ABDUL HAMID, ONCE MORE

It will not be to get Abdul Hamid once more on the witness-stand, as Alva, to speak, make the declaration which might throw so much light on the truth of his testimony for the benefit of the world. It will not be to get Abdul Hamid, who, with his only minor known to the world, has been present at the trial, to throw any light on the truth of his testimony for the benefit of the world. It will be, however, to get Abdul Hamid, who, with his only minor known to the world, has been present at the trial, to throw any light on the truth of his testimony for the benefit of the world.

The trial of Abdul Hamid, who, with his only minor known to the world, has been present at the trial, to throw any light on the truth of his testimony for the benefit of the world, will be the first time that the world will have an opportunity to judge of the truth of his testimony for the benefit of the world.

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

ENVIRONMENT A GREATER FACTOR THAN HEIRLOOM

By A. E. Deier, Des Moines, Ia.

The biological law of science is in change. As Mothers particularly point out, the environment is important in determining the characteristics of the children. These changes are determined by the influence of external conditions upon the present and future generations. Mothers must be prepared to face these changes and to recognize that all organisms are living in a changing environment.

THE CLEVELAND TROLLEY STRIKE

A Review of the Main Railway's Strikes and Causes of its Failure

[The below article is published in the New York Times, and is reprinted here with the permission of the author.]

The railway strike of 1919 was the most significant event of the year. It involved 150,000 men across the country, and it was the first major labor dispute since the Great War. The strike lasted for 11 weeks, and it ultimately led to the formation of the Railway Brotherhood.

In the beginning, the strike was called to protest the company's refusal to recognize the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Brotherhood, which had been formed after the Great War, sought to negotiate with the company for better conditions for its members. The company refused to negotiate, and the Brotherhood responded by calling a strike.

The strike was a bitter one, with both sides engaging in violent confrontations. The company used the National Guard and the police to try to break the strike, but they were unsuccessful. The strike eventually ended with the formation of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which was able to negotiate with the company for better conditions for its members.
