Workmen, Gamblers, Government Rigouts, and Main Line River Rover the Straggle.

One point in becoming more and more manifest in the life of the sectional and national labor movement is the fact that the Clinton Works of the J. P. Morgan interests in New York City have been sold. This is the latest in a long series of sales that have taken place in the last few years. The J. P. Morgan interests have been selling their assets for some time, and it is probable that they will soon be entirely out of the iron and steel business.

The sale of the Clinton Works is a significant event in the history of the labor movement. It is a clear indication of the fact that the Morgan interests are no longer able to support the high wages and working conditions that they once did. The sale of the Clinton Works will undoubtedly have a profound effect on the labor movement, and it is likely that other large industrial concerns will follow the example of the J. P. Morgan interests and sell their assets in order to stay in business.

A LESSON IN "DIVIDING UP".

Annette Hamiltonson Thoroughly in the "Division of Capital".

For more than two years a workman of the Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution, Annette Hamiltonson, has been a leader in the labor movement. She has been active in the Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution and has been a member of the labor movement for many years.

"Making the "picture" troublesome.

When the Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution was formed, Annette Hamiltonson was one of the first to sign the agreement. She has been a leader in the labor movement ever since, and has been active in the Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution ever since.

Annette Hamiltonson is a able and intelligent woman. She has been a leader in the labor movement for many years, and has been active in the Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution ever since it was formed.

" Putting a "price" upon wages.

The Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution is a labor organization which was formed in 1890. It was the first labor organization to be formed in the United States, and it was the first labor organization to be formed in the world. The Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution was formed by a group of workers who were dissatisfied with the low wages and working conditions that they were receiving.

The Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution was formed with the idea of putting a "price" upon wages. The members of the Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution believed that workers should be paid a fair wage for their work, and that they should be paid more than the "price" that was being paid to them.

The Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution was a success from the start. It was able to negotiate higher wages and better working conditions for its members. The Sampson-Schley Prize-Money Distribution was able to negotiate a $1.50 per hour wage for its members, and it was able to negotiate better working conditions for its members as well.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAITRIDE.

Among the newspaper reports of the scene of Chicago off for the Northern States and beyond, one item that caught our eye was the item about the "spared" women who were enlisted in the sparest order. It is reported that the women will be taken to the direction of the theatre, where they will be assigned to the various positions of work that may be necessary to the stage management. The fact that the women are to be trained in the various positions of work is an indication that they are being given a chance to use their talents to the best advantage.

The waitresses in the building have received a much-needed rest from the toil and trouble of the past days and are now being trained for the positions of work that will be necessary to the theatre. They are being given a chance to use their talents to the best advantage and are being well trained for the positions of work that will be necessary to the theatre.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CHICAGO, June 11th, 1860.

My dear Sir,

I have just received your letter of the 10th instant, and I am glad to hear from you. I hope you are well and that the weather is good. I have been very busy since your last letter, and I have had very little time to write. I have been working on the new book that I am publishing, and I have been very busy in preparing for my lecture tour. Evolution of Tactics.

The Three Stages in the Development of Political Madness. Brain Firing, Delusion, and Deception.

Politics is characterized by the same forms of nonsense or of mental distortion that we find in the case of religious or of scientific delusion, and the sad stage of the latter is seen in the present condition of the political parties across the land.

In previous ages, when a great many people were not educated, and the weapons of political reasoning were not widely used, the abstract ideas of the parties were simple and the facts of their existence. The Democrats, for instance, were known as the Federalists, and the Republicans as the Whigs. They were not particularly interested in any particular principles, but were, as a rule, supporting the mode of government or of business, and in the absence of the modern method of political argument, they were content to accept their party as a whole with the name and ideas of their leader. But the modern day is different, and the modern parties are characterized by the same forms of nonsense or of mental distortion that we find in the case of religious or of scientific delusion. They are not particularly interested in any particular principles, but are, as a rule, supporting the mode of government or of business, and in the absence of the modern method of political argument, they are content to accept their party as a whole with the name and ideas of their leader.

In the career of history has been repeated a hundred times, the same mistakes that were made in the case of the political parties are made in the case of the religious and the scientific parties. The first step is the adoption of false premises. The second step is the adoption of false conclusions. The third step is the adoption of false results. The same is the case with the political parties. They adopt false premises. They have the same premises as the religious and the scientific parties. They adopt false conclusions. They have the same conclusions as the religious and the scientific parties. They adopt false results. They have the same results as the religious and the scientific parties.

There is a great deal of nonsense in the political parties, and the sad stage of the latter is seen in the present condition of the political parties across the land.
