WHAT JAILS ARE FOR—AND WHY.
AN ALLIANCE OF LABOR.

The American Labor Alliance comes upon the political horizon at a most propitious moment. It stands as a landmark in the history of American political development and is already recognized as a factor in the national life. A few years hence it will be hailed as one of the most significant events in the history of American labor.

The Alliance is the result of a long and arduous struggle. It was formed in 1873, but it was not until 1886 that it took definite shape. It has been steadily growing in strength and influence, and is now ready to play a prominent part in the political life of the country.

The Alliance is a political organization, and its object is to secure the election of men of sound principles and of high character to the various offices of the government. It is not a sectional organization, but is national in its character.

The Alliance is not a party, but is a coalition of the laboring classes. It is not a political organization, but is a political movement. It is not a sectional organization, but is national in its character.

The Conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti

July 14, 1921, at Dedham, Mass.

Told the bail. Another crime is to hit the streets of a dying state.

Two men of Italy are hereby committed, without bail, to the House of Correction for, against the slavery of men, a charge which is the blood of the world.

All that dare write will pay again.

Against a world of vice,

Through the slums of New York.

And sober to God,

The jury and the judge—this jury!

The words of Justice Chauncey M. Olcott, in support of the trial. [The bail were permitted to go free.]
