WHEN LABOR CALLS

A "Trade Union" National Rally

[Written Especially for The People by James Connolly, Dublin, Ireland]

When Labor calls, what will you do? Will you stand on the sidelines and watch, or will you answer the call and join the ranks of the workers?

The Socialist Labor Congress, which is held annually, is a great event in the life of the labor movement. It is a time when the workers of the country come together to discuss the issues that affect their lives and to plan for the future.

The Socialist Labor Congress is not only a meeting of the workers, but it is also a celebration of their achievements. The workers have fought long and hard for their rights, and they have won many important victories. The Socialist Labor Congress is a time to remember those achievements and to look forward to the next struggle.

The Socialist Labor Congress is also a time to show solidarity with workers around the world. The workers of the world are united in their struggle for justice and freedom. The Socialist Labor Congress is a symbol of that solidarity.

The Socialist Labor Congress is a time to be proud of being a worker and a member of the labor movement. It is a time to be proud of the work that the workers of the country have done and to be confident in the future.

The Socialist Labor Congress is a time to be thankful for the sacrifices of the workers of the past, and to be determined to continue their struggle.

The Socialist Labor Congress is a time to be united and to be strong. The workers of the country are strong, and they will continue to fight for their rights and for the future of the labor movement.

A VALENTINE SPECIMEN.

What is being called "the most important development of the week" is the phenomenal advance in the price of oil recently experienced. The fact that the price of oil has risen to the point where it is now selling for over three dollars a barrel is no longer news, but it is a fact that has been brought to the attention of the public by the oil companies themselves.

The oil companies have declared that the price of oil will be increased by five dollars a barrel, and this has caused a great deal of consternation among the people who have been accustomed to buying oil at a much lower price. The reason for the increase is that the cost of production has risen, and the oil companies are trying to recoup themselves for the increased cost of labor.

The increase in the price of oil is not the only factor that has caused a rise in the cost of living. The prices of other commodities have also increased, and this has led to a general increase in the cost of living.

SOCIALIST VIEWS IN THE UNITED STATES.

In 1900, the Socialist Party held its eleventh national convention at Kansas City, Missouri. The convention was attended by delegates from all parts of the country, and it was a time of great excitement and enthusiasm. The delegates discussed the importance of organizing the working class and of establishing a socialist society.

The Socialist Party was founded in 1870, and it has been a force in American politics ever since. The party advocates the establishment of a socialist society, in which the means of production are owned by the community and the wealth is distributed equally among all.

The Socialists believe that the working class is the only class that can organize the necessary forces to overthrow the capitalist system and establish a socialist society. They therefore advocate the formation of trade unions and the election of Socialists to office, in order to provide leadership for the working class movement.

SOCIALISM VERSUS INDIVIDUALISM.

Socialism is often contrasted with individualism, which is the philosophy that each person should be responsible for their own actions and that the government should not interfere in the lives of individuals. Socialists believe that individualism is a form of selfishness, and that it is necessary to establish a socialist society in order to ensure the well-being of all.

Socialists argue that the interests of the working class are the same, and that they can only be advanced by the joint efforts of all workers. They therefore advocate the formation of trade unions and the election of Socialists to office, in order to provide leadership for the working class movement.
