"Hayward to be hanged." A headline on the front page of the newspaper. The text mentions the potential hanging of a person named Hayward. The article discusses the circumstances leading to this potential penalty and the public reaction to it. The article is written in a formal, journalistic style typical of the time. The layout includes the date, location, and name of the newspaper. The size of the text is readable, and there are no visual elements to distract from the written content. The text is consistent with the style and format of early 20th-century newspapers.
AS TO CONNOLLY'S REPORT

To the Daily and Weekly People—The Daily People of New Jersey, respect open for the submission of the great question of the day, which will be brought before the people of New Jersey for solution by the people of New Jersey. Respectfully yours, Federick James Connolly, The New Jersey People.

The New Jersey People.

To the Editor of the Daily People,

Dear Sir:

I should have immediately presented the resolution of the Committee on the President of Congress (See Article IX. and X. of the Constitution) to the Senate, in order that the Senate might have time to act upon it. I have therefore committed the business of the House to the hands of the Speaker and the Senate, and I shall not do anything more with the business of the House until I have completed my business in the Senate.

Yours truly,

Federick James Connolly,

New Jersey People.

To the Editor of the Weekly People,

Dear Sir:

I received your letter of February 28 and have read it carefully. I am in agreement with your views, but I think it is better to have the matter taken up by the Congress itself. I think it would be better for the House of Representatives to reconsider the matter and to act on it themselves.

Yours truly,

Federick James Connolly,

New Jersey People.

To the Editor of the Daily People,

Dear Sir:

Your letter of February 28 explaining the reasons for your resolution is very welcome. I am glad to see that you have taken the initiative in presenting the matter to the Congress. I think it is a matter of great importance and I am sure that the Congress will act on it.

Yours truly,

Federick James Connolly,
