THE WORKERS' CALL.

"Workingmen of all countries unite! You have nothing to lose but your chains; you have a world to gain."

THIRD YEAR—WHOLE No. 118

CHICAGO, ILL. SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1904.

PRICE ONE CENT.

ON THE BLACKLIST

Book Censorship Examined by Publishing Trust.

SUPPRESSION OF A NOVEL

American News Co. Press: The Work was not copyrighted or defined as "Alias."

It may be said without boasting that one of the most remarkable things in American literary history is the suppression of nos-titles by copyright or other means. The late efforts of the New York Academy of Arts and Letters to suppress the work of some of its members is but the latest in a long line of similar efforts. The New York Academy of Sciences, for example, has suppressed the work of some of its members, and has been denounced by the American News Co. Press as a "political organ."
THE WORKERS' CALL, CHICAGO, ILL., SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1904.

SNAP SHOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

By Morgan, Editor Worker's Call.

Callers, if they do not try to be courteous, will find a large number of people. They are always polite, but if they do not try to be friendly, they will find few callers. The best advice to give is to be friendly and courteous.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

A DEBATE.

The Workers' Call, with a staff of seven men, was founded in 1887. It is a weekly paper, printed in Chicago, Illinois, with a circulation of 200,000 copies. It is published by the Workers' Call Publishing Company. The editors of the paper are M. R. Ewing, J. W. O'Neill, and J. J. M. O'Neill. The paper is devoted to the interests of the working class.

BETTER THAN MONEY.
Socialism and the Professions.

Continued from last week.

As long as classes exist among the working classes, there will be a rivalry between the interests of the working classes, led by trade unions, and the interests of the working classes, led by the Socialist profession. This rivalry is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

The causes are the nature of the classes, which are divided into two main groups: the working class and the exploiting class. The working class is divided into two main groups: the industrial workers and the intellectual workers. The exploiting class is divided into two main groups: the capitalists and the landlords.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable because the interests of the two classes are opposed. The working class is interested in the welfare of the working class, while the exploiting class is interested in the welfare of the exploiting class. The working class is interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the exploiting class is interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the industrial workers and the intellectual workers is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The industrial workers are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the intellectual workers are interested in the welfare of the Socialist profession. The industrial workers are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the intellectual workers are interested in the improvement of the professional conditions.

The rivalry between the capitalists and the landlords is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The capitalists are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the landlords are interested in the welfare of the exploitative class. The capitalists are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the landlords are interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

As long as classes exist among the working classes, there will be a rivalry between the interests of the working classes, led by trade unions, and the interests of the working classes, led by the Socialist profession. This rivalry is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

The causes are the nature of the classes, which are divided into two main groups: the working class and the exploiting class. The working class is divided into two main groups: the industrial workers and the intellectual workers. The exploiting class is divided into two main groups: the capitalists and the landlords.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable because the interests of the two classes are opposed. The working class is interested in the welfare of the working class, while the exploiting class is interested in the welfare of the exploiting class. The working class is interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the exploiting class is interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the industrial workers and the intellectual workers is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The industrial workers are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the intellectual workers are interested in the welfare of the Socialist profession. The industrial workers are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the intellectual workers are interested in the improvement of the professional conditions.

The rivalry between the capitalists and the landlords is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The capitalists are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the landlords are interested in the welfare of the exploitative class. The capitalists are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the landlords are interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

As long as classes exist among the working classes, there will be a rivalry between the interests of the working classes, led by trade unions, and the interests of the working classes, led by the Socialist profession. This rivalry is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

The causes are the nature of the classes, which are divided into two main groups: the working class and the exploiting class. The working class is divided into two main groups: the industrial workers and the intellectual workers. The exploiting class is divided into two main groups: the capitalists and the landlords.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable because the interests of the two classes are opposed. The working class is interested in the welfare of the working class, while the exploiting class is interested in the welfare of the exploiting class. The working class is interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the exploiting class is interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the industrial workers and the intellectual workers is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The industrial workers are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the intellectual workers are interested in the welfare of the Socialist profession. The industrial workers are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the intellectual workers are interested in the improvement of the professional conditions.

The rivalry between the capitalists and the landlords is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The capitalists are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the landlords are interested in the welfare of the exploitative class. The capitalists are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the landlords are interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

As long as classes exist among the working classes, there will be a rivalry between the interests of the working classes, led by trade unions, and the interests of the working classes, led by the Socialist profession. This rivalry is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

The causes are the nature of the classes, which are divided into two main groups: the working class and the exploiting class. The working class is divided into two main groups: the industrial workers and the intellectual workers. The exploiting class is divided into two main groups: the capitalists and the landlords.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable because the interests of the two classes are opposed. The working class is interested in the welfare of the working class, while the exploiting class is interested in the welfare of the exploiting class. The working class is interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the exploiting class is interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the industrial workers and the intellectual workers is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The industrial workers are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the intellectual workers are interested in the welfare of the Socialist profession. The industrial workers are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the intellectual workers are interested in the improvement of the professional conditions.

The rivalry between the capitalists and the landlords is inevitable because the interests of the two groups are opposed. The capitalists are interested in the welfare of the working class, while the landlords are interested in the welfare of the exploitative class. The capitalists are interested in the improvement of the working conditions, while the landlords are interested in the preservation of the exploitative conditions.

The rivalry between the working class and the exploiting class is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.

As long as classes exist among the working classes, there will be a rivalry between the interests of the working classes, led by trade unions, and the interests of the working classes, led by the Socialist profession. This rivalry is inevitable, and it is necessary to understand its causes and its consequences.