A CHAT WITH THE DEVIL.

[By Peter Keats.]

When I discovered who I was, I says: "I can't pay", he replies, "but I will try." So I asked him to come and see me the first of the month. He repeated his words "I can't pay", but he did not add anything more. When he was about to leave, I said: "If you can't pay, then let me know it before I come."

The ENTRANCED MAN.

What is an entranced man? It is an individual at any age, yet every effect of his life. It seems that the personal power of this individual justifies the claim of his own perfection. An entranced man is one who has把握ed the essence of the world, and is supposed to possess the key to the secrets of the universe. He has achieved the highest degree of perfectibility, and is said to have been granted the power of controlling the destinies of the universe.

THE DEVIL AND THE NEWSPAPER.

Generally speaking, the Devil likes newspapers. He is familiar and is proud to be "in" the business. A little newspaper at a time is good for him. He will tell you that newspapers are a great source of news, and that an effective public opinion is a great source of news. He believes that newspapers are the most effective means of spreading information, and that an effective public opinion is a great source of news.

DEBATE RESUMED.

Mr. Smith: The question under debate is: "Should we continue to support the government?"

Mr. Johnson: I believe that we should continue to support the government. The government is doing a good job, and it is necessary for us to support it in order to maintain stability.

Mr. Brown: I believe that we should not continue to support the government. The government is corrupt and incompetent, and it is time for us to change it.

The debate continues.
