U. S. LIFTS COMMERCIAL BLOCKADE AGAINST SOVIET RUSSIA

THE WILSON administration, due to the insistence of American manufacturers and exporters, officially lifted the commercial blockade of Soviet Russia on July 6th. The lifting of the blockade, which has been responsible for the starvation and deaths of thousands of children and women in Russia, is now apparent in the reports of Russian delegations on their way to England for the purpose of preparing for the resumption of trade. Merchants here have no desire to see the rich field of Russian commerce rendered unprofitable.

The authorization for the resumption of trade between American exporters and Russian carries with it no recognition of the Soviet government. True to its hypocritical character, the Wilson administration has perpetuated the idea of a difference between trade relations and "reconciliation." It will probably maintain the status quo until the last moment of the administration’s term of office. But the Soviets have little to lose from non-recognition. What they want is readjustment, which the Bulganin-Lucenkov Weeks are ready to swallow by the hundred and the machinery, in spirit and name, continues unaltered in the reconstruction of Russia’s civil and economic life. American manufacturers of laborers are ready for delivery, they have been waiting and pleading with the State Department for months to allow them clearance papers for shipments of these products. The government has with-held consent until the Red Army battered down the last hope of capitulation to re-establish itself in Russia,—the Polish offensive. With the Polish Army in root, the government must seek to the basis of events and permit the beginning of trade.

That the whole world has ready to trade with Russia now the United States Government should accept, as it has already, the seal stamps for Russia in exchange for American goods. It is not likely that other nations will follow the stupid policy of the Wilson administration, but will allow full freedom of passenger traffic and mails to Russia followed shortly by official UICollectionView of recognition of the Soviet government.

The resumption of trade relations with the world is the greatest victory for Soviet-Note 105 in spite of the terrible hardships of an economic and political revolution, preceded by a war which has taken the lives of 6,000,000 men; of counter-revolution and attacks against her by the Entente allies; with a worn out, destroyed economy and industrial machinery to which difficulty was added a blockade of all her ports, the Soviet government, the government of the Russian workers and peasants, has survived it all for two desperate years. With an indomitable courage it has beaten its enemies on every side, and has won the confidence of the mass of Russians. The opening of trade relations will give new life to the healthy relations between Russia and the capitalist nations. They mean the ending of many of war and the opening of the door to development of the true Communist State, chief among which are the hunger and dearth of conditions, and the lack of machinery. With these supplies, will Sovietism be strengthened and the power of the Revolution be multiplied.

Mail to the Revolution. Mail to Russia, victory over capitalism!

In the Ukraine.

The Govt.

The government, it is said, was not only unable to supply the people with the basic necessities of life, but also had failed to control the widespread corruption and brutality of its officials. This situation was exacerbated by the fact that the government's policies were directed primarily to appease the interests of the wealthy classes, rather than address the needs of the广大 population.

The government was also criticized for its handling of the situation following the outbreak of the Civil War. The Bolsheviks, led by Vladimir Lenin, were able to seize power in the Ukraine and establish a revolutionary government. However, the government's efforts to establish control over the region were met with resistance from various factions, including the White Army led by General Denikin.

The government's failure to suppress the opposition and maintain order in the region led to a deterioration of the economic situation and social instability. The lack of effective leadership and the inability to maintain control over the various factions contributed to the Ukraine's eventual collapse and the eventual establishment of the Soviet Union.

The government's inability to address the needs of the people and maintain stability in the region was a significant factor in the Ukraine's history and played a role in shaping the course of Russian history.

Palmer Being Probed

The toiler political tactic has come up against and ceded a lot of ground to the organizer, but that the density of the militants at this time for the "people," that is, the workers in any one community, is always a combination of contradictory method whereby to compound its inevitable ills.

As a matter of the Wood campa"n"s -- which is not at all unusual now, we have the murder of Mr. Palmer's campaign. It seems that Mr. Palmer fled to keep his appearance on San Francisco in the coming Sean as delegate in the national convention to be held in Cleveland, under the date of March 3rd, 1932.

Mr. Justice Sanford, a member of the organizing committee, announced his intention of withdrawing his name from the list of candidates for the position of his predecessor in the Primary.

The Poles in Root

At the present date, the depression in the coal industry continues and the industrial workers are at a disadvantage. The situation is serious, and the workers are in a state of anxiety.

We hold the view that the government should immediately intervene in this matter to prevent the spread of unemployment and to provide for the retraining of the workers. It is necessary to take urgent action to prevent the spread of unemployment and to provide for the retraining of the workers.

Modern Myths

The reading of the daily papers in the towns of the two mainland provinces of the United States shows that the political situation in America is not as disastrous as it appears. The political parties are divided and the economic conditions are such that the people are not in a state of despair. The political parties are divided and the economic conditions are such that the people are not in a state of despair.

They Are With Us -- Not

We sometimes wonder if the capitalist press can ever be trusted all at once. Its contradictions are so palpable and its drift can be traced in the crumbling of its policies, so that new ones are being created at the rate the old ones are being broken down.

Pam Beall, in a speech at the Boston University School of Journalism, said: “The press is the main weapon of the capitalist class.”

Dope for Dubs

We sometimes wonder if the capitalist press can ever be trusted all at once. Its contradictions are so palpable and its drift can be traced in the crumbling of its policies, so that new ones are being created at the rate the old ones are being broken down.

We see what is going on in the world today, and we are beginning to understand the importance of the press in shaping public opinion. The press is the main weapon of the capitalist class, and it is necessary to counteract its influence in order to promote the interests of the working class.

The White Terror in Hungary

By Ernest Loney

The visit of our Italian comrades was remarkable in more ways than one. The fact that they corresponded closely with the events in Hungary and the actual horror that they experienced when they discovered the fact that they were in the hands of fascists, was not only confirmed by the fact that they were able to communicate with their comrades in Italy but also by the fact that they were able to communicate with their comrades in Hungary. They were able to communicate with their comrades in Hungary by means of the Italian government, which was the only government that was able to offer any assistance to them. They were able to communicate with their comrades in Hungary by means of the Italian government, which was the only government that was able to offer any assistance to them. They were able to communicate with their comrades in Hungary by means of the Italian government, which was the only government that was able to offer any assistance to them.

There are several tactics that can be used to fight this terror. One is to organize a large-scale demonstration against the fascists. Another is to use the media to expose the fascist atrocities. A third is to use legal means to bring these men to justice. A fourth is to use political means to bring about a change in the government. These are all important steps, but they are not enough. We must also work to educate the people and to build a movement that can bring about a change in the government. We must also work to educate the people and to build a movement that can bring about a change in the government. We must also work to educate the people and to build a movement that can bring about a change in the government.

The Italian prisoners did not dare to talk about what they had experienced until they were brought to the United States. They had experienced unendurable suffering, but they were encouraged by the fact that they were able to communicate with their comrades in Italy and Hungary. They were able to communicate with their comrades in Italy and Hungary by means of the Italian government, which was the only government that was able to offer any assistance to them.

The Italians discovered two sorcerers studied with land and sea, and sea and land. They were able to use the information in their hands to fight the fascists. They were able to use the information in their hands to fight the fascists. They were able to use the information in their hands to fight the fascists.

The Italians tried to control all the poor people. They tried to use this control to gain power. They tried to use this control to gain power. They tried to use this control to gain power.

The Italians did not stop at this. They tried to control all the poor people. They tried to use this control to gain power. They tried to use this control to gain power. They tried to use this control to gain power.
