LIKE MASTER, LIKE MAN.

James McPheron, the "tainted" for the pack leader, has been followed by a like "master, like man" attitude that cannot be ignored. McPheron has been a leader in the pack, with a reputation for being hard-nosed and ruthless in his dealings with other members. His behavior has been a cause for concern, and it is clear that he is following the same pattern as his "master" in the pack.

The pack is known for its strict discipline and hierarchy, and McPheron is no exception. He has been seen leading the pack in violent and aggressive behavior, and his actions have been a cause for concern among the other members.

McPheron's behavior has also been noted by other members of the pack, and it is clear that he is following in the footsteps of his "master." This is a cause for concern among the other members of the pack, who fear that McPheron may continue in the same manner as his "master."
THE FEW, NOT THE MANY

AS THE CREATORS OF WEALTH—A RECENTLY REVIVED ECONOMIC THEORY THAT WAS NEARLY DISMANTLED MORE THAN A DECADE AGO.

Recently a correspondent to the New York Times, addressed a letter to the editors, pointing out that the theory of the few, not the many, had not been discredited, but had been revived in recent years. The letter was published in the Times, and has since been widely discussed. The theory was first advanced by Karl Marx, who argued that the few, not the many, are the real creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory was subsequently developed by Friedrich Nietzsche, who argued that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists.

The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers. The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.

The theory is based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the true creators of wealth, and that the interests of the few are in conflict with the interests of the many. The theory is also based on the idea that the few, not the many, are the only true philosophers, and that the few, not the many, are the only true artists. The theory has been widely discussed in recent years, and has been adopted by a number of economists and philosophers.
WEEKLY SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1860

CORRESPONDENCE

CORRESPONDENTS WILL RESPOND TO ANY LETTER SENT UNDER AN ANSWER NAME THAT ATTACH SUCH NAME TO THEIR CORRESPONDENCE, ADDRESSED TO THE OFFICE OF THIS PAPER. ALL LETTERS WILL BE IDENTIFIED.

A BOOK OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

Mr. Editor:
I have just received a copy of the book entitled "The Satidennis of the World," by Mr. Horace Greeley, which I think will be of great importance to all who are interested in the subject of the present war in the South. The author has done a fine work in bringing together all the facts and arguments that have been presented on both sides of the question, and has given us a clear and concise statement of the issues involved. It is a book that should be read by all who are concerned about the future of this country.

Yours truly,
John Doe.

F. W. LUSZTIG.

THE DANGERS OF SOCIALISM.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, June 28.

Mr. Editor:
I wish to express my concern about the spread of socialism in our country. I believe that socialists are making mistakes and that they are not acting in the best interests of the people. I think we should all be aware of the dangers that socialism poses to our way of life.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

WINNING, the AMERICAN SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY OF AMERICA.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 3.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the American Socialist Labor Party of America. I believe that socialism is the best political system for our country, and I am glad to see that more people are becoming aware of its benefits.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

HOW TO PROMOTE TRUE LIBERTY.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 5.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the promotion of true liberty. I believe that we should all work towards creating a society where everyone is free to live their lives as they see fit, without interference from the government.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

THE PATRIOTIC MACHINISTS.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 7.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the patriotic machinists who are working to protect our country and our way of life. I believe that they are doing a great service to their country.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

THE DISINTEGRATION OF THE REPUBLIC.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 9.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the disintegration of the Republican party. I believe that this is a serious problem and that it needs to be addressed.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF THE UNION.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 11.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the true spirit of the Union. I believe that we should all work towards creating a society where everyone is free to live their lives as they see fit, without interference from the government.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

THE DANGERS OF SOCIALISM.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 13.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the spread of socialism in our country. I believe that socialists are making mistakes and that they are not acting in the best interests of the people. I think we should all be aware of the dangers that socialism poses to our way of life.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

THE PATRIOTIC MACHINISTS.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 15.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the patriotic machinists who are working to protect our country and our way of life. I believe that they are doing a great service to their country.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

THE DISINTEGRATION OF THE REPUBLIC.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 17.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the disintegration of the Republican party. I believe that this is a serious problem and that it needs to be addressed.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF THE UNION.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 19.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the true spirit of the Union. I believe that we should all work towards creating a society where everyone is free to live their lives as they see fit, without interference from the government.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

THE DANGERS OF SOCIALISM.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 21.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the spread of socialism in our country. I believe that socialists are making mistakes and that they are not acting in the best interests of the people. I think we should all be aware of the dangers that socialism poses to our way of life.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

THE PATRIOTIC MACHINISTS.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 23.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the patriotic machinists who are working to protect our country and our way of life. I believe that they are doing a great service to their country.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

THE DISINTEGRATION OF THE REPUBLIC.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 25.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the disintegration of the Republican party. I believe that this is a serious problem and that it needs to be addressed.

Yours truly,
John Smith.

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF THE UNION.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 27.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my support for the true spirit of the Union. I believe that we should all work towards creating a society where everyone is free to live their lives as they see fit, without interference from the government.

Yours truly,
Jane Doe.

THE DANGERS OF SOCIALISM.
To The Daily and Weekly People—Boston, July 29.

Mr. Editor:
I am writing to express my concern about the spread of socialism in our country. I believe that socialists are making mistakes and that they are not acting in the best interests of the people. I think we should all be aware of the dangers that socialism poses to our way of life.

Yours truly,
John Smith.
THE FELON'S GUILT

"THE FELON'S GUILT"

Weekly People, Saturday, July 26, 1994.

The establishment of a mining fund to pay workers' compensation to miners in the state of New York is expected to be expanded to cover other industries. The fund would be a major step forward for workers in the state, and it is hoped that this will encourage other states to follow suit.

Furthermore, the article discusses the need for better mental health services for miners, as well as measures to ensure that the fund is properly managed and that it is not used for purposes other than providing compensation to workers.

The overall message of the article is one of hope and optimism, as it sets out to change the system and improve the quality of life for workers in the mining industry.

The article also highlights the importance of education and training for workers in the mining industry, as well as the need for better working conditions and fair compensation.

In conclusion, the article calls for a more equitable and just system for workers in the mining industry, and it is hoped that the establishment of the mining fund will be a significant step forward in this regard.

THE INDUSTRIAL WORKER

The Industrial Worker

Weekly People, Saturday, July 26, 1994.

The establishment of a mining fund to pay workers' compensation to miners in the state of New York is expected to be expanded to cover other industries. The fund would be a major step forward for workers in the state, and it is hoped that this will encourage other states to follow suit.

Furthermore, the article discusses the need for better mental health services for miners, as well as measures to ensure that the fund is properly managed and that it is not used for purposes other than providing compensation to workers.

The overall message of the article is one of hope and optimism, as it sets out to change the system and improve the quality of life for workers in the mining industry.

The article also highlights the importance of education and training for workers in the mining industry, as well as the need for better working conditions and fair compensation.

In conclusion, the article calls for a more equitable and just system for workers in the mining industry, and it is hoped that the establishment of the mining fund will be a significant step forward in this regard.

The article also discusses the importance of education and training for workers in the mining industry, as well as the need for better working conditions and fair compensation.

In conclusion, the article calls for a more equitable and just system for workers in the mining industry, and it is hoped that the establishment of the mining fund will be a significant step forward in this regard.