ELECTION NEWS NOTES

Montana Election News

I have just returned to Butte from Kalispell. According to our chief reporter, the election was a total success. The people of Butte were the most pleasant people, however, the elections were close. Everything looked well in the town when the returns were in, and all the votes cast were counted. The total vote was 14,000.

Scattering Paragraphs

The president is everywhere himself at Yellowstone Park. He has an ailing and invalid companion, and has been in very good health and spirits. He is expected to return to Washington soon. There are many votes that are not yet counted, and the result may change at any time.

Scattering Paragraphs

The railroad strike went on for several days, and the trains were running late. The workers were very tired and some of them were injured. The engineers and conductors were also affected. The strike has been called off, and normal operations have been resumed.

Election Results

The results of the election are in, and they are a lot more than one would have expected. Republicans have won in several states, including Montana and Idaho. The returns are still incomplete, and there are some questions about the validity of certain votes. The Republican candidates have won in these states.

A writer in the New York Times says:

"The election results show a marked increase in the vote for the Republican candidates, especially in the western states. The Republicans have gained control of the House of Representatives and are likely to retain control of the Senate as well. The Democratic candidates have been defeated in several key races, and the outcome is clear."

C lose Socialist Notes

Ohio was one of the leading states for election day. In Cleveland, the Republicans and Democrats both ran strong campaigns. The Republicans won in the city, while the Democrats won in the rural areas.
