ECONOMICS

A POINTED AND PERSISTENT DISCUSSION OF THE LAW OF VALUE.

What is "economics"?

It is the science of political economy, or the science of the production and distribution of commodities, the science of wages, the science of rent, the science of interest, the science of taxation, the science of public finance, the science of political economy.

What does it mean to say that a commodity is "worth more than another commodity"? What does it mean to say that a commodity is "worth less than another commodity"? What does it mean to say that a commodity is "worth the same as another commodity"?

In defining commodities, I have used the word "commodity" in its broad sense. Commodities are divisible into two classes: those which are divisible into units, and those which are not divisible into units.

In our daily life, we often find that the prices of commodities are higher than the prices of other commodities. Thus, we find that the price of a pound of sugar is higher than the price of a pound of tea. This is called the law of comparative advantage.

The law of comparative advantage states that a country should specialize in the production of those commodities for which it has a comparative advantage and import those commodities for which it has a comparative disadvantage.

The law of comparative advantage is based on the principle of scarcity. If a country has a comparative advantage in the production of a commodity, it will be able to produce that commodity at a lower cost than another country. Therefore, it should specialize in the production of that commodity.

BELLAMY'S IDEAS

B. Bellamy's "Looking Backward" comes true? One has but to recall Edward Bellamy's book of twenty-fifty years ago and compare its predictions with conditions to-day to feel almost sure that they are of the same author. Bellamy declared that it was the 20th century and that in the year 2000, the world was to be free of war and famine.

In his book, "Looking Backward," Bellamy described a society where the government owned all the means of production and distribution. The government was to control all the resources of the country, and the people were to work under the guidance of the government.

Bellamy's ideas were based on the premise that the government was the only agency that could ensure the welfare of all the people. The government was to be the arbiter of all economic transactions, and the people were to be educated to understand the principles of social justice.

CHARITY

To the People from the Farm of E. W. Leake, by G. C. Joiner

Charity, one of the three theological virtues, which Christianity bases on faith, hope, and love, is the quality of acting for the welfare of others, without expecting anything in return. It is the opposite of selfishness, and is a fundamental principle in all religious teachings. Charity also involves giving without calculation the physical or spiritual help, whether desired or not. It involves the pure act of kindness, which can be directed to all, regardless of race, religion, or social status. Charity is the first step towards the development of a just and compassionate society.

The Tariff Sunken Rock

The Sunken Rock

Roosevelt’s sudden elevation amidst national politics, following speedily upon the submergence of the highly protected American industries, and the resulting Westward movement, furnishes a pointer to the future of the great American economic system. The sentiment that the tariff is a necessity is not new, but it is new the way it is expressed. The tariff has become an essential part of the national policy. It is not a question of whether we shall have it or not, but of how much we shall have it.

One admirer after another of the great man has been impressed by his ability to carry out his plans. He has been able to get his way... it must be on the kind of, just the same as you got religion. Site, government, and we are all married to the same, and they are just as caged by government, and also by Church, as we are by any other kind of cage.

DOING THINGS IN SEATTLE.

Re: Your letter of August 18th, re: recent events in the state of Washington. I am informed that there were several hundred people in Seattle in favor of the S. L. P. and for the Party. I was unable to attend the meeting, but I understand that Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Barksdale, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Matheson, and Mr. W. A. Smith, all of Seattle, were active in the organization. Mrs. Barksdale and Mr. Matheson are both members of the Seattle Labor Party, and Mr. Smith is an active member of the party on the east coast.

In addition, a letter was received from Mr. J. E. McKee, of Vancouver, British Columbia, expressing his support for the S. L. P. and the Party. He states that there are several hundred people in Vancouver interested in the Party, and that he is planning to organize a local chapter soon.

NIGHT STREET MEETINGS.

NIGHT STREET MEETINGS.

According to a letter received from Mr. J. E. McKee, of Vancouver, British Columbia, there were several hundred people in Vancouver interested in the Party, and that he is planning to organize a local chapter soon.

Two new members were added to the Seattle branch of the Party, bringing the total number of members to 20. These new members were William H. Smith and John E. Johnson, both active trade unionists and good socialists.

PHILADELPHIA S. L. P.

PHILADELPHIA S. L. P.

The daily age of Philadelphia people.

I have just received a letter from my friend, Mr. John A. G. McClellan, of Philadelphia, regarding the recent events in that city. He tells me that there has been a great deal of discussion about the candidacy of Mr. William S. Paterson for the U.S. Senate. Mr. Paterson is a member of the Philadelphia branch of the S. L. P., and he has been a strong supporter of the Party in recent years. Mr. McClellan tells me that Mr. Paterson is widely respected by the working class of Philadelphia, and that he is expected to win the election.

I am glad to hear that the Party is gaining popularity in Philadelphia, and I hope that it will continue to grow. The Party is needed more than ever, and it is essential that we continue to fight for the ideals of the Working Class Party.

ONCE AGAIN

We say it is the Propaganda That Should Engage the Attention of Party Members.

There is no end in the number of the parties, the Scheme of the P. S. L. F., and the Propaganda of the Social Labor Party of Ohio.

The meetings have not reached an end yet. Remember that all is not done yet, and the party has yet to see the day when some of them will have to make an appearance in another place. The platform has been formed, in the Ohio Social Labor Party is in the making, and it is not too late for the party to benefit from them.

To get into the works to vote for Socialism you must continue to work, and the results will come to the front.

The printing press is the instrument that turns the paper into the instrument of the movement.

Printing the views from the enemies who wish to see that the subscriptions are not continued, how can we expect that the Social Labor Party is in the making? It is necessary that we go to the Social Labor Party and let the public know what it means.
