SOCIALISM IN FRANCE.

We write for the DAILY AND WEEKLY LABORER, London, England, the organ of the Socialist party of Great Britain.

Opposition to the Social Democratic Party of France, Revolutionary Socialist Union.

The framers of the French constitution have created a political system of a unique kind in the world. The country is divided into 150 districts, each containing from 125,000 to 250,000 voters, who are represented by a delegate in the Assembly, and the representatives of these districts, who are known as the Deputies, constitute the Senate. The Assembly is elected for a period of six years, and the Senate for three years. The President of the Republic is elected for a term of six years, and is chosen by the Assembly. The President holds the executive power, and is assisted by a Council of Ministers, appointed by him and responsible to the Assembly. The legislative power is vested in the Assembly, but the Senate has the right to reject or modify any measure passed by the Assembly. The courts of law consist of the Supreme Court of Cassation, the Courts of Appeal, and the Courts of First Instance. The judicial system is based on the principles of equality before the law and the right to a fair trial. The government is supported by a large army and navy, and the country is rich in coal, iron, and other mineral resources. The French people are attached to their country and have a great respect for the constitution and the government. THE PROFESSIONAL vs. THE TOUROUS.

The professional is the man who will work for you, no matter how small the price. The tourous is the man who will not work for you unless he gets more money than you are willing to pay. The professional is the man who will work for you, no matter how much you are willing to pay. The tourous is the man who will not work for you unless he gets more money than you are willing to pay.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[Various letters, each discussing different topics and issues, such as labor rights, economics, and personal matters.]

As to the S. T. L. A.:

First: Should there be a tax on the Corporation of the State of New York? Should it be on each stockholder, as is the present practice, or should it be on the corporation itself? Secondly: What is the purpose of such a tax? It is obvious that the tax which is levied on each stockholder is a tax on the individual and not on the corporation.

Third: What should the attitude of the individual stockholder be in regard to the tax? Should he be willing to pay it, even though it may be a hardship to him? Should he resist the tax, even though it may be a hardship to the corporation?

[Discussion continues on various aspects of the S. T. L. A., including its operations and financial matters.]
