Nevertheless, out of the wreck of all the false opinions and notions, and of the illusions that I had brought along with me, and out of the wreck of all the false impressions that I gathered early, and that exper-ience showed me should be abandoned, one impression did not prove false. On the contrary. That one grew upon me by the day. And the more I learned of the Movement in America, the more I saw of it-and, as you may judge, my opportunities have been exceptional during these twelve years—the more I ob-served what happened in other coun-tries in which the Socialist or the tries in which the Socialist or the Labor Movement is active, all the strouger did that first impression grow upon me, and all the completer shape did it take. That impression was this: That the Socialist Republic, another way for saying, the "Emancipation of the Working Class," would never come about, could never come about, could never come about, another way to be a support of the work of the work of the country of the work of the work of the work of the work of the country of the work of t were devoted to certain lines of observation, of study and of activity, which

I found were neglected, at least not fully appreciated. The essence of Socialist theory, of Socialist philosophy, is simple. The com-bined economic law of Exchange Value, and sociologic law with regard to man's a nut-shell. And the deductions from them are obvious. The former demon strates that the man who produces with tools that render his labor more expensive than the labor socially necessary, cannot possibly hold his own against the man, who, producing with improved machinery, devotes less labor upon the production of certain goods. The latter demonstrates that the tool is the weapon of man's supremacy over Nature: master the tool, man harnesses Nature to his service, and maintains his freedom from his fellows; without it, he is the slave of him who is equipped therewith. Coupling these two laws, the philosophy of Socialism radiates in all the luminousness instinct in simple Truth, and, in its rays, the Socialist Republic rises in all its splendor, not as a mere Haven of Refuge, but as truly a Promised Land to the human race, freed at last from the nightmare of Class-Rule.

Now, this theory or philosophy, can be cularged upon: broader and deeper re-searches may impart greater breadth and depth thereto: it may be enriched by ex-cursions into the manifold subjects that branch off from, or are tributary to it: men of eloquence may add thrill to the presentation. That's all true; and it is well that that be done; such a theme calls for and needs the amplest efforts of That not all the efforts expended upon that line; nay, not if we were to pile up essays upon essays on those subjects mountain-high, and indulge in the most marvelous refinements of science, will the Socialist Republic be brought one inch nearer its realization—aye, on the contrary, all such noble efforts might even turn to its undoing; I say it de-liberately, TURN TO ITS UNDOING; something else is attended to also. And that something else I missed, and missed from the start; and missed all along And as the ship of our Party got into deeper and deeper waters, and severer and severer gales beat against it, I had occasion to feel more and more how much time had been lost in furnishing the masses with instruction upon just that thing that I have in mind; and that is, a knowledge of what I may call the STRATEGY and the TACTICS of the Movement.

The words strategy and tactics have acquired in the public estimation a false meaning. They are generally identified with trickery, deception, duplicity. Now, strategy and tactics may degenerate into all that; but deception, trickery, dupli-city are not at all things inseperable from strategy or tactics. Take an army that, under the blazing noon-day sun,

COMRADES OF SECTION NEW, marches directly, in a straight line upon | away of the kings. The Rome that fills the enemy's fortifications, and storms them: there can be no duplicity there, there can be no tricken there, there cannot be there any question of cheating: everything is done in a straight line over and above board: and yet that army moves obedient to strategic laws, and it every motion is in rythm with tactical principles. If it neglected either at any time, it would be destroyed.

Strategy and tactics imply simply a military knowledge, of the topography of the field of action, and of the means at command. Strategy implies a military knowledge of the strength that lies in that hill, the weakness that lies in yonder hollow, to the end that the one may be seized, the other avoided; or to the end that, if the strategically strong place is in the enemy's hand, no disas trons surprise overtake us, and if we happen to find ourselves on the strategically weak place, we may know enough to throw up intrenchments. Similarly, tactles implies a military knowledge of the strength, the weakness, the qualities, in short, of the forces unsecordingly.

der fire, to the end that we may proceed Now, the Socialist Movement may be likeued to an army, and it travels over a field that may be closely compared with that over which an army advances. The Socialist Movement should, accordingly, be posted upon the should, accordingly, be posted upon the military topography of the field it is reperating on, and of the tactics dictated by the nature of the forces it is operating with. The purpose of these two lectures is to supply to a certain extent, the existing deficiency on these subjects. Of these two lectures—"Two Pages from Roman History"—the second, "The Warning of the Graechi," that is to be delivered two weeks from to night will livered two weeks from to-night, cover a tactical weakness of the Social st Movement: thereby help to poin out certain pit-falls that are to be avoid cd. To-night's subject, "Plebs Leaders and Labor Leaders," is intended to point out a certain strategically strong post held by the enemy, the Capitalist In-terests: thereby draw due attention to the danger that lurks from that quarter. With these introductory words I shall enter upon my subject.

LABOR LEADER AND PLEBS LEADER.

That ap parition is the Labor Leader, together with the trades organization back of The question that I pos night, the question that is of interest to the Socialist Movement of the English-speaking countries to answer, if it is to banish the illusions that otherwise lead to Paris Commune disasters, or cause great Movements to be switched awry, that question is this: What does that Labor Leader signify? What strength is there in him; and, if there is any what is the nature thereof; and to whose interest does it accrue? In other words, what is the strategic significance of the Labor Leader on the field of the modern Social Question? Is it a hill top whose strategic posture accrues to is it one whose strategic posture accrued to the benefit of the Capitalist System

We should profit by the experience back of the age we live in. History has not commenced with us. Other nations have preceded us. Other nations, now among the dead, also had to deal with their Social Questions. In order to understand what is going on today, it is derstand what is going on to-day, it is nges gone by, in states long since passed away. Karl Marx, in that remarkabl brochure of his, "The Eighteenth Brumaire," says that when man wants to interpret what is going on in his own day, he tries to find a parallel in the past, and that such action is like the action of a person trying to learn a new language; he always keeps on translat ing that language into his own, the nev language being the new event, his own being the events that lie behind him, and which, having rounded their course, can be fully understood. In order to interpret the new language that is being spoken by modern events, let's translate it back into the well known language of now well understood past events: we shall understand the new term "Labor Leader" when we recall the career of the old term "Plebs Leader" in Roman istory. The page of Roman history to which I turn covers about 120 years, say a hundred years. It covers the period of about 500 B. C. to about 400 B. C. It starts substantially with the chasing our minds, our eyes and our ears; that Rome, insatiable of plunder, reckless of human life; that portent of rapine;—that Rome has her formative period during the century of her life that I propose to take up with you. When the Kings were chased away, all the social and political elements that later turned into the Fury we know of, were yet in ferment only. During that period of about 100 years they take shape. When that period closes, it is substantially a new social-political compound that steps upon the stage, the Rome, that, driven like a Fury from her own seething cauldron, becomes a scourge to the world, and ends by consuming herself. Let's look at these political and social elements. First at the political,

POLITICAL MECHANISM.

It will not be necessary to go into a minute account of the constitutional law of the Roman state. It will here suffice to designate the principal wheels of the political mechanism, and to point out their leading functions and features. In doing this I shall use modern terms, familiar to all. That will answer all practical purposes to-night.

The wheels of the Roman political mechanism that | concern us

The Consuls: The Senate;

The Centuries: and

The Colleges of Priests. You may wonder how the Colleges of Priests came to have a place in the ma-chinery of government. We will come to that.

Broadly using modern parlance, the Consuls represented the Executive, the Senate and Centuries the Legislative, the Colleges of Priests the Judicial Power. The Consuls were two; they were elected jointly and annually by popular vote, in the Forum.

The Senate consisted theoretically of 300 members; they held office for life; vacancies were filled by the Cousuls. The body partook of the character of a House of Lords, in that its legislative functions consisted mainly in passing upon measures ordered in the popular branch. The Senate sanctioned these or refused its sanction.

The Centuries were military divisions of the people. Together, the Centuries constituted the whole people in "Committee of the Whole," gathered at the Forum. They elected the elective officers, and enacted the laws,—subject to the sanction of the Senate. The singular method of voting by the Centuries is of importance in the subject in hand; I shall come back upon that later on.

Finally, the Colleges of Priests. 1 said they represented the Judiciary. They did in this way: If a law or an election, distatesful to the Ruling Class, was forced through; if, for any one of the thousand and one causes, apt to arise wherever actual oligarchic power is draped in the drapery of democratic forms, the Ruling Class of Rome found it prudent to yield in Forum and Senate Hall;—in such cases the Colleges of Priests would conveniently discover some flaw in the auspices, some defect in the sacrifices. That annulled the election or the law, as "condemned by the Gods."

—This fact suggests another parallel, a parallel between what happens to-day in Organized Churchdom (applause), and what happened in Rome. The allure-ment is strong to branch off into that. But I shall resist it, and move on.

SOCIAL CONDITIONS.

Such was the political machinery of the Roman State. Now to the social aspect. What was the composition of the people who operated these four wheels of government, and who were affected by them? What I was com-pelled to say, in order to explain the political function of the Colleges of Priests, indicated that the Roman people was not a homogenous mass; that in Rome there was a Ruling Class and a Ruled Class. Indeed these classes were well marked Socialists need not to be told that so long as the machinery of production is not in the hands of the people collectively, there must be a ruling class and a ruled class; there must be a working class and an idle class; there must be a class that toils and does not enjoy life, and there must be a class that toils not and does the enjoying; and that the enjoying and no biling coincides with the ruling, while he toiling and not enjoying coincides with the ruled part. Socialists need not to be told that. It is of prime interest, in connection with the subject in hand, to have a distinct appreciation of the line of class-cleavage in the Roman Commonwealth.

The Roman peoples were divided into two Orders. One Order was called the Vineland, N. J., April 13.-The cuaof strikers yesterday at the Jonas Glass Company factory is almost the sole topic discussed at Minotola. Three wemen, all of middle age, were put to work yesterday morning, at removing ware from behind the lehr. Mr. Jonas said he will continue to increase the number of women in his employment as long as the strike lasts. Vice President Doughty, of the union, this afternoon declared it to be his be-lief that this was the first time to the history of the glass industry that women were called upon to do such work. This move is to disconcert the strikers and if the pickets can be induced to try and get them to quit, the company will set up a howl that the strikers are mobbing

Another move on the part of the glass company, which is keeping the strikers guessing, was the serving of eviction notices on the tenants who have joined company.
Mr. acras postal a notice yesterday that he would pay higher approximate wages than any giass factory in the country.

The unicu's pay day Friday was followed by the company's pay day yesterday. All the residents of Minotola are consequently "flush" with meney.

Yesterday the glass company hoisted big American flag to the top of its factory stack, and next Monday the strikers will unfurl a still larger one from a high pole. A brass band and speeches enthused the strikers yesterday. Vice President Poughty said that the union spent about $18,000 to win the strike at Bridgeton two years ago and was ready to expend the same amount again.

It was rumored to-day that the workmen in the Cumberland Glass Manufacturing Company plant at Bridgeton, which Jonas has an interest, were contemplating a strike, in sympathy with the Minotola strikers.

They will go it alone in building work, doing the work on the chemical plant and refusing to act in sympa they with the carpenters or any other building trade in Denver. A split in local building trades circles is thus precipitated. The chemical company had a little of beam and joist laying, and has hired non-nion men to do it. The carpenters protested, and the council having sus-tained them, all the other building trades were ordered to leave the job. The bricklayers say that the carpenters work amounts to about $200, while they are by this order deprived of work for forty men for five months, and that abo 1.500,000 brick are to be laid. Fulton, N. Y., April 9.-Last night, W. L. Brower, General Secretary of the Socialist Trade & Labor Alliance, in company with District Organizer, Charles H. Corregan, of District Alliance No. 20, Syracuse, N. Y., attended the meeting of the Fulton weavers, Local Alliance, No. 348. The object of their visit was to explain to the weavers here the condition of the strike in the New England mills of the Woolen Trust, and to order a strike in the local mills.

The meeting was held behind closed doors. A lengthy discussion was held. During the meeting, it was found that a number of the weavers were opposed to the order to strike. The meeting lasted until midnight and no decision was arrived at. Adjournment was taken until 9 o'clock this morning. At the hour appointed, all the union and non-union weavers came out of the mill and assembled in Johnson's Hall. The chairman, on calling the meeting to order, stated that the officers of the Local had considered the strike order and thought that it would be best to take a vote whether they would obey it or not: and to show to the vil-lagers that the proceedings were con-ducted "fairly," they had decided to appoint a committee of six to canvas the vote. The committee, as appointed, consisted of two weavers; the General Secretary of the S. T. & L. A., and the District Organizer, and two business men, namely the postmaster and a dry goods merchant. As soon as this was announced, both the General Secretary and the District Organizer, protested, on the ground that this was a matter that interested only the organization; and outsiders had nothing whatever to do with it. Notwithstanding the protest, a motion was made to proceed with the ballot-ing; and the motion was carried unanimously.

Union members voted first. They voted 32 in favor of the strike order and 44 against. The non-union weavers next voted: result 2 to obey strike order, 30 to remain in. When the vote was announced the women weavers arose and denounced the men for their cowardice.

District Organizer Corregan then addressed the meeting. He read the official order from the General Execu-tive Board of the S. T. & L. A., and at th conclusion of his remarks de-clared the charter of the Local Alliance revoked. Corregan said that no Local of the Alliance would be allowed to continue within the organization, that refused to assist their Class when called upon to do so. These remarks were received with cheers by those who had voted to strike. Those who voted to strike declared that they still stood by the Alliance, and asked Corregan if he could not give them clear cards to show to their striking fellow weavers that they had done what they could to assist them. Corregan in-formed them that if they would apply to him at the District headquarters, 14 Meyers Block, Syracuse; he would arrange the matter for them.

The reason for the action taken by the weavers was because Supt. Weeden, op Tuesday, had announced an advance in prices of a cent and a quarter a yard

Fall River, Mass., April 9.-I see by the DAILY PEOPLE of April 8, in the report from Augusta, Ga., about the textile strike there the following:

I notice that "Local Unions here have no money and are depending wholly on promised assistance from Fall River, the strike being directed by A. Hibbert, of Fall River, who has never been seen by the strikers. The Augusta strikers have a promise of $2 a week. Fall River people have told them that they can win in ten days as the mills here have large future delivery contracts on hand which must be filled promptly."

Now, let us look at these Fall River people. On January 13, 1902, the Saga-more Mill No. 1 weavers came out on strike against that system known here as the lengthening of cuts without any extra pay, which shut the mill down for the slasher tenders and card room help. All of these being members of Local Unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L. A. Hibbert, General Secretary.

The vote stand-ing 76 against and 11 for. Such was the sympathy of the weavers of Saga-more Mill No. 2 for their fellow weavers of the No. 1 Mill. After the mill had been running two weeks every loom was in operation. When the Sagamore No. 1 Weavers voted to go Sagamore No. 1 weavers voted to go out on strike they were told that the strike would not last two days as the cloth market was going up; that was on Jan. 10; but the weavers have not got back yet.

After they came out on strike they were advised to stand for a 46-yard cut and they tried to force it on the Sagamore a single corporation. The strikers told the agent if he would The grant it they could get the other mills to give it. But a 46-yard cut the Saga-more Company would not grant but they offered a few concessions to the weavers, which the weavers would not pt. Instead they voted to stay out accept. Instant tay you a volume of the weeks a conference was held between the manufacturers' committee and a delegation from the Local Weavers' Un-ion on the standard length of a print cut. But nothing came out of it, un-less it was for the Sagamore strikers to drop the 46-yard cut. But all their looms were running, being tended by local scab weavers, and being kept in repair by the loom fixers, members of the Local Fixers' Union whose Secretary is on the Executive Committee of the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L., of which A. Hibbert is General Secretary and Whitehead is

After dropping the 46-yard cut the weavers voted to remain on strike til they could get the Sagamore offi-cials to take them back in a body. This the officials would not do, but would hire them as wanted; the res is the strikers are looking for work where. Mr. Whitehead putting out the statement that there is not a single weaver, member of the Local Weavers Union, in the Sagamore No. 1 Mill. Union, in the Sagamore No. 1 Mill. Such is the fate of the Sagamore strik-ers being scabbed upon by their fellow affiliated members of the United Textile Workers, and after being out three months, they see all the benefits except the 46-yard cut being reaped by scab weavers, aided by every dependent textile worker in the mill, not to mention being refused the sympathy of their fellow weavers of the Sagamore No. 2 Mill who received a benefit by getting a few concessions through the strike of the No. 1 Mill.

Now, why do the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L., officers, go down South and order a strike? Why did they not order out its members of the Sagamore No. I Mill to assist the weavers to get their work back again, instead of letting them break their ranks and go in search work to every part of the city.

If the Local Weavers' Union only have a few more strikes to end like this one with not a union weaver workthe mill, with that same mill full operation, they will have to pull up stakes and go in search of new feeding ground. Now for Mr. A. Hibbert, General Secretary of the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L. At a certain conference with the manufacturers' committee, he, Mr. Hibbert, made the statement that he had been caught for a sucker by McKinley. This statement is copied from the Fall River "Daily Globe" (that was after a big Gold Prosperity parade which ended a little while after with a cut down in wages), then we find this same Secretary Hibbert run-ning on the Republican ticket in 1899. Then we find him down in Lawrence and as reported in the Fall River "Daily Globe," of Feb. 14, 1902, this is what he had to say at a meeting there: He told of the benefits derived by the atives of Fall River as the result of organization. He declared that every labor law in the interest of the Textile Workers had been placed on the statute books by the efforts of the textile workers of that city. He re-ferred to the strike now on in Fall River (meaning the Sagamore Mill) in this connection. He devoted some attention to the Socialist movement. He declared that the strike in Fall River be conducted for 150 weeks without the strikers asking for outside assistance, whereas the strike in Olneyville which is being conducted by the Socialist Trade & Labor Alliance, could not exist 24 hours without charity. They say that we are tied to one idea. He asserted "We are tied to nothing. We are going ahead and those who get in the way of the band wagon are going to get hurt." (Fall River "Daily Globe," Feb. 14, 1902.) Thus we find this same A. Hibbert who says he was caught for a sucker by McKinley, in 1896, running on the Republican ticket in 1899, elected General Secretary of the United Textile Workers of Ameri-ca, A. F. of L., with $800 a year in 1901 (An organization which they, the pure and simple labor leaders, claim is the finest scheme that ever entered the mind of an operative), and in 1902 making the statement in Lawrence, Mass., that "We are tied to nothing (who is that WE, Mr. Hibbert), and now, according to the report in THE PEOPLE of April 8, 1902, is conducting a strike of Textile Workers down South, backed by the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. of L. An

Socialists do Honor to A Departed Comrade.

The undertaking rooms of Olin & Son, 244 East Thirty-fifth street, were filled at the funeral services of Karl Malmberg.

The services were opened with singing by the Scandinavian Socialist Singing Society, after which Charles G. Techo, who was well acquainted with the de said that Malmberg had always done his duty as a Party member. He said that Malmberg's sole regret was that he had not received the fatal blow upon the barricade instead of at the hands of a cowardly murderer,

At the request of Section Allegheny County, Pa., S. L. P., of which section Malmberg had once been a member, Ella Reeve Cohen read the following

We feel that it is utterly impossible to express our grief over the loss we have sustained by the untimely death of our comrade and friend Karl Malmberg.

Ever faithful to his class; militant and unflinching in the performance of his duty; ever uncompromisingly fighting for principles we hold so dear; always progressive in his actions; never shrinking from the battle for right; thoroughly hon est, trustworthy and sincere, we realize that the blow that cut him down in the very bloom of his activity was indeed a sad one to those who are striving for the emancipation of the Working Class from wage slavery.

How plain is to be seen the efforts of the Capitalist Class to stave off the day of our freedom; it stops at nothing to attain its burpose and sets the Working Class of one nationality at the throats of another; it plays religion against religion, creed against creed, color against color.

Thus can we see that his life has been sacrificed on the altar of capitalism.

Let us, therefore, even in our sorrow, new our efforts and strive with greater Class to the end, that the day will soon when freedom shall reign and slavery of all forms shall disappear with the Capitalist Class that breeds it.

May his name be enrolled upon the roll of honor of our martyrs who have been denied the pleasure of seeing the day when the Socialist Republic shall have been proclaimed.

Daniel De Leon then spoke a few words very feelingly. Referring to Malm-berg's last words De Leon said that our dead comrade had truly fallen in the field of battle. He was a victim of the working class struggle for existence under capitalism.

Singing by the Singing Society closed the services. Floral wreaths were sent by the 19 & 21 A. D., S. L. P., of which body

Malmberg was a member and its representative to the General Committee of Section New York. The 28th A. D. also sent a wreath. A committee representing the section was present. Karl Malmberg was one of the stanchest and most agressive of the militant Socialists, and his loss will be great to the Party. But what he did he did well, and the spirit of what he did, will live after him, because what he did was along the right line, and was well done. MUNICIPAL PLATFORM had been on now five weeks and could And Manifesto of Section Roanoke

The Socialist Labor Party of Roanoke, Va., in Municipal Convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the National platform of the S. L. P., and indorses its policy on the ecomonic and political field. Acknowledging the self-evident truth that labor, properly exercised, produces all wealth, but that, in adverse proportion, the wealth thus created by the Working Class is appropriated by the Capitalist Class, whereas, on the other hand, the creators of all wealth, the Working Class, are allowed barely enough to eke out a miserable ex-Istence. The result of such conditions is an incessant Class War perpetually carried on between the different classes, with the in-evitable result, the overthrow of the economically weak, the Working Class, by the economically strong, the Capitalist Class In proof of the above assertion, fellow worklugmen we ask you to take a retrospective view of the oast, beginning with the great A. R. U. strike in Chicago, where the railroad corporations assisted by President Cleveland's troops smashed into fragments the unarmed forces of organized labor for which act on Cleveland's part, Senator organization that we of Fall River Daniels of Va. in the U S. Senate at the time, introduced a resolution of endorsehave only read about in the local papers, up to the present date. A good many of the affiliated members even ment, from that point let your memory travel downwards over the bloody fields of Homestead, Buffalo, Brooklyn, Hazelton, do not know they are in such an organ-Wardner, Idaho, etc. You remember the great iron and steel workers' strike, and the ization as it has never done anything machinists' strike of last year (1901). In ail of the above named contests between the contending classes on the economic field, the Capitalist Class, the economically strong, did, either by the brutal methods of club, bullet or bayonet, or by the more refined yet more cruel weapon of starvation, or both, force the economically weak, the Working Class. refined to submit to their imperial will, proving beyond doubt the criminal folly of the Gompers, O'Connels Schaffers, et al policy in leading the rank and file the labor unions, with their naked fists or hungry stomachs, against the guns and bayonets of the uniformed thugs of Capitalism, the State or Federal troops. In entering this municipal campaign, we know, that the social ills from which the Working Class suffer, are too deeply rooted to abolish within the limits of any city by Itself. That must be the work of the Nation at large. Nevertheless, while we hold constantly in view our ultimate goal, the Nation's Capital, we know that conditions can be improved, and the future degradation of the Working Class checked, if the Working Class is conscious of the fact that it must strike at the right place in order to become master of its own destiny In view of this, the S. L. P. of Roanoke, Va., submits to their fellow workingmen of this city the following manifesto: Fellow workingmen of Roanoks, Va.: At this stage of the three card monte game, of which you are the victims, and in which your labor (mis)leaders, the Gompers, O'Connels, Schaffers, Foxes, et al. on the one hand, and their masters, the Hannas Schwabs, Straus' et al, on the other hand, are the principal players. We feel it to be our duty to remind you of the fact that hitherto you yourselves have been the greatest enemies to your class, and will continue to be so until you awake to the knowledge that "he who would be free himself must strike the blow." In the past you have been asking your enemies, the Capitalist Class, to do the striking for you in short, you have periodically requested the Capitalist Class to commit financial suicide for your special benefit. And be cause the streak of insanity in your modern Capitalist Anatomy does not turn in your direction, you have raged and stormed called them cruel monsters and heaped a dictionary of billingsgate on their devoted heads, only to turn to them again on the next election day and asked them for help. Instead of helping they have invariably hurt you and hurt you bad. When you asked them for bread, they gave you a club, a bullet or a bayonet. Why did your capitalist masters treat you so? Mainly ecause of the inert cussedness you ex claim! Nav. verily in self defense did

There are only two parties to the dis tribution of wealth created by the labor of the Working Class. The idle Capitalist Class and the tolling millions of wage slaves who produce it. Consequently more wages and shorter hours or both to the Working Class means smaller dividends to the Capitalist Class, on the other hand, lower wages or longer and more intense hours of toll for the Working Class, spells larger dividends to the Capitalists greater hardships to the workers. Ah, but you say, there is no necessity for the Capitalist to cut wages every time he does so. Yes, there is. And your failure to understand why the Capitalist must not only cut wages, but continue to do so in order that they may exist as a class, is due to the fact that your labor organ izations have, for a long time, been under the domination of Mark Hanna's Labor Lieutenants, the Gompers et al; JUDAS ISCARIOTS OF LABOR all of them, who by their vampire cry of no politics in the union, capitalists and laborers, must get closer together, and such like ghoulish mutterings, have fanned you to sleep, while their capitalist masters sucked your life's blood. And thus have they prevented you from disecting in your union meetings the very inmost and intricate machinery of your capitalist system of production in the U. S. and the world. A study of which would have taught you this that the capitalists of our country had long ago burst thel national bonds and were now struggling in the world's market for a sale of their surplus product, which they rob from the Working Class. You would have learned also that the world's market was, and i rapidly decreasing in size, a fact plainly demonstrated by the $14,000,000 deficit in our export trade of the year just ended as compared with the previous year, or the other hand the productive forces of those gigantic international competitors is ever on the increase. In a word, fewer markets on one hand, and an ever increase of marketable commodities on the other forcing our capitalists to cry out contin these reasons they reduce wages and extend and intensify the hours of labor. And you my fellow workingmen must suffer either way. If they cut your wages, you suffer and if they do not cut your wages, and as sequence lose their markets, then they will shut down the factories and again you suffer. Looked at in any light empiratists, if they must live, must get their living out of the hide of the Working Class. He cannot give up any of his profits, he needs it all to enlarge his factories and keep them up to date in order to suc ressfully withstand the onslaught competing capitalists. These truths you ould have learned by economic discussions at your union meetings, and the knowledge thus gained, would have enabled you to cram down the throats of those fakirs and traitors to the Working Class the Gompers et al. their blatent lies about identity interests of the capitalist and the laborer, and would have you and your families many tears and hart burnings, the concomitant evils for the only party which represents you class and its interests, the S. L. P. In a government such as ours, all po-litical power is vested in the hands of the Working Class, who are therfore respon sible for the acts of that government which they put up and hold in position by their votes.

DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—The enclosed little story is a translation of one written by my brother, Karl Malmberg, for "Arbetaren." I translated it while here in New York on my sad errand from my Minneapolis home. It was my intention to read it at his bier last night, and let him thus give his last message about Capitalism to his comrades. But I am not the stoic I thought I was and broke down at the last moment. Please print it in the DAILY and the WEEKLY PEOPLE. I think it is well worth a place. He called it "Wage Slaves" originally, but in memory of him I will name it

WAGE SLAVES.

Victims of Capitalism.

The machines rattled and made deafening noise. It buzzed and hissed in the belts, all sounds imaginable, mixed into one tremend-ous, defeaning, irritable shirk and The air in the large room in the roar. factory was thick with dust of every kind Dust went along with every breath; it was dust that laid heavy on the lungs dust that made breathing painful, dust that poisoned the blood, dust that killed. By the machines stood the wage slaves, with bent backs and staring eyes, their hands on cranks and levers. The maands, on cranks and levers. chines went with lightning speed, cranks turned, levers rose and fell, and the machines turned out the wealth, of which the wage slaves received but a small portion, while their masters kept the lion's part. Every nerve of the workers was strained-it had to be, for at the least carclessness the machines with their iron grip might get hold of a man and in such cases it was good luck to get away with nothing worse than a crushed hand.

In the foreman's office stood a box with bandages, which not long before had been painted in some light color, with a red cross on the cover; but the men had to rush to it so often and open it was their dirty fingers that now it was almost black-cross and all.

Not many words were exchanged be tween these miserable workers, because, ever though men and machines were packed very close together, it was almost impossible to send a sound through the clamor to the nearest man; and to leave the machines, even for a minute or two, meant deprivation, for the piece work was already brought down to a point where it did not allow a minute's stop. The slaves had but two alternatives; work to death or starve to death.

Of course, these workingmen had a union When they had looked despairingly about for some help in their deplorable condition, they had listened to the advice "Organize, boys, organize"—and organize they did, but from a wrong standpoint. They were organized to establish friendly relations between themselves and their masters; they were organized on the principle that the workers in one room had different interests from the workers in the next; that the workingmen at one machine did not have interests in any way identical with those who labored on another kind of machine and that there was nothing in the world that could unite their interests with of workingmen in any other part of the

The superintendent of the shop was to celebrate his birthday. That was nothing new, as he did it once every year; but this was to be the fiftieth. The bosse decided, that as he always had been a good master-for them-and as he always was pleased when they had ordered a cut in the price of the work, he ought to have a present, so they got out a list which they took around to the workmen shop.

The list went from man to man, and one after the other signed away a part of his already small wage. Of course that was the way to establish "friendly re-lations" with the man whom they hated as only a good slave driver can be hated. More than one closed his teeth together and muttered an oath while he wrotebut he DID write, because he knew that the oreman who took the list around had the power to fire him without any cause whatever, and furthermore, there of the list stood the of the president of his union, and of ourse his example had to be followed.

But there was one man who said a prompt and certain NO. That was a workingman with dark sparkling eyes and a strong characteristic face, who had worked in the place only a few weeks, but, however, had already been taken notice of by the rest. The leaders of the union feared him and kept out of his way, as he was ready to show proof upon proof why the kind of organization which they favored, hopelessly and helplessly led the workers from defeat to defeat, and that it defeat was a benefit to those only, who, like themselves, had climbed or tried to climb rpon the backs of the workingmen as leaders at large salaries. However, dur ing the meal hours the men used to gather around this man, and with the greatest wonder and surprise listen while urged them to class-conscious action. They listened eagerly while he showed them they had interests identical with those of the entire wage working class, and how these interests were diametrically opposed to those of their capitalist masters

He spoke eloquently of a political party, the Socialist Labor Party, that organized the working class according

MALMBERG'S LAST MESSAGE to such principles, and he told of an economic organization, the Socialist Trade and Labor, Alliance, that was built upon the same foundation, and with sure pace was digging the grave of the kind of union to which they be-

At first they scarcely knew whether to consider him a friend or an enemy all that he said was so strangely new out what most surprised taem was that ne was always ready to prove every assertion, ready to crush every objection Day by day the slaves listened to him more and more attentively, while their capitalists to destroy their excellen leaders, who never dared to enter into ascussion with the man, explained, beand his back, that he was hired by the union, which had done them so much good. However, when these leaders go together by themselves, they looked anxiously at each other, but hoped that the man would be discharged-such a breeder of discontent would soon make himself impossible.

The next day after the circulation of the petition, a piercing cry of terror rang through the deafening noise in the shop, and like an echo it was resounded by hundreds of voices. The machinery was stopped, and all rushed to the upper end of the room where a bloody ragged mass was hanging on a shaft near the ceiling. It was one of the workingmen who had been caught in a belt and been hurled to a sure and sudden death. Ladders were brought, and after some trouble the tattered, unrecognizable remains were loosened and gently taken down. There was scarcely a bone that was not broken, scarcely a square inch of the whole body upon which there was ot a cut or bruise. He was laid upor a stretcher, and four men carried him down the steps.

The horrified fellow workers stood in terrified silence around the place of the accident. Suddenly the young blackeyed man jumped upon a box among crowd, and said with a clear and steady voice: "Again has one of us been murdered by that class, to one of whose representatives you yesterday were willing give a present. Yesterday you acted like cowards, act to-day like men, and come together to-night when you are paid and decide to hold back what you promised on the bosses' begging list. Give that instead to the widow and the little ones of the murdered man." The slaves stood dumb with surprise:

but at that moment the machinery start ed again and the foreman advanced towards them and ordered them immediately to return to their places. There was a few minutes conference in the office, and soon the foreman came to the young Socialist with the information that his services were no longer needed. He packed his things together, and said in passing, to the nearest man, that, nowever slavish and misled the working cople now are, the day shall yet com when they will see their position clearly and then they will throw off their backs their false leaders as well as their capitalist masters. Then he went to find another master to whom to sell his labor power and other fellow slaves to whom to point out the road to freedom.

There were birthday festivities in the superintendent's palace. Among the many presents was also an elegant silver "From Thankful Workingmen All the workers in the factory had given towards it but one—he was discharged. All that had promised had paid except the one whose tattered remains now laid in Potter's field, while his wife and three little ones were starving.

INTELLECTUAL CONTORTION.

Harriman and Crosby Give an Ex-hibition of It Under Stand-ard Oil Auspices

An affair which was advrtised as a de ate on "Socialism vs. Single Tax." was held at Cooper Union, last night, under the auspices of the People's Institute, which is maintained by New York capitalists, especially those of the Standard Oil group, purpose of running the revelution ary spirit into the ground.

Two experts in the art of intellectual contortion. Job Harrimann and John L. Crosby performed the feat of lauding each other instead of telling the difference between the two theories.

Job Harrimann, who took the stage first, had with him a single tax terminology, having left his "socialist" ones at home. He called the capitalist class "industrial lords and captains of industry,"and tried to prove by excerpts from George's "Progress and Poverty" that Single-tax meant social ownership of the land; failing thereby to show that Single-tax is a fiscal meas ure for the expropriation of the so-called "unearned increment" or economic rent, which leaves the title to land unchanged.

Crosby followed the cue given by his friend "Job," as he called him and told the audience that he was glad to debate out the subject of "Socialism" vs. Single-tax before such "an intelligent audience." am a socialist." he exclaimed, "as long as it is not artificial. Public ownership of public utilities is the real thing, as I believe certain functions ought to be undertaken by the State, a thing perfectly in accord with the Single-Tax. God and nature created land values, therefore humanity at large should be beautified by them and not one class." He then tried to show by quotations from Carl Marx that private ownership in land was the basis of all exploitation and degradation. "Take this basis away and the present order must col-lapse." He did not show, however, how the single tax would restore the land to the people. At the end of the debate, the director Prof. Charles Sprague Smith, prought both debaters forard and caused them to shake hands, and then the andience went home, feeling that they had attended good talking match.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Hiltner, Organizer.

Sewerage System the Only Thing Generally Owned.

In its current issue the Engineering News presents tables showing the extent to which the cities of the United States own their "public utilities," From these it appears that, taking the country as a whole, nearly every municipality owns it own sewerage system, over half own their public water supply, one-eighth or more own electric-lighting plants. Very few places own gas works, only one city owns and operates a street railway system, and not a single municipal tele phone exchange is reported. There are, however, some municipal telephone fire-alarm and possibly police telegraph systems. Of the less common municipal services, a few cities own ferries, and n few others own conduits for underground wires, but none own commercial central heating stations. Omitting sewerage systems, water works and electric lights are the only classes of service in which municipal ownership has been adopted to any considerable extent. The number and age of municipal gas plants, however, places municipal ownership in this field beyond the experimental stage. Municipal fer-ries also, though few in number, have peen in existence for a number of years.

Municipal electric-lighting plants are few and far between in the larger cities of the country, and increase rapidly in relation to private plants as the places diminish in size. The distribution of the municpal gas plants among the various groups of population is fairly uniform, although here also the majority of the works are in the smaller towns. It may be added that all the private sewerage companies are in places of less than 30,-000 inhabitants, and all but two in places of less than 13,000, while for water works it is notable that eight of the ten and forty of the fifty largest cities of the country own their own water-works plants.

Mines Shut Down and Strikers Are Being Evicted From Company Shantles-Company Stores Closed Down and Clerks Dismissed.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 9.-The "Post'

"A remarkable development in the roal miners' strike in the central district fields has taken place during the past few days. It is learned from offirial sources that the strike of the miners there, and particularly those who were employed by the Rochester and Fittsburg Coal Company, has determined the coal company upon drastic measures for stamping out all unionism in its section. The Rochester & Pittsburg Company operates three mines, the Walton, Adrian and Florence. All are near Punxsutawney, and upon them depend fully 10,000 men for employment. Of this number 6,000 are the regular miners. The rest are filling other occupations.

"After vainly endeavoring to get an agreement satisfactory to the officers of the company and finally despairing of the company and finally despairing of it crders were given to clos the mines. This order means the absolute idleness of the properties of the company for at least all of the present rompany for at least all of the present summer. It will leave the miners without work, whether they would work or not, and wil seriously affect business in Punxsutawney.

"The first step taken was to issue the notice to the miners occupying houses owned by the company to re-houses owned by the company to re-move from them. The first of these ejectment notices were served last Thursday and were to miners who had been among the leaders of the strike. All of the others are to have similar ces served upon them during the ent week and, with their families, present week and, with their families, will be compelled to move. In addition to this the company's stores have been practically closed down and the clerks dismissed.

"It was announced to the men that company would not open the mines again until next fall. In the meantime miners and all employees could look elsewhere for work. When the company was ready to begin again, it was said, they would hire non-union men only and would not recognize any scale or agreement of the United Mine Workers."

Wilkes-Barre, April 9.—The execu-tive committee of the United Mine tive committee of the United Mine Workers met here yesterday and decided that there was no immediate prospect of settling the eight months' strike of the Maithy colliery of the Lehigh Valley Goal Company, recent negotiations having been futile. Six hundred men are idle there. An effort will be made to effect a settlement of the strike at the Avondale, Pettebone and Woodward collieries, six weeks on strike, and negotiations will be reopened with the officials. Two thousand five hundred men are idle.

The board members left this even-ing for Bernice to make an effort to settle the strike of 700 men there which has been on for 13 months.

TWO PAGES FROM ROMAN HISTORY.

Patricians, the other Order was the Ple-

PATRICIANS. The patricians can be easily defined. They were the clan nobility of Rome; were the descendents of the comparison to the rest of trician houses had declined in property, the patricians were, as a whole, large property holders, both in land and money being a nobility, the patricians were the political rulers.

PLEBEIANS.

The word plebeians is harder to define, and here is where the interest of th subject begins to centre. Huxley somewhere lays to the door of Milton Huxley the unscientific conception of creation that is popular to-day. He claims that the beauty of the rythm of a certain passage in Paradise Lost, and the passage in Faradise Lost, and the majesty of its language, has popular-ized an error that civilization has long since discarded. And so may we charge Shakespeare with being responsible for the popular misconception ther is with regard to the word "Plebeians. In one of Shakespeare's great tragedies, "Coriolanus," there occurs a certain passage, in fact the play almost opens with the passage. In the very first act, a crowd of rioting Roman citizens are introduced, and one of them, addressing the mob. says: (reading)

"We are accounted poor citizens; the patricians good. What authority surfeits on, would relieve us: if they would yield us but the superfluity, while it were wholesome, we might guess they relieved us humanely; but they think we are too dear: the leanness that afflicts us, the object of our misery, is as an inventory to particularize their abundance; our sufferance is a gain to them. Let us re-venge this with our pikes, ere we become rakes: for the gods know I speak this in hunger for bread, not in thirst for revenge. Owing, I think, very extensively to this remarkable presentation, the popular con-ception of the plebian order is that that element was made up of the poor of the workingmen of Rome; and that conception you will find cultivated even in the school-books on history. Here and there something leaks through to indicate that there were rich plebeians, but the point is never made that the term "plebeian" in Rome did not designate people effected like this plebeian that Shakespeare puts in the front of his play of Coriolanus. The term plebeian meant in the Roman language and the control of the contr meant in the Roman language, the "mul-titude." It was a term used in contradistinction to the few, the patricians. In other words, it was the antithesis of oligarchy, the patricians being the few, the plebeians being the many. It was not nomic distinction.

Indeed, there was no such ed line of cleavage between "patricians" and "plebians." There were rich men, in land and money, among the plebeians probably more of them than among the patricians. The difference between the two sets—patricians and rich plebeians, lay in this: a patrician who lost his property did not, therefore, lose caste: artificial social corks kept him in his patrician rank and the political attributes of his clan-nobility, with the aid of which he migut again attain economic power: on the contrary with the rich plebeian, the loss of his property carried with it the loss of the only power he had,—economic power. So absolutely of the same economic class was a considerable portion of the plebeian order with the patricians, that rich plebeians and patricians shared together the spoils that their economic power conferred upon them.

CLASS LINES.

Again using modern parlance, the Again using modern parlance, the plebs, the multitude, fell into three economic classes: the "bourgeois" or large property-holding plebeian: the "middle class" plebeian; and the "proletarian" plebeian, this last forming the majority of all, a working class, stript of all property, and forced to hire themselves out for a living. So that, in point of economic or class distinctions, the Roman nomic, or class distinctions, the Roman nomic, or class distinctions, the Koman commonwealth was divided, not between "patricians" and "plebeiums," but the class line of cleavage ran between patri-cians and "bourgeois" plebeians, on the one hand, and "proletarian" plebeians, on the other, with a "middle in between. Patrcians and "bourgeois" plebeians, holding the economic power, or means of exploitation, jointly wielded their power: the "proletarian" plebs were exploited, the "middle class" plebs were up-rooted,—very much in the way the process goes on to-day.

Now, what was the means of exploitation? It was not machinery. Machin-ery, as we understand the thing, did not then exist. The means of exploitation bore, all the same, close resemblance with the modern means. Already then the law of exchange value was bound to affect things. The same as to-day the man who works with a large factory has a power over the man who works with only a small factory, and can smoke him out, and throw him into the class of the proletariat, so likewise then the man who held large farms could produce so much more plentifully, could produce with so much more economy, that the middle class landholder could not hold his own, and was proletarianized. It goes without saying that the power of ic tyranny that manifested itself in the uprooting of the small holders, or middle class, had a direct manifestation in the direct exploitation of the workingman, and rendered the position, at first of the agricultural and subseat Brst of the agricultural and subse-quently of the urban proletariat, all the quently of the urban proletariat, all the harder to bear. The specific sources of the increasing economic tyrunny and ex-ploitation, which manifested themselves in the Roman State were the following:

SOURCES OF ECONOMIC TYRAN-

NY AND EXPLOITATION.

Rome was almost always engaged in rar. As a rule she won. The immewar. As a rule she won. The immediate result of the victories of Rome was the enlargement, not of the Roman territory merely, but of the estates of the large landlords. The territory of the conquered nation in Italy was partitioned among the conquerors. Theoretically, the allotments were to be equal among all. In point of fact the large landlords, brakes on freight trains.

patrician and bourgeois plebs, grabbed the bulk; the middle class was allowed a sop; the proletarians were left out in the cold. The larger the estates grew, all the more precarious became the existence of the middle class.

Again, after making the allotments, a portion of the conquered territory was always left undivided. It was reserved for the "public domain," a "common," so to say. On that public domain the whole people, theoretically, were allowed to graze their cattle. In point of fact, the large property-holders, patrician and bourgeois plebs, virtually appropriated these public domains for their own herds. Under the guise of a usufruct, for which they paid the government a rental that nominal, and that often was not was nominal, and that often was not paid at all, they kept the public domain in perpetuity.—to the still greater injury of the middle class, and, in some instances, even of proletarians.

Again, in the extensively commercially developed Rome, money was a staple of prime need. The patricians and bourged plebs were not landlords only the "Single-Tax" gets knocked out in Rome at the very start (laughter)-they were also money-lenders, usurious money lenders. The hard-pushed middle class farmer readily found a patrician or bourgeois plebeian money-lender waiting to "help him out." The result was his expropriation.

Again, in the instinctive hankering of their class after the property of the small holders, the Roman large property-holders speedily descried in taxation a prime means to their end. In this manoeuvre the Roman large property-holders gave points to the Dutch Pensionary De Witt, points that he did not fail to take 2,000 years later. The community of interest between patrician and bourgeois plebs drew them into close alliance. The tricians laid on the taxes: patricians and bourgeois plebs shifted them deftly over to the shoulders of the small holders, and thus directly urged on the whole-sale sweeping away of the middle class, and reducing it to proletarians.

There was a fifth source of economic oppression, which does not manifest it-self at the very start, but that grew, and grew, and became a crying evil, bearing directly upon the proletariat. It was chattel slavery. Along with the territories that Rome appropriated from the nations that she overcame, she appropriated their people too. Thus an ever-increasing horde of slaves swelled the Roman labor-market, raising there a question suggestive of that of "prison-labor" to-day. The middle cleass had no means to invest in the slave-market, or occasion to use the slave. Patricians and bourgeois plebs were the investors. Slaves in such abundance was cheaper than free labor. They were bought cheap, treated worse than cattle, worked for all they were worth, and, when ex-hausted, cast off to die like the dogs. The page of slavery in Rome is the darkest in the whole history of chattel slavery. The hordes of slaves threw the proletariat on the streets and highways.

Finding it hard to compete with the large landlords owing to the small-ness of its own farms and its exclusion from the public domain, compelled to yield to the large property-holders large shares of its own product through the usurious rates of interest extorted from it, and staggering withal under the bur den of taxation, the middle class pleb-cians grew desperate; in even step, their ranks swelling by the accessions of the smoked-out middle class, and their labor rendered still more valueless by the gradual substitution of slaves, the proletarian plebeians became restive.

Thus stood things at the opening of the period of Roman history under con sideration-about 500 B. C. An economic struggle; a struggle for economic redress; a struggle—as this plebeian in Shakespeare's "Coriolanus" puts it—"in Shakespeare's "Coriolanus" puts it—"in hunger for bread," and to ward off "be-ing made rakes," in short, Class Struggle, however incipient, yet well marked The line of class-cleavage; it should The line of class-cleavage; it should seem, showed itself distinct enough to be perceived. Was it perceived? No. Why? We shall see. And, seeing, we shall also see the dire results of the Washington, April 11 .- In his testimony to-day before the Senate commit-tee on the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur, discussing the efficiency of Filipino labor, said there were about 400 natives emloyed in a certain corral in Manila and that for this work they received $15 in gold per month, while Americans received $40.

The Filipinos were, he said, quite efficient in this work, and while this pay was much less than that of the Americans, it was so much more than they had been in the habit of receiving that they were spurred to extra effort. He believed that the natives would be equato the task of cultivating the agricultural lands if sufficiently paid for their ser

THE FIELD OF LABOR *******

The news from the Field of Labor for the week ending Saturday, April 12th, had features about it encourage ing to the class-conscious worker. First and foremost among these features was the prominence attained by the S. T. & L. A. in two large strikes A prominence that cannot fail to be productive of good results to classconscious Socialism, since it is attained by a strict adherence to the doctrine of the class struggle and an open-eved recognition of the dirty work performed by the labor fakir in the interests of the capitalist class in that ers against the two-loom system in New England, Rhode Islanad, principally, and the electric linemen at Pittsburg, Pa. In the New England strike, the weavers, infused and actuated by the spirit of the S. T. & L. A. have contemptuously spurned the offer Marks, President of the National Association of Clothiers, in behalf of the Civic Federation; saying that they did not care to be sold out as the Boston teamsters and others had been sold out by the Civic Federation. They pointed out that all their efforts at a direct settlement with the Woolen Trust had been spurned. Under the circumstances the proffer of Marks was all the more suspicious. The weavers have also stood out firmly against the machinations of Labor-fakir White, who, through an alleged boycott, supposedly inspired by the weavers, sought to take the strike out of the strikers' hands and end it in the interests of the Woolen Trust and his employers, Hanna and Marks. Likewise have they turned down clergymen, lawyers, professional and ness men who have tendered their "good offices," stating that they did not care to have their interests looked after by men who knew nothing and cared less about them-who would sacrifice the strikers' interests in order to end a situation which was becoming detrimental to their own. The strikers preferred to handle their own affairs in their own way and in their own interests. Self-reliant, understanding the confusing and demoralizing be injured either by the explosives or effects of "intervention" they declared by falling rocks. Hands, legs and fugers their preference to treat with their exploiters face to face. A strike conducted in such a manner cannot but fail to accentuate the class struggle Issues are not blurred, but accentuated. The workmen is brought to a realization that in himself, and in himself alone lies the source from whence his victory and his emancipation must come: that to trust to others is to be deceived and betrayed, and if there is to be a settlement of the labor problem must be made with the capitalist class direct and not through its politically bought labor-fakirs, its pensioned and subsidized clergy, lawyers, hangers-on and menials of all kinds and character.

It was this same spirit that made its influence felt in the electric linemen!s strike at Pittsburg. There, through the work of the members of Local Alliance 189, who are out with the strikers, the latter refused to permit the District President of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, to settle the companies. They declined to entrust

Apart from these actions, which giv the S. T. & L. It is to be hoped that such events as those referred to above will be re-ported with greater frequency in the future. The working class will not be able to progress until it has shaken off the labor-fakir incubus and rejected the treacherous intermeddling of interested persons. Labor's emanci-pation can only come through itself.

All hail then to the S. T. & L. A., which is so prominently leading the way toward this much desired goal.

There is a difference between the owner of an automobile flying around in search of fun, breaking the laws, and incidentally killing and maiming, and a motorman who is driven to seize every moment of time because if he does not he may lose his job. This the capitalist press is quick to comprehend. The automoif he does not he may bilist is a "gentleman" and the moto man is not. ACCIDENTS AMONG THEM AN HOURLY OCCURRANCE.

The Water And Bad Atmosphere In The Trenches A Prolific Source Of Sickness-Small Pay For Risking

Yesterday Patrick Moynahan, of 1563 Second avenue, was brought from the subway trench at 31st street and Fourth avenue with his right hand crushed. An iron girder had fallen on it, tearing the flesh and breaking several of the bones. The wounds were dressed by a doctor in attendance and the man was sent home. On inquiry it was learned that accidents occur every day. They range from asphixiation to minor cuts and bruises. The work brings the men in contact with various gas pipes, with chambers filled with an accumulation of sewer gas, with the exudations from the ground, and with the dozen and one noxious things against which they must fight at all times. Men are constantly being overcome, and since the work started there have been not a few fatalities.

Still another source of trouble lies in the fact that the men are exposed to the most unhealthy and damp atmosphere. No matter how pleasant the day may be, no matter how warmly the sun may shive, it is damp and dreary in the trench. Often it is like working in a pouring rain, and the rubber boots and the heavy clothing worn are no protection. Frequently the men work in water to the knees, and with water from springs and leaks flowing on them in streams. This work lays the sure foundation of incurable and violent cases of chronic rheumatism. After a few weeks t of the work there is many a man who goes home to find that he is caught, and that his arms and legs seem tied in feels as though it contained a red hot

The accidents from falling boards stones, iron material, and instruments are so common and numerous that little notice is taken of them, and no record is kept. The men on the rock excavation are almost certain, sooner or later, to are crushed; eyes are injured, and cut, sprains and bruises are frequent. It is natural that the rock excavation should be the worst and should show highest number of accidents. Larger ones like the explosion in which 11 persons lost their lives are avoided daily only by the utmost watchfulness. Quantities of dynamite must be kept accessable, and its handling and use require skill and judgement.

Some of the men who handle it all day and every day get as little as $1.75 a day, though they take their lives in their hand every time they touch the giant explosive, and the lives of countousands depend on their care and faithfulness. The soft earth miners are not without their perils from falling and flying ob jects. The shoring of the cut is very carefully done, so there is comparative ly little danger from the earth falling. But a stone may roll out at any time, a piece of planking may tumble from its place, or a pick, shovel, a crowbar, or a drill may tumble from its position and inflict injury. The thing that most frequently causes trouble is the stuff that falls from the buckets into the very small stone dropping from the height of thirty or forty feet can cause painful and sometimes serious injury.

number of accidents to person working will amount to an average of about twenty a day. They are of all kinds and all degrees. Some of the men come back within an hour. Some of them never can come back. It is impossible to make any computation on quainted with it, and for rather sorrow officers of the union had signed with ful jests on the part of the men them-

The waiting list on the subway is enormous. There are a dozen men ready to step in and take each job. The pay is not large, and the conditions are horrible, but the demand for work and work under any conditions is so great that were the conditions worse and were the pay less there would still be too few jobs to satisfy those who wished to get them. Every day there are hundreds of idle and anxious men who look with envious eye on lucky slave in the trench. The work means sickness, bruises, possibly permanent injury, and it may be death itself, but it is a way to get bread and butter, and there are hungry ones at home in need of bread and butter, and any risk is not too great, any work is not too hard to satisfy the wants of wives and little ones.

Weavers Locked Out.

Paterson, April 15.—One hundred ribbon weavers employed by the Helvetia Silk Company found the doors of the mill locked against them when they reported for work yesterday, and a notice posted there to the effect that they would be taken in and allowed to work only if they applied one at a time. Some time ago the weavers were granted an increase in wages of fifteen per cent. They now seek ten per cent addition-and threatened to strike if they did not get it. Baer, manager of the mill, then de-cided on an original plan and locked the weavers out. Hires Non-Unionists.

Wikesbarre, Pa., Apri 15.—The Dela-ware, Lackawanna and Western Company managed to get seven men to fight the fire at the Jersey mine this morning. They are non-union workers, none of the men who went on strike yesterday going back. Supt. Barnes said this morning that he expected to have a working force in the bor" organization that is as much an mine to-morrow and hoped to keep the srm of the capitalist class as is the fire under control.

The New Industries.

The creation of new industries is taken by the friends of the middleclass to betoken a breaking down of capitalist concentration and control. Closing their eyes to the fact that the tatest results of capitalism are applied to new industries on a large scale thus rendering them incapable of middle-class utilization and exploitation, they fail to see that mere creation does not end concentration, but augments

Just now the country is witnessing a little performance on the part of a new industry that shows the fallacy of the middle-class faith in new industries. This performance is called "The Freedom of Cuba or the Downfall of an Infant Industry," or to be more precise, "The Sugar Trust vs. The Ameri can Beet Sugar Company, alias the Beet Sugar Association." In this performance these two factors are arrayed in deadly combat for the right of control of the sugar market of this country, through the tariff. The sugar trust backed by the sugar cane growers from abroad, claims that the freedom of none of them will pass as Socialist Cuba depends upon its ability to import the sugar products of the sugar trust made there, into this country at a tariff 20 per cent lower than the pres- great. ent rate. The American Beet Sugar company alias the American Beet Sugar Association, composed of beet sugar refiners and growers, who play subordinate parts, oppose this reduction on the ground that it would benefit the Sugar Trust, which would use the money thus gained to destroy sugar men. Like all the "infant industries" of this country, it demands protection until such time as it will be trong enough to dominate the hommarket and enter into world competi

The Beet Sugar industry has a pow erful lobby at Washington. It represents an investment of $30,000,00, with forty factories in 13 states, mainly in Michigan, and an annual product of 150,000 tons of refined sugar, valued at about $12,000,000. To what extent this new industry represents "decentral-ization" may best be judged from these figures. They show an average capital for each factory of $750,000; a sum hardly within the control of middle-class "financiers." The greater number of these factories are owned and controlled by the American Beet Sugar Company, whose President Henry Oxnard, is also President of the American Beet Sugar Association.

The Beet Sugar industry, under the domination of the American Sugar Company, has organized a legislative campaign in every respect similar to industries of the iron, coal, cotton and other gigantic and well concentrated industries. It has enlisted the country newspapers and has aroused farmers in the beet growing districts to bring pressure to bear upon legisla-tors in behalf of the beet sugar interests. It is fighting some of the oldest capitalist sheets of the country, like the New York "Sun," that are pretend-ing to plead for Cuba, when they have only the Sugar Trust in mind.

How this new industry-with its industrial aspirations, its large average capitalization, its powerful lobby, and well-organized campaign-can afford any other evidence than that concentration is inevitable and will persist, is not clear to one who is not a middle-class thinker.

Beet sugar is not alone in this respect. The white lead, the electrical, bicycle, automobile, naptha launch and other comparitively new industries, show the same tendencies to large capi talization, gigantic production and close consolidation. Having seen the performance in its most salient feathe number stricken with disease through tures, let us now ring down the curtain.

"HARMONIOUS" MEETINGS.

Barre, Vt., April 12.—It now looks in the Party's name in those days. as if the threatened strike of the quarrymen in Graniteville will peter out twenty-fi at the eleventh hour. The employers they last. agreed to confer with the men. local press is jubilant over the fact GOVERNOR ALTGELD'S PARDON. that the conference simply took the form of an exchange of views. The conference was so skillfully conducted in the interests of the employers that the committee from the union pledged themselves to use their best preuged themselves to use their best efforts to defer the strike pending further negotiations. At a meeting of the union held on April 8, a resolution was adopted deferring the strike till table. The completes teld the more April 15. The committee told the men that they hoped to reach an amicable settlement with the bosses before that date. Some slight concession may be made to the workers. However it has been pointed out that in deferring of that class hatred and class justice, matters the men are frittering away their opportunity.

Some of the men are questioning

the worth of an organization that does nothing for them, while it is ever on the lookout to gather in the dues.

When the quarrymen first organized they were enthusiastic and felt confident of winning. They knew that with stone selling at a dollar and ten cents a foot, while they received but $1.90 per day in wages, the profits must exceed six or seven times. class instinct goaded them to action but the Gompers organization has run that class instinct into the ground with its "harmonious" meetings.

It is our duty to show up this "laarm of the capitalist class as is the Republican party. Four Historical Books on the

IN AMERICA.

The development of a movement is most clearly reflected by the character or its literature.

The development of Socialism in America is of course clustered around the Socialist Labor Party.

The history of the Socialist Labor Party has not yet been written.

The development of the Party, however, can be discovered in the changing character of its literature. Years ago the New York Labor News Company was organized, and from the date of its organization the Company has been the Literary Agency of the Socialist Labor Party. The Company has published a large number of pamphlets, many of which are out of print. Some of the older pamphlets can still be obtained. They have a high historical value. We have lately classified them, and can now supply a few of the most valuable ones. Originally published as Socialist

A TRIPLE "DAILY PEOPLE LIE."

Take a stitch in a rotten cloth, and it will rip up somewhere else. A rent in a rotten cloth cannot be closed but at the expense of some new rent. Homely sayings these are, and yet so true that they approve their wisdom everywhere. The rotten cloth of the Kangaroo Social Democratic , alias "Socialist" party is making the experience, just now in Massachusetts.

Political corruption was a flower that could not fail to blossom on the corrupt nomic stalk of that concern. The claim that the infamies committed by the Organized Scabbery was "a noble waging of the Class Struggle," could not choose but have its external manifestations in the political corruption that showed itself in the Eichman, the Smith, the Macarthur, the Seth Tabor and in so many other cases where Social Democrats ran on capitalist tickets too, or accepted the endorsements of such. The Socialist Labor Party pilloried these acts of corruption and flayed the criminals as fast as they showed their heads, and these "DAILY PEOPLE Lies" made the scurvy Kangaroo squirm. Thereupon he started to "take stitches," he "passed resolutions" against such political log-rolling,-whereupon the rottenness of the cloth attested itself by fresh rips.

Before us is a Specimen Ballot for Webster, Mass., in the late municipal election, held April 7. The ballot is furnished with the signature of the Town Clerk, L. J. Upham. Now, approach and read the lay on the inside. There it will be found that not less than three can- Only then can their complaints deserve didates of the alleged "Socialist" party ran also on the capitalist .tickets,-two on the Democratic, one on the Republican. These worthies are:

John E. Carty ran for Town Clerk on the "Socialist" and the Democratic tickets:

James Farrell ran for Warden on the "Socialist" and the Democratic tickets; Martin V. B. Back ran for Assessor on the "Socialist" and the Republican tickets. Take a new stitch ye scabby crew of Kangaroo Social Democrats, who are seeking to throw disrepute on the fair name of Socialism; pass a new "resolution:" your rotten cloth-woven of Armory-building, of reception Committees to Secretaries of War, and of political logrolling, and of Kotows to the Organized Scabbery-needs stitches badly, and the more of these the quicker will the whole mass drop into the dusty detritus of the ash-barrel contents.

N. B .- The above referred to Specimen Ballot is in this office for inspection. Needless to say it is genuine. The S. L. P. deals not in forgeries. Such is the stock in trade of the Kangaroo only.

IS IT A NEW CONVERT?

The Rev. Dr. Moberly, Cauon of Christ Church College, Oxford, speaking in praise of the Cecil Rhodes scholarships plan, has said things that don't fit with the Canon functions. The Canon ctions are to put salves on the consciences of the class that plunders the workers; to make the plunderers out to be an elite class, the fit rulers of the world, chosen by Providence as the trustees of wealth to be enjoyed and "jusly" dispensed in "giving work." The Canon functions are to nourish in the abject and un-chosen masses a due that is calculated to breed contempt for the elite. But that's just what the Canon has done. Said he:

"Cecil Rhodes' plan will bring picked men of the best type of American, rather than the wealthy Americans who have hitherto come to Oxford, mainly for social advantages."

What does this mean if not that the Americans, chosen by Providence as the trustees of the nation, are not a "best type"? What does it mean if not that those "chosen trustees" misappropriated the trust funds entrusted to them, and, while pretending to be after learning, went to Oxford for other purposes? In short, what does it mean?

In these days one sees wondrous sights. And not a few are looking for some kind of Messianic phenomenon. Can the almost impossible be that Canon Moberly has got a new heart into him? Cau it be that he has become cleansed and converted? Can it even be that he is a forerunner of what is at hand, and that Canonship is about to defect wholesale from its false gods, and begin to preach Truth?

Who knows! Are there not Rev. Herrons, Rev. MacCartneys, Rev. Simon sons, Rev. Stett Wilsons, Rev. Vails, and Rev. Browns in this country? If so why should not these be at least one Canon in England who will swerve from the primrose path of dalliance and tread the steep and thorny road?

The Rev. Dr. Moberly, Canon of Christ Church College, Oxford, may be expected any day to be read about at some banquet of imitation Socialists in Eugland.

THE PITY OF IT.

At a meeting held in the Central Metopolitan Tabernacle last Friday evening, and said to be attended by "a number ct policemen's wives, mothers, sisters, and sweethearts, to uphold the policemen who have recently 'revolted,' and to favor the three-platoon system." one of the policemen's wives, Mrs. Frank W. Dunn, said:

"We are worse off than widows. We don't know when we are going to see our husbands; our children scarcely know that they have fathers."

Such a statement is heart-rending in itself, but the worst of it all is that the connection in which it is made rather tends to harden the heart against than to soften it towards those who make it. In the first place, apart from some use ful services to society, the bulk of the occupation of the policeman is anti-social, anti-human. He represents the brute force that is needed to keep in equilibrium the scales of a perverse social system. That under the existing social system, there are, for instance, robbers to guard against by an extensive force, is simply a proof that there is wholesale robbery legalized and crystallized under the very law that creates the police. Robbers would be curiosities where society guaranteed to all its members equal social and natural opportunities. The troubles that afflict the policeman's family, the object of their sufferance. is but a reflex and result of the very conditions that bring the policeman into existence. To complain, on the part of these, is a ticklish affair. It would have to be done cautiously and intelligently.

the attention of the just. If the policeman, or his family, stood up and said: "The existing perverse social system that robs ever broader masses of the people of a chance to live and that renders ever more precarious the living of us all, has driven us to our present work consists in shoring up this perverse social system: we know that in don't so we reduce the mass of the working class women to virtual if not actual widowhood, and deprive their children of the proper contact with their fathers: we know all this, and shall 'revolt' to a purpose: we shall exercise our freedom of suffrage and hammer away at the ballot | earth! box with the Arm and Hammer of the Socialist Labor Party until we shall have, jointly with all its victims, overthrown this inhuman capitalist system":if they did that, what good and sensible man would not at least sympathize with them, and to the extent that he could, aid them in securing some present relief?

But they do not! Not only do they, at least as a whole, stand for the capitalist system, but they emphasize the fact by surrounding themselves, as they did last Friday, with such notorious characters as the Rev. Arthur McArthur. notorious among the obscene birds engaged in the blasphemous business of blessing and approving with a text what ever damned error suits the plundering class of the capitalist.

He who invokes Justice in his own be half, must attest his right thereto by practising it himself.

AN UGLY CAT OUT.

Periodically there is an "Employers" Liability Bill before the Legislature" periodically there is a hearing uppn it sense of veneration for the chosen few.

It is, accordingly, clean out of keeping such occasions some sleek cat leaps out of registering machine. Instantly everyone the bag. So it was last Wednesday at the hearing in Albany before the Governor on an "Employers' Liability Bill' that is new in his hands. The cat in this instance was in a bag held by ex-Assemblyman Litchard of Alleghany County. Mr. Litchard has the floor:

"Your Honor: I ask in the name of the farmers that you veto this bill. veto it because it will work great hardship upon an element in our community that deserves all our love and affection,-the farmer. This bill bill compels every farmer to practically insure his employees against death or ac-cident. This bill (with pathos; the cat fs coming out)-this bill should be en-titled 'a bill to ruin the farmer.' Yes, to ruin the farmer. The accidents to farm-laborers are numerous. The farmer would be ruined if he has to make good in damages the injuries caused by acci-dents on the farm. It is a heinous bill. The proposition is unheard of. It will drive the farmers out of our State. Rather drive out the bill!"

And slaughter farm-hands?

We know not Mr. Litchard; but he either is very young or, which is the same, very old. Only children and dotards would give their case so completely away. By the admission of their representative himself, the employing farmer is not to-day selling corn, or potatoes, or cabbages; he is selling human life and human limb with his truck. According to the admission of his representative himself, the employing farmer has a slaughter-house, and it is not cattle that are there slaughtered, it is human beings; - and such is the "interest" that the Governor is told "deserves our love and affection,' an interest, that, rather than take common precautions, that one should expect man would take in the interest of man, without the need of legislation to compel him, abstains from such precautions so extensive that, in the language of his own representative before the Governor, "accidents on the farm are numerous," so numerous that a bill to protect the employee "would ruin the farmer.' The cat that Mr. Litchard let out of the bag must have leaped full into the Governor's face.

A NEW SITLE OF EMANCIPA. TION FROM INDUSTRIAL SERVITUDE.

Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, three lives united in one effort to re-more man from the bondage of politi-cal slavery. They succeeded, and "The Brotherhood' seeks to complete the work by giving man freedom from industrial servitude.

Where is the above passage from? What is "The Brotherhood?" The passage has a vein of sense. To recognize that the work of the Washingtons, Jeffersons and Franklins need supplementing in a very important respect, reveals quite an insight into the affairs of the nation; and to conclude that the important respect in which the work of the Revolutionary Fathers must be supplemented is nothing less than the emancipation of the people from the industrial servitude reveals deep penetration. The passage almost sounds like a page from the Socialist Labor Party. What, then, is "The Brotherhood?" What is it about? Is it an organization that under such a general name contemplates the abolition of industrial servitude? Let's look closer.

"The Brotherhood" is the name of a benevolent organization, whose prospectus lies before us, and which tells the workers that for $2.00 initiation, and 50 cents a month, a benefit of $500 will accrue to them .- when? while they live, and might still start to emancipate themselves from industrial servitude by setting up some cock-roach establishment within the reach of such a cock-roach anital as $500? Oh. no!-after they are dead! Accordingly, "The Brotherhood" has conceived the novel idea of emancination from industrial servitude, after the capitalist system has so completely sucked all the san from the prospective emancipatee that he is fit only for play ing on the golden harps reserved in heaven for the patient sufferers on

When prospectuses like these-and they are very numerous nowadays, they rauge from co-operative corner groceries and such "Brotnerhoods" as just described, to grandiose Walter Vrooman bubbles to co-operate whole States at a lick by means of free concerts and bonds-, when, we say, prospectuses like these fall in a thinking man's hands in the large quantities they do in these days, what weird thoughts do not crowd to his mind! Can it be that the world seems made of a lot of knaves and a bigger lot of fools? A sober second thought restores comfort. The knaves being fools themselves, believe all others fools, and they prey upon themselves.

God speed them!

Andrew Carnegie proved that he did not know a good thing when he saw it when he refused to purchase a machine for registering thought. Said machine was offered to him at very low terms. and on conditions that any man would be glad to accept. It was also offered to him unexpectedly at a public banquet. The stories told of the occurance are a source of endless laughter. Several persons were gathered together when there arose in the middle of the ball a clergy-man, who, without introduction and it took an effort to prevent a panic. Later the clergyman who made the offer was arrested for taking ether by the gallon. The excuse given in both cases is that he took his religion without water and it went to his head. Had he had the necessary sense he would have diluted or mixed it and escaped the dire consequence.

President Roosevelt has the faculty of cutting his cloth so as to make people think that they think it is rather ex tensive. The point on which Roosevelt has done the most extensive cutting is in his "war record." It is true that he did spend a little time in Cuba, and that he did have some 450 pictures taken of himself in kaki. But his record did not extend beyond that excepting in so far as he made a most valiant retreat be-fore those who asserted that he never stood before a firing enemy, and never knew what it was to face a foe excepting in ward politics.

But by careful journalistic jugglery. Roosevelt has been enabled to pose as the "hero of San Juan hill." As a soldier he has demanded that he be classed with Washington, Jackson, Taylor, Harrison -grandfather-and Grant. The above persons really did fight, and a few of the others, including McKinley, had rec ords at which no upholder of war need But Roosevelt was in the field for a few weeks, and in a most inglor ious contest. Yet by persistent press that he licked the Spaniards with one prolonged blow.

Senator Hanna, at a meeting before the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia last Sunday, denounced Socialism as "un-Ameri-can and peruicious," while, on the contrary, the Civic Federation is highly American, and very beneficial. That shows that Mark is more or less per turbed over the outlook. The pure and imple unions are only too ready to assist in the steal, but the Socialist Labor Party, true to its mission as defender and teacher of the working class, making ineffective every move of the treacherous Civic Federation, of Aurelius included.

In a football oround crush at Giasgow Saturday 12 persons were killed instant-ly, 19 have since died, and it is expected that at least 35 of the remaining 250 hurt will die also. The extent of the fatalities was realized by most of those present, but they insisted that the game go on. There were, it is estimated, at least 80,000 persons present. It is a savage custom to hold games over the bodies of enemies, but savages would scorn the idea of games immed lately after their own friends, acquaint ances, or tribemen had been killed, and by them. It takes civilization and its hardness to tolerate such a thing as that. Is this the kind of sport that Cecil Rhodes calls "manly, open air," and that the beneficiaries of his scholarships are to picked from?

It is said that the police of various sea board cities are in the habit of purloining our gallant tars and holding them until they become valuable. Because of his leader-ship he has not yet been able to take his seat. Now he has won a little more no toriety, but in a new way. He has sued his tenants, and threatens to evict them wholesale. It was not known that Col. Lynch was a landlord, but the fact develops that he owns the shacks of some f the poorest, the most miserable and God-forsaken fishermen in Western Ire-land. Needless to say that Col. Lynch is a firy patriot, and as his political alliance indicates, an adovcate of Ireland for the Irish. The fishermen are all Irish. But they are on another Irishman's ground, and will have to get off.

A Hardware Trust capitalized $120,000,000 has been formed. The pushing business men who sell files, pinchers, and a few other instruments from carts are not members of it. The fellow who have little stores where they sel everything from a pint of paint to a pound of nails are not members of it.

These gentlemen have terrorized the neighborhood and have kept women and children indoors. For, be it admitted child or a woman may well fear their deeds of daring. It is believed that any two students at the school can lick any five year old child that lives. It is not a matter of record that any of the students, singly, has attacked a man. Miss Stone has swept down on the country with about sixteen serial stories, two hundred illustrated articles, and a few thousand lectures in the recticule wherein she once carried tracts for the beathen. But the heathen can bow down to his Birmingham-made gods, and can believe in all sorts of evil spirits, or, as the liquor advertisements remark, he can believe in "an assortment of choice spirits" if that suits him better. His once converter is here to convert the curosity of the American public into dollars and cents. She was kidnapped by bandits, and held for ransom. It was a case of cash on delivery, so the matter dragged long enough to have Miss Stone the most rescued and the most unres-cued woman that ever lived. But now she has kidnapped Major Pond, or some equally enterprising man, and wal not free the American people until they pay roundly for it.

The Philadelphia "Times" is of the opinion that the proposed consolidation of the "enemies of plutocracy," who are to meet in Louisville, Ky., is "entirely fit." The "Times" is right for once. Besides representatives of the "Union Labor," "Union Reformer," "Union Christian" and "Public Ownership" parties, there will be Messrs. H. The new combination should call itself the "Tutti-Frutti" party.

"The Sun" has at last come out in favor of the Raines Law and attempts go to prove that it is a really liberal measure that allows freedom compatible with decency, and drinking in keeping with temperance. The nonsense of this is apparent on the surface. There is no such thing as restrained "wickedness" that is compatable with decency in any way. Furthermore there is no such thing as a temperate indulgence in vice. Raines Law makes innocent drink ing an evasion. It places a premium on hypocracy. It leads to excess. It ruins character. It is and has been the cause of more trouble than any other law on the books. Its continuance is a connivance at crime, and when the "Sun' comes out in favor of it it is favoring and defending crime.

The McAuliffe case is growing interest ing, chiefly because of the disgraceful actions of the New York "World." It is not of special interest, in these strenu-ous days, that a man is stricken down or that a man is torn from his family and done to death, or that the District Attorney's office is unable to locate the murderer. The McAuliffe case would have gone the way of the others had their not been a suspicion that the police were responsible. Acting on this, the "World" saw a way to bolster up its falling fortunes, and at once offered $1,000 reward for the apprehension of the murderer or murderers. Then it raised it to $2,000. Then with true meanness, the same meanness that grinds its employees down to the limit, it sent its men around panhandling money increase the amount of the reward. believed that it would be able to collect believed that it would be able to con-a large sum, and use the whole thing to advertise its filthy self. ART THERE, TRUEPENNY?

The textileworkers' strike, like a good not fire, is bringing the scum to the surface of the social pot.

It will be remembered that the Hanna Gompers Civic Federation, flushed with their recent spoils in Boston, hastened to tender their "good offices" to the textile-workers now on strike in New England to resist the introduction of the two-loom system. It will also be remembered that the strikers' committee, located in Pravidence, R. I., promptly spurned the ten-der. "We don't want to be sold out," said they, " like the Boston teamsters and other bodies, handled by the Civic Federation, were sold out." Upon the heels of that manly refusal, that revealed the Socialist Trade an. Labor Alliance spirit that has the strike in hand, impor-tant things happened, and queer too. Despite the above refusal, the "Trade Record" published a story about the Providence Unions having appealed for backing to Heny White, alias Korkorwin-ski, who is the General Secretary of the Garment Workers and is one of the La-bor skates on the Civic Federation Committee of Saw Dust; and the report went on to say that this White or whatever his name may be, "promised favor-able action." How could the strikers, who refused the offer of the Civic Feder ation upon the excellent grounds that they gave, go out of their way and apply for support to White, perhaps the obscer est bird of ill omen among the bunch of twelve labor skates on the Civic Feder-ation? The puzzle was soon solved. The solution was simple. It was this:

The report in the 'Trade Record' a pure fabrication, which the strikers promptly denied, but the report was evidently an inspired affair. The puzzle became all the less puzzling when it was ascertained that large clothing man ufacturing establishments would have to shut down for want of n...terial if the textile strike was not quickly ended: one of the capitalist limbs on the Civic Federation Committee to "settle" Labor is a gentleman named Marcus M. Marks: this centleman is the President of the National Association of Clothing Manufacturers: and the noble Harry alias whatever it may be, is his "labor licutenant." Is there any puzzle left. Kicked out of one door, in their attempt Nicked out of one door, in their attempt to settle the textile work its, as they "settled" other workingmen battling for existence, the Civic Federation sought to enter by another door; kicked out when they came in headed by Mr. Marks, they tried their luck via Mr.

That the Civic Federation is there to "do" the workers is evident; that "labor" men on it are there to facilitate the 'doing" is also evident. The two are there to work harmoniously in the interest of the usurping capitalist class that is leading the country to the devil. manoeuvres of the Marks and Whites in this instance furnish further evidence the interests of the workers are to be sacrificed in the interest of the capitalis class: the National Association of Clothing Manufacturers need cloth,—con-sequently away shall be swept the demands of the weavers to stop the two-loom system of intensified exploitaton, and to this end the Harry White ele ment is moving heaven and earth together to get their hands into the strike management

In the midst of all this two other facts leap to view:

1st A strike run by S. T. & L. A. men is a horse of a different color from the article run by pure and simplers and labor fakirs: against the S. T. & L. A. article the capitalist intriguers can only shatter their heads, even if they knock down such strikes, they never can de bauch them and that is the point to be kept in mind.
2d Long-headed are the capitalists and their henchmen in their efforts to kill the DAILY PEO. LE. With-out the DAILY PEOPLE the Marks-White canard set affoat in the "Trade Record," could not have been squelched, at least not with the promptness that it was squelched. But in this as in other respects, the Capitalists and labor traitors will find that the S. L. P. does not consist of wooden nutmeg peddlers. They will find that the DAILY PEOPLE will survive all their machinations, and live to put the quietus upon them.

DARE-DEVIL-DIAVOLO EATON.

In these days when New Yorkers, at with the stale acrobatic feats of Barnum's successors in Madison Square Garden, the novel flying-trapeze feat performed by Horace M. Eaton, and reperformed by Horace M. Eaton, and re-corded in these columns a few days ago, must have been refreshing reading.

Mr. Eaton was long the General Sec-retary of a certain body known as the poot & Shoe Workers' Union, the "To-bin Union," as it was named for short. His salary, although a good deal larger than the wages of the ill-starred men out of whose dues it was squeezed, was not up to the Eaton ambition. Thereupon a series of flying trapezes were set up. One was the raising of the dues, with the result of a large fund being collected in the treasury of the "Union" the second was the investing of a good portion of this treasury in the business of a certain shoe concern in St. Louis Mo., the Hamilton Brown Shoe Com pany; finally the third flying trapeze of the series set up was the removal of the said Hamilton Brown Shoe Company from the "unfair" list of the The three trapezes being in position, they were set swinging, and then the great feat was performed. Mr. Eaton sprang at the first, swung himself high in the air, let go, and haded safely on the second, holding it with firm clutch. He then swung himself quickly higher up, let go and !anded firmly astride of the third trapeze,—the $5,000 a year managership of the said Hamilton Brown Shoe Company, from which high perch, he is new throwing kisses to his Union dupes, in the approved style of acrobats at the final tum-

The great attraction at the Madison Square Garden circus just now is Dare-Devil Diavolo. Let him go hide his diminished head in the nearest ash-barrel. He is not "in it". He is lurched of all honor, all glory, all distinction. He is distanced and lost sight of. He is as nothing to him whose name will henceforth go thundering down the corridors of Organized Scabbers, and who in states unborn, in accents yet unknown will be venerated as Dare-Devil-Diavolo

U.S.-Do you now see why he has earned the name of Prof. Green Goods? B. J.—Not yet, U. S.—His simile presupposes the capitalist, the fellow who put the bird into a cage, to stand by and look on at the birdy's wearing out the bars without ever strengthening them. Now does the capitalist do that? B. J.-Well-hem-U. S .- What happens every time after a strike? What does the capitalist do? Does he remain idle?

U. S .- As to the first, he draws closer to other capitalists, who, like himself are bent upon the same scheme, and they enter into a compact which is the start of the trust; they agree to hold one another free of all damage in case the "hands" of any should strike; in that way each is better able to resist the next beating of his bird against the bar. That is what happened in this city with the street car men in 1886, and more recently in Danbury with the hatters. At first, these workers tanged against the bars in a way to frighten the capitalists; but these soon combined; they agreed to proceed upon the principle that an injury to was an injury to all; and they entered into a compact by which each agreed to share the loss of the other in the event of a strike. Were the bars stronger or weaker after that move? B. J.—Why, decidedly stronger! U. S.—But they go still further in that direction. Take for instance those very street car strikers of 1886. When the birdy flew against the bars, the bars showed a peculiar weakness. Their "police alloy" was so slight that it seemed to favor the birdy's efforts. Just as soon as the capitalists found that out, they strengthened the alloy. their children, are being delighted the stale acrobatic feats of Bar- ropes and wires were pulled, and the government as represented by the police, courts, and militias, backed against the bars, holding these up, and the bird. .

U. S.—I was coming to that. At the same time that the capitalists strengthen the bars of the cage in the manner showed you, they weaken the bird itself, first by frequent and periodical "shut downs," whereby employment becomes unsteady, and then by the introduction of labor-saving machines whereby scores and hundreds of workers are permanently thrown out of work. With thousands of hands out of work, the flutterings of the "bird" ir a strike, agains the bars of its cage become weaker and more impotent.

B. J.—Right you are.

U. S.—Only those workingmen who realize this fact come out of the strike with "riper experiences," and it is only in so far as each strike knocks the bottom more completely under the hoary headed delusion of "pure and simpledom" and points to the superior tactics of New Trade Unionism or the Socialist Trade & Labor Alliance, that the strike is not a dead loss of time, money and energy.

We want to enlarge it an attach it to an extract from the Kangaroo circular, where they call attention to the wall (before it broke down) as an il-lustration of their "Socialism." We would like to know whether comrades throughout the country would like to have a copy of practical Kangarooism, or "Practical Socialism" as they called it. If there would be a demand for it in the country, we would be able to raise in that way a few dollars for our campaign here. West Hoboken Kangs.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—The Kangaroo Social Democrat Kraft gets it in the neck again; and this is how it happened.

The "Socialistic Club," of West Hoboken, formerly branch West Hoboken, Social Democratic party, advertised a Social Democratic party, advertised a public meeting in Imperial Hall, by means of hand bills and by mentions in their official paper the Hoboken "Ob-' (The instigator of rowdyism by public officers against the S. Four Socialist Labor Party men, mem their business meeting adjourned, thought they would "drop in and see" how Kang meeting was getting along. We found, by count, less than forty people present, inclusive of all, unless the only

Kraft was a good many.

Kraft was holding forth at the time and in his speech mentioned "the good' that the two representatives of the So cial Democratic Party in the Massachu-setts Legislature were doing in behalf of the working class.

Later on he spoke of the "gains" their party was making in the elections past to come. He denounced the capitalistic press for not publishing this news, and wound up by appealing to the audience to sub-scribe to the "Worker," which paper, he said, was being "maintained by the pen-nies, the dimes and the dollars of the wage workers,"—but for whose benefit he did not say.

His speech, at least that part heard by the comrades, could have been riddled in five noutes of fair argument.

Kraft was followed by a poor imita-tion of Weeping Jeems, at least that part of Jeems that applies to the weep-ing. This competition of Jeems is named This competition of Jeems is named Ufert. Every North Jersey Kang knows Ufert, Every North Jersey Kang knows really constitute the "Socialist Party" here. Morris Eichmann takes a back acat now-a-days. But to get back to Ufert,—he certainly is a star, or would be as a German dialect artist with the Weber & Fields Company. His speech consisted of better schools (that part is all right); better pavement; more parks; street-car service; he roundly de-ed the Town Council for general erookedness, but did not back up the statement; denounced the police for their position during the Schwartzenbach Silk Mill trouble, but forgot to say that his party built armories for strike shooters, when he denounced the Militia; be-wailed the fact that votes were bought for a few beers and cigars, but said nothing in reference to their only Morris Eichmann. He hoped for female suff-rage, and thought that they could not be rage, and thought that they being the for beers and cigars; spoke of and demanded a referendum; in fact he advocated all kinds of reform (he forgot public baths), but always with the ulti-mate object in view. What that ulti-mate object was he never once men-tioned nor did Kraft while we were

But the galliest part of his plea for votes was, where he claimed it was the Social Democratic Party that maintained the right of assemblage. Bright in our memory still is the night that comrade after comrade was yanked off the box and marched off to jail with the jeers of Kangs following them, emanat-ing from a gang of degenerates that collected before the house of Eichmann, all because the Socialist Labor Party debluff his audience with the statement semblage and speech. The truth of the matter is (it's on record in the minutes of the West Hoboken Town Council) that the Kangs petitioned the Council for the privilege of addressing the people on the streets, which petition was granted on condition that there be no "disorder," which meant that they were not to preach Socialism. These Kangs dared not follow in the path of

Eventually he finished his speech (?). but in the meantime the chairman and Kraft held a confab, and we knew what

After Ufert sat down, the chairman an-nounced that Kraft would conclude with a few remarks, after which if anyone present wished to ask questions or desired any information, they could apply at their headquarters.

Kraft then got up and warned his hearers against "a fake Socialist ticket" that the Democrats were going to distribute at the polls on election day. It was easy to see where he was aiming. As journed, a comrade got up and asked Kraft to mention the name of the "false Socialist party," to state the source of socialist party, to state the source of information, and to substantiate such a serious charge. Kraft was told by the comrade that he, the comrade, was on the Socialist Labor Party ticket, and that such a statement cast reflections on himself and the other comrades, and he defied Kraft to prove any connection the Democrats.

Kraft took refuge in a crawl. He said

It was heard by some one."
When challenged to debate with the comrade, then or at any time, to prove the Socialist Labor Party a spurious party, he made as if to take the challenge down in writing, but when the comrade walked to the table to sign a challenge, Kraft collapsed, and picking up a "Worker," started to read off the past general votes. When called upon by the comrades to stick to the question, and prove the Socialist Labor Party a fraud, Kraft yelled out "liar," if he meant to imhis henchmen jumped between, cautiontime, they were itching to get a crack than jostle us to the entrance. But Kraft sneaked out ahead, forgetting to announce his great play, "Now and Then." The barn stormer probably had enough of the real thing.

But the auties of the Kangs were great to behold. As soon as Kraft mentioned the word "liar," down went the lights, and up went the ire of the Kangs. Before, they boasted of the large increases of their vote; now they said it was because of us they made no headway a meeting, and always caused a row. If to nail slanderous innuendoes, such as Kraft indulged in, is the means of breakbreak-up occur, as they are guilty of such dirty underhand business.

The discussion continued on the corner for five minutes after, all very interesting and file as to what is going on in the game can be directly laid to the wilful suppression of truth by those street-walk ers the "Volkszeitung" and "Worker." As the comrades were leaving, some of the Kangs yelled "scab," but would one belive it? Not one showed up a union card to prove what they were.

And this is the story of Kraft's ex-perience in West Hoboken.

When you come to town again, Mr. Kraft, let us know, we will be pleased Vermont Quarry Workers. To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.-The quarryworkers in Graniteville, Vermont, intend to strike April 10 unless the quarryowners concede their demands for an 8 hour day at the rate of wages they now receive for 9 hours. Graniteville is the source from which the granite is supplied for Barre, Mont-pelier, Williamstown, West Berlin and Northfield. A suspension of work on the part of the quarryworkers will, in a short time, cause a suspension of work among the granite cutters and polishers in the places mentioned above, who num ber in the aggregate 2,500.

The quarrymen organized and affiliated with the A. F. of L. in February last. And on the evening of March 20th, at the quarryowners' annual meeting and banquet, the official demands of the men were acted upon. Their decision being that they would neither concede to the demands nor recognize the union. Some of the pure and simplers thought that by writing letters to the local press they could reason the owners out of this attitude. It was pointed out out of this attitude. It was pointed out to them that they were union men themselves, etc., etc. The bosses, however, "lay low and said noffing." The men continued at work, after the snub they received, and by so doing greatly demin-imised their chances of success. Had they declared a strike on receiving the bosses' reply they could hardly have failed to land the solar plexus on the owners as far as their demands are con-

The weather since then has been favorable for quarrying operations. The work has been and is being rushed forward, and the chances of a victory are not what they were a month ago.

The granite cutters and polishers unions are also affiliated with the A. F. of L. The former, however, have a three years' agreement which expires March 1, 1903. Two years ago, when the Polishers struck for a raise in pay and recognition of their union, the cutters did not hesitate to cut the stone polished by scabs. It is, however, hoped and believed that they won't so disgrace themselves again, should they be through the medium of the local press. The quarryman's life is a hard one. He is exposed to all kinds of weather, while the percentage of fatal and other accidents is high, his wages average only about $1.90 per day. It is only within the last 20 years that this place came into prominence as a centre of the granite trade. The time, however, has been sufficient to create an embryonic plutocracy from among the men who are the largest quarry owners, and who a few years ago first visited this locality, clad in home-spun, and shod in hobnailed shoes. Although that party is not yet able to elect candidates they found plenty of men who were willing to stand as candidates and present their photoghaphs with names attached to the voters. Another such success and the ones who mean it honestly by the principles of socialism will either have to leave that party, or shut up if they don't want to be fired out.

A New Series of Explanations the DAILY and WEEKLY

PEOPLE.—I have noticed that the Kan-garoos have started to "explain" again. This time the "explanation" comes not on the "Armory" question, but on the report of the Haverhill "Gazette," with in which report it was stated that Carey, Social Democratic, alias "Socialist" parlatform as members of the committee on reception to receive the appointee of "Spiked Club" Teddy, the new Secretary of the Navy. To this report the Kangs are entering a denial—the same as they did in the Eichmann case and so many others. Now the fact is this. That these Kangs are more valiant than discrect. From the day that the "Gazette," published that report until now NO ONE OF THE PERSONS MENTIONED — CAREY, SCATES, OR FLANDERS— HAS SEEN FIT TO COME OUT IN THE SAME PAPER WHICH SAID THEY WERE ON THAT PLAT-FORM, AND ON THE COMMITTEE if untrue. On the contrary. They are lying low and seeking to profit that the S. D. P. drew the most of their votes from the Republican party and we therefore see the "Herold" (Republican) when Smith accepted the Democratic endorsement in the 12th Worcester District, as they did when they were confronted with Eichmann's Hoboken jobbery, as they did in Peekskill, San Francisco, and, for that matter, anywhere and everywhere they have done their dirty work in the past. Now I would in all serfousness suggest to these indiscrete Kangaroos that their howl only makes things worse, as every sensible man justly says, it does not now matter whether the "Gazette" was mistaken or not, the fact that Carey, Scates and Flanders, all of Haverhill, did not deny the "Gazette" statement anywhere over heir signatures, and especially in the "Gazette" itself, is a sign that they are "willing Barkises." The Kangs can't move without putting their feet into their months. Their present "denials" If it is is a rubbing in of the offense, the same as when they tried to "explain" Carey voting for a $1,500 "armory" appropriation while he himself was saying that HE DID SO AND WOULD DO IT AGAIN. To the antipodean marsupials let me say, Get your hind feet out of your mouth and thereby prevent strangula tion.

Quarterly Write Up By L. A. 345 San Francisco, Cal.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEO-PLE .- As the readers of the PEOPLE know, our city is the Eldorado of labor. We have here a "union labor" mayor and great are the things he has accomhis election.

1. He "purified" the city government by putting some of his relations and a few labor fakirs in the places of the race track gamblers who previously held offices. By this time he has forgotten his lowly origin and the fakir crew is gnarling its teeth in disappointment and rage.

2. He has presided at a pro-Boer meeting, thus immensely promoting the cause of labor. (?)

3. He has made "felicious addresses" to a convention of nobby wo-men's clubs, the aims of which, net to neutral admirations is the cultivation of racial prejudices and local patriotism. He was the darling of the whole

4. His honor also intends to something for "organized labor" by setting a good example for other em-ployers of labor. An eight hour day is to be introduced in the police de partment, presumably as a reward for their faithful service to the Employ-In the next strike the hickory club will consequently land with increased vigor on the foolheads of the pure and simplers.

In view of these splendid achieveprecedented rate in our city. True, the men had to go back to work on the old terms after ten months' strike "as soon as places could be found for them," but then that is not what we mean. What we mean is this: Since the uries of at least six unions have been strike committees, namely:

The cooks and waiters. The butchers. The harnessmakers. The moulders. The hodcarriers

It would be needless to say that the local Kangaroo Socialists have supplied a considerable part of those treas-

The "grand secretary" of the barbers International Union came here to "straighten up" matters in this union and put up at the Grand Hotel, a place connected with the hotel where Pierpont Morgan, Sarah Bernhardt and Oriental princes stay when in this city. His visit resulted in a raid on the dupes' pockets which made their heads swim.

Another evidence of the prosperity of unionism here is a suit for $300,-000 damages brought by Carpenter's Union 483 against the Building Trades Council, by which the said union is being boycotted. The matter is the outgrowth of a political intrigue at the head of which is the president of the Building Trades Council, P. M. Mc-Carthy, a fazir who holds a job as civil service commissioner.

Thus it is evident that pure and simpledom on the Pacific Coast is a worthy counterpart of the trade unions in the east, steeped in capitalist political slime torn by internal dissension and preyed upon by dishonest fakirs. The new trades unionism, represented by 1. A. 345 of the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance, has again been favored with special attention of the local police power, so much pet-ted by the "labor" mayor. One of our comrades was lately pulled from the speaker's stand and transfered to the lock-up, where he was allowed to enjoy the com; any of an evening's harvest in the slums for a few hours Through some eversight there is no provision made in the law against the Socialist speaker, so the case was dismissed. The trial brought out the fact that the comrades speaking had seri-ously interfered with the "business' of a corn dector, who was doing the public at our regular meeting place. The comrade was warned not to do it again. The arrest was no doubt a prearranged affair, caused by the fact that A. 345 had been rudely stepped on the sore corns of the powers that be.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—Enclosed with this letter is a news item clipped from the Lynn 'Daily Item" of April 2d, 1902, which may make interesting reading for some of the comrades in other parts of the country as it shows the noble wagers ct the class struggle in their true light.

A bit of news connected with the said Eaton is that he was one of the fakirs who took part in the Civic Federation in New York City recently. In the Boot and Shoe Workers' report for February there is shown a balance on hand of benefit funds of something oyer $71,000, and there is a suspicion that part of that money is invested in the Hamilton Brown Shoe Company, of which Eaton is now manager, a unfair list of the B. & S. Workers' Un ion, and was quite recently put on the fair list of that scab furnishing concern. Now comes Fakir Eaton to the front as manager of the whole concern Kangs can't at a salary which is said to be $5,000

If it is found to be true that some of their money is invested in that concern what possibilities it opens up for the Labor Fakir! Just think of it, how the dupes pay their dues to the Fakir; he, in turn, turns them over to the Captains of Industry; and there they are used as a means of grinding more profits out of the sweat and blood of the wage-slave dupes!

S. L. P. Gains in Columbus, O.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.-The S. L. P. vote of Columbus was almost doubled at Monday municipal election. Adams, for clerk of police court, received 68 votes; last fall our vote was 39. This gain in the face of what we had to go up against is cer-tainly great. The Discourage was the tainly great. The Democratic party made a three-cent street car fare campaign; worse than that, they decided not to put a Social Democratic ticket in the field, as they tried it before and found it worked against themselves! This vote is not official; I got it from the news official vote, which I think will run close on to 200. Our Section is getting along nicely. The students of the Ohio State the students of the Onio State University are beginning to study their interests. One of them joined our Section Sunday, and another will speak at our next meeting which will be held in the near future. Columbus will be the banner city of the State look out, Cleve-land. These are days that try man's patience. He who possesses it not is a hinderance to our movement. Remember that in 1837 W. L. Garrison stated the abolition movement-23 years after, the slave was free. The S. L. P. is now ten years old; thirteen years more and the world is ours. Stick, boys, stick; be in the swim, OTTO STEINHOFF.

Social Democrats Go Down Kerflop. To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—When our local Kangaroos

at last year's town election, with the help of the Democratic party, received 360 votes, out of about 1,100 for the head of Of course these 360 votes were all "strictly socialistic," and "Genosse" Carey, who spoke here previous to the election, was supposed to have been the magician who had brought it about. All sorts of wild prophecies were indulged in, and even the most conservative of the Kangs were certain that in three years' time every office in Adams would be held by a Kang. Their candidate for selectman, a middle-class cigar manufacturer, told proudly to all who cared to hear him, how his Republican opponent, a wealtny mill owner, had taken him by the hand, and declared enthusiastically that he (the Republican candidate) was a "gentleman." The "De Leonites" of mediately, if not sooner, and the "Volkseitung" told its readers that the 'Genossen" at Adams had a local of eighty members in good standing, and were "stramm" (tightly) organized. were "stramm" (tightly) organized, Well, a year has passed, town election has again come and gone; alas, also for the Kangaroos, their dream lies shateven a tail feather left; their vote fell 'socialistic" voters of last year gone to where are the 80 members of which they boasted in the "Volkszeitung"? Poor Kangs!

One peculiarity of our local Kangaroos is that although one and all of them were present when, at a meeting held here March 30, 1901, James F. Carey, on being asked about the armory, dis-tinctly said: "Yes, I did vote for that appropriation, aND WOULD DO IT AGAIN," they nevertheless still stoutly maintain that he would NOT do it again, and never meant to do it in the place. Such pig-headedness is indeed wonderful.

Our Section is very small, the work is all up-hill. One must be acquainted with the history of the Socialist Movement and the Kangaroo element here to fully understand what we have to contend with. It is simply impossible at present to find such material as would be desirable to have in the Party. The ex-perience of the past must be a lesson to us, and we can do nothing but work and wait patiently until the situation changes for the better. In the mean-time, the Buzz Saw shall not get rusty, for the information of the S. L. P. in Canada and the United States. A meeting of the so-called "Canadian Socialist League"—the ally of the Capitalist Class, "composed of freaks, fakirs, me-toos, shouters for the Social Debauchery, and therefore supporters of Millerand and upholders of the red-handed Gallifet-was held on the 28th of March to discuss prospects for putting candidates in the field at the coming provincial electhe field at the coming provincial elec-tions. The editor of "Citizen and Country" wanted this organization of broad-ness to put candidates in the field to ness to put candidates in the held to show that there was more than one brand of socialist. They might save themselves the trouble. The S. L. P. will make that very plain. Another speaker was afraid they would only show their weakness; they would like to impress the capitalist politician with evidences of their strength, a quality they lack numerically as well as mentally and morally. Others thought they had better not put up candidates at all, and still another wanted the S. L. P. to divide the field with them-just like the capitalist politicians. But Comrade James told them that the S. L. P. never compromised, and had already nominat ed candidates. Then Dr. Hargrave was put up, a man who has been their president, and was the candidate of the Peo yet, and whose platform was arranged to catch temperance people, single taxers, pure and simplers, ownership of utilities, and other things of no value to the Working Class. This M. D. repudiates the class struggle, and yet was con-sidered fit to be the head of this conglomeration of everything but Socialism. Several of their members are known to be in the employ of our capitalist gov ernment. No doubt they will steer what votes they can to the source from which they draw their pay.

They had one of their "honorable"

members in the chair one night before our The yacancy in the position of Secretary municipal elections. He wanted them to Treasurer of the B. and S. W. U., caused repudiate the candidature of C. C. Wood-

A. L. NEW YORK.—The differences mentioned between labor-power and other commodities, as commodities, were the essential ones. Perishableness is not a line of demarkation between the commodity labor-power and all other commodities. Lots of other commodities are perishable too. But there IS one more essential difference. It is this: Labor-power is the only commodity that is part and parcel of its owner and seller. The owner of coal may die; not therefore is his coal destroyed; the coal may be consumed: not therefore does its owner become an angel in heaven playing on a golden harp. Otherwise with the commodity labor-power: it cannot survive it thence in selling his labor-power; the workingman, to use Marx' expression, takes his own skin to the tannery.

One set consists of the pure and simple Unions run by fakirs, who have not yet learned to skate. So to speak. These fakirs have not yet learned that the easiest way to get over the slippery lee is to remove the friction of shoe leather, and put on the still more slippery steel of the skate: in other words, they have not yet learned that the easier way to handle the Socialists is to pretend to be one, allow discussion, and then side-track its effect. In such Unions the "radicals" have no show. They are not allowed to open their mouths. The floor is given only to those in with the presiding fakir. This is so absolutely so that even non-radicals, but "kickers" can't get the floor. Look at the meetings of No. 6, for instance. "Kickers" are simply clubbed down, and taken away in ambulances. Try it in such "Unions."

The other set consists of Unions that are run by fakirs who have learned "to skate." "Socialism" is discussed, and then capitalism is practised. The "Progressive" Cligarmakers "Union" is an illustration of that species. Watch the thing in such "Unions."

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEO-PLE.-Our Peekskill Section has got a good photograph of the "Kangaroo Wall." We want to enlarge it an attach it to an extract from the Kangaroo circular, where they call attention to the wall (before it broke down) as an il-lustration of their "Socialism." We would like to know whether comrades throughout the country would like to have a copy of practical Kangarooism, or "Practical Socialism" as they called it. If there would be a demand for it in the country, we would be able to raise in that way a few dollars for our cam-paign here. We can furnish it 5x7, with paign here. West Hoboken Kangs

To the DAILY and WEEKLY crat Kraft gets it in the neck again; and this is how it happened, The "Socialistic Club," of West Hoboken, formerly branch West Hoboken, Social Democratic party, advertised a public meeting in Imperial Hall, by means of hand bills and by mentions in their official paper the Hoboken "Ob-server," (The instigator of rowdyism by public officers against the S. L. P. and the right of free assemblage and free

Four Socialist Labor Party men, members of Section North Hudson, after their business meeting adjourned, thought they would "drop in and see" how the Kang meeting was getting along. We found, by count, less than forty people present, inclusive of all, unless the only Kraft was a good many. Kraft was holding forth at the time, and in his speech mentioned "the good" that the two representatives of the So-cial Democratic Party in the Massachusetts Legislature were doing in behalf of the working class.

Later on he spoke of the "gains" their party was making in the elections past and to come.

He denous

He denounced the capitalistic press for not publishing this news, and wound up by appealing to the audience to subscribe to the "Worker," which paper, he said, was being "maintained by the pension of the dollars of the nies, the dimes and the dollars of the wage workers,"—but for whose benefit he did not say.

His speech, at least that part heard by the comrades, could have been riddled in five noutes of fair argument. Kraft was followed by a poor imita-part of Jeems that applies to the weep-ing. This competition of Jeems is named Utert. Every North Jersey Kang knows Utert. In fact it's Ufert, kamps and Kraft; or Kamps, Ufert and Kraft, that really constitute the "Socialist Party" here. Morris Eichmann takes a back seat now-a-days. But to get back to Ufert,—he certainly is a star, or would be as a German dialect artist with the Weber & Fields Company. His speech consisted of better schools (that part is better street-car service; he roundly denounced the Town Council for general crookedness, but did not back up the statement; denounced the police for their position during the Schwartzenbach Silk position during the Senwartzenbach Sha Mill trouble, but forgot to say that his party built armories for strike shoot-ers, when he denounced the Militis; beers, when he denounced the Militia; be-wailed the fact that votes were bought walled the fact that votes were bought for a few beers and cigars, but said nothing in reference to their only Morris Eichmann. He hoped for female suff-rage, and thought that they could not be bought for beers and cigars; spoke of and demanded a referendum; in fact he ad-vocated all kinds of reform (he forgot walkie baths) hat always with the allpublic baths), but always with the ulti-mate object in view. What that ulti-mate object was he never once men-tioned nor did Kraft while we were

but the galliest part of his plea for votes was, where he claimed it was the Social Democratic Party that main-tained the right of assemblage. Bright in our memory still is the night that comrade after comrade was yanked off the box and marched off to jail with the jeers of Kangs following them, emanat-

that they maintained the right of as-semblage and speech. The truth semblage and speech. The truth of the matter is (it's on record in the of the matter is (it's on record in the minutes of the West Hoboken Town Council) that the Kangs petitioned the Council for the privilege of addressing the people on the streets, which petition was granted on condition that there be no "disorder," which meant that they were not to preach Socialism. These Kangs dared not follow in the path of our comrades, they are not built that nounced that Kraft would conclude with a few remarks, after which if anyone present wished to ask questions or de-sired any information, they could apply at their headquarters. Kraft then got up and warned his hear rs against "a fake Socialist ticket" that Democrats were going to distribute at the polls on election day. It was easy to see where he was aiming. As the chairman declared the meeting ad-journed, a comrade got up and asked Kraft to mention the name of the "fake Socialist party," to state the source of information, and to substantiate such a serious charge. Kraft was told by the comrade that he, the comrade, was on the Socialist Labor Party ticket, and that such a statement cast reflections on him self and the other comrades, and he defied Kraft to prove any connection between the Socialist Labor Party and the Democrats.

Kraft took refuge in a crawl. He said

"It was heard by some one."
When challenged to debate with the comrade, then or at any time, to prove the Socialist Labor Party a spurious party, he made as if to take the challenge down in writing, but when the comrade walked to the table to sign a challenge, Kraft collapsed, and picking up a "Work-er," started to read off the past general votes. When called upon by the comthe Socialist Labor Party a fraud, Kraft yelled out "liar," if he meant to impute any such statement to him. At this nis henchmen jumped between, cautioning him to act gentlemanly, at the same at us, but were too cowardly to do more Kraft sneaked out shead, forgetting to announce his great play, "Now and Then." The barn stormer probably had nough of the real thing. But the antics of the Kangs were great to behold. As soon as Kraft mentioned the word "liar," down went the lights, and up went the ire of the Kangs. fore, they boasted of the large increases of their vote; now they said it was be cause of us they made no headway. That we did not know how to behave at meeting, and always caused a row. If to nail slanderous innuendoes, such as Kraft indulged in, is the means of breaking up a meeting, just so often will a such dirty underhand business.

The discussion continued on the corner for five minutes after, all very interesting

It seems that the ignorance of the rank and file as to what is going on in the game can be directly laid to the wilful suppression of truth by those street-walk-ers the "Volkszeitung" and "Worker." As the comrades were leaving, some of the Kangs yelled "scab," but would one belive it? Not one showed up a union card to prove what they were.

And this is the story of Kraft's experience in West Hoboken.

When you come to town again, Mr. Kraft, let us know, we will be pleased

Vermont Quarry Workers.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.-The quarryworkers in Graniteville, Vermont, intend to strike April. 10 unless the quarryowners concede their demands for an 8 hour day at the rate of wages they now receive for hours. The with assistants, toolsharpeners, etc., number about 1.100.

Graniteville is the source from which the granite is supplied for Barre, Mont-pelier, Williamstown, West Berlin and Northfield. A suspension of work on the part of the quarryworkers will, in a short time, cause a suspension of work among the granite cutters and polishers in the places meutioned above, who number in the aggregate 2,500.

The quarrymen organized and affillast. And on the evening of March 20th, at the quarryowners' annual meeting and banquet, the official demands of the men were acted upon. Their decis-ion being that they would neither concede to the demands nor recognize the union. Some of the pure and simplers thought that by writing letters to the local press they could reason the owners out of this attitude. It was pointed out to them that they were union men them-selves, etc., etc. The bosses, however, "lay low and said noffing." The men continued at work, after the snub they received, and by so doing greatly deminimised their chances of success. Had they declared a strike on receiving the bosses' reply they could hardly have failed to land the solar plexus on the owners as far as their demands are con-

The weather since then has been favor able for quarrying operations. The work has been and is being rushed forward, and the chances of a victory are not what they were a month ago.

The granite cutters and polishers unions are also affiliated with the A. F. of L. The former, however, have a three years' agreement which expires March 1, 1903. Two years ago, when the Polishers struck for a raise in pay and recognition of their union, the cut jeers of Kangs following them, emanating from a gang of degenerates that collected before the house of Eichmann, all because the Socialist Labor Party decided that they knew their rights and would maintain them.

And this Ufert had the nerve to try and the socialistics of their union, the cutters did not hesitate to cut the stone polished by scabs. It is, however, hoped and believed that they won't so disgrace themselves again, should they be called upon to cut scab quarried stock.

He is exposed to all kinds of weather, while the percentage of fatal and other accidents is high, his wages average only about $1.90 per day. It is only within the last 20 years that this place came into prominence as a centre of the granite trade. The time, however, has been sufficient to create an embryonic plutocracy from among the Scots men who are the largest quarry owners, and who a few years ago first visited this locality, clad in home-spun, and shod in hobnailed shoes. The quarrymen claim that they earn their wages in two hours work. The Milwaukee Election.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—The battle of the ballots is over and the Fall campaign begins. The capitalist press gives us 200 votes and as we did not have watchers at the voting places we have to believe this jufirma tion till the official result is announced.

Our organization has many shortcom ings, but it is peculiar that the very peo ple who don't find it necessary to join the organization are the most surprised over the small vote, just as if Parties would drop from the clouds.

The Debs party had a large income in especially aided by the possession of two papers: "The Social Democratic Her-ald" and "Vorwarts," and were as the so-called third party, sure of the support of one of the old parties.

The Republican papers had frequently two to three column reports of their meetings and other puffs for these "So cialists." . The "Germania" (Republi ean) wrote openly against Rose, saying: "The workingmen see through the demagogy of Rose, and will vote the S. D. P. ticket."

But the result of the election shows that the S. D. P. drew the most of their votes from the Republican party and we therefore see the "Herold" (Republican) of April 2d whining as follows: sult of the election shows that the supposition that the S. D. P. candidate for Mayor, Tuttle, would draw more Democratic that Republican votes was wrong. The S. D. P. got the most of their vote in wards which from time immemorial were regarded as Republican strong holds.

The S. D. P. method of agitation was as varying as the make-up of its party. Some, like J. Moser, were furnishing Anarchistic phraseology. Others tried to prove that the S. D. P. will be a part of the intérnational Proletarian movement; the third ones and that were the great majority, talked only about Municipal Ownership of public utilities. In one of their leaflets I find the following confusing sentences:

"What is the best remedy for cleaning the Municipal Government? We must strike at the root of the evil: private corporation influence and their money used to buy our representatives. These corporations have received their riches at the hands of men whom you have placed to represent you." And now comes the cure: "By Municipal Ownership of the Gas-Plants, etc."

Further they say: "You must seek men who are pledged to represent the public.' What they understand by "public" don't know and they are not willing to disclose the secret; the word soun nice, and doesn't harm the Philistines.

Although that party is not yet able to elect candidates they found plenty of who were willing to stand as candidates and present their photoghaphs with names attached to the voters. such success and the ones who mean it honestly by the principles of socialism will either have to leave that party, or shut of the office-seekers was great and at the next election their leadership will be complete. / This was so with preceding reform par ties which saw before this one the light of day in Milwaukee and died in the swamp of corruption and Fusion, A number of "our old German Socialists," since the time of Brucker, have moulted six times, always with the same argument: "It must go faster." Three moultings still remain for them and if the S. L. P. does not kill this dragon of nine skins some additional moulting will have to take place.

Judging from all appearances it seems that at the instigation of the Republican party, the Social Democrats were dying to draw the Democratic mayoralty candidate Rose into a debate. Rose de-clined, stating the S. D. P. was too in-significant and had no right-to existence. The S. D. P. thereupon posted large posters all over the city designating Rose as a coward. The Republicans tried to make capital out of this and in unison with the Debsites the "Coward Rose" was gone for.

I would like to put the question to the Social Democrats: Why did you not challenge the Republican Mayoralty candidate and why are you so courageous, did you decline our challenge? The "Coward Rose" stands side by side with

"Coward Rose" stands side by side with the S. D. P. coward."

The election is over now, forward prepare for the fall campaign! What have we of the Socialist Labor Party to do? First of all the organization must be arranged; and our Party Press, THE PEOPLE and "Socialistiche Arbeiter Zeitung" must be circulated, as well as pect a victory? This is contradictory. Only he deserves liberty who is willing to fight for it. Raise high the banner and rally to the standard of the S. L. P.! Strengthen the organization and success crown your efforts. There are enough comrades in Milwaukee, who, if they place themselves in battle line, will sarely attain success. Meetings will be held regularly. Attend those meetings and don't stay away with the excuse; I know enough. So Socialism at home behind the stove is useless. Socialism must be fought for.

We don't know any soldiers of the Revolution out of service, or pensioned Socialists. Battle to his last breath characterises the true Socialist. ward be our motto and through battle to

A New Series of Explanations To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—I have noticed that the Kangaroos have started to "explain" again. This time the "explanation" comes not on the "Armory" question, but on report of the Haverhill "Gazette," reference to the "Moody Testimonial," in which report it was stated that Carey Scates and Flanders, three of the Kangs Social Democratic, alias "Socialist" par ty luminaries in this city, were on the on reception to receive the appointee of of the Navy. To this report the Kangs are entering a denial—the same as the did in the Eichmann case and so many others. Now the fact is this. That thes Kangs are more valiant than discreet From the day that the "Gazette," published that report until now NO ONE OF THE PERSONS MENTIONED HAS SEEN FIT TO COME OUT IN THEY WERE ON THAT PLAT FORM, AND ON THE COMMITTEE AND DENY THE STATEMENT. are lying low and seeking to profi in the "armory" matters, as they did endorsement in the 12th Worcester Dis fronted with Eichmann's Hoboken job bery, as they did in Peekskill, San Francisco, and, for that matter, anywhere and everywhere they have their dirty work in the past. Now I would in all serfousness suggest to these indiscrete Kangaroos that their how nly makes things worse, as every sensible man justly says, it does not now matter whether the "Gazette" was mistaken or not, the fact that Carey, Scates and Flanders, all of Haverhill, did not deny the "Gazette" statement anywhere over their signatures, and especially in the "Gazette" itself, is a sign that they are "willing Barkises." The Kangs can't nove without putting their feet their mouths. Their present "denials' is a rubbing in of the offense, the same a when they tried to "explain" Carey vot ing for a $1,500 "armory" appropriation

Quarterly Write Up By L. A. 34 San Francisco, Cal.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEO-PLE _As the readers of the PEOPLE know, our city is the Eldorado of labor. We have here a "union labor" mayor and great are the things he has accom plished for the cause of labor since

1. He "purified" the city government by putting some of his relations and a few labor fakirs in the places of up if they don't want to be fired out.

Even at the last election the influence the race track gamblers who previous ly held offices. By this time he has forgotten his lowly origin and the fakir crew is gnarling its teeth in disappointment and rage.

2. He has presided at a pro-Boer meeting, thus immensely promoting

the cause of labor. (?)
3. He has made "felicious addresses" to a convention of nobby women's clubs, the aims of which, net to neutral admirations is the cultivation of racial prejudices and local patriotism. He was the darling of the whole

4. His honor also intends to something for "organized labor" by setting a good example for other employers of labor. An eight hour day is to be introduced in the police department, presumably as a reward for their faithful service to the Employers' Association during the late strike will consequently land with increased the foolheads of the pure and simplers.

In view of these splendid achievements of the "union labor" Mayor the workers have reason to look for ward to the future political activity of "union labor" with no small expect ations. "Unionism" is flourishing at an unprecedented rate in our city. True, the men had to go back to work on the old terms after ten months' strike, that is, "as soon as places could be found for them," but then that is not what we mean. What we mean is this: Since the beginnig of the last strike the treas-urles of at least six unions have been looted by absconding treasurers and strike committees, namely: The cooks and waiters.

The butchers.
The harnessmakers, The moulders.

The journeymen barbers. It would be needless to say that the local Kangaroo Socialists have supplied a considerable part of those treasurers. The "grand secretary" of the barbers International Union came here to "straighten up" matters in this un-ion and put up at the Grand Hotel, a place connected with the hotel where Pierpont Morgan, Sarah Bernhardt and Oriental princes stay when in this city. His visit resulted in a raid on the pockets which made their dupes' heads swim.

Another evidence of the prosperity of unionism here is a suit for $300,-000 damages brought by Carpenter's Union 483 against the Building Trades Council, by which the said union is begrowth of a tolitical intrigue at the ead of which is the president of the Building Trades Council, P. M. Mc-Carthy, a fakir who holds a job as civil service commissioner. Thus it is evident that pure and

simpledom on the Pacific Coast is a worthy counterpart of the trade unions in the east, steeped in capitalist political slime torn by internal dis-sension and preyed upon by dishonest

The new trades unionism, represented by L. A. 345 of the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance, has again been favored with special attention the local police power, so much pet-ted by the "labor" mayor. One of our comrades was lately pulled from the speaker's stand and transfered to the lock-up, where he was allowed to enjoy the com; any of an evening's harvest in the slums for a few hours Through some eversight there is no provision made in the law against the Socialist speaker, so the case was dismissed. The trial brought out the fact that the comrades speaking had seriously interfered with the of a corn dector, who was doing the public at our regular meeting place. The comrade was warned not to do it again. The arrest was no doubt a pre arranged affair, caused by the fact that L. A. 345 had been rudely stepped on the sore corns of the powers that be.

Eaton's Line of Promotion.

To the DAILY and WEEKLY PEOPLE.—Enclosed with this letter is a news item clipped from the Lynn "Daily Item" of April 2d, 1902, which may make interesting reading for some of the comrades in other parts of the country as it shows the noble wager

A bit of news connected with the said Eaton is that he was one of the fakirs who took part in the Civic Federation in New York City recently. the Boot and Shoe Workers' report for February there is shown a balance on hand of benefit funds of something over $71,000, and there is a suspicion that part of that money is invested in the Hamilton Brown Shoe Company, of which Eaton is now manager, as that concern has for years been on the ion, and was quite recently put on the fair list of that scab furnishing concern. Now comes Fakir Eaton to the front as manager of the whole concern at a salary which is said to be $5,000

If it is found to be true that some of their money is invested in that concern what possibilities it opens up for the Labor Fakir! Just think of it, how the dupes pay their dues to the Fakir; he, in turn, turns them over to the Captains of Industry; and there they are used as a means of grinding more profits out of the sweat and blood of the wage-slave dupes!

Comrades up and at them! un the Labor Fakir in his true shape Tell the working-class of the new trade unionism under the banner of A., and its sister organization, the S. L. P.

umbus was almost doubled at Monday's municipal election. Adams, for clerk of police court, received 68 votes; last fall our vote was 39. This gain in the face of what we had to go up against is certainly great. The Democratic party a three-cent street car fare made paign; worse than that, they decided not to put a Social Democratic ticket in the field, as they tried it before and found it worked against themselves! This vote is not official; I got it from the newspapers. In a few days I will forward the on to 200. Our Section is getting along nicely. The students of the Ohio State University are beginning to study their interests. One of them joined our Section Sunday, and another will speak at our next meeting which will be banner city of the State look out, Cleve land. These are days that try man's patience. He who possesses it not is a hinderance to our movement. Remember that in 1837 W. L. Garrison stated the abolition movement-23 years after, the slave was free. The S. L. P. is now ten years old; thirteen years more and the world is ours. Stick, boys, stick; be in the swim. OTTO STEINHOFF.

the DAILY and WEEKLY

PEOPLE.—When our local Kangaroos at last year's town election, with the help of the Democratic party, received 360 votes, out of about 1,100 for the head of their ticket, their joy knew no bounds. Of course these 360 votes were all "strictly socialistic." and "Genosse" Carey, who spoke here previous to the election, was supposed to have been the magician who had brought it about. sorts of wild prophecies were indulged in, and even the most conservative of the Kangs were certain that in three years' time every office in Adams would for selectman, a middle-class cigar manufacturer, told proudly to all who cared to hear him, how his Republican opponent, a wealtny mill owner, had taken him by the hand, and declared enthusiastically that he (the Republican candidate) wa "gentleman." course were to go out of existence immediately, if not sooner, and the "Volks-zeitung" told its readers that the "Genossen" at Adams had a local of eighty members in good standing, and were "stramm" (tightly) organized. Well, a year has passed, town election has again come and gone; alas, also for the Kangaroos, their dream lies shat tered, their hopes crushed; they have not even a tail feather left; their vote fell from 360 to 53. Where have all the socialistic" voters of last year gon where are the 80 members of which they boasted in the "Volkszeitung"? Poo

One peculiarity of our local Kangawere present when, at a meeting held here March 30, 1901, James F. Carey on being asked about the armory, dis tinctly said: "Yes, I did vote for that appropriation, AND WOULD DO IT AGAIN," they nevertheless still stoutly maintain that he would NOT do it again and never meant to do it in the firs Such pig-headedness is indeed wonderful. Our Section is very small, the work is all up-hill. One must be acquainted with history of the Socialist Movemen and the Kangaroo element here to fully understand what we have to contend with. It is simply impossible at present to find such material as would be de sirable to have in the Party. The experience of the past must be a lesson to us, and we can do nothing but work and wait patiently until the situation changes for the better. In the mean-time, the Buzz Saw shall not get rusty, and we will see to it that its teeth are kept bright and sharp.

Adams, Mass., April 9, 1902. The Canadian Party

the DAILY and WEEKLY for the information of the S. L. P. in Canada and the United States. A meeting of the so-called "Canadian Socialist League"—the ally of the Capitalist Class, composed of freaks, fakirs, me-toos, shouters for the Social Debauchery, and therefore supporters of Millerand and upholders of the red-handed Gallifetwas held on the 28th of March to dis cuss prospects for putting candidates in the field at the coming provincial elec-tions. The editor of "Citizen and Counwanted this organization of broadness to put candidates in the field to show that there was more than one brand of socialist. They might save themselves the trouble. The S. L. P. will make that very plain. Another speaker was afraid they would only show their weakness; they would like to impress the capitalist politician with evidences of their strength, a quality they lack numerically as well as mentally and morally. Others thought they had better not put up candidates at all, and still another wanted the S. L. P. to divide the field with them-just like the capitalist politicians. But Comrade James told them that the S. L. P. never compromised, and had already nominated candidates. Then Dr. Hargrave was put up, a man who has been their president, and was the candidate of the People's party, which he said was not dead yet, and whose platform was arranged to catch temperance people, single taxers catch temperance people, single taxers, pure and simplers, ownership of utilities, and other things of no value to the Working Class. This M. D. repudiates the class struggle, and yet was considered fit to be the head of this considered fit to be the head of this conglomeration of everything but Socialism. Several of their members are known to be in the employ of our capitalist gov-ernment. No doubt they will steer what they draw their pay.

They had one of their "honorable" members in the chair one night before our lev, the nominee of the S. L. P. The "honorable" chairman sat under a text of scripture containing the words, Peace on good will to all, while he fairly preathed threats and slaughter against the S. L. P. candidate, who had shown up this "honorable" member of this "hon-orable" body for having worked for both political parties, and having received his price for the same.

Many of these people claim to be 'Christian Socialists," whatever that means, and declare Christ to have been the first Socialist. No doubt they are followers of him at a magnificent distance, and they are about the same distance from Socialism.

A. L., NEW YORK.—The differences mentioned between labor-power and other commodities, as commodities, were the essential ones. Perishableness is not a line of demarkation between the commodity labor-power and all other commodities. Lots of other commodities are perishable too. But there IS one more essential difference. It is this: Labor-power is the only commodity that is part and parcel of its owner and seller. The owner of coal may die; not therefore is his coal destroyed; the coal may be consumed: not therefore does its owner become an angel in heaven playing on a golden harp. Otherwise with the commodity labor-power; it cannot survive its owner, its owner cannot survive it thence in selling his labor-power, the workingman, to use Marx' expression, takes his own skin to the tannery.

One set consists of the pure and simple Unions run by fakirs, who have not yet learned to skate, so to speak. These fakirs have not yet learned to skate, so to speak. These fakirs have not yet learned that the easiest way to get over the slippery ice is to remove the frietion of shoe leather, and put on the still more slippery steel of the skate: in other words, they have not yet learned that the easier way to handle the Socialists is to pretend to be one, allow discussion, and then side-track its effect. In such Unions the "radicals" have no show. They are not allowed to open their mouths. The floor is given only to those in with the presiding fakir. This is so absolutely so that even non-radicals, but "kickers" can't get the floor. Look at the meetings of No. 6, for instance. "Kickers" are simply clubbed down, and taken away in ambulances. Try it in such "Unions."

At the first meeting, held on Sunday, March 29th, it had been decided to start a morning paunder the name of "Das Morgenblatt," same to be printed on the premises of the DAILY PEOPLE. That committee had gone to work to cast up the situation and had come to the conclusion that at the time being, with the dead heat of sum-mer ahead of us, it was not advisable to launch the new paper. STRIKERS HEED ALLIANCE MEN.

Adopt Advice to Keep Strike Settlement in Their Own Hands.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 10.—The strike on here among the electric linement employed by the Pittsburg & Allegheny Telephone Company, Bell Telephon Company, Allegheny County Light Company, Western Union Telegraph Company, and all others employing linemen, is still on. The companies affected have but a few men in the places of the strikers. The recent heavy snowfall has caused an untold amount of trouble to the companies Wires are down all over the two cities. and complaints are numerous from the patrons.

Several Alliance men are out with the strikers and all last winter while the battle was being prepared by the Brotherhood of Electric Workers' Union, Local No. 14, the Alliance men were busy soliciting subscriptions for the WEEKLY PEOPLE, and the results of their efforts has shown itself in this On Wednesday of last week District President of the B. of E. W. came here to take charge of the strike But the Executive Board (of 9) elected by the local said "No, we will not give any ONE MAN that power where he could sell us out. No one is allowed to make overtures with the representatives of the companies but the Board of Nine Members.

So the result was this District President left town the next morning. Tues day night Comrade Jas. McConnell gave a forty-minute talk to the strikers in their hall (416 Wood street), and the 200 who sat listening applauded when he warned them to keep an eye on their

From the reports in the press you have certainly been able to gather the fix the employers are in. The language they are holding is very different from that which they have held in their previous encounters with the workers. We know that all these skirmishes are valuable opportunities to educate our fellow wage slaves. Hitherto these skirmishes have been wholly lost. Led by fakirs and lackeys of the Capitalist class, the men knew no more when they got through than when they started and, as you know, they always lost.

It can be different now. The men being taught in their class interests, and as the decententententententententent The Socialist Labor Party of the United States, in Convention assembled, reasserts the inalienable right of all men to life, liberty, and the pursuit of hapreaserts the inalienable right of all men to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

With the founders of the American Republic, we hold that the purpose of government is to secure every citizen in the enjoyment of this right: but in the light of our social conditions we hold, furthermore, that no such right can be exercised under a system of economic inequality, essentially destructive of life, of liberty, and of happiness.

With the founders of this Republic, we hold that the true theory of politics is that the machinery of government must be owned and controlled by the whole people; but in the light of our industrial development we hold, furthermore, that the true theory of economics is that the machinery of production must likewise belong to the people in common.

To the obvious fact that our despotic system of economics is the direct opposite of our democratic system of politics, can plainly be traced the existence of a privileged class, the corruption of government by that class, the alienation of public property, public franchises and public functions to that class, and the abject dependence of the mightlest of nations upon that class.

Again, through the perversion of democracy to the ends of pultocracy, labor is robbed of the wealth which it alone produces, is denied the means of self-employment, and, by compulsory idleness in wage slavery, is even deprived of the necessaries of life.

Human power and natural forces are thus wasted, that the plutocracy may rule.

Human power and natural forces are thus wasted, that the plutocracy may rule.

Ignorance and misery, with all their concomitant evils, are perpetuated that the people may be kept in bondage.

Science and invention are diverted from their humane purpose to the enslavement of women and children.

Against such a system the Socialist Labor Party once more enters its protest. Once more it reiterates its fundamental declaration that private property in the natural sources of production and in the instruments of labor is the obvious cause of all economic servitude and political dependence.

The time is fast corring, however, when in the natural course of social evolution, this system, through the destructive action of its failures and crises on the one hand, and the constructive tendencies of its trusts and other capitalist combinations on the other hand, shell have worked out its own downfall.

We, therefore, call upon the wage workers of the United States, and upon all other honest citizens, to organize under the banuer of the Socialist Labor Party into a class-conscious body, aware of its rights and determined to conquer them by taking possession of the public powers; so that, held together by an indomitable spirit of solidarity under the most trying conditions of the present class struggle, we may put a summary end to that barbarous struggle by the abolition of classes, the restoration of the land and of all the means of production, transportation and distribution to the people as a collective body, and the substitution of the Co-operative Commonwealth for the present state of planless production, industrial war and social disorder; a commonwealth in which every worker shall have the free exercise and full benefit of his faculties, multiplied by all the modern factors of civilization.
