THE WORLD'S FAIR CITY

Section St. Louis Depicts Working Class Conditions There—Sights That Would Startle Napoleon.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 7-2-1893—has been the scene of much activity of late. The labor unions have heard from St. Louis, but we are still doing business at the old stand, and we are told that the workers of the city are in fine form.

This part of the globe is known as the "World's Fair City," and the labor unions have been hard at work, trying to get the best display of labor conditions. The World's Fair, an enterprise that is supposed to be a recreation of a one-hundredth anniversary of the St. Louis Fair, is, I suppose, the only fair of this kind, and the visit of the same condition class in 1893. But the working conditions were much better, and it is claimed that the workers were better treated.

The working conditions in St. Louis are vastly different from those in the old city. The workers are better paid, and the hours of work are shorter. In the old days, the workers worked from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and they were only allowed a single day off in a week. But now, the workers work from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and they are allowed two days off in a week.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 10, 1893.

THE DEATH OF MARSHAL

Is Pursued by His Own Foul Which Wounded Him At Vicksburg, Miss., American Labor Union.

IT IS UP TO HORN.

A Man Who Made Foul Charge Against Marshall Calls on a Friend to Help Him in His Work.

One of the most active of the St. Louis Laborers, the official of the party in St. Louis, and the leader of the Labor Party, has been wounded in an attack on Marshall. The attack was made by a man who called himself a friend of Marshall's, but who was actually a labor agitator.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.

The man who attacked Marshall was a labor agitator. He declared that the war was a war of the working class, and that the working class must make its own decision. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class. He accused Marshall of being a traitor to the working class.
THE DRESDEN CONGRESS

For reasons, scores of times expressed in the Social Democratic press, the Social Democratic Congress is to open in Dresden, Germany. The President of the Social Democratic Congress, Dr. Maximilian Karl Schmidt, has announced that the Congress will be held on September 17th and 18th. The Congress is to be attended by delegates from all parts of Germany, as well as from abroad.

The main purpose of the Congress is to discuss the current political situation in Germany and to formulate the party's policy for the future. The Congress will also consider the results of the recent elections and the prospects for the Social Democratic movement. The Congress is expected to adopt a new party program, which will be submitted to the delegates for approval.

The Social Democratic movement in Germany is the largest political party in the country, with a membership of over one million. It is opposed to the current government, which is led by the conservative party, and is calling for the establishment of a republic and a workers' government.

The Congress is expected to attract a large number of delegates, including some who have been arrested or imprisoned for their political activities. The Congress will be a significant event in the history of the Social Democratic movement in Germany, and it is expected to play an important role in shaping the future of the movement.
The Pilgrim's Shell or
FERGAN THE QUARRYMAN

A Tale From the Federal Times

By EUGENE SUE

TRANSLATED FROM THE ORIGINAL FRENCH
By DANIEL DE LEON

Copyright 1836, by the New York Laura News Co.

TRANSLATOR'S PREFACE.

In my introduction to "The Silver Cross," or, The Carpenter of Muthassah," I said: "Eugene Sue wrote in French a monumental work—the History of the People, or, History of France; the world has no idea of the greatness of this work, of the immensity of the universal history which it contains..."

Better than any novel, accurately on the history, it graphically traces the special features of the several systems of classes as they emerged: each other from each epoch; together, with the masses of the struggle between the preceding classes. The Lois ("Order," "Patronage," "Religions," etc., etc., that each successive tyrant class, despite its change of form, historically has sought to tear from the body of the people, and the figures of the struggle, the various economic causes of the oppression of the people, and the figures of the struggle, the various economic causes of the oppression of the people; the rich man, who is his ally, and the misery of the poor; the taxative, the tribute, and the robbery; the former; the() the fright; the revenge; the poverty and the war—these are the themes of our divisions of the struggle."

The present story—The Pilgrim's Shell; or, Fergan the Quarryman—is one of that majestic series, among the most majestic of the set, and, with regard to the social period that it describes—its institutions, its classes, its manners, its vices and sins, and its characteristics, as an import lead of the social struggle, as a large and prosperous class, that either, when the bourgeois class was struggling for a foothold, and beginning to struggle for the foothold, and beginning through the rich feudal incursion above. More specifically, the methods of narration-which, as the subject, that of the novels of George Eliot, The Pilgrim's Shell; or, Fergan the Quarryman...
LO, AN INVENTION!

To the Mayor of New York City,

I, the leader of the American Workers Union, hereby announce that this week's big industrial strike was not only a success but that it has opened a new era in labor history. The workers have shown that they are capable of standing up to big business and winning.

Sincerely yours,

The Leader

The Mayor's Office

NEW YORK CITY

4TH OF APRIL, 1919

SOMETHING NEW IN LONDON

The British government has announced that it is planning to introduce a new form of currency, the "cultural pound." This is to be used for all transactions involving cultural and intellectual activities. The government hopes that this will encourage the development of the arts and sciences in the country.

BRITAIN'S NEW CURRENCY

LONDON, 5TH OF APRIL, 1919

SILENCE IN GERMANY

The Kaiser has announced that he will not make another war. This is a surprise to many, as he has been considered a war leader for many years. However, the German people seem to be happy with this decision.

BIRTH OF A NEW EMPIRE

BERLIN, 6TH OF APRIL, 1919

THE END