THE HAMMER FALLS UPON THE HEADS OF THOSE WHO WANTED TO STEAL IT

Division of the New York Secretary of State.

The Tramps Of Slatersville.

By THOS. CURRIE, Provisors, R. L.

In these days, the employers of labor are growing more and more anxious about their employees. They have taken to the courts, the police, and even to the President himself. But they have not yet reached the point of using the hammer. The hammer has fallen upon the heads of those who wanted to steal it.

In Slatersville, a town in the state of New York, there were some tramps who had been making trouble for some time. They were stealing from the local railroad company, and the police had been unable to catch them.

The railroad company decided to take matters into their own hands. They contacted the mayor of the town and told him about the problem. The mayor agreed to help, and soon a force of twelve armed officers was on the scene.

The tramps were caught red-handed, and they were promptly carted off to jail. The town was saved from further trouble, and the railroad company was pleased with the outcome.

The tramps are now in jail, and the public is safe once more. This is a good lesson for all tramps who think of stealing from others.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From a correspondent who wishes to remain unknown, a letter written to the editor of a leading newspaper, dated September 22, 1899.

"Dear Sir: I am greatly moved by the news of the recent disaster in Ohio. The loss of life and property is truly shocking. Many people have lost their homes and loved ones.

I believe that the Government should provide immediate relief to the victims of this tragedy. The affected communities need assistance in rebuilding their homes and recovering from their losses.

Sincerely yours,

[Signature]"

From Lincoln to Marceau.

In the 20th Assembly District of New York City we have a genuine specimen of a Labor-Labor Party trying for an office of some kind through which they may be placed in a position of usefulness to the working man. It has succeeded in far as he takes the old organization and elected candidates from the organization's lines, which he would be a necessity. But a labor candidate is only the beginning toward the social ladder, and the gentleman in question, Albert Marceau, is rather a model in every respect. He has never been a labor man, and the gentleman in question, Albert Marceau, is rather a model in every respect. He has never been a labor man, and the gentleman in question, Albert Marceau, is rather a model in every respect. He has never been a labor man, and the gentleman in question, Albert Marceau, is rather a model in every respect.
