THE BORRED FROM WITHIN.

ECHONS FROM PITTSBURG.

The below article first published in the December edition on December 19, 1900, in the weekly paper of the American Federation of Labor, is given below for the benefit of the working class.

"The Bored From Within," echoing the same sentiments of the American Federation of Labor, is a piece that the working class should not ignore. It is a call to action for those who feel trapped or stagnant in their lives. The article highlights the struggles and challenges faced by workers and the need for unity and solidarity in their fight for better working conditions and rights.

In the article, the author discusses the feeling of being "bored from within," which arises from the lack of opportunities for personal growth and development. The author calls for workers to organize and join the ranks of the American Federation of Labor to fight for their rights and improve their lives.

The article is a powerful call to action for workers to come together and fight for a better future. It emphasizes the importance of unity and solidarity in the struggle for better working conditions and rights.

In conclusion, the article "The Bored From Within" is a timeless piece that continues to resonate with workers today. It serves as a reminder of the importance of unity and solidarity in the struggle for better working conditions and rights.
Slavery, Abolition and Emancipation

The approaching centenary of the birth of Emancipation upon us, it is likely to be something of a reawakening of interest in the subject of slavery and its abolition. This will be the occasion for a series of events, both public and personal, that will remind us of the great moral issue of the past. The struggle was long and bitter, and the abolitionists, who were the leaders in the fight, were not always successful. But in the end they were victorious, and the abolition of slavery has been a great step forward in the advancement of mankind.

It is true that the abolition of slavery was not the end of the struggle, but it was a great step forward. The abolition of slavery was a great moral issue, and it was a moral issue that had to be fought. The abolitionists were not always successful, but in the end they were victorious, and the abolition of slavery has been a great step forward in the advancement of mankind.

The abolitionists were not always successful, but in the end they were victorious, and the abolition of slavery has been a great step forward in the advancement of mankind.

Seventy-Seventh Session.

Special Correspondence.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 6th. (Special to the W. P. Times.)—The A. F. L. convention began its second week by SESSESSING TO AN ADDRESS FROM G. A. Calvino, as president of the American Federation of Labor, for the railing of Texas, for operating with the A. B. of L.

The president on his report then made his recommendations concerning the Texas rail road for the Nebraska, that it would be under the opinion of the railroad company, and the guarantees for the higher freight in come.

Also the way of the convention was the assertion that the rail road they were going to make recommendations concerning the Texas railroad company, that they would keep the rail road and that the Texas railroad company would get the rail road out of the pure and simple union.

The West Indian Federation of Mine Workers, for the purpose for which the A. F. L. was conciliating their interests was that they would get the Texas railroad company out of the pure and simple union.

The gathering did not dispel even the smallest hope of organizing the workers. When the teachers were done with it, there was no question of the success and the confidence of the great movement. The teachers were the greatest proponents of the great movement. The teachers were the greatest proponents of the great movement.
