Capitalist Officials and Thieves One and the Same-The "Gospel of Kingdom" a Gospel of Confusion-S. P. Editor Blowing Hot and Cold,

If the delegates to the A. F. of L. convention, now in Toronto, were the lieu-tenants of the Working Class, as they elaim, they would be dressed in sack cloth and ashes, mourning the condition of their principals; being, however, the lieutenants of the capitalist class, there is no occasion for sack cloth and ashes; they are in gala dress, and "enjoy twenty-mile trolley rides around the city," and at night go in corpore to Shea's Theatre.

"Sugar Trust, Constant Thief." "Fingers in the Treasury, and the Public Officials Indifferent to It."

"Theft of Millions Easy." "With Evidence in Front of Their Noses the Officials Let the Trust Do Its Plucking." These are the headlines with which the New York "Sun" of the 11th of this month introduces an 8-column article, which, calm as an indictment, and backed up at every turn with facts, figures and documents, makes the headlines good. Are there any special mesmeric powers in Sugar, that it causes the officials to blink at the thefts it commits despite the "evidence in front their noses"? Of course not. What the "Sun's" article proves is that thefts of millions are all along being committed "easy," with the connivance of the officials. Certainly! What is the capitalist official but an official of capi-talista?

When J. Garry Fawcott, the cashier of the Merchants' National Bank in New Albany, Ind., was killed, and J. K. Woodward, the president of the same institution, was seriously wounded by a man who forced himself into the bank and tried to hold up the officers, they little realized that it was they themselves who loaded the pistol and pulled the trigger. Yet that is just what they did. As deniers of the fact that modern society is divided into classes, they were cultivators of the error that individual poverty is the consequence of individual conduct. Thus mistutored, the pauper who assaulted them did not realize that his benighted condition was a class condition curable only by the overthrow of the System. He attributed his condition to individuals, and assailed individuals.

publication entitled "The Gospel of the Kingdom" defines revolutionary Socialists as men "who scorn any compromise with existing systems, and believe in a strict adherence to the radical doctrines of Socialism, e. g., equal distribu-tion of products and the re-organization of the family." Our contemporary, "The ten itself "The Gospel of Confusion." Revolutionary Socialism has its feet too squarely planted upon facts and sense to ther with such consequences as "distribution of products" and the "organization or re-organization of the family." Distribution of the product will take care of itself if the production of the product is left to the producers; and as to the family, the form it will take will depend in the future, as it has ever depended in the past, upon the Law of Property. Revolutionary Socialism begins and ends "in the shop"-the placing of the productive and useful service powers of the land in the hands of the organized producers and service renderers, who then will be the constituents of the Government-the Industrial or Socialist Government. Keir Hardie's sad forebodings for the Socialist party were answered with a howl from the concern. Keir Hardie, correctly sizing up the S. P., realized it could not progress towards its goal of votes without it was joined by pure and simple labor leaders "of standing," and seeing none of these, on the contrary, seeing only the Hanfords, the Hayes, J. Mahlon Barneses, nobody-labor-leaders, he shook his head, and said "Ichabod." Now that the election returns in New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburg, New Castle, St. Louis, San Francisco, in fact, in all industrial places have confirmed the foreboding to a tittle, Keir Hardie may expect some worse denuncia-

And they say that such treatment is in violation of free speech. Free speech may or may not be violated in the persons of the I-am-a-bums, but droll is the argument they use. They claim free speech as "American Citizens," What! Citizenship is a "concession of the capitalist." The I-am-a-bums won't touch the ballot; to them the ballot is an unclean thing on the theory that it is a "concession of the capitalist." How can

At the Stuttgart International Socialist Congress, the chairman of the Socialist Labor Party delegation having made mention of the Civic Federation as the most powerful capitalist combination that saw its opportunity in the A. Now, in the present article, Mr. Simons sings the opposite song. Now the Civic Federation is suddenly sion of the keenest, most far-seeing and unscrupulous capitalism of Without drawing too heavy a draught upon Mr. Simons's fund of knowledge, it is safe to say the gentleman knew in Stuttgart what he knows now. Now then, that is the S. P .- different language for different latitudes and longitudes, according as might seem to be required by the nonce. How else than at sixes and sevens can a crowd be whose spokesmen are so ex-pert at blowing hot and cold? What need of capitalists hiring spies to scuttle such a crow?

The fifteenth annual convention of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs that met in Rochester on the 10th of just barely preceded the scores of propositions which, since the election day S. P. slump, have cropped up from the S. P. in many parts of the country.

The Lone Star State document correct ly records the torn-up condition of the S. P. as "practically, everywhere"; it pithily refers to its party's highest body as the "fool National Committee," and to the performances of the same as "stupid"; it quotes Mr. Debs approvingly to the effect that "by county autonomy we sion of the capitalist" wrap themselves can segregate the rows in localities and in the mantle of citizenship, another capconfine each disturbance within its own cell"; but, not being quite ready to seek safety from rows in "solitary confinement," it proposes a remedy by calling for a general vote upon the concrete proposition to abolish the National Committee and establish "State Autonomy." The Lone Star State document gives the reasons for the faith that is in it. History, as the Lone Star State document reads it, locates in "centralized power" the source of all evils. The Socialist Labor Party, which is referred to as having gone to "the political graveyard" is cited as a horrible example, and the American Constitution with its "State Autonomy" is quoted as the light to follow. There can be no doubt of the sincerity of the Lone Star State's documentors People who have long repeated an error wind up by becoming the dupes of their own words. So often have the S. P. reneated that the "S. L. P. has gone to the grave-yard" that they actually believe it. How thoroughly convinced the present documentors are of that may be gathered from the circumstance that the only original thought their document contains -the comparison of the conduct of the Dutch immigrants in the matter of canald with the conduct of some Europeans who come to America and here insist in applying habits that are not applicable to American conditions-is a brazen plagiarism from S. L. P. literature. People do not usually rifle the pockets except of those they deem too dead to claim their own. Another proof of the documentors' sincerity lies in their abiding faith in the fallacy concerning the establishment of State Sovereignty by the American Constitution. To all those who are obsessed by neither superstition word of sense will here be welcome. An organization, especially a revolu tionary organization, requires two things for success: it must be sound in point of. principle, correct in point of form. Of body's effectiveness will be impaired, but not its existence. On the other hand, the form of a body's organization may be ideal, but if its principles be false, or defective, then its very existence is in danger, and the capabilities of its form go for naught. A body, correct in principle but under: out of its correct principles the correct because effective form will eventually take shape. On the . contrary, a body, correct in form but incorrect in point of principle, can not choose but suffer utter shipwreck: the idealest of forms will not save the defectiveness of principle. It matters not whether the form of a body is centralized, or made up of independent sovereigns, in order to determine its chances of existence. The body that will survive the struggle for existence is that that is sound in principle; and sound principle is one, not legion. Whatever the form of a body, whether centralized or "autonomous," it can never hold wild cats together. That is what history teaches; that is what the Federal Constitution establishes; and that is what the history of the S. L. P. corroborates-with S. P. history as the horrible obverse to the medal. The Federal Constitution set up cer tain fundamental, central principles, which it guarantees to the whole people. Outside of these principles the States can each follow their own particular genius. Inside of these principles-hands off! toe the chalk-mark! When the Lone Star State, for instance, misinflated in 1860 by "autono notions, wought to exermous" cise them, she was called to order with a sharp turn. So would any State be brought to order which, construing its. "autonomy" into "sovereignty," were to set up a monarchy, or were to coin its own money, or perform any other act of actual sovereignty, that is, set up principles at war with the central ones. The principles of the American social structure being the correct ones at the time of its construction, and the form being effective, the thing has held together, despite more than one shock, and will continue to hold together until its legiti-mate successor, the Industrial or Socialist Republic, is ready to supplant it. It has been so with the S. L. P. Super-issues a Socialist party document that | ness of principle goes to the existence of Nothing of the sort. The S. L. P. has the body; the matter of form, important experienced just one commotion, the the' that is, is of secondary moment: it affair of 1899. It was a legitimate com-only goes to the body's degree of effective- motion. Within the S. L. P. forces had ness. A body, correct in principles, may gathered, or developed, whose goal, be incorrect in form. In such a case the though named "Socialist" by them, was nothing of the kind; whose goal, accordingly, demanded different tactics. The S. L. P., that is, the Socialist, goal, being > the Industrial Republic, required the formation of the economic organization fit to accomplish the revolutionary act, and take the reins of Government. The goal incorrect in point of form, will not go of the elements that had gathered within the S. L. P. being a Government in which Socialist politicians were to supplant capitalist dittos, those elements ignored the necessity of the revolutionary Union, and laid all their stress upon "getting votes." Forms of organization do not breed differences in fundamentals. Whatever the form of organization of the S. L. P. the rupture of 1899 became inevitable. That rupture once effected, the S. L. P. has remained solid-so solid that it has resisted all conspiracies plotted against it from the outside; with a press vastly more powerful and effective than ever before; with its principles ever more triumphant, despite all odds.

And what about the S. P.? That did happen that to happen was inevitable. Its press, its spokesmen, all its vocal organs are now singing one tune, from Montana to New York, from Massachusetts to Texas and California-"Disruption," a song to which the basso profundo accompaniment of the universal slump in its vote adds swing and cadence. Was the S. P. "form" of organization the cause? Whether centralized or scattered, wheth: er nationally, Stately, or countily framed together, the issue had perforce to be the same. The gunning for votes superinduces the sacrifice of principle. Different language in different localities follows inevitably. Gathered under a thousand and one different allurements, a member ship can not meet but to kick one anoth er to pieces. Then follows the throwing out of sops which the capitalist politician forthwith out-sops, with the final conclusion of widespread demoralization. Wild cats can not be held in harmonious organization.

The S. L. P. form of organization may or may not be the most effective: the soundness, because unity, of its principles insures its existence, and will afford time for whatever tinkering at the form may he found advisable.

The S. P. essence will baffle the most ideal of forms, and scatter it to the winds leaving not a rack behind.

For nine long months they were made to undergo the agony of hope deferred. The executioners had not the time to hang them! Finally, one fine day, the telegraph

Railroads Take Advantage of Divid ed Organization.

Chicago, November 13 .- Though the stockholders and bondholders of the railroads are receiving millions in dividends and interest regularly, the rallway mana; ers of the roads centering in Chicago say that no wage increases can be granted their employes "at this time." Different branches of the rallroad industry have put in requests for more wages. The companies, however, are going to play one branch against another.

The roads pretend that they are more interested in the demands which have been made by the local switchmen and yardmen than they are in the movement of the trainmen. They are ready to meet the brotherhood committees and discuss the situation.

Conferences are expected to begin the first week in December, immediately following the expiration of the thirty days' notive. W. G. Lee, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, left for his headquarters in Cleveland to look after the vote which the men have recently taken on their wage demands and to make arrangements for presenting the notices to the eastern roads. The tactics which the roads will adopt to cause dissension and defeat the aims of the men are foreshadowed in the declaration of one of the railroad managers. He was emphatic on the fact that the railroads will not recog-

A. F. L. CONVENTION

USUAL REPETITION OF JURISDIC-TION WRANGLES.

"Resolution Favoring Socialism" Introduced-Max Hayes's Cohorts Rolling Up Their Sleeves for the Annual "Bore"-Lack of Enthusiasm, and Attention to Anything Else Than Labor's Interests Mark Proceedings.

Toronto, Canada, November 13 .---That "hardy annual," as the flower catalogs say, the "resolution favoring Socialism," has again been introduced at the American Federation of Labor Convention in this city. Its backers this time are Robert Hunter, the eminent biologist, John Spargo, the art critic, and Frank Hayes, a member of the Mitchell United Mine Workers. The Mamie Hayeses-too bad Berger's gone to the Bureau!-and others are rolling up their sleeves for the time-honored fray over this resolution some time next week.

In Berger's absence, the mantle of S. P. leadership in the convention has fallen on Hayes's shoulders.

For the rest, the great A. F. of L. convention continues absolutely without enthusiasm

The president sits on his throne wearing a visage like some criminal awaiting his sentence of death. Whether his gloomy countenance is the result of his recent trip through Europe, or, whether the convention presents a spectacle different from other years, or, yet again, whether this is his usual cast of countenence, I am unable to say. In the background may be seen the American and Canadian flags, so arranged as to typify the unity existing between the labor fakirs on both sides of the border. This convention secured the largest hall in the city, but judging from the attendance, a hall less than half the size would have sufficed. Perhaps the Prophet Samuel feels disappointed and sad on this account.

There is much introducing and handshaking among the delegates, and the asking of questions, such as, "How are you enjoying yourself?" and the answer, "We're having a rattling fine time!" In fact, this seems to be the real object of the convention. No mention is ever made of the materialist conception of history, the class-struggle, the commodity character of labor, or the Marxian theory of surplus value. In fact, the basic principles of labor or Socialist thought are entirely unknown. A revolutionist is entirely out of place here. The following resolutions were adopted by the convention to-day:

Authorizing the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to make recommendations to the President of the United States respecting the apnointment of Judges.

Favoring an eight-hour day for Post Office clerks.

Asking Congress to pass a comprehensive Postal Savings Bank act. Urging the affiliated unions of the American Federation of Labor "earnestly to champion and work for the political freedom of women."

other articles. The convention should have defined crime. It is not open to discussion that the exploitation of the workers carried on by the Belmont "Interests," for instance, is crime. Would the distinguished Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. for instance, want to have such items hidden in a corner of the newspapers, so as not to offend her sensitive sensibilities?

Oh, Le Sage and Moliere, and, for that matter, Goethe, too! Ye, who so well took the phis of the quack doctors, their ignorance, their conceit, their "coolness," ye know not what ye miss. If ye could see the John Spargos of the Votes-Rag-Baby, called Socialist party, sitting by the death bed of their abortion, and, sapiently rolling their eyes, ask: "What is the matter with the S. P. !"! What's the matter? Why, too much Sparghetti.

Infinitely more truth than poetry does Senator Cullom of Illinois utter when he mees as his conviction that the South would vote Republican, because it favors a protective tariff, but is kept in line with the Democratic party out of fear of "Negro Domination" if it were to vote Republican. These are ominous words for the Republican Insurgents, who are working for drastic tariff reform.

Though the winter has not yet started, "everybody" is reported as setting out or about to set out for Europe. Already set together by the ears by our 'organizers' and our 'press,' and our principle-lessness laid bare by our vote-lessness, what will become of us if this threatened deluge of twenty-six weekly essons from the national office on Socialism(?) pours down on our devoted heads!"-Right they are.

Miss May Sutton, the champion tennis player, spoils her excellent remarks on the value of athletics as an antidote to sentimentalism, by just one sentence. She says, "Of course, I do not mean that society is not necessary to a girl's development." If both athletics and society are necessary to a girl's development-as the proper sort of both certainly are-what shall be said of a social system that deprives the mass of its girls of all opportunity for either?

A suffrage banner, bearing the motto 'Votes for Women," has been planted on Pike's Peak, in Colorado. Now the 1,343 women 16 years and over, and the 308 children under 16, exploited in the mills and shops of that Suffrage State, can lighten their labors with patient glances toward the waving emblem of a move-ment which, blind to economic fact, believes it can wipe out woman and child slavery without a revolution in society.

Clerk, Edwards, S. L. P. candidate for City Attorney, and Mrs. Susan Bast, S. L. P. candidate for Board of Education, will appear on the ballot at the final election December 7.

The Socialist party managed to land four candidates for Board of Education in the finals, but did not have a "look in" with regard to the other offices.

The Socialist party vote collapsed entirely. At the spring recall election, without S. L. P. opposition, their mayoralty candidate polled 12,500 votes. Yesterday their candidate for Mayor received 738.

For ten years the Socialist party has succeeded in keeping the Socialist Labor Party off the ballot. In the meantime the S. L. P. stuck to the fight in face of fearful odds. This election was the first contest where the two met on equal grounds and it shows the S. L. P. has retained its old vigor and virility.

Ten years ago, before the split, the Socialist Labor Party polled 10,000 votes in California, but it was denounced as too slow. After ten years of vote catching opportunism, the Socialist party receives 600 votes in 'Frisco and 738 in Los Angeles. The proletarian and revolutionary element of the Socialist party are getting tired of having two parties of Socialism. Seeing that nationally the S. P. is going down and hopeless in

POINTED REPUDIATION OF ANARCHY.

[The below, which I here translate for | basis of human regeneration. The People from an Italian translation of the original, the latter being written by Francisco Ferrer himself, when it was sought to connect him with the Anarchist Moral's attempt upon the life of King Alfonso, should dispose, once for all, of the malicious endeavors of the bourgeois press to make an Anarchist out of Ferrer, and should also dispose of the claim of the Anarchists that he was one of them. It should also teach the unthinking ones, who repeat the Anarchist claim, to be more careful in what they say .--F. B. Guarnier, New York.]

Since I declared that I had neither direct nor indirect part in Moral's attempt -the truth of which declaration could have been proven in less than a weekall the work of the prosecuting attorney was aimed to ascertain whether or not I am an Anarchist.

Why? What concealed interest may they have in this? Do they, perhaps, think that they will compromise the work of the Modern School by spreading the rumor that its founder is an Anarchist?

•I very distinctly stated, immediately upon my arrival at Madrid, in my first examination: "I detest all denominations, be it that of Anarchist or that of Carlist, because they all are obstacles to the educative work undertaken by the Modern School." Experience, indeed, has shown me that, as religions divide mankind in sects that hate one another, that struggle one against the other, that seek war and render impossible peace among men, thus the names which are assumed by the men who enroll in various political parties are causes of divisions, angers and bloody wars. How often have I not seen men of the same ideas enrolled in different parties! And how often, on the contrary, have I not seen in the same party men who radically disagreed in their political and social opinions!

That in which all are agreed, so far as my acquaintances prove, is the admission that society is badly organized, and that it is necessary to remedy the evils from which it suffers, and a more or less ardent desire to contribute to its betterment. Thus, the many learned persons with whom I have endeavored to find the best means of obtaining good and strong men have agreed with me that the best means is instruction and education based upon truth. Convinced of this, after the death of Ruiz Zorilla, leader of the Republican Progressist party, I decided not to euroll in any other party, and to devote all my activity to teaching, which in my modest opinion is the only solid

S. P. DECEPTION.

Get in on Reform and Call It Socialist Victory.

Grand Junction, Colo., November 6 .-The Socialist party is perpetrating another fiim-flam upon its membership in announcing that the Socialist party scored a triumph for Socialism by electing a Mayor here. A triumph was scored for S. P. politicianism, and that is how S. P. "victories" must be understood wherever they elect some one to office.

Mr. Thomas M. Todd, the man elected was not put into office because of Socialist principle. He doesn't know what Socialist principle is. But Todd was elected campaign was one o

Among the documents of the trial is report of mine upon the origin of the fortune that permitted me to found the Modern School of Barcelona. Well, in those documents, speaking of the work of the Modern School, they have found a way to call me and my school Anarchists. I have always denied being an Anarchist; and I have denied it because here an Anarchist is supposed to be a being thirsty of blood, an enemy of mankind, and a champion of violence for the sake of violence; and I am not at all such. On the contrary, I detest all shedding of blood, I work for the regeneration of mankind.

and love the good for its sake. They apply to me the qualification of Anarchist because they have read a phrase of mine in which I speak of "ideas of demolition in the minds," and in fact the entire collection of books published by the Modern School contains a quantity of ideas of demolition. But, let it be understood, "ideas of demolition in the minds," that is, the inspiration in the minds of rational and scientific principles which will cause all prejudices to disar. pear.

Does this mean to be an Anarchist? If it does, I must admit that I did not know it before, but that in such a case I would be an Anarchist befause the Anarchist would have adopted my ideas of education, peace, and love, and not because I would have accepted or adopted his methods.

Whatever it be, no one on earth can prove-and only those may suspect it who either do not know me or have an interest in ruining me-that I knew what Moral thought of doing. And thus it is absurd to suppose that I, notwithstanding my faith in education for the emancipation of the consciences, for which I have spent my fortune, my time and my life, could have devoted myself to a work or aim so different from mine. I am a straightforward and passionate man; when I devote myself to a thing, I devote my entire self to it. And I have devoted myself to the education of the people, because only from it I expect everything. I, therefore, was neither an accomplice of Moral, nor was I aware of his intentions; I merely was one of the many persons who had relations with him.

All this I have repeatedly stated to my udges, and could be easily proven if a medieval and deleterious fanaticism did not blind so many people and did not lead them to see in me a man worthy of the worst punishment.

SLUMS AND REVOLUTION-

After describing the column of the pro letarians who returned victorious from the assault of the Bastille, and who carried in their midst some of the prisoners whom they had rescued, and some of the implements of torture that they seized in the redoubtable dungeon-men and women whose revolutionary act was noble and unstained with crime, and who now paraded the streets of Paris to cries of 'Long live the nation!", Eugene Sue, in "The Sword of Honor," the eighteenth of his series of historic novels entitled "The History of a Proletarian Family Across the Ages," proceeds to sketch in the folowing words the picture of the Slum element that ever hangs on the skirts of revolutionary movement, and such as it historically appeared on that occasion:

"Almost immediately there disgorged itself - tumultuously into St. Honore Street a band of men of an aspect that contrasted strangely with that of the populace just addressed by Monsieur Desmarais. Some were dressed in rags, others wore, a garb less sordid, but nearly all hore on their faces the stamp of vice and crime. This hand was composed of men without occupation; do-nothing workmen; debauched laborers; little businessmen ruined by misconduct, become pickpockets, sharpers, infesters of houses of ill fame and other evil places; robbers; convicts; assassins-a hideous crowd, capable of any crime; an execrable crowd whom our eternal enemies keep in fee and easily egg on to these saturnalia, for which the people is but too often held culpable; wretches in the hire of priests, the nobles and the police. "At the head of these bandits marched a man with the face of a brigand, of gigantic stature and herculean frame, and conspicuously well clad. Once a 'cadet,' then a gaming house keeper, then usher of the Church of St. Menard, Lehiron, for such was the name of the leader of this band, had been expelled from his last employment for the theft of a poorbox. Around his waist a sash of red wool held two horse-pistols and a cutlass that had lost its sheath. His coat and the cuff of his shirt rolled back to the elbow, he waved his bare hands, clotted with blood. At the end of a pike he still bore the head of Monsieur Flesselles [a bourgeois who was brutally murdered] and from time to time, while brandishing this trophy, he would cry out in a stentorian voice: "'Long live the nation!-To the lamppost with the aristocrats!-Death to all the nobles!'

"'Death to the enemies of the people! -The aristocrats to the lamp-post!' repeated all the bandits, brandishing their pikes, their sabres, or their guns blackened with powder.

"'To the lamp-post with the aristocrats!' also cried the shrill but piercing voice of an urchin who gave his hand to a miserably clad character, the man of the false beard of whom Desmarais had spoken. It was the Jesuit Abbott Morlet. [Here Sue weaves in the historic fact adduced by Louis Blanc in his "History of the French Revolution" concerning the agent provocateur's work of a priest, Le Roy by name.] At the moment that this band hove in sight of Monsieur Desmarais' dwelling, the Jesuit drew close to Lehiron, and said a few words to him in a low voice. The latter stopped, signed to his followers for si-play and the truth."

Tell a capitalist that Labor produces ; all wealth, and he violently denies it. Evidently, then, taking him at his own word, the fabulous sums he receives must be produced by something else than labor. The only thing a capitalist does, is to do nothing. Hence the golden stream which continually flows into his coffers when things are "prosperous," must be the produce, or, as the capitalist himself loves to call it, the "wages"of indolence.

These "wages of indolence" are based apon the ownership of stocks, bonds, or other securities, by virtue of which the owner is entitled to the cream off the labor of the toiling wage-workers of the land. The forty billions of American securities, which comprise about a third of the world's negotiable securities, may be roughly estimated as follows:

Steam railroads$14,300,000,000 Electric railroads 4,200,000,000 "Industrials," &c. 16,800,000.000 Bank stocks 1,800,000,000 Government bords, &c. .. 2.900.000,000

"Dividends" is the name given to the yearly or quarterly instalment of the 'wages of indolence," as they came to the stock and bond holder. The present yearly dividends of the big roads are:

Union Pacific	$23,500,000
'ennsylvania	18,900,000
Jorthern Pacific	17,500,000
Southern' Pseifie	16,300,000

Reading	5,600.000
Lackawanna (regular)	5,200.000
Laekawanna (extra, 1909)	13,000,000

A greater insight into how very indolent our captains of industry must be to earn such immense "wages of indoence" appears from the list of the dividend disbursements of some of the biggest industrial companies. The four hig trusts"-Steel, Oil, Tobacco, Telephone -are now paying $115,000,000 a year to their shareholders, Standard Oil and United States Steel alone are paying as much in dividends as the six biggest railroads in the country. Besides its $45,000,000 dividends, Steel pays $29, 000,000 in bond interest, or very much nore than the interest paid by the Govent on the National debt. The dividends of some of the leading industries are:

United States Steel	45,000,000

After running through this array of igures, one almost begins to feel his belief that the capitalists do no work begin to waver. It must be very hard work indeed to do nothing so hard that one earns anywhere from $182,000 to $9,600,000 per year by not doing it. Arm and Hammer.

The Results of the Last Election-By H. Burgin.

(Translated for the Daily People from the Jewish "Vorwaerts." the organ of the Socialist Party, Nov. 9, by Dr. Abraham Levine.)

The saying, "there is no ill wind but blows some one good," has proved true once more. The sad results of the last election for the Socialist party have shown that "there is something wrong in Denmark," and the Party will now adopt measures to cure the ills, or, at least mitigate the evils, which afflict it.

Last year's election returns had al ready shown that there was something wrong somewhere. Our vote was indeed considerable, about 430,000. But last year's campaign was conducted during a crisis, accompanied by a prolonged Moyer-Haywood agitation. There were exceptionally favorable conditions for a campaign, and as we received the same vote as in 1904, it shows that during the intervening four years we had not gained the slightest influence in the ranks of the working class. Our last year's vote points to a defeat, somewhat veiled, but none the less there. Our small vote shows that we have few Socialists: we have few Socialists because we have no influence with the working masses. Now then, why have we no influence in the ranks of the working class?

Before giving answer to this query let us remark that the opinion which the writer of these lines expresses here is his individual opinion, not that of the editor of the "Vorwaerts." The editor has given us carte blanche to express all that "we have on our heart." and we have quite a good bit there, not against any particular individual in our movement, but against its system as a whole. The first thing that is strikingly evident is the onesidedness of our activity. We rest content with the agitation that we do, but we do not carry on a real propaganda of our ideas. We appeal to the feelings, not to the brains; of those we wish to convert to our views. But this is rather a poor way to gain converts, because our enemies do this very thing, and as some would have it, they do it better: their agitators being more experienced and better educated than ours. Listen to a Tammany speaker; what honeyed words about democracy, the masses, the rights of the poor, and before you know it you are carried away by his eloquence. You have to bring your brains into play to shake off the rascal. Infinitely more treacherous is the spell of the Hearst agitators. But even at its best, were our agitators the very best conceivable, you cannot make Socialists with fiery speeches. You can make Socialists by systematic propaganda, no few, sporadic, lectures through the season either.

If we but carried on our agitation the other 364 days before Election day. we might then also hope for some success, but for the very reason that we do not carry on a systematic propaganda we have no competent agitators even during the campaign. Our party terests are not working class interests, True enough, a party is not a class, and in every party representing a class you will also find representatives of other classes. But while in the other parties these "alien" elements are but a drop in the bucket, reduced to insignificance among the overwhelming numbers of the true repre-Among the bitterest opponents of So-sentatives of that class, in our movement here these "alien" elements play the first fiddle.

We could justify the role these elements play in our Socialist movement if they had acquired it through real work, if they had served the working masses with their education, their information, their intellectual attainments, for such is the case with the Socialist parties in Europe. Here, however, in dollar-land, they buy it with their dollars. With the exception of but very few, they are content with paying dues and an occasional donation of a "couple of dollars." (at times even this is not forthcoming). And while they bring little use to the movement they do a lot of harm. To them, solidarity is an unknown word; to them, the social revolution is an empty, aye, a dangerous phrase. For, to be frank, their interests are linked with the present capitalist system. We do not say they are hypocrites; that they are parading behind Socialist masks. But if we believe in our scientific principle that the ideas of a man. (not to speak of exceptions), or of a group of men, are the results of their economic interests, we are bound to admit that these capitalist elements are firmly linked to their privileged condition, which is possible in this system of class privilege. We have remarked above that you cannot bank safely on sentiment exclusively as a means of agitation, nor on the sentimental Socialist; we might say the same now of the brain-Socialist who enjoys privileges in our capitalist society. His heart is all the time yearning for the flesh-pots, for the capitalist system. While his head moves him to indulge in ideals of a better system to come, his heart pulls him back to reality-to the pleasures he enjoys in the present system. Wittingly or unwittingly, 'he lives, behaves, carries on, and puts on the airs of a bourgeois, and from such a "comrade" the masses are to learn comradeship, looking up to him as a guide! This is partly the reason why we lack ideals, enthusiasm, why our movement is not permeated with true solidarity, brotherhood, equality, which would crown it with effulgent glory and by its warmth and light attract the working masses. Lack of space does not permit us to dwell more extensively on this phase of the question. We shall now point to another cause for our weakness, viz.: our pure and simple policy. We have encompassed too narrow a field -the political field. The economic field we totally abandon to the lickspittlers of capitalism, the Gomperses and the Mitchells. If the political field is in itself sufficient means to attract the working masses unto the Socialist party it is such only in those countries where the masses are subjected to political oppression. There the workingman is compelled to carefully size up the political activity of this or that party because he is forced to join some party to fight for his political rights. Here in America, however, the workingman is not compelled to fight for his political rights; he can easily A 'FINE' SYSTEM

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST. The late municipal election of New York was not a local affair. New York City is more than the metropolis; New York is the head and heart center of the What happened here at the late' land. municipal campaign and election in the bourgeois camp was an event of national importance-the conspicuous rise of a conspicuous personality, henceforth to be reckoned with --William Randolph

Hearst. With the flippancy that English critics impute to the American reading public, Mr. Hearst has been called a "tricky politician," a "self-seeking demagogue," a "shallow office-seeker" in some quar ters, while, in other quarters, the quarters of the High Finance assailed by him the slogans were "Hearst is an ignoramus, he is a dissolute man, he is an indolent man," When Mr. Hearst failed in the Mayoralty election of four years ago a sigh of relief was heaved from all these quarters. They thought: "We are now through with Hearst." When, the next year, his running mates were all elected and he was beaten for Governor, the belief "we are through with Hearst" became stronger. The belief suffered a shock last year when Mr. Hearst, as the advocate of an independent candidate for President, toured the country and delivered a dozen speeches which called more attention than anything Taft or Bryan said; which caused consternation to the Standard Oil, therefore to both the old parties; and which drove from office one of the leading Federal Senators, Foraker, and shook the ground from under several others. Finally this year,/at a moment when the Tammany local tickets seemed safe, with the election of Bannard as the only alternative, it was Mr. Hearst who stepped forward and by a manocuvre that was brilliant broke the slate, and ed forward and by a manocuvre routed both Murphy and Woodruff. The posture of the public in general towards Hearst has changed very materially since election day. And well it may, seeing that, immediately after his election vic-

With the variations that nearly 2,000 years of social evolution compel, the great American Republic is presenting the aspect of the great Roman-Republic of the days immediately preceding the rise of Caesar; with the variations that such a span of time compel, what the Daily People has said more than once before may be here repeated-the Caesarian outlines are shaping themselves in the personality of William Randolph Hearst, whom the American plutocracy fear as much as the Roman patriciate feared Caesar, and who, in the end, saved their

When the American Caesar shall take full shape in our country, his success or his failure will depend upon the organized progress that Socialism will have made upon the economic field.

THE DIFFERENCE. Elsewhere in this issue will be found an article headed "Our Activity Among the Working Masses." The article is a translation from the original Yiddish, written by a Socialist party man and published in the Soclalist party organ the "Vorwaerts," and was called forth by the recent slump in the S. P. vote together with that party's noted decline during the last years. The article is recommend. ed to the thoughtful perusal of the thoughtful, -During these eleven years of the split in the Socialist Movement, to the oft-repeated question, What is the difference between the Socialist Labor Party and the Socialist party? the People made answer by specifying three leading points:

First-The S. L. P. considers the economic movement of prime importance in the Revolution. Hence the economic movement must be revolutionary. As a consequence of this, the economic movement must be wrenched from the clutches, of Gompersism. To this end, bore from within and bore from without, but BORE, and boring cannot be done by echoing the errors. immigrational and others, of Gompersism .- The S. P., on the contrary, looks upon the economic movement as "a passing phase." Hence it is "neutral" on that field. As a consequence, anxlous for votes, the S. P. endeavors not to "isolate" itself; hopeful of votes, its organs -- "Call," "Vorwaerts," "Volkszeitung"-and all its spokesmen lie low in sight of pure and simple Gompersistic iniquities.

Second-The S. L. P. stands upor THE INTERESTS OF THE PROLE-TARIAT. Hence the S. L. P. insists that all who join it, whether they be proletarian or non-proletarian elements, leave behind them all bourgeois habits of thought-"taxation" issues, "cheap gas" issues, "reforms." in short,-and concentrate upon the revolutionary issue presented by the exploitation in the shop.-The S. P., on the contrary, plumes itself upon its

"broadness"; hence its doors are open promiscuously to "discontent." Third-The S. L. P. insists upon the ownership by itself, without subterfuge, of its press and other weapons of propaganda. Hence, individual ambitions to make money, or gratify van. ity cannot assert themselves in the S. L. P .-. The S. P., on the contrary, holds the S. L. P. policy "autocratic." It allows its press to be private property, hence uncontrollable by but controlling the party, with the further consequence that its agitators, like its press, are virtually free fishermen, each with his hook and line doing business on its own hook,

Read the article of the S. P. man, reproduced in this issue. He makes each of these three points-he condemns his party for "abandoning the economic field to the pure and simple policy" and "to the lickspittlers of capitalism, the Gomperses and the Mitchells"; he condemns his party for allowing its bourgeois and professionents to "play first fiddle"; and he frankly declares his party has "no competent agitators," during the campaign or otherwise;-and then, after admitting all that, he has no word of censure for the "Call," the "Vorwaerts," the "Volkszeitung." On the contrary. These very centers from which radiate the wrongful economic posture of the S. P., and which are, notoriously dominated by pure and simple views and private ambitions are extolled by the writer!

NOTHING REMARKABLE. There is nothing remarkable in what the A. F. of L. "United Mine Workers' Journal" of the 4th instant calls "the very remarkable outcome" of the Schoenville Anarchist riots, the outcome being that the Pressed Steel Car Company has "formally announced that it will support the United Car Workers of America," and that "a local of this Union has been organized in the works of the steel plant"; in other words that the A. F. of L. United Car Workers of America are to take the places, of the men now at work in the plant, and who have recently been in rebellion against the Company. To put it in still fewer words, the announcement made by the A., F. of L. organ is that the A. F. of L. is at its usual work of successful scabbery on the proletariat. Nothing remarkable in that; the event is doubly unremarkable, however signifiant.

The A. F. of L is not a proletarian economic organization. The A: Foof L. is a guild concern, run upon bourgeois conomics; avowedly in the interest of the capitalist social order; and, consequently, opposed to anything that endangers capitalism. The shop in which the workers are organized in the A. F. of L. is a ballasted ship. The ties of brotherhood between the employer and his employes may, at times, be strained; sun-Gered they never are, however bloody the noses of the two brothers may, at times, come out of a conflict. 'Tis otherwise if the shop is unorganized, or organized outside of the A. F. of L. If unorganized, then, even under the worst labor conditions, the ship of the shop is "tender." The shop is then like a ship in the hold of which the kegs and boxes and bales of merchandise are loosely stowed away. As the ship rolls and pitches, the bundles in the hold roll over each other, to the great danger of making the shin turn turtle. If the men are organized outside of the A. F. of L., the danger is no less. Free from the A. F. of L bit and bridle, the organization may at any time respond to proletarian class demands, to the serious annovance of the employer. In either of the two cases the employer ever hurries to fetch in the assistance of the A. F. of L. When it "organizes" the shop, that is, when it plays the scab upon the men in the shop, that ship forthwith "steadies." In the instance of the Pressed Steel Car Company a handle was unfortunately given by the men to facilitate the scabbery upon them by the A. F. of L. As was shown last month in these col-amns the McKee's Rocks men, who took so brilliant a stand for their class in their strike against the Pressed Steel Car Company, encountered a double misfortune. They first fell into the hands of that bird of ill omen, the pure and simple Socialist party politician, and no sooner had they shaken off that bird, when they fell into the hands of its mate, the pure and simple, tho' veiled, dynamiters who are sailing in the stolen plumes of the I. W. W. True enough, capitalists call veryone who threatens their rule an Anarchist; that can be no reason why one should allow himself to be run by Anarchists. On the contrary. It is a reason why the soundly-poised, revolutionist should be all the more on the alert, and, by his every act, confute and refute the capitalists' words, and convict them of foul calumny. The McKee's Rocks strikers neglected this precaution. No Anarchists themselves,"they allowed themselves to be run by the above named element, with which the Labor Movement has made a bitter experience, against which Marx and Engels struggled and warned, and in whose face the Interna-

"Watson's Jeffersonian Magazine" for the current month leads with an 18-page article by the mercurial Tom Watson himself on "Socialists and Socialism." The purpose of the article is to show uthoritatively-mind you, authoritatively-and documentarily-mind you, documentarily-that the program of Socialism embraces a sweeping remodeling of the family relations, the "overthrow of the monogamic family" and the establishment of "free love."

Readers of the Daily People might ask, Why bother with such stale trash? Does not Socialism, in the platforms enunciated by its conventions, and in the classics upon which all Socialists are agreed, plant itself exclusively upon the conomic question? Is not Socialism well understood by all intelligent people, foe and friend alike, to begin and end with the demand for the abolition of private ownership in the necessaries for labor and the re-organization of society upon that basis? What concern is it of Socialism what the private opinion may be of this or that Socialist as to whethe nonogamy will or will not continue, any more than it is the concern of Protectionism whether the protectionist Robert Ingersoll was an atheist: or any more than it is the concern of Populism whether the Populist Tom Watson believes in the divine dispensation that the Negro is a special creation for the Watsons to ride: or any more than it is the concern of the Roman Catholic creed whether the Prince of the Church Cardinal Antonelli was a promiscuous begetter of children? Why bother with such stale trash, anyhow That's all very true; and the Daily Peo ple does not propose now, any more than it has done heretofore, to allow itself to be drawn beside the question-the overthrow of the capitalist system of production, the only issue that Socialism presents. In taking up the article of our effervescent, though oft admired, equaintance Tom Watson, the Daily People purposes to render to the public the valuable service of illustrating the pitiable wreckage of all sense of resoonsibility that a liberal education in eels-over-head populistic economics will work even in so bright an intellect as Tom Watson's.

The first four pages of the article in question are taken up with a roasting f the Socialist party man, the Rev. George D. Herron, for the "Socialist Wedding" which he celebrated with Miss Rand, after divorcing his first wife. Lest we digress, we shall not go into details to show that Mr. Watson substantially blundered even on this point, in that the revoltingness of the Rev. Herron's conduct-the casting off for a rich one a poor wife, whom shortly before he had pronounced "the inspiration of his life" -makes no part of Mr. Watson's anathe mas. We shall let that pass. The Rev. Herron . "Socialist . Wedding" is but a prelude to Mr. Watson's article. However excited. Mr. Watson realizes that his case on Socialist immorality could not stand upon that leg alone. The remaining fourteen pages buckle down to business. Bebel is to be convicted out of his own mouth. The work of Bebel's, chosen to do the job, is "Woman Under Socialism."

HORRIBLE EXAMPLE OF 16 TO need not be told that Mr. De Leon is in system, the former seeks to assuage her full accord with Herr Bebel, and desires to win converts to Socialism by the circulation of Bebel's book. And when we find that 'Woman Under Socialism' is an elaborate argument for just such ideals as those set forth at 'A Socialist Wedding,' we need no farther evidence to convince us that Socialism does make uncompromising war upon marriage, as we know it, and proposes to substitute therefor the informal 'free and easy' mating which Herron and Miss Rand first practised and then 'announced'." [The italics are in the original.]

Now let the reader turn to that translator's preface quoted from, and referred to by Mr. Watson as evidence of the translator's anti-monogamic views. It sets forth as follows.

"The ethic formula commends self-effacement to a translator. More so than well-brought-up children, who should be seen and not heard', a translator should, where at all possible, be neither seen nor heard. That, however, is not always possible. In a work of this nature, which, to the extent of this one, projects itself into hypotheses of the future, and even whose premises necessarily branch off into fields that are not essentially basic to Socialism, much that is said is, as the author himself announces in his introduction, purely the personal opinion of the writer. With these a translator, however much in general and fundamental accord, may not always agree. Not agreeing, he is in duty bound to modify the ethic formula to the extent of marking his exception, lest the general accord, implied in the act of translating, be construed into specific approval of the objected-to passages and views. Mindful of a translator's duties as well as rights, I have reduced to a small number, and entered in the shape of running footnotes to the text, the dissent I thought necessary to the passages that to me seemed most objectionable in matters race." not related to the main question; and, as to matters related to the main question, rather than enter dissent in running footnotes. I have reserved for this place a summary of my own private views on the family of the future.

"It is an error to imagine that, in its spiral course, society ever returns to where it started from. The spiral never returns upon its own track. Obedient to the law of social evolution, the race often is forced, in the course of its onward march, to drop much that is good, but also much that is bad. The bad, it is hoped, is dropped for all time; but the good, when picked up again, never is picked up as originally dropped. Between the original dropping and the return to its vicinity along the tracks of the spiral, fresh elements join. These new accretions so transmute whatever is re-picked up that it is essentially remodeled. The 'Communism,' for instance, that the race is now heading toward, is, materially, a different article from the 'Communism' it once left behind. We move in an upward spiral. No doubt moral concepts are the reflex of material possibilities. But, for one thing, moral concepts are in themselves a powerful force, often hard to distinguish in their effect from material ones; and, for another, these material possibilities unfold material facts, secrets of agony with the benumbing balm of resignation, the latter to relieve her torture with the blister of libertinage.

"Between these two extremes stand the gathering forces of revolution that are taking shape in the militant Socialist Movment. Opinion among these forces, while it cannot be said to clash, takes on a variety of shades-as needs will happen among men, who, at one on basic principles, on the material substructure of institutional superstructure. cannot but yield to the allurements of speculative thought on matters as yet hidden in the future, and below the horizon. For one, I hold there is as little ground for rejecting monogamy, by reason of the taint that clings to its inception, as there would be ground for rejecting co-operation, by reason of the like taint that accompanied its rise, and also clings to its development. For one, I hold that the smut of capitalist conditions, that to-day clings to monogamy, is as avoidable an 'incident' in the evolutionary process as are the iniquities of capitalism that to-day are found the accompaniment of co-operative labor ;-and the further the parallel is pursued through the many ramifications of the subject, the closer will it be discovered to hold. For one, I hold that the monogamous family - bruised and wounded in the cruel rough-and-tumble of modern society, where, with few favored exceptions of highest type, male creation is held down, physically, mentally and morally, to the brutalizing level of the brute, forced to grub and grub for bare existence, or, which amounts to the same, to scheme and scheme in order to avoid being forced so to grub and grub-will have its wounds staunched, its bruises healed, and, ennobled by the slowly acquired moral forces of conjugal, paternal and filial affection, bloom under Socialism into a lever of mighty power for the moral and physical elevation of the

The reader should now refresh his memory by re-reading Mr. Watson's account of the translator's preface of Bebel's "Woman Under Socialism."

Far be it from us to believe that Tom Watson deliberately falsified, and deliberately misrepresented. In all sincerity we do not. If he had, the matter would not deserve handling. Mr. Watson did not mean to falsify. His false presentation of the translator's posture is one of the inevitable results of the mental training imparted by the philosophy of 2+2=16 to 1. A system of thought that, from shallow premises, flies off to the scatter-brained financial theory of which Mr. Watson is an expositor, miseducates. If indulged in intensely, it disqualifies the mind for that conscientious reading and sober thought that renders a man responsible for his words. The translator's preface is not quite four pages long. If the wheels in Mr. Watson's head whirl so wildly that he can so wholly misapprehend and so rashly report the contents of a 4-page preface, what the chances are of his acting with a greater sense of respon-

DELIBERATE DISREGARD FOR WORKERS' SAFETY.

To the Daily and Weekly People: One more evidence that the capitalist class considers its investments far more worthy of preservation than the lives of the workers who produce profits for it is contained in a remark I heard a mine worker make to another. This man said that in one part of a certain mine the ground overhead looked so dangerously threatening that there was much difficulty in getting miners to risk their lives in it. Then the electric lamps were taken out and the workmen, thus blind bridled and blinkered, were led into the death chamber without further trouble. Candles had been substituted and their light shines but a short distance in large places. The danger overhead could not be seen.

Of course the capitalist needs blinkers on the eyes of the workingman to prove that the capitalist preserves the home by robbing it of its head. But to the Socialist such blinkers are transparent. E. Rouner.

CORRECTING THE SHOULD-HAVE BEEN S. P. VOTE.

To the Daily and Weekly People: After reading carefully the letter of "Ex-S P." in your issue of November 5, about the vote the S. P. should have gotten, but didn't, I concluded that the writer did a great injustice to the great and only Socialist paper, the Yiddish "Forward."

The "Forward" has a circulation of over 83,000 year in, year out, and revolutionizes the whole Jewish population Why, wasn't it included in the estimate of the vote?

But alas, this wasn't the worst. Your correspondent also forgot to mention the "Volkszeitung," with its 3,500 readers. The Volkszeitung has a wonderful influence over the Unions, and after reading the sound reasonings of this paper they should certainly develop into Socialist party men and vote the S. P. ticket.

True, "Ex-S. P." overestimated the strength of the "I-am-a-bums." I don't believe they have thirteen votes between them. But this exaggeration by no means makes up for the shameful way he ignored the "Forward" and the "Volkszeitung."

He estimated the vote that should have been, at 321,213. Allow me to add:

ELEVEN YEARS AFTER. To the Daily and Weekly People :-That comparative tabulation of the Socialist vote in Greater New York, red in the Daily People, furnishes food for thought. As is shown there, the Socialist Labor Party vote in 1898, that is, prior to the time the New Yorker Volkzeitung "had not shrunk from even splitting thet Socialist movement in order to preserve intact the (A. F. of L.) union movement," had mounted up to 15,407. In 1909, eleven years later, the vote of S. L. P. and S. P. together amounts to 11,914, a loss of 3,493. These figures, eloquent enough when considered in the light of all that has happened during those eleven years, become still more eloquent when one bears in mind that they assume added significance in view of the natural increase of the voting population in the territory of Greater New York. That increase, while by no means proportionate to the general increase of popula-tion, is yet enough to make doubly clear how the Socialist movement has been hampered in its natural development by the pirate crew that sought to capture it in 1899 by means of mallets, crowbars and sundry other weapons of a like character and, fortunately, got their own stupid heads cracked for their - pains. In 1898, the total vote cast in Greater New York was 531,632; in 1909, the total vote cast in the same territory was 592,602-an increase of almost 12 per cent. To get a correct picture of the true state of affairs, that 12 per cent increase of voters must be consid

He has all the virtues of the bourgeois in the incipient stage of that class -be up holds free speech, free press, individual rights, etc., and has no use for superstitions. As a consequence of his primitive bourgeois mentality, Gaynor is also a single taxer. He sincerely believes the single tax would abolish involuntary poverty. J. H. E. S., CINCINNATI, O .- Whatever did become of "The Worker"? The question calls for a history of the S. P. English press of this city. Right after the split in 1999, the Volkszeitung corporation started a paper which it called "The People," the publication became better known as "The Bogus," seeing that the S. L. P. continued to publish its organ, as before, called The People. The corporation brought a suit against the S. L. P. to prevent it from calling its paper The People. Being beaten on that suit, it changed its paper's name into "The Worker." Presently the New York S. P. began to feel ashamed of not owning its own English paper. The end of a long struggle was that the corporation passed "The Worker" over to its New York party. "The Worker" was dying anyhow. The corporation did its best to hasten its deciine so as not to have the example of a party-owned paper. Being in extremis, "The Worker's" name was changed to "The Socialist." As the great things expected from the change of name did not materialize, just as soon as "The Call" was started "The Socialist" was consolidated with "The Call," as the latter's weekly. Mr.Algernon Lee had been successively the Editor of the "Bogus," "Worker" and the "Socialist," and when "The Socialist" became S. P. property he was elected Editor by his party. When the consolidation of "The Socialist" and "Call" took place, the New York S. P. demanded that it elect or have a voice in the election of the Editor of "The Socialist," seeing that "The Call" was private property. "The Call's" authorities refused. Mr. Lee then resigned from "The Socialist" to become Editor of "The Call." Thereupon "The Socialist" was edited by an Editor of "The Call.'s" authorities, and, presently, was suspended altogether. That answers: "Whatever became of 'The Worker.'"

By H. Richter, General Secretary-Treasurer, Hamtramck, Mich.

The cloud of pessimism and disappointment which settled upon a great portion of the Industrial Union movement following the action of the socalled fourth convention of the I. W. W., is vanishing.

Calm investigation, a clearer perception of the principles and form of a sound economic organization, together with the pressure of capitalist development as it manifests itself in greater misery and dependence of the worker, is slowly, but with the irresistible power of a growing force, pushing aside all impediments.

Simple industrialism (more simple than industrial), which emphasizes the form and substitutes noise for principles, will not succeed in imposing itself for any length of time; it will not be able to foist a revamped serfs' move ment for enlightened class action.

A worker who ignores his political rights or is not willing to fight for them, is depriving himself of the means which past struggles have brought forth, -ready levers for greater progress and effectiveness in the workers' class strug-

An economic organization, which ridicules the political class movement of the wage workers, advertises its stupidity and becomes a travesty upon the modern class struggle. No label can hide its atavistic nature.

No enlightened wage worker can join such an aggregation without stultifying himself, and playing into the hands of the capitalist class.

That the workers are ready for sound and all embracing industrial organization as organized in Chicago 1905, is being proven by a cumulating evidence.

Last week the Ladies' Tailors of Detroit organized the first branch of the Clothing Workers' Industrial Union with 20 charter members. Cleveland is heard from with a Local forming. Kansas City is getting in line. Car Foundry Workers report good agitation and new members joining. There is growth everywhere.

Capitalism, Craft Unions, Reform Socialists and Simple Industrialists will recede and finally vanish in the measure that economic and sociologic knowledge replaces ignorance and superstition among wage workers. Sound knowledge is the cohesive substance which makes a real organization able to generate the power and staying qualities which a victory by the workers over capitalism requires.

Knowledge, both theoretical and pratical, cannot be acquired by proxy. Each worker must knuckle down to the task Are you at the job?

A Socialist and Industrialist outside of the organization is as useless for effective work as a detached piece of machin ery.

Collective effort has supplanted indi vidual struggle. Act accordingly. H. R.
