BUILDING THE STEPS.

THANKSGIVING IDYL.—A Step at a Time.

Our Picture Gallery.

Other friends told him that he could entice Mr. Golder down, if he showed him the "necessities" of the enterprise.

But he took no flak in his advice—he knew the old bird too well. He knew that he would have to go up, because the bird would not come down. So he began to work on the idea.

And then after friends came around and told him that the idea was a failure, and that the materials were not made of the proper material, and were not built on the right pattern.

But still the man would not listen. He was Getting There and he knew it. Every day he brought the entire structure. It was twelve years since he began to build, and he made slow progress—a step two years at a time.

And while he was building, the old bird moaned him and had little Fun with him. But he kept on.

The bird did not come down, but he could not fly away, because of one of his Wings being badly damaged.

So the man will continue to build steps, nor will he change the materials of which they are made. He knows that it will take the edge off the old man.

But he is getting There in Good shape and he knows it and the old bird knows it too. It is so he will keep on building the steps, no matter whether it is fast or slow, as long as it is building.

The bird did not come down, but he could not fly away, because of one of his Wings being badly damaged.

Our Picture Gallery is in the main building.

Three prophets in Chicago, which are supposed to make the return from which the losses are to be made at time of going to press this week, swell the Socialist vote by 1,500,000.

Not Quite Satisfactory.

Every club has its silver lining; not in the cloud of successes of a Nov. 30.-In the face of the Chicago Labor Party's vote, it is often a matter of much prayer that there will be a successful vote.

Where did They Come From?

On the other hand, the labor movement in Chicago, we can see, is not a thing of the past. It is something of the present. It is something of the future.

Then the next question will be: "What is labor the property of?" And that is the only way to get the truth. And if a man does not want to be a member of a labor organization, he must do so.

THE ORIGIN OF THE FAMILY, Private Property and the State

By FREDERICK ENGELS

Translated by Ernst Untermann

There are a few books the reading of which constitutes a necessary foundation to an understanding of socialism. One of these is Engels' "Origin of the Family." Although it has been translated into almost every other European language, it deals with fundamentals and traces the growth of these social institutions which are the subject of the study of the state, and to which, as to the study of society, its elements are the thing. Yet it is written in plain language easily understandable without the knowledge of any technical vocabulary.

As a study in the philosophy of institutions, as a storehouse of information on fundamental points, there is no book of anything nearer the same line that can begin to rival it. CLOTH, 210 PAGES, 50 CENTS POSTPAID
