For Action in the Unemployment Crisis.

One of the defects in the present outlook of unemployment is that these workers are being deprived of the privileges of working, and that their lives are being made more miserable than the lives of those who are actually unemployed. The International Labor Bureau of the League of Nations has 32,000 unemployed workers represented by 32,000 words. It is estimated that there are 40,000,000 men employed in the United States, and that 10,000,000 of these men are unemployed. This is a serious matter, but it is by no means as serious as the situation in Germany, where the unemployment is reaching 40,000,000.

THE MEANING OF UNEMPLOYMENT

By E. M.

The meaning of unemployment is the true tree of sin, a problem that puzzles the world, a mystery that has never been solved. The world is full of unemployment, and it is a problem that has never been solved. The problem of unemployment is a problem that has never been solved.

The Congress adjourned for the summer recess. The Congress will reconvene in September.
THE WORLD CRISIS.

By J. PRICE.

The world capitalist system is in the clutches of a monstrous industrial crisis. Thousands of factories are stopped, millions of workers are starving. The situation is daily growing more and more acute. Not a single country in the whole capitalist world is left untouched by this world-wide catastrophe.

Our country, the "most prosperous" in the world, suffers most. The conditions are the same here as anywhere else. According to even the most conservative figures, there are over 4,000,000 men out of work in the country. The mass movement in the country is growing, unless some drastic action is taken by the bosses. The capitalists are having a great struggle to keep their world-wide crisis going on, unless some drastic action is taken by the bosses. The capitalists are having a great struggle to keep their world-wide crisis going on.

The following letter was sent out to the world-wide capitalists from a prominent capitalist in the East:

"Dear Capitalists:"

"I have just read your letter to the capitalists of the world. I can only say that I am very much bewildered by your letter. I cannot understand how you can expect me to support you in your world-wide crisis. I am afraid that your world-wide crisis is not going to succeed. I am afraid that the capitalists of the world are not going to be able to support you in your world-wide crisis."

"Yours truly,"

"John Smith,"

"Chairman of the World-wide Capitalist Organization."
In the Bread Line.

By Elmer T. Allison.

Five million men seeking work for a moment turned over their bread tickets at the door of the first bakery here at 1:30 a.m. Last Thursday. It was a scene of utter despair.

The men piled up in long queues and were kept waiting in the rain outside the bakery door until they found out that there were no provisions for them. They stumbled about in confusion and some crouched in the mud for protection from the rain.

The men who were not employed in the city had to walk miles to get there. Many of them had been standing outside the bakery for hours. They had no place to go. They were hungry and cold. They were in despair.

Some of the men had been waiting for days. They were out of work and had no money to buy food. They were forced to stand in line for hours in the rain. Some of them had been there since the previous day.

The situation was dire. The men were desperate. They were ready to do anything to get food. They were willing to risk their lives. They were willing to fight.

The men who were out of work had no other choice. They had to stand in line. They had to risk their lives. They had to do anything to get food. They had to fight. They had no other choice.
