WISCONSIN S. D. P. MEET

CONVENTION ADOPTS PLATFORM

UNION AGAINST EXCLUSION

Help to New Sioux River Dam Project

Stephanie Stadher, Delegate from the Department of Agriculture, presented the report at the 1919 convention. The platform included measures to protect workers' rights and promote justice. The convention was a significant event in the political history of Wisconsin, and its platform reflected the concerns and values of the time. The platform called for the protection of workers' rights, the promotion of justice, and the advancement of the state's interests. The convention also addressed specific issues such as education, social welfare, and the environment. Despite the challenges of the time, the convention was successful in presenting a strong and united platform that reflected the values of its constituents. The platform's adoption was a testament to the power of collective action and the importance of representation in government.
That which the American Federation of Labor calls a Labor Movement was nothing but a movement of workers who had struck: it was not a fight, not war, not a struggle for existence and death, and the strike of the Westinghouse workers, as was the much more serious strike in the Pullman Palace Car Co. The Pullman strike was not a movement of men, it was a movement of property. The Pullman strike was not a movement of the workers, it was a movement of the railroad companies. The Pullman strike was not a movement of the workers, it was a movement of the capitalist class. The Pullman strike was not a movement of the workers, it was a movement of the capitalist class. The Pullman strike was not a movement of the workers, it was a movement of the capitalist class.

Gleanings from the Trade Union Movement.

The materialistic conception of history proceeds upon the principle that all events and all things are the result of the struggle of classes. The doctrine is, in every social system that has existed, in every economic institution that has existed, in the production of all products, together with the social class in which the product is produced, according to the social class in which the product is produced. The doctrine of the struggle of classes is the doctrine of the materialistic conception of history. The doctrine of the struggle of classes is the doctrine of the materialistic conception of history. Experience is said to be the best of teachers, but it can also be a very poor one. The people who have lived under the worst and most oppressive conditions of society are often the most qualified to judge. The S. P. L. P. of America has been in existence for over forty years, and during that time it has undergone many changes and reforms. The party was founded in 1873 by the Socialistic Labor Party, which was a political organization of labor that emerged as a result of the 1877 railroad strike. The S. P. L. P. was the first to advocate for the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a socialist society.

The Socialistic Labor Party (S.L.P.) was organized as an alternative to the socialist labor movement and to emphasize the importance of the workers' strike. The S.L.P. was founded in 1881 and was the first socialist party in the United States. The S.L.P. was a small party, but it was influential in the early labor movement and helped to establish the idea of the workers' strike as a means of achieving social change.

The S.L.P. was succeeded by the Socialist Labor Party (S.L.P.), which was founded in 1897. The S.L.P. was more radical than the S.L.P. and was more open to revolutionary methods of achieving its goals. The S.L.P. was active in the labor movement and was involved in many strikes and protests.
