The Decatur and Wilcox Daily during the past week, with the aid of street car companies, managed to land more of its paper for its paper editors. The orphan home and free hospitals of St. Louis, and the capital city (as it is usually called) of Missouri, are among the few large institutions in the state that have been affected by the recent railroad strike. The employers of these institutions have not been able to make up their minds about whether to go ahead with the strike or not. The president of the board of directors has said that they are doing everything in their power to keep the work going.

In the Daily and Weekly People.

The title of the Daily and Weekly People is to be changed to the Daily and Weekly People. The word "People" will be dropped from the name of the newspaper. The change is being made to reflect the fact that the newspaper is published for the people of the city and not just for a few individuals.

Mr. E. F. Ford, editor of the Daily and Weekly People, has been working on the new edition of the newspaper. The new edition will be published next week.

ARMY EXHIBIT ST. LOUIS.

To the Daily and Weekly People.

The Army exhibit in St. Louis is now open to the public. The exhibit is located in the old Art Institute building, which was formerly used as a military hospital during the Civil War.

Dr. J. H. Jones, the curator of the exhibit, has been working on the exhibit for several months. He has been able to gather a large collection of items that tell the story of the Army.

The exhibit is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free.
