FATHER HAGERTY speaks at our Fall Festival, September 29.

THE FESTIVAL}

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Kuhn's Park Affair To Be Made the Biggest Rally of the Year—Make No Conflicting Dates

Inforrmation is that the Pull Priy wqui will be held on September 29th in Kuhn's Park on the north side of the city. The weather is expected to be fine and the grounds will be in fine condition. The admission price is $1.00. There will be a number of contests and games for both men and women. A large crowd is expected to attend.

ALDERMAN JOHNSON

Talks to the Working People on the "Issue" of Making a Living

The only Representative of the Working People in the City Council, Alderman Johnson, will speak to the working people on the "Issue" of Making a Living at 9 a.m. on September 29th in Kuhn's Park. His speech will be on the subject of the working man's struggle for a fair day's wages, better working hours, and better conditions of work. He will also discuss the need for better schools and more educational opportunities for the working class.

REND THE VEST

The yarn dealers who will be there are expected to make a good showing. The yarn dealers will have a variety of yarns and fabrics on display, and their representatives will be on hand to answer any questions. There will also be a chance to purchase yarns and fabrics directly from the manufacturers.

THE CLASS STRUGGLE

Capitalism Forces the Workers to Struggle

By English-speaking vendors, the pressure of capitalism will force the workers to struggle for better wages. The vendors will stress the need for better working conditions and fair treatment by employers. They will also discuss the importance of unionization and the need for collective bargaining rights.

THE BURDEN BORNE BY LABOR

The Workers Produce All Things. The Capitalists Appropriate All Above a Bare Subsistence—Socialism the Remedy

The workers produce all things. The capitalists appropriate all above a bare subsistence. This is the basis of social injustice. The workers produce the wealth of the world, but the capitalists appropriate it for themselves. This is why the workers must rise up and demand a fair share of the fruits of their labor.

The workers are the real producers of society. They are the creators of all wealth. But the capitalists control the means of production and appropriates the profits. This is why the workers must take control of the means of production and distribute the wealth of the world according to their needs.

Socialism is the remedy to this injustice. Socialism is the only solution to the problem of social injustice. The workers must unite and demand the overthrow of capitalism. They must demand a society in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the workers themselves.

If you are interested in learning more about socialism and the struggle for a better society, please come to the meeting and listen to the speakers. They will discuss the history of socialism and the steps that must be taken to establish a socialist society.

If you are interested in becoming an active participant in the socialist movement, please join the socialist organization in your area. Together we can work towards a world where the workers control the means of production and live in a just and equal society.
The Chicago Socialist, September 10, 1928

TACTICS AND STRATEGY

By Thomas Burford

The writer of this article has published an important work, called "Social Principle of Labour and Politics," and it is intended to present the socialist theory as a practical guide to the working man. The aim of his book is to present the socialist theory as a practical guide to the working man. The aim of his book is to present the socialist theory as a practical guide to the working man.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.

The Socialists, therefore, in their struggle for the power, should make a protest against the capitalist class and the ruling class, and the system of political economy, and the system of the party, which operates as a means of bringing about the social revolution.