Observations on College Corporation and Society Other Matters

BROTHER MACHINIST: What are you doing up here? This is the workmen's hall. I am just looking for something.

You: I am a college student and I am doing some research on college corporation and society other matters.

BROTHER MACHINIST: What do you mean by that?

You: I am trying to understand how colleges are structured and how they function. I am interested in the role of students, faculty, and administrators in the decision-making process.

BROTHER MACHINIST: Oh, I see. I am a machinist here at this workmen's hall. I have been here for 20 years and I have seen a lot of changes. The college has changed a lot since I started.

You: That is interesting. Can you tell me about some of the changes that have occurred?

BROTHER MACHINIST: Sure, I can tell you about some of the changes. For example, there used to be a lot more hands-on work in the past. Now, there is more focus on theoretical knowledge and less on practical skills.

You: That is a significant change. Can you tell me more about how these changes have been implemented?

BROTHER MACHINIST: Well, it was a gradual process. The administration started by introducing new courses and curricula, and then they began to hire more faculty members with a focus on theory.

You: That makes sense. I am also interested in how students have been affected by these changes.

BROTHER MACHINIST: Students have had mixed reactions. Some students have been content with the new focus on theory, while others have found it difficult to apply what they have learned in practical situations.

You: That is interesting. I think it is important for students to understand the implications of these changes on their future careers.

BROTHER MACHINIST: That is true. I think it is important for students to have a good understanding of the changes that have occurred and how they will impact their future career opportunities.

You: I agree. I appreciate your insights. Thank you for taking the time to talk with me.

BROTHER MACHINIST: No problem. If you have any questions, feel free to ask.

You: I will. Thank you again.

They are a scheme to destroy the independent unions at the expense of the other unions. They are a scheme to destroy the workers at the expense of the other unions.
