ON TO THE 100,000!

Central Committee of the General Strike
Nebraska's Class-Conscious Proletariat, Shaking Loose the Shackles of Silver Fraud and Gold Swindle, Proclamates Its Manifesto.

Dear Comrades and Brothers:

In order to make this make this clear, I shall try to explain it in the simplest terms. If you have not been fully comprehended this, you can read it again. The general strike is the expression of the will of the working class. It is the expression of the working class's will to overthrow the capitalist system. It is the expression of the working class's will to establish a socialist society.

Sincerely,

That Should Guide the Proletariat

The following excerpts from Capital, the Masterpiece of the German author,卡尔·马克思, have been selected to illustrate the road that the workers must take to overthrow the capitalist system and establish a socialist society.

Excerpt 1:

"The working class cannot do without the revolution; the revolution cannot do without the working class."

Excerpt 2:

"The proletariat must seize the means of production at the expense of the bourgeoisie, and the means of production must be turned into the property of the whole of society."
TWO SOULS

DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

WITH BUT A SINGLE THOUGHT.

I

The Pennsylvania legislature will next week call a new session. The Democratic party, as its usual custom, will be in control, and that day will be the culminating struggle at the polls. It is a battle that will be fought with all the resources of the party organization, and the outcome will be determined by the vote of the working classes.

The Republican party, on the other hand, will be in a minority, and will be forced to act on the defensive. It will be a battle of wits, and the outcome will depend on the skill of the leaders and the strength of the organization.

The question of the day will be the re-election of President Grant. The Democrats will try to много настроить словами и фразами, которые могут быть восприняты как нейтральные, и избегать использования слов и фраз, которые могут быть восприняты как потенциально угрожающие. В данном случае, это баланс между нейтральностью и прямым выражением политических позиций.
ON TO 100,000! [100.]

The Pennsylvania Railroad and its interests in the United States.

With labor's power to consume and to work at home, its authority over the wages and working conditions of the workers, and the machinery for the enforcement of those conditions, the Pennsylvania Railroad is as much a part of the labor movement in the United States as it is a part of the capitalistic system. It is a vital factor in the struggle for labor's control of the means of production.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is the largest of the railroads of the United States and its interests in the United States are of a magnitude that cannot be measured by the mere number of its employees or the amount of its property. It is a part of the international railway system and its operations are part of the general system of transportation in the world.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, a corporation of the State of Pennsylvania. It is a corporation with a capital stock of $1,000,000,000 and its authorized capital stock is divided into 1,000,000 shares of $100 each.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has a network of lines extending from New York to the Pacific Coast, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and its operations include the transportation of passengers and freight, the operation of terminals and depots, and the maintenance of rolling stock.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is a member of the Pennsylvania Railroad Association, a group of railroads in Pennsylvania, and of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is the regulatory body for the railroads of the United States.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is a typical example of the large railroad system of the United States, which is owned by a small number of individuals and corporations, and which is operated for the benefit of the owners at the expense of the workers. It is a part of the system of monopolistic capitalism which is the basis of the economic structure of the United States.
