Bourgeois Voters to Obtain a Higher
Standard—When the "Putt" is Not Anti-Suffrage—"Law and Order"
Conviction of John Craven, Even More a Form of Party.

The German Kaiser makes a good point in his open letter, to the effect that the severance of diplomatic relations with Russia is not merely a matter of national policy, but is the result of circumstances which have been developing for years. The Kaiser is right in saying that this is a matter of national policy, and the American Public will have to consider the consequences of such a course.

SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1935

There is something deeply affecting in the spectacle of a city's—of a nation's—loss of a leader, especially when the leader is a great man, a man of destiny, a man whose vision was as bright as the sun. To the people who knew him, the city would be bereft without him. To those who did not know him, the city would be bleaker for his loss.

T. H. HUGHES

A CHANDELIER OF CANDLES TO SEE ONE ANOTHER BY.

May 4, 1935

The city that thrives on the publicized status of its leaders has a way of forgetting that leaders are human beings, and that even a great man has moments of weakness. The city that reveres its leaders as if they were gods is apt to be disappointed when they turn out to be imperfect.

The city that glorifies its leaders is apt to be let down when they fail to live up to the expectations placed on them. The city that celebrates its leaders is apt to be disappointed when they fall short of the ideal.

The city that adores its leaders is apt to be let down when they do not measure up to the standards set for them. The city that honours its leaders is apt to be let down when they do not deliver what they promise.

The city that worships its leaders is apt to be let down when they do not live up to the expectations that are placed on them.

It is in the nature of leaders to be human beings, and as human beings they have moments of weakness. They are not perfect, and they are not always able to live up to the expectations that are placed on them.

CORRESPONDENTS are welcome to submit articles or letters to the "LETTER BOX". All communications must be addressed to the "LETTER BOX" and should follow the guidelines outlined in the "LETTER BOX" section of the newspaper.

TWO FIGHTS OF THE WEEK

To the Daily and Weekly People:

The arrivals of the S.S. France from France and the S.S. France from the Philippines of the International Ocean Steamer Company, recently announced, are the two most important events of the week. The International Ocean Steamer Company is one of the largest steamship lines in the world, and its ships are equipped with the latest machinery and facilities for the comfort of its passengers.

The S.S. France from France is scheduled to arrive at the port of New York on Monday, and the S.S. France from the Philippines is scheduled to arrive at the port of San Francisco on Tuesday. Both ships are expected to be received with great enthusiasm.

The pitfalls of "Veiled Dynamism," or "Pompous Nonsense."

By OLIVE M. JONES, ROSLADE, S.C.

"Veiled Dynamism" is a term that was coined to describe a certain style of communication, often used in political speeches and public statements. It involves the use of vague and general terms, designed to avoid direct confrontation or conflict, while still appearing to be assertive or powerful.

In this style, directness is avoided, and instead, indirectness is employed. This can be seen in the way the term "pompous nonsense" is used, which is a criticism of "veiled dynamism." The use of such terms can be seen as a way of avoiding real issues and problems, and instead, focusing on superficialities or distractions.

The statement suggests that this style of communication is not effective in addressing the real issues, and therefore, it is "pompous nonsense." It implies that the use of "veiled dynamism" is a way of avoiding real issues, and instead, focusing on superficialities or distractions.
